In one sense no reported case can ever be obsolete while the laws and judicial usages of English-speaking countries are what they are: that is, no man can say beforehand that any given case, however antiquated or trifling it may appear in itself to be, may not at some time have its use for the modern practitioner or text-writer. Every decision in the books is part of the history of the law, and no part of that history can be absolutely insignificant.—(Sir Frederick Pollock, Bart., LL.D., Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence in the University of Oxford.)

Accurate knowledge of the present state of the law upon any subject involves necessarily the history of the development of the law upon that subject, which can only be attained by following down the decision touching upon it. — (Francis M. Scott, Justice, Supreme Court, New York.)

The law is the last interpretation of the law given by the last Judge.

The enunciation of the most elementary principle of law is frequently met by a demand for "an authority in support of that proposition . . . ." No time spent upon providing oneself with a precedent is ever wasted even though the book may have to be judiciously hidden from view until required.—(The Hon'ble Sir Cecil Walsh, Kt.,K.C., Ex-Offg., Chief Justice, Allahabad High Court.)

The last Judicial Interpretation of the law is the Law on which your case hangs.

To correctly appraise a Judicial decision, it is important to know later applications of its rules to varying states of facts by way of extension or qualification. —(S. Shepard, Chief Justice, Court of Appeal, Washington (U. S. A.).)

PREFACE TO THE EIGHTH VOLUME

We are glad to have reached now the final stage of our labours in this vast undertaking. This volume contains, besides the remaining unrepealed Acts of the Central Legislature and the Topical Index, a Note on the Interpretation of Statutes and a number of useful Appendices.

The object, plan and special features of this publication have been fully explained in the Preface to the first volume. As we think that it will be useful to reproduce here portions of the Preface dealing with these matters we make no apology for giving such portions again below :

"The aim of the present publication is to make available to the Bench and the Bar in a set of convenient volumes practically the entire statute law passed by the Central Legislature which is of general application to the whole of India. The Acts are given in the alphabetical order of their titles. This has the advantage of enabling an Act to be referred to without having to remember the year and number of the Act — which is the difficulty one feels when referring to the volumes of the Government publication, 'Unrepealed Central Acts' in which the arrangement is according to the year and number of the Act. We also have not made any division into civil and criminal Acts as is sometimes done, as we felt that such a division is on the whole an inconvenience rather than an advantage to the profession. In numerous instances, sections of a penal nature are found in enactments which are mainly of a civil nature, e. g., the Stamp Act, Income-tax Act, Cantonments Act, etc. In such cases it will be highly inconvenient to omit, in the portion that may be allotted to the civil section, the sections of a penal nature and print them in the criminal section. If such a course is adopted, it will detract from the utility of both the portions of the publication. Again, there are Acts like the Evidence Act which will have to appear in both sections. It was, therefore, considered, on the whole, to be the better course to just give all the Acts in their alphabetical order without labelling them as civil or criminal Acts.

"Care has been taken to incorporate all the amendments in the various Acts up to date. Even provincial amendments have been given as completely as possible. In the case of the Civil Procedure Code, local amendments by the various High Courts are given. Letters Patent of the different High Courts are also given and also the rules of the Federal Court and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

"Besides the above, we have also given the more important of the Acts of the British Parliament applicable to India, such as the Government of India Act, 1935.

"We need hardly say that all the Acts have been carefully edited and annotated. Not only have all the amendments been incorporated but also notes have been added giving particulars as to the date and other matters relating to the amendments. Full and copious extracts from Select Committee Reports, Statements of Objects and Reasons and Notes on Clauses have been given in appropriate places under each Act. Besides the above, each Act is preceded by a statement as to how the Act has been affected by subsequent legislation. Further, cognate Acts and provisions have been indicated under the respective enactments.

"In addition to the above features, the case-law bearing on the different enactments has been given in the foot-notes under each section. We have taken care to see that the notes are full and it is hoped that the bulk of the relevant Indian case-law would be found summarised in the foot-notes. The notes have been divided into convenient headings of which a synopsis is given for each section. The matter under each heading is presented in a manner which is well adapted for easy and quick reference. It may also be mentioned that what may be treated as a special feature of A. I. R. publications, viz., the giving of the particular page of the report where the point occurs, is also present in this publication."

We wish to thank the legal profession in India for the liberal support it has accorded to the publication. We regret that owing to certain unforeseen difficulties we have not been able to bring out the volumes according to schedule. The indulgence of the profession is requested for this.

[30th September, 1925.]

An Act to consolidate the law applicable to intestate and testamentary succession in [b][the Provinces of India].

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the law applicable to intestate and testamentary succession in [b][the Provinces of India] ; it is hearby enacted as follows :—

[a] For Statement of Objects and Reasons, see Gazette of India, 1923, Pt. V, p. 401 ; and for Report of Joint Committee, see Gazette of India, 1925, Pt. V, p. 103.

The Act has been extended under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (14 of 1874), to British Baluchistan, see Gazette of India, 1925, Pt. II-A, p 358. [b] Substituted for 'British India' by the Indian Independence (Adaptation of Central Acts and Ordinances Order, 1948 [25-3-1948].

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the INDIAN SUCCESSION ACT, 1925.

Definitions. 2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "administrator" means a person appointed by competent authority to administer the estate of a deceased person when there is no executor ;

(b) "codicil" means an instrument made in relation to a will, and explaining, altering or adding to its dispositions, and shall be deemed to form part of the will ;

SECTION 1—SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability of the Act.
2. Retrospective effect.
3. Construction of the Act.

1. Scope and applicability of the Act. — [1] Preamble to this Act makes it clear that the Act was only intended to apply to matters of succession. It was never the intention of Legislature to legislate for any matters other than those connected with intestate and testamentary succession. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 260 (264) : I L R (1943) Lah 765 (S B).

[2] The combined effect of Ss. 2 and 3, Hindu Wills Act, 1870, is that a disposition permitted by the Succession Act may be invalidated but a disposition invalid under the Succession Act cannot be validated by any rule of Hindu law. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 705 (706): 58 Mad 15 (D B).

[3] The provisions of the Indian Succession Act show that the act is of universal application in this country unless a person claiming to be excepted can show that he is specifically excepted from the operation of its provisions. (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 459 (461) (D B)✠(Vol 22) 1935 Lah 646 (647). (Applies also to subjects of foreign State).

[4] Person who ceases to be Hindu in religion and becomes Christian cannot elect to be bound by Hindu law in matter of succession. After passing of Indian Succession Act Hindu convert to Christianity is now governed solely by Succession Act. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 14 (17): 48 Ind App 381: 43 All 525 (P C) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 85 (87) (D B) ✠ (1912) 11 Mad L Tim 232 (239) (D B). (After passing of the Act intention on the part of convert to be governed by Hindu law is of no use).

[See also ('09) Pun Re No. 36 (p. 109) (D B) (Where converts to Christianity had abandoned all connection with Hindu society and manners and there is no proof of local custom overriding Act, only Succession Act applies.)]

[5] This Act does not apply to Cutchi Memons. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 148 (153): 47 Bom 369 (D B) ✠(Vol 7) 1920 Bom 140 (140).

[6] The Act is not applicable to the Crown when it takes the property upon escheat. (Vol 19) 1932 All 220 (221): 54 All 226.

2. Retrospective effect.—[1] Act of 1925 has no restrospective effect and does not apply to wills executed prior to the passing of the Act ('35) 18 Nag L Jour 1 (9) (DB)✠('09) 31 All 239 (243) (DB).

3. Construction of the Act. — [1] Where there is a positive enactment of the Indian Legislature the proper course is to examine the language of that statute and to ascertain its proper meaning, uninfluenced by any consideration derived from the previous state of the law or of the English law upon which it may be founded. These observations apply with peculiar force to testamentary cases which are governed by the Indian Succession Act. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 2 (4) : 55 Ind App 18 : 7 Pat 221 (P C) ✠ ('74) 12 Beng L R 423 (427 to 429).

[2] Courts should not read into sections of the Act construction which is at variance with ordinary meaning of words used merely because there is distinction in English law between citation to propound and prove will and citation to take probate. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 293 (296) : 16 Luck 454 (FB).

[3] Succession Act is partially fiscal enactment, and it is to be administered, as far as possible leniently and must be construed in favour of subject. (Vol 21) 1934 All 296 (297).

SECTION 2 — SYNOPSIS.

1. "Codicil."
2. "District Judge."
3. "Executor "
4. "Indian Christian."
5. "Minor" and "minority."
6. "Probate."
7. "Will."

1. "Codicil."—[1] After the granting of letters of administration in respect of a will, a private memorandum book of the deceased giving some directions for disposing certain articles was found. In an application for admitting these entries to probate, it was

(c) "executor" means a person to whom the execution of the last will of a deceased person is, by the testator's appointment, confided ;

(d) "Indian Christian" means a native of India[a] who is, or in good faith claims to be, of unmixed Asiatic descent and who professes any form of the Christian religion ;

[a] For the definition of 'India', see the General Clauses Act, 1897 (X of 1897), S. 3 (27).

(e) "minor" means any person subject to the Indian Majority Act, 1875, who has not attained his majority within the meaning of that Act, and any other person who has not completed the age of eighteen years ; and "minority" means the status of any such person ;

(f) "probate" means the copy of a will certified under the seal of a Court of competent jurisdiction with a grant of administration to the estate of the testator ;

(g) "province" includes any division of [a][the provinces] having a Court of the last resort : and

[a] Substituted for "British India" by the Indian Independence (Adaptation of Central Acts and Ordinances) Order, 1948 [23-3-1948].

(h) "will" means the legal declaration of the intention of a testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death.

held that the memorandum was not a testamentary document and could not be treated as a codicil. ('79) 4 Cal 721 (722).

[2] Where there is a distinct disposition made by a will, that disposition cannot be revoked by a codicil except through the medium and use of words equally clear and distinct. (1898) 1 Ch 95 (98), In re Wilcock; Kay v. Dewhirst.

[3] An obviously erroneous recital of the will in the codicil will not alter the construction of the will but if the recital in the codicil is not obviously erroneous it may be referred to clear up the ambiguity in the will. (1904) 2 Ch 52 (55), In re Venn; Lindon v Ingram.

2. "District Judge".—[1] Under S. 2 of Succession Act as amended in 1929, High Court on the Original Side has power to issue succession certificates. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 281 (281) : 9 Rang 205 (DB)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Cal 580 (580, 581) : 58 Cal 801.

[See however (Vol 21) 1934 All 958 (958) : 57 All 302 (DB). (The definition of a "District Judge" (as inserted by the Act of 1929) does not include a High Court which has no original jurisdiction.)]

[2] Powers of Additional District Judge with regard to cases transferred to him by District Judge are same as those of District Judge. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 593 (593, 594) : 3 Pat 609 (DB).

3. "Executor".—[1] Heirs are not included in definition of 'executors' and 'administrators' in S. 2. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 17 (24) : 13 Rang 385 (DB).

[2] The testator executed a will leaving the bulk of his property to his minor daughter and appointing his mother as her guardian. The will stated that she should have full right to spend the income although it would not be proper to spend the principal. No other specific duties were laid upon the testator's mother but there were directions that he did not wish certain ceremonies after death to be performed but merely that his mother should feast the poor on death anniversaries: Held, that these facts were quite insufficient to make the mother executor by implication. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 770 (770).

[3] A legatee who undertakes to carry out the wishes of a testator will be treated as a trustee and compelled to carry out the instructions of the testator. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 10 (10) : 40 Bom 1.

[4] To be a constructive executor, a person must be charged with payment of debts—A charge of payment of legacy by itself is not sufficient to constitute constructive executor (Vol 33) 1946 All 357 (359) : I L R (1946) All 398 (DB).

[5] The effect of the Hindu Wills Act, 1870, is to place the executor in India on the same footing as an English executor. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 721 (730) : 3 Pat 880 (DB)

[6] Will of the deceased son not appointing any executrix but leaving some property to his mother with the direction that she should also pay certain debts—Held that the direction that she should pay certain debts out of certain property was not enough to constitute her an executrix for the general purposes of administration. ('99) 22 Mad 345 (346).

[7] It will be very difficult to determine when an executor ceases to have duties qua executor or virtute officii even when the facts are fully ascertained where the same persons have been appointed both executors and trustees. (1902) 1 Ch 176 (182), In re Tummis ; Nixon v. Smith.

4. "Indian Christian".—[1] In order to determine whether a person died a Christian for the purposes of the Succession Act, the Court must have regard to the formal protestations of his belief rather than to any private or secret religious practice in which he may indulge. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 72 (73) : 12 Rang 184 (DB).

5. "Minor" and "minority."—[1] The definitions of "minor" and "minority" contained in the Indian Succession Act do not apply when a person enters into a contract on his own behalf, and not in any representative character under that Act, so that he might be of age for the purposes of that Act but in other respects a minor. (1881) 8 Cal L R 419 (424)✠(1874) 12 Beng L R 358 (360) (D B).

[2] When a minor is brought under the operation of the Minors Act (40 of 1858) the age of majority is altered from 18 to 21 years. ('90) 17 Cal 347 (359) : 16 Ind App 195 (P C).

[3] Certificate of administration granted under Act XL of 1858 takes effect when it is actually issued and where a minor attains the age of 18 before such certificate is issued and enters into a contract, he is bound by such contract. ('83) 9 Cal 901 (904) (D B). (Affirming on appeal ('82) 8 Cal 714.)

6 "Probate".—[1] Issue of certified copy of will by Court with grant of administration held "probate" within meaning of S. 3, Succession Act, 1865 — Subsequent limitation of grant by Appellate Court does not affect grant — Production before decree is sufficient

3. (1) The [a][Provincial Government] may, by notification in the [b][Official Gazette], either retrospectively from the sixteenth day of March, 1865, or prospectively, exempt from the operation of any of the following provisions of this Act, namely, sections 5 to 49, 58 to 191, 212, 213 and 215 to 369, the members of any race, sect or tribe in the Province, or of any part of such race, sect or tribe, to whom the [a][Provincial Government] considers it impossible or inexpedient to apply such provisions or any of them mentioned in the order.

Power of Provincial Government to exempt any race, sect or tribe in the Province from operation of Act.

compliance of section. ('11) 38 Cal 327 (334) : 38 Ind App 7 (P C).

7. "Will"—[1] The fundamental idea of a will is that the testator should thereby dispose of his property, or such part thereof as his personal law permits him to bequeath by will, in such manner as seems to him best; and there is no reason why the provisions of a will should not follow the rules applicable on intestacy. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 393 (396) (D B).

[2] The definition of will does not require any written instrument. (1900) 24 Bom 8 (11, 12). (Succession Act extends to nuncupative wills and such wills can be admitted to probate.)

[3] In order to decide whether a document is a "will" or not it should be ascertained whether it is revocable or not. ('06) 3 Cal L Jour 370 (372) (D B).

[5] Document intended to operate from date of execution is not will. (1913) 35 All 337 (346): 40 Ind App 161 (P C) ✠ ('20) 1 Pat L T 457 (458) (D B). (Dedication by which grantor appointed himself as manager and provided that upon his death his disciple was to become manager is not "will.")

[6] Merely calling a deed a will does not make it a will. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 89 (90) (P C)✠(Vol 12) 1925 P C 196 (198) : 52 Ind App 305 : 48 Mad 614 (P C). (Will containing power to adopt though invalid as will, may be valid authority to adopt.)

[7] Where one part of the instrument is testamentary in its character, it can be presumed that the rest of it, if the language is capable of that construction, is intended to be testamentary also; and if there is nothing in the testamentary part of the document which is inconsistent with the supposition that the arrangements there made were to take effect at the death of the testator, the instrument may be taken to be a will. ('79) 4 Cal L Rep 401 (403) (D B).

[8] Whether man leaves one testamentary writing or several testamentary writings, it is the aggregate or the net result that constitutes his will and the intention of the testator must be gathered by reading all writings together. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 533 (536) (D B).

[10] One of the clauses of a will was in the following terms: "Upon my demise, my wife and my daughter-in-law will, in equal shares, get the properties, left by me but in all these properties, they will have life interest only. They will not be entitled to transfer the said properties by way of any gift or sale. On the demise of my wife, my younger (son) will get half-share of the properties left by me in absolute right. God forbid, if during the lifetime of my wife, my younger son dies, then the person or persons who will be the legal heirs of the said younger son of mine at the time of the death of my wife will get the said eight annas share in absolute right. On the demise of my daughter-in-law, the sons of my eldest son will get in equal shares the remaining eight annas share of my properties in absolute right": Held, that these provisions clearly satisfied the requirements of the definition of a will as contained in S. 2, cl. (h). (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 290 (292, 293) (D B).

[11] A deed purporting to authorise the widow to adopt contained the following clause: "In the event of my having no son, my wife shall be the owner of the estate. If, however, my brother has a son, that son shall be the owner, but if it be found that the brother also begets no son, I hereby authorise my wife to adopt a boy from within the family and he shall then become owner in my wife's stead": Held this clause amounted to testamentary disposition within S. 2 (h). (Vol 24) 1937 All 377 (388, 389): I L R (1937) All 292 (D B).

[12] Where the relevant portions of the document were as follows : "You shall yourself after my lifetime use and enjoy the two rooms built on the ground of the house Municipal No. 11. . . . . I shall myself enjoy the rent in respect of those two rooms as long as I may be alive. You shall yourself use and enjoy after my lifetime that rent and that ground and the two rooms from son to grandson and so on in succession with power to gift, mortgage, exchange and sale. No one has any right to or interest in those rooms. To this effect is the gift deed document executed and given in the respect of the aforesaid two rooms and their grounds": Held that though in form it was a gift really it was a will. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 605 (606) (D B).

[13] A, a Hindu, adopted a son and executed a document purporting to be a settlement providing inter alia that in case of the son and A's wife did not agree to live together after A's death, the wife should enjoy same land during her lifetime in lieu of maintenance. On disagreement between the son and the wife after A's death, wife separated and sued the son for the land, contending that as per settlement she was entitled to the land: Held on construction of the document, it was a will as the disposition in it was to take effect after A's death. ('89) 12 Mad 490 (492) (D B).

[14] Entry in wajib-ul-arz — Whether it can be treated as will depends upon its construction with reference to surrounding circumstances. ('06) 28 All 488 (495, 496): 33 Ind App 97 (P C).

[15] The fact that in document provision is made for appointment of future trustee after the death of the present trustee, does not make the document a will. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 756 (757) (D B).

[16] A Hindu executed an unregistered document calling it a will in favour of his wife to the effect: "I have consented to your adopting a son at your pleasure and conducting the management of the estate in the best manner": Held the document was not a will, but only a power to adopt. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 162 (163): 48 Ind App 482: 44 Mad 733 (P C).

[17] "Will" — Document inoperative as will may be valid authority to adopt. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 196 (198) : 52 Ind App 305: 48 Mad 614 (P C).

SECTION 4 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Hindu.
2. Brahmo.
3. Buddhist.
4. Sikh.
5. Indian Christian.
6. Persons married under the Special Marriage Act, 1872.

1. Hindu.—[1] The words Hindu, Muhammadan or Buddhist must be held to be religious distinctions and not national distinctions, for the two words "Muhammadan and Buddhist" are of only one meaning, and by analogy therefore "Hindus" must mean those of Hindu religion. ('74) 7 Mad H C R (App) 121 (122) (S B). (The fact that the majority of Native Christians still live in the Hindu manner does not affect the question.)

[See also (1895) 19 Bom 783 (788) (DB). (There is no race of Hindus and the term is used in a theological sense.)

[2] A European does not become a Hindu merely because he professes a theoretical allegiance to the Hindu faith or is an ardent admirer and advocate of Hinduism and its practices. But if he resides long in India, abdicates his religion by a clear act of renunciation and adopts Hinduism by undergoing formal conversion, gives up along with Christianity his Christian name and deliberately assumes a Hindu name and marries a person who is a Hindu by race and religion and cuts himself off from his old environments and takes to a Hindu mode of life, in such a case it should be concluded that he has become a Hindu. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1279 (1283) : 52 Mad 160.

[3] If a twice-born Hindu migrates to Burma and marries a Burmese woman, that in itself may not be sufficient to deprive him of his Hindu status under law. But if he has descendants who have been born and always lived in Burma and who have inter-married with its people then even though they may form a community of their own which has many traces of Hindu usages, if the usages and religion of the community are of a character so divergent from Hinduism the community cannot be regarded as Hindu. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 197 (201) : 48 Ind App 553 : 49 Cal 310 : 11 Low Bur Rul 155 (PC) (Kalais of Burma held had acquired a non-Hindu status of their own of this kind.)

[4] The Act exempts the property of Hindus from the operation of the Act but there is no prohibition to a Hindu succeeding under the Act to the property of a Christian. ('86) 9 Mad 466 (471).

[5] The Act does not apply to a person professing to be Hindu though of mixed parentage. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 201 (202) : 7 Low Bur Rul 362 (DB).

2. Brahmo.—[1] A Sikh or Hindu by becoming a Brahmo did not necessarily cease to belong to the Hindu community in which he was born. So also lapses from the standard of orthodoxy in the matter of diet and observation of ceremonials could not have the effect of excluding a person from the category of a "Hindu" in the Act who was born in it and who never became otherwise separated from the religious communion in which he was born. ('04) 31 Cal 11 (32) : 30 Ind App 249 : 1903 Pun Re No. 84 (P C) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 265 (267) : 49 Cal 1069.

3. Buddhist.—[1] Indian Succession Act, does not apply to Chinese Buddhist. Under S. 13 of Burma Laws Act, Buddhist law should be applied to the inheritance of Chinaman. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 144 (144-145) : 8 Low Bur Rul 222 (DB).

4. Sikh.—[1] Under the old Succession Act Sikhs were included in the term "Hindu" and were excluded from the operation of the Act. ('04) 31 Cal 11 (32) : 30 Ind App 249 : 1903 Pun Re No. 84 (PC).

5. Indian Christian. — [1] A person who ceases to be a Hindu in religion and becomes a Christian cannot elect to be bound by the Hindu law in matter of succession, after the passing of the Indian Succession Act (X [10] of 1865). A Hindu convert to Christianity is now governed solely by the Succession Act. (Vol 9) (1922) P C 14 (17) : 48 Ind App 381 : 43 All 525 (PC) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 All 134 (138) : I L R (1940) All 100 (DB).

[2] Before the passing of the Indian Succession Act 1865, Native Christian converts from Hindu religion were at liberty to renounce the Hindu law of succession or to adhere to it. Now the Indian Succession Act governs the succession in Native Christian families. ('80) 2 Mad 209 (211, 212) (D B) ✠ ('86) 9 Mad 466 (471) ✠ (1887) 10 Mad 69 (72) (DB).

[3] A Christian woman while she was Buddhist adopted a girl as a daughter in Kettima form with a view to inherit but she subsequently became a Christian and died as a Christian intestate It was held that the adopted girl could not inherit. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 72 (74) : 12 Rang 184 (DB).

[4] The Succession Act (X [10] of 1865) is of universal application unless the person claiming to be excepted can show that by this or some other Act he is specifically excepted from the operation of its provisions and any convert setting up customs of inheri-

Law regulating succession to deceased person's immoveable and moveable property, respectively.

5. (1) Succession to the immoveable property in British India[a] of a person deceased shall be regulated by the law of British India, wherever such person may have had his domicile at the time of his death.

(2) Succession to the moveable property of a person deceased is regulated by the law of the country in which such person had his domicile at the time of his death.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having his domicile in British India, dies in France, leaving moveable property in France, moveable property in England, and property, both moveable and immoveable, in British India. The succession to the whole is regulated by the law of British India.

(ii) A, an Englishman, having his domicile in France, dies in British India, and leaves property, both moveable and immoveable, in British India. The succession to the moveable property is regulated by the rules which govern, in France, the succession to the moveable property of an Englishman dying domiciled in France, and the succession to the immoveable property is regulated by the law of British India.

tance must prove them to be different from the law of the new religion when there is no legislative enactment declaring the latter. ('95) 19 Bom 783 (788) (DB).

6. Persons married under the Special Marriage Act, 1872.—[1] Where a marriage has been solemnized between a Hindu man and a woman in 1918 under the Special Marriage Act, 1872, the rights of the parties cannot be governed by the Amending Act, 1923, but by the original Act as the Amending Act has no retrospective effect. The declaration required by the Act does not amount to an abjuration for all purposes of the personal law of the declarant but merely as a statement for the purposes of the Act itself and so questions as to succession and rights to property must be determined by or under no law other than the personal law of the parties as the mere declaration under the Act does not amount to a renunciation of the personal law of the parties. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 74 (75).

[2] After the amendment of the Special Marriage Act, 1872, by Act XXX of 1923 persons professing, Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh, or Jain religion can marry under the provisions of that Act and the succession to the property of the married persons or that of the issues of such marriage is governed by the Indian Succession Act, 1925 : See S. 24 of Special Marriage Act, 1872.

[1] The validity of a will which purports to dispose of immovable property in British India must be tested by the rules applicable to the execution of wills in British India. [2] In English Courts, phrases which refer to national law of propositus are prima facie to be construed, not as referring to law which Courts of that country would apply in case of its own national domiciled in its own country in regard (where situation of property is relevant) to property in its own country, but to law which Courts of that country would apply to particular case of the propositus, having regard to what, in their view, is his domicile (if they consider that to be relevant) and having regard to the situation of property in question (if they consider that to be relevant). (Vol 28) 1941 P C 139 (143) (PC).

[4] Parsi resident in Baroda State dying leaving immovable property in British India—Succession to such property is governed by law prevailing in British India and not custom prevailing in Baroda State. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 238 (240, 241).

[5] Property belonging to foreign State in British India — Right and title to such property following the possession of and succession to the throne of such State: Held, that although the property by reason of its being situated in British India, is subject to British Indian Territorial Law affecting it, the Courts in British India cannot go into the question of the right to succession to the foreign State. Section 6 — Note 1

[1] Though a man may have two domicils for some purposes, he can have only one for the purpose of succession to the personal estate. The necessity of such a maxim is obvious, for it would be monstrously absurd "if it were possible, that there should be a competition between two domicils as to the distribution of the personal estate. It could never possibly be determined by the casual death of the party at either. That would be most whimsical and capricious. It might depend upon the accident, whether he died in winter or summer, and many circumstances not in his choice, that never could regulate so important a subject as the succession to his personal estate." (iii) A, whose domicile of origin is in France, comes to reside in British India under an engagement with the [c][Central Government] for a certain number of years. It is his intention to return to France at the end of that period. He does not acquire a domicile in British India.

(iv) A, whose domicile is in England, goes to reside in British India for the purpose of winding up the affairs of a partnership which has been dissolved, and with the intention of returning to England as soon as that purpose is accomplished. He does not by such residence acquire a domicile in British India, however long the residence may last.

(v) A, having gone to reside in British India in the circumstances mentioned in the last preceding illustration, afterwards alters his intention, and takes up his fixed habitation in British India. A has acquired a domicile in British India.

(vi) A, whose domicile is in the French Settlement of Chandernagore, is compelled by political events to take refuge in Calcutta, and resides in Calcutta for many years in the hope of such political changes as may enable him to return with safety to Chandernagore. He does not by such residence acquire a domicile in British India.

(vii) A, having come to Calcutta in the circumstances stated in the last preceding illustration, continues to reside there after such political changes have occurred as would enable him to return with safety to Chandernagore, and he intends that his residence in Calcutta shall be permanent. A has acquired a domicile in British India.

[1] Whether man has abandoned his domicile of origin and acquired new domicile would depend on his residence and intention. ('35) 62 Cal 869 (876).

[2] It is of the essence of the acquisition of a new domicile that the residence should be intended to be permanent, that is to say, a man making the choice should mean it to be final and definitely intend to end his life in the residence which he has thus chosen, in a new place or country. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 167 (169) : 41 Bom 689 (DB).

[3] Domicile can always be ascertained either by means of a legal presumption or from the known facts of the case. If a person who has no fixed place of residence, expresses his intention to settle at the place of his wife's parents and stops with those parents at times, that place can be said to be his domicile of choice. Section 11 — Note 1

[1] Section 11 merely provides a means of acquiring Indian domicile for the purposes of succession under the Succession Act and the making of a declaration under S. 11 would not affect the declarant's domicile for the purposes other than succession, e. g., divorce. The mode of acquiring domicile under S. 11 for the purposes of succession cannot be applied to domicile for the purposes of divorce. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 260 (264, 265) : I L R (1943) Lah 765 (SB).

[2] The domicile to be acquired under S. 11, Succession Act, is to be acquired only for the purpose of the Act, in which the section itself occurs and by the provisions of this Act, it is only domicile for succession to movable property for which S. 11, provides. Succession to moveable property in British India in absence of proof of domicile elsewhere

19. If a person dies leaving moveable property in British India,[a] in the absence of proof of any domicile elsewhere succession to the property is regulated by the law of British India.

PART III.

MARRIAGE.

Interests and powers not acquired nor lost by marriage.

20. (1) No person shall, by marriage, acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries or become incapable of doing any act in respect of his or her own property which he or she could have done if unmarried.

(2) This section —

(a) shall not apply to any marriage contracted before the first day of January 1866 ;

(b) shall not apply, and shall be deemed never to have applied, to any marriage one or both of the parties to which professed at the time of the marriage the Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina religion.

Effect of marriage between person domiciled and one not domiciled in British India.

21. If a person whose domicile is not in British India[a] marries in British India[a] a person whose domicile is in British India[a] neither party acquires by the marriage any rights in respect of any property of the other party not comprised in a settlement made previous to the marriage, which he or she would not acquire thereby if both were domiciled in British India[a] at the time of the marriage.

[1] Plaintiff's husband, a Goanese born in Goa settled in Bombay and carried on business for over fifty years till his death. During this period he visited Goa a very few times though he intended to retire and spend his closing years there. He made a will in Bombay whereby he bequeathed, Rs. 7, a month to plaintiff for her life. In a suit by plaintiff for a moiety of the estate under Portuguese Law—Held that plaintiff's husband had, despite his intention to return to Goa, acquired a domicile of choice in Bombay and that therefore the devolution of his estate was governed by the provisions of Succession Act. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 167 (177) : 41 Bom 687 (DB).

[2] The onus is on the persons, who attack a settlement, to show conclusively that nationality of the settlor was foreign and if they succeed in doing so the onus is then on the persons supporting the settlement to show that the settlor had acquired a domicile in British India and that his estate should be administered according to law prevailing in British India. (1905) 32 Cal 631 (638).

[1] Sections 4 and 44 (now Ss. 20 and 21 respectively) read together should be understood as laying down a general rule as to the immediate effect of marriage in respect of movable property belonging to each or either of the married persons not comprised in an ante-nuptial settlement, and not as laying down a rule intended to affect the law of succession. (1896) 23 Cal 506 (512).

[2] Section 4 contains the lex loci of India. It does not operate upon the movable property of parties not having an Indian domicile. (1876) 1 Cal 412 (420).

[3] Section 4, Succession Act of 1865 (now S. 20) has nothing to do with power of married women to contract. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 486 (489) ; I L R (1938) 2 Cal 233.

[4] Under marriage settlement some property was vested in the wife without power of alienating the same. Wife and husband executing pro-note jointly — Plaintiff seeking to recover his debt from the property vested in the wife under marriage settlement — Held operation of the clause in the settlement prohibiting alienation of property vested in the wife was not prevented by S. 4 of Act X [10] of 1865 (now S. 20) (1874) 13 Beng L R 383 (389) (DB).

[5] Where parties having the same domicile marry during a temporary sojourn in a foreign country, and do not evince any intention to change their domicile, the interest which they acquire in the movable property of each other is that interest given them by law of the country wherein they are domiciled at the time of the marriage. (1876) 1 Cal 412 (418).

[6] The foundation of the practice to order husband to deposit a sum of money to meet the wife's estimated cost in a suit for judicial separation which prevailed in the Ecclesiastical Courts in England, was the absolute right given to the husband upon marriage, to the whole of wife's personal estate and income of her real estate. But that state of law is completely altered in India by the Indian Succession Act—Hence in a proceeding for judicial separation between parties governed by the Act, wife is not entitled to security for costs from husband except under special circumstances. (1880) 5 Cal 357 (362) (DB).

[See also (1886) 9 Mad 12 (14).]

Section 21 — Note 1.

[1] Sections 4 and 44 of Act 10 of 1865 (now Ss. 20 and 21) deal with different subjects. The former declares the general lex loci of India; the second lays down a special rule to govern a particular case. It is

Settlement of minor's property in contemplation of marriage.

22. (1) The property of a minor may be settled in contemplation of marriage, provided the settlement is made by the minor with the approbation of the minor's father, or, if the father is dead or absent from British India[a], with the approbation of the High Court.

(2) Nothing in this section or in section 21 shall apply to any will made or intestacy occurring before the first day of January 1866, or to intestate or testamentary succession to the property of any Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist Sikh or Jaina.

PART IV.

OF CONSANGUINITY.

Application of Part.

23. Nothing in this part shall apply to any will made or intestacy occurring before the first day of January 1866 or to intestate or testamentary succession to the property of any Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or Parsi.

[1865—S. 331; Parsi Intestate Succession Act, 1865—S. 8.]

Kindred or consanguinity.

24. Kindred or consanguinity is the connection or relation of persons descended from the same stock or common ancestor.

[1865—S. 20.]

Lineal consanguinity.

25. (1) Lineal consanguinity is that which subsists between two persons, one of whom is descended in a direct line from the other, as between a man and his father, grandfather and great grandfather, and so upwards in the direct ascending line, or between a man and his son, grandson, great-grandson and so downwards in the direct descending line.

(2) Every generation constitutes a degree, either ascending or descending.

(3) A person's father is related to him in the first degree, and so likewise is his son; his grandfather and grandson in the second degree; his great-grandfather and great grandson in the third degree, and so on.

Collateral consanguinity.

26. (1) Collateral consanguinity is that which subsists between two persons who are descended from the same stock or ancestor, but neither of whom is descended in a direct line from the other.

(2) For the purpose of ascertaining in what degree of kindred any collateral relative stands to a person deceased, it is necessary to reckon upwards from the person deceased to the common stock and then downward to the collateral relative, a degree being allowed for each person, both ascending and descending.

Persons held for purpose of succession to be similarly related to deceased.

27. For the purpose of succession, there is no distinction:—

(a) between those who are related to a person deceased through his father, and those who are related to him through his mother; or not a modification of the lex loci but a declaration of the law in a particular case. (1876) 1 Cal 412 (421). (Held, domicile of the parties being in England, they were governed by English law).

[2] This section lays down a general rule as to the immediate effect of marriage in respect of movable property belonging to each of either of the married persons not comprised in an ante-nuptial settlement and does not lay down a rule intended to affect the law of succession. (1896) 23 Cal 506 (512). (Person having English domicile marrying woman with Indian Domicile is entitled, on his wife's death to whole of her movable property.)

[1] The definition of 'kindred' in this section is based upon the principles of English statute of distributions (22 and 23, Charles II, Ch. 10) and a gift to a next-of-kin under the English law does not include a husband or a wife. But this definition is not applicable to Hindus and a bequest made by a father to the would-be wife of his son may be deemed to be a bequest to a person described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to his son. (1912) 39 Cal. 87 (97, 98, 100) (DB).

[2] The Indian Succession Act speaks of certain relations and these relations are those which the law recognizes namely those flowing from lawful wedlock. Where therefore, a person governed by the Act claimed as a nephew under a will left by this mother's sister born of illegitimate wedlock, it was held that he was not her relation within the meaning of the Act. (1906) 30 Bom 500 (504) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Upp Bur 3 (5): 3 Upp Bur Rul 128. ("Lineal descendants" means descendants born in lawful wedlock.)

[See also (1873) 11 Beng L R (App) 6 (8). (The Succession Act does not say anything about illegitimate children.)]

(b) between those who are related to a person deceased by the full blood, and those who are related to him by the half blood; or

(c) between those who were actually born in the lifetime of a person deceased and those who at the date of his death were only conceived in the womb, but who have been subsequently born alive.

Mode of computing of degrees of kindred.

28. Degrees of kindred are computed in the manner set forth in the table of kindred set out in Schedule I.

Illustrations.

(i) The person whose relatives are to be reckoned, and his cousin-german, or first cousin, are, as shown in the table, related in the fourth degree; there being one degree of ascent to the father, and another to the common ancestor, the grandfather; and from him one of descent to the uncle, and another to the cousin-german, making in all four degrees.

(ii) A grandson of the brother and a son of the uncle, i. e., a great-nephew and a cousin-german, are in equal degree being each four degrees removed.

(iii) A grandson of a cousin german is in the same degree as the grandson of a great-uncle, for they are both in the sixth degree of kindred.

PART V.

INTESTATE SUCCESSION.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Application of Part.

29. (1) This Part shall not apply to any intestacy occurring before the first day of January 1865, or to the property of any Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina.

(2) Save as provided in sub-section (1) or by any other law for the time being in force, the provisions of this Part shall constitute the law of British India[a] in all cases of intestacy.

CHAPTER II.

RULES IN CASES OF INTESTATES OTHER THAN PARSIS.

Chapter not to apply to Parsis.

31. Nothing in the Chapter shall apply to Parsis.

[Parsi Intestate Succession Act, 1865 - S. 8]

Devolution of such property.

32. The property of an intestate devolves upon the wife or husband, or upon those who are of the kindred of the deceased, in the order and according to the rules hereinafter contained in this Chapter.

Explanation. — A widow is not entitled to the provision hereby made for her if, by a valid contract made before her marriage, she has been excluded from her distributive share of her husband's estate.

Where intestate has left widow and lineal descendants, or widow and kindred only, or widow and no kindred.

33. Where the intestate has left a widow —

(a) if he has also left any lineal descendants, one-third of his property shall belong to his widow, and the remaining two-thirds shall go to his lineal descendants, according to the rules hereinafter contained;

(b)[a] [save as provided by section 33A,] if he has left no lineal descendant, but has left persons who are of kindred to him, one-half of his property shall belong to his widow, and the other half shall go to those who are of kindred to him, in the order and according to the rules hereinafter contained;

(c) if he has left none who are of kindred to him, the whole of his property shall belong to his widow.

the line of succession allowed by law for the purpose of carrying out his own wishes or views of policy. (1872) 9 Beng L R 377 (394, 395) : Ind App (Sup Vol) 47 (P C).

[2] This section provides that a man is considered to be intestate in respect of all property of which he has not made a testamentary disposition which is capable of taking effect but this does not destroy the rule of survivorship any more than it extends right on intestacy to property in which intestate had a life estate. (1907) 31 Bom 25 (33) (DB).

[3] A made will devising the estate to R. R died before A. On A's death he not having made any bequest or devise to any other person was held to have died "intestate". (1880) 4 Bom 537 (544) (DB).

[4] Where testator makes a will with respect to a part of his property, he dies intestate with regard to his other property, and, therefore person appointed his executor cannot be his representative with regard to his other property. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 546 (546) (DB).

[5] Where some dispositions in a will were found to be invalid and could not be given effect to with regard to the residuary property there was intestacy. (1908) 31 Mad 517 (522) (DB).

[6] Surplus income of a trust estate directed to be accumulated for a period longer than twenty-one (the maximum period for which accumulation can be directed by will) years after paying an annuity to testator's neice for her life—Held that the surplus income from the expiration of twenty-one years to the death of the niece devolved as on an intestacy. (1900) 2 Ch 541 (547, 548), Frost v. Greatorex. (See also S. 117, Succession Act.)

[1] Explanation—Where a testator had given to his wife that provision which he meant to be a satisfaction for any claim she might have against the other objects of his bounty, if by any accident those objects should be unable to claim the benefit of that exclusion, no other person could set it up against the widow (1816) 30 E R 1038 (1041) : 5 Ves 332, Pickering v. Lord Stamford.

[1] Where a wife had an inchoate right to dower at the time when the Succession Act (X of 1865) was passed she is not deprived of her right by virtue of this Act. Section 27 (now S. 33) which provides what property a wife is entitled to in the event of her husband dying intestate does not, either expressly or impliedly deprive her of any other provision to which she was entitled at the time of the passing of that Act. (1881) 6 Cal 794 (806) (DB).

[2] A 'lineal descendant' as the term is used in S. 27 (now S. 33) in the Succession Act is the offspring of a lawful marriage and not the offspring of a union which is not that of husband and wife. (Vol 6) 1919 Upp Bur 3 (5) : 3 Upp Bur Rul 128 ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 560 (562) : 58 Cal 761.

[3] Clause (c)—Under English Law where a person dies intestate having a widow and there are no persons who answer the character of next of-kin to him, the widow takes one moiety of his personal estate and the Crown is entitled to the other half. (1836) 59 E R 86 (36) : 8 Sim 214, Cave v. Robert.

Special provision where intestate has left widow and no lineal descendants.

[a][33A. (1) Where the intestate has left a widow but no lineal descendants and the nett value of his property does not exceed five thousand rupees, the whole of his property shall belong to the widow.

(2) Where the nett value of the property exceeds the sum of five thousand rupees, the widow shall be entitled to five thousand rupees thereof and shall have a charge upon the whole of such property for such sum of five thousand rupees, with interest thereon from the date of the death of the intestate at 4 per cent. per annum until payment.

(3) The provision for the widow made by this section shall be in addition and without prejudice to her interest and share in the residue of the estate of such intestate remaining after payment of the said sum of five thousand rupees, with interest as aforesaid, and such residue shall be distributed in accordance with the provisions of section 38 as if it were the whole of such intestate's property.

(4) The nett value of the property shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross value thereof all debts, and all funeral and administration expenses of the intestate and all other lawful liabilities and charges to which the property shall be subject.

(5) This section shall not apply —

(a) to the property of —

(i) any Indian Christian,

(ii) any child or grandchild of any male person who is or was at the time of his death an Indian Christian, or

(iii) any person professing the Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina religion the succession to whose property is, under Section 24 of the Special Marriage Act, 1872, regulated by the provisions of this Act ;

(b) unless the deceased dies intestate in respect of all his property.]

[a] Inserted by the Indian Succession (Amendment) Act, 1926 (40 [XL] of 1926), S. 3.

Where intestate has left no widow, and where he has left no kindred.

34. Where the intestate has left no widow, his property shall go to his lineal descendants or to those who are of kindred to him, not being lineal descendants, according to the rules hereinafter contained ; and, if he has left none who are of kindred to him, it shall go to the Crown.

Rights of widower.

35. A husband surviving his wife has the same rights in respect of her property, if she dies intestate, as a widow has in respect of her husband's property, if he dies intestate.

[1865—S. 43.]

Distribution where there are lineal descendants.

Rules of distribution.

36. The rules for the distribution of the intestate's property (after deducting the widow's share, if he has left a widow) amongst his lineal descendants shall be those contained in sections 37 to 40.

Where intestate has left child or children only.

37. Where the intestate has left surviving him a child or children, but no more remote lineal descendant through a deceased child, the property shall belong to his surviving child, if there is only one, or shall be equally divided among all his surviving children.

Section 33A—Note 1

[1] Section 33A (5) (b) is an independent clause and is not part of S. 33A (5) (a) and does not govern the three clauses mentioned in S. 33A (5) (a). Section 33A therefore does not apply to an Indian Christian and the persons specified in S. 33A (5) (a) (ii) and (iii) even if they died intestate in respect of all their property. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 47 (48)

Section 35—Note 1.

[1] Under the Act the husband can only succeed to half of the wife's property in case his wife dies intestate leaving no lineal descendant. But in the absence of the next-of-kin, the husband would be entitled to the whole of the property as her heir. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1110 (1111).

[2] Divorced wife — Marriage between husband and wife dissolved by decree—At date of decree wife was entitled to some reversionary share in certain estate from her father of which no settlement was made prior to her marriage but which was subject to post-nuptial settlement. Subsequent to their judicial separation, share fell into possession but divorced wife died before she could recover possession : Held that the husband's rights in respect of that share ceased on the dissolution of the marriage and he was not entitled to recover the same. (1867) 4 Eq 162 (170), Wilkinson v. Gibson.

Where intestate has left no child, but grandchild or grandchildren.

38. Where the intestate has not left surviving him any child, but has left a grandchild or grandchildren and no more remote descendant through a deceased grandchild, the property shall belong to his surviving grandchild if there is only one, or shall be equally divided among all his surviving grandchildren.

Illustrations.

(i) A has three children and no more, John, Mary, and Henry. They all die before the father, John leaving two children, Mary three, and Henry four. Afterwards A dies intestate, leaving those nine grandchildren and no descendant of any deceased grandchild. Each of his grandchildren will have one-ninth.

(ii) But if Henry has died, leaving no child, then the whole is equally divided between the intestate's five grandchildren, the children of John and Mary.

Where intestate has left only great-grandchildren or remoter lineal descendants.

39 In like manner the property shall go to the surviving lineal descendants who are nearest in degree to the intestate, where they are all in the degree of great-grandchildren to him, or are all in a more remote degree.

Where intestate leaves lineal descendants not all in same degree of kindred to him, and those through whom the more remote are descended are dead.

40. (1) If the intestate has left lineal descendants who do not all stand in the same degree of kindred to him, and the persons through whom the more remote are descended from him are dead, the property shall be divided into such a number of equal shares as may correspond with the number of the lineal descendants of the intestate who either stood in the nearest degree of kindred to him at his decease, or, having been of the like degree of kindred to him, died before him, leaving lineal descendants who survived him.

(2) One of such shares shall be allotted to each of the lineal descendants who stood in the nearest degree of kindred to the intestate at his decease; and one of such shares shall be allotted in respect of each of such deceased lineal descendants; and the share allotted in respect of each of such deceased lineal descendants shall belong to his surviving child or children or more remote lineal descendants, as the case may be; such surviving child or children or more remote lineal descendants always taking the share which his or their parent or parents would have been entitled to respectively if such parent or parents had survived the intestate.

Illustrations.

(i) A had three children, John, Mary and Henry; John died, leaving four children, and Mary died, leaving one, and Henry alone survived the father. On the death of A, intestate, one-third is allotted to Henry, one-third to John's four children, and the remaining third to Mary's one child.

(ii) A left no child, but left eight grandchildren, and two children of a deceased grandchild. The property is divided into nine parts, one of which is allotted to each grandchild, and the remaining one-ninth is equally divided between the two great grandchildren.

(iii) A has three children, John, Mary and Henry; John dies leaving four children; and one of John's children dies leaving two children. Mary dies leaving one child. A afterwards dies intestate. One-third of his property is allotted to Henry, one third to Mary's child, and one-third is divided into four parts, one of which is allotted to each of John's three surviving children, and the remaining part is equally divided between John's two grandchildren.

(iv) A has two children, and no more; John and Mary. John dies before his father, leaving his wife pregnant. Then A dies leaving Mary surviving him, and in due time a child of John is born. A's property is to be equally divided between Mary and the posthumous child.

Distribution where there are no lineal descendants.

Rules of distribution where intestate has left no lineal descendants.

41. Where an intestate has left no lineal descendants, the rules for the distribution of his property (after deducting the widow's share, if he has left a widow) shall be those contained in sections 42 to 48.

43. If the intestate's father is dead, but the intestate's mother is living and there are also brothers or sisters of the intestate living, and there is no child living of any deceased brother or sister, the mother and each living brother or sister shall succeed to the property in equal shares.

44. If the intestate's father is dead, but the intestate's mother is living, and if any brother or sister and the child or children of any brother or sister who may have died in the intestate's lifetime are also living, then the mother and each living brother or sister, and the living child or children of each deceased brother or sister, shall be entitled to the property in equal shares, such children (if more than one) taking in equal shares only the shares which their respective parents would have taken if living at the intestate's death.

CHAPTER III.

SPECIAL RULES FOR PARSI INTESTATES.

General principles relating to intestate succession.

[a][50. For the purpose of intestate succession among Parsis—

(a) there is no distinction between those who were actually born in the lifetime of a person deceased and those who at the date of his death were only conceived in the womb, but who have been subsequently born alive;

(b) a lineal descendant of an intestate who has died in the lifetime of the intestate without leaving a widow or widower or any lineal descendant or a widow of any lineal descendant shall not be taken into account in determining the manner in which the property of which the intestate has died intestate shall be divided; and

(c) where a widow of any relative of an intestate has married again in the lifetime of the intestate, she shall not be entitled to receive any share of the property of which the intestate has died intestate, and she shall be deemed not to be existing at the intestate's death.]

[a] Ss. 50 to 56 were substituted, by the Indian Succession (Amendment) Act, 1939 (17 [XVII] of 1939), S. 2. [12-6-1939].

Division of a male intestate's property among his widow, children and parents.

[a][51. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), the property of which a male Parsi dies intestate shall be divided—

(a) where he dies leaving a widow and children, among the widow and children, so that the share of each son and of the widow shall be double the share of each daughter, or

(b) where he dies leaving children but no widow, among the children, so that the share of each son shall be double the share of each daughter.

(2) Where a male Parsi dies leaving one or both parents in addition to children or a widow and children, the property of which he dies intestate shall be divided so that the father shall receive a share equal to half the share of a son and the mother shall receive a share equal to half the share of a daughter.]

[1] An advancement by way of portion is something given by the parent to establish the child in life or to make what is called a provision for him. It is not a mere casual payment. Thus an admission fee at the Middle Temple for a child intended for the Bar, price of the commission and outfit of the child entering Army and advances made for purchase of plant and materials for mining operations were held to be advancements. (1875) 20 Eq 155 (157, 158), Taylor v. Taylor.

[2] The exception in English law by way of advancement in favour of wife or child does not apply in India. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 96 (97) : 37 All 557 : 42 Ind App 202 (P C). (Purchase by Hindu husband in wife's name is presumed to be benami).

[3] Parsi—Applicability of English Rule of advancement as contained in Statute of Distribution — By excluding S. 42 (now S. 49) by S. 8 of Parsi Succession cAt from applying to Parsis, Legislature did not intend to make the English rule applicable to Parsis. (1878) 2 Bom 75 (82).

[1] Prior to the passing of Parsi Succession Act, 1865, the Parsis in the town and island of Bombay were as to succession governed by the English law as modified by Act IX of 1837 and in the mofussil the Courts took evidence and enforced what were proved to be the usages of Parsis in that locality. Division of a female intestate's property among her widower and children.

[a][52. The property of which a female Parsi dies intestate shall be divided —

(b) where she dies leaving children but no widower, among the children in equal shares.]

Division of share of predeceased child of intestate leaving lineal descendants.

[a][53. In all cases where a Parsi dies leaving any lineal descendant, if any child of such intestate has died in the lifetime of the intestate, the division of the share of the property of which the intestate has died intestate which such child would have taken if living at the intestate's death shall be in accordance with the following rules, namely:—

(a) If such deceased child was a son, his widow and children shall take shares in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter as if he had died immediately after the intestate's death:

Provided that where such deceased son has left a widow or a widow of a lineal descendant but no lineal descendant, the residue of his share after such distribution has been made shall be divided in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter as property of which the intestate has died intestate, and in making the division of such residue the said deceased son of the intestate shall not be taken into account.

(b) If such deceased child was a daughter, her share shall be divided equally among her children.

(c) If any child of such deceased child has also died during the lifetime of the intestate, the share which he or she would have taken if living at the intestate's death shall be divided in like manner in accordance with clause (a) or clause (b) as the case may be.

(d) Where a remoter lineal descendant of the intestate has died during the lifetime of the intestate, the provisions of clause (c) shall apply mutatis mutandis to the division of any share to which he or she would have been entitled if living at the intestate's death by reason of the predecease of all the intestate's lineal descendants directly between him or her and the intestate.]

Division of property where intestate leaves no lineal descendant but leaves a widow or widower or a widow of any lineal descendant.

[a][54. Where a Parsi dies without leaving any lineal descendant but leaving a widow or widower or a widow of a lineal descendant, the property of which the intestate dies intestate shall be divided in accordance with the following rules, namely:

(a) If the intestate leaves a widow or widower but no widow of a lineal descendant, the widow or widower shall take half the said property.

(b) If the intestate leaves a widow or widower and also a widow of any lineal descendant, his widow or her widower shall receive one-third of the said property, and the widow of any lineal descendant shall receive another one-third, or if there is more than one such widow, the last mentioned one-third shall be divided equally among them.

PART VI.

TESTAMENTARY SUCCESSION.

CHAPTER I.

INTRODUCTORY.

Application of certain provisions of Part to a class of wills made by Hindus, etc.

[a][57. The provisions of this Part which are set out in Schedule III shall, subject to the restrictions and modifications specified therein, apply—

(a) to all wills and codicils made by any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina, on or after the first day of September, 1870, within the territories which at the said date were subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal or within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Madras and Bombay; and

[1] In construing the schedule mentioned in the section, the section shows that (1) where it was intended that any class of relatives should, if living, absolutely exclude any other, they were placed within a separate article; (2) within the particular articles differences in propinquity of blood are so far recognized that each degree constitutes a class not for the purpose of excluding or being preferred to any other, but for the purpose of giving each male double the share of each female with it; (3) all males within a particular article, or even within a particular degree of propinquity do not necessarily take equal shares. ('98) 22 Bom 909 (914, 916).

1. Scope and applicability.
2. "Hindu"
3. Bequest by Hindu to unborn person.

CHAPTER II.

OF WILLS AND CODICILS.

Person capable of making wills.

59. Every person of sound mind not being a minor may dispose of his property by will.

Explanation 1. — A married woman may dispose by will of any property which she could alienate by her own act during her life.

Explanation 2. — Persons who are deaf or dumb or blind are not thereby incapacitated for making a will if they are able to know what they do by it.

Explanation 3. — A person who is ordinarily insane may make a will during an interval in which he is of sound mind.

held to be independent will and hence no probate was required.)

[See also (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 434 (447) : 49 Mad 261 (FB). (Hindu Wills Act is not applicable to the Hindu will executed in the moffusil — The estate vests in the executor accepting office from the date of testator's death —No probate is necessary)]

[3] Will alleged to be executed by Hindu after 1st January 1927 comes under S. 57 (c). (Vol 25) 1938 All 640 (641).

2. "Hindu." — [1] A person does not become a Hindu merely because he professes theoretical allegiance to Hindu faith. Long residence in India, abdication of one's own religion, undergoing conversion, assuming a Hindu name, marriage according to Hindu rites and adoption of Hindu mode of life will show that a non-Hindu has become a Hindu. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1279 (1283) : 52 Mad 160.

[2] Brahmo does not cease to be Hindu and therefore grant to widow of Brahmo, must be under Probate and Administration Act. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 265 (267) : 49 Cal 1069.

3 Bequest by Hindu to unborn person. — [1] Schedule 3 does not provide that a Hindu cannot create an interest in property which could not be created before September 1870, but that the enumerated sections in the schedules do not authorise such creation. Neither Sch. 3 nor any other part of the Succession Act repeals the provision of the Hindu Disposition of Property Act and hence the power to create int rest in property in favour of an unborn person given by that Act is not taken away by the Succession Act. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 396 (400) (DB).

[See also (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 705 (708, 709) : 58 Mad 15 (DB). (The combined effect of Ss. 2 and 3, Hindu Wills Act is that a disposition permitted by the Succession Act may be invalidated but a disposition invalid under the Succession Act cannot be validated by any rule of Hindu law.)]

[2] See also Note under S. 113.

4. 'Buddhist"—[1] There is no definition of the term Buddhist in the Act and the word is wide enough to cover Chinese Buddhists as well as Burmese Buddhists. But before it can be claimed that any person is excluded from the provisions of part 6 as being a Buddhist it must clearly be proved that he was professing Buddhism during his life-time. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang. 42 (47) : 7 Rang 720 (DB).

1. "Of sound mind."
2. 'Not being a minor."
3. "His property."
4. Explanation 3.
5. Explanation 4.
6. Will by sick person.

1. 'Of sound mind."—[1] "Sound and disposing mind" is a mind of natural capacity not unduly impaired by old age, enfeabled by illness or tainted by morbid influence. (1865) L R 1 P and D 398 (400), Smith v. Tebbitt.

[2] Mere ability to sign does not imply full mental powers for a valid disposition It is not sufficient that the man is able to answer easy questions but he must have a disposing mind so as to dispose of his property with understanding and reason This does not mean that he should make what other people may think as sensi-

Explanation 4. – No person can make a will while he is in such a state of mind, whether arising from intoxication or from illness or from any other cause, that he does not know what he is doing.

Illustrations.

(i) A can perceive what is going on in his immediate neighbourhood, and can answer familiar questions, but has not a competent understanding as to the nature of his property, or the persons who are of kindred to him, or in whose favour it would be proper that he should make his will. A cannot make a valid will.

(ii) A executes an instrument purporting to be his will, but he does not understand the nature of the instrument, nor the effect of its provisions. This instrument is not a valid will.

(iii) A, being very feeble and debilitated, but capable of exercising a judgment as to the proper mode of disposing of his property, makes a will. This is a valid will.

ble, reasonable or kind will. He must be able to understand his position and appreciate his property to form a judgment with respect to parties whom he chose to benefit by it after death, nor does this mean that the testator must possess these qualities in the highest degree possible or possess them in such a large measure as he may formerly have done though the mind may have been in some degree debilitated and memory may have become enfeebled. It is sufficient that there is enough left to enable the testator clearly to discern and discreetly to judge all those things and all those circumstances which enter into a rational just and fair treatment. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 677 (681, 682) : 47 Cal 1043 (DB).

[See however (1873) L R 3 P and D 64 (72, 74), Boughton v. Knight. (The highest degree of mental soundness is required in order to constitute the capacity to make a testamentary disposition. A testator should understand the nature of the act, its effects and the extent of the property of which he is disposing. The testator should be able to comprehend and appreciate the claims to which he ought to give effect and in order to be able to do this no insane delusion should influence his will in disposing of his property.)]

[4] Test of person being of unsound mind in legal sense is existence of delusion or belief in facts which ordinary person would not credit or belief which one cannot understand how any person in his senses could hold. Mere eccentricity or caprice, however, is not enough to constitute mental unsoundness unless it is associated with some sort of delusion. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 379 (383) (DB).

[5] It is not at all correct to say that because an operation of the character of injection and transfusion of blood had to be done, there must have been something wrong with the mental capacity of the testator. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 290 (294) (DB).

2. "Not being a minor."—[1] A will executed by a person who is not a major at the time of the execution thereof is ineffective. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad. 179 (180) (DB).

[2] No Hindu can make a will who is less than eighteen years of age. ('12) 36 Bom. 622 (624) (DB).

[3] Married woman governed by Indian Succession Act of whose person and property guardian has been appointed by the Court cannot dispose of her property by will before she attains age of 21 years. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 644 (645).

[4] Where the ground of defence is the minority of the testator the onus is on the party propounding the will to prove that the alleged testator was of full age. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 815 (816): 38 Mad 166 (DB). (Obiter.)

3. "His property."—[1] Assent by legatee would not clothe testator with authority to deal with property over which he had no disposing power. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 19 (22) (DB).

[2] A testator cannot alter the course of law by the use of mere negative words excluding certain relations, unaccompanied by any effective disposition of his property. ('80) 4 Bom 537 (543) (DB).

4. Explanation 3. – The question of insanity is properly a mixed one – partly within the range of common observation and in so far fit to be considered by a jury; and partly within the range of special experience and so far the proper subject for medical inquiry. It is the office of the Court to inform itself, as far as opportunity permits of the general results of the medical observation and to approach the subject on two opposite sides thus indicated—searching for a fit conclusion by alternately presenting the parallel of sanity and insanity to the sayings and doings of the testator. (1865) L R 1 P and D 398 (405), Smith v. Tebbitt.

[2] A testamentary disposition cannot receive effect if it be shown that its provisions were prompted by an insane delusion or delusions existing in the mind of the testator. (1899) 1899 App Cas 1 (7), Hope v. Campbell.

[See however (1880) 14 Ch D 674 (680), Jenkins v. Morris. (The mere existence of a delusion in the mind of a person is not sufficient to deprive him of testamentary capacity even where the delusion is connected with the disposition.)]

[3] Partial unsoundness, not affecting the general faculties, and not operating on the mind of a testator in regard to a testamentary disposition, is not sufficient to deprive a person of the power of disposing of his property. (1870) 5 Q B 549 (556, 571), Banks v. Good Fellow.

[4] Will—Mental weakness to constitute testamentary incapacity must be qua will in question. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 574 (575) (DB).

[5] Generally speaking, the law presumes sanity in the testator and where a will is not challenged, it is enough for the purpose of establishing the will that it was duly executed by the testator, that he was not a minor, and was otherwise capable of making a will under the law by which he was governed. If the testator's sanity is disputed, the burden of proof lies upon the person propounding the will to prove affirmatively that the testator was of sound mind at the date of its execution and that he knew, understood and approved of its contents. If in sanity of the testator before the date of will is once established burden of proof lies on person propounding the will to show that it was made after testator's recovery or during lucid interval. If it is not established, or habitual insanity does not exist; burden of proving actual insanity at the date of execution of the will shifts to person impeaching the will. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 588 (590).

Will obtained by fraud, coercion, or importunity.

of reason very short, it is incumbent upon the party propounding the instrument to show by more than ordinary proof, that the precise time when the act was done, the testator was in the possession and exercise of his mental faculties. (1840) 13 E R 59 (62) : 3 Moo P C 136, Frederick Dufaur v. William Croft.

5. Explanation 4 —[1] It is the duty of the propounder of a will to show that the testator had the testamentary capacity. To discharge that burden it must be shown the testator had full understanding and reason and judgment in respect of his property and the parties whom he decided to benefit. Mere ability to sign does not necessarily imply the possession of full mental power requisite for a valid disposition of property, nor is it sufficient to show that the testator was conscious when he executed the instrument. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 225 (228, 230) (DB).

[2] Law presumes sanity in testator and where a will is not challenged it is enough to establish that the will was duly executed by testator, that he was not a minor that he was capable of making a will under the law by which he was governed. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 588 (590).

[3] In order that a will may be found good, it is sufficient if, when will was read out to him and explained to him or also when he read it himself he was capable of understanding that his instructions in main had been carried out. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 588 (590).

[4] In case of will, if Court considers that 'due execution' has been proved, that in itself will amount to finding that testator executed the will with full knowledge of claims of his relations upon his bounty, the state of his properties and of every material circumstance. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 769 (770) (DB).

[5] Where mental capacity of testator is challenged by evidence, Court must be satisfied before granting probate that testator was of sound disposing mind and did know and approve of contents of the will. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 449 (452) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 393 (396) (DB) ✠ ('99) 22 Mad 345 (346) (DB).

[See also (1865) L R 1 P & D 398 (438), Smith v. Tebbitt. (The Court of jury must be able, affirmatively, on review of the whole evidence, to declare itself satisfied that the testator was of sound mind, memory and understanding at the time of its execution.)]

[6] A Court will not reject a will merely because its terms appear extraordinary, against clear evidence of due execution by a competent testator. But where the terms are unusual and the evidence of testamentary capacity doubtful, the vigilance of the Court will be aroused and, before pronouncing for the will the Court will require to be satisfied beyond all reasonable doubt that the testator was fully cognizant of its contents and in a condition to exercise and did exercise thought, judgment and reflection respecting the act he was doing. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 225 (230) (DB).

6. Will by sick person. — [1] Wills by sick and dying—Degree of understanding which law requires is such as may reasonably be expected from persons in that condition. He must be able to exercise competent understanding as to general nature of the property, as to state of his family, and as to general condition and claims of objects of his bounty, as to nature of instrument which he executes, and as to general nature and general objects and provisions which it contains; if he can do that though he may be very feeble and debilitated in understanding and be at point of death, it is enough. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 322 (323) (DB).

[2] Proof of testamentary incapacity — There must be clear evidence that the illness of the testator so affected his mental faculty as to make them unequal to the task of disposing of his property. ('11) 38 Cal 355 (367) : 38 Ind App 13 (P C).

[3] The fact that the testatrix was unwell when she executed the will does not prove that she had no testamentary capacity. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 174 (175) : I L R (1945) Kar P C 351 (PC).

[4] Where a will was executed by a man about two hours before his death, when his condition was critical and when he was restless with pain and there was no information whatsoever either as to instructions, if any, given by him or the time when and the person to whom the directions were given and there was no evidence to show that the will as prepared was before execution read over to and approved by him : Held that the propounders had failed to establish that the testator had sound and disposing mind when he affixed his signature to the will. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 225 (230) (DB).

[5] The testator was in a state of high fever, and of extreme and increasing weakness, and after dictating one clause fell back exhausted and did not speak again till after the signature — His wife dictated the rest and the fair copy was brought to him to sign after an hour or so when he held out his hand for pen but was not able to write. He was made to sit up and his hand was guided. His holding out his hand for pen was the only act which made witness to think that he understood what he was doing and had not spoken for the whole day except dictating the clause — It was held that these circumstances clearly indicated that the testator was not capable of testamentary act and the alleged codicil was not proved. (1898) 22 Bom. 17 (36, 37) ; 24 Ind App 148 (PC).

[6] Where the testator was being looked after by his sister and her husband and he had a desire to benefit them and in executing the will he was not ignoring the legitimate claim of any one else and there was evidence to show that although he was suffering from tuberculosis, he went to a petition writer and to the Sub-Registrar's office and executed the will : Held under circumstances, he was having disposing mind required for will and that it was not brought about by any undue influence and was duly executed and hence valid. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 628 (629) (DB).

[1] This section is not made applicable to Hindus— It therefore Hindu father has power to appoint a testamentary guardian it is not by virtue of any statute but under Hindu law. ('07) 31 Bom 413 (417) (DB).

1. "Any part of the will."
2. Fraud—Averment of.

Illustrations.

(i) A falsely and knowingly represents to the testator that the testator's only child is dead, or that he has done some undutiful act and thereby induces the testator to make a will in his, A's, favour; such will has been obtained by fraud, and is invalid.

(ii) A, by fraud and deception, prevails upon the testator to bequeath a legacy to him. The bequest is void.

(iii) A, being a prisoner by lawful authority, makes his will. The will is not invalid by reason of the imprisonment.

(iv) A threatens to shoot B, or to burn his house or to cause him to be arrested on a criminal charge, unless he makes a bequest in favour of C. B, in consequence, makes a bequest in favour of C. The bequest is void, the making of it having been caused by coercion.

(v) A, being of sufficient intellect, if undisturbed by the influence of others, to make a will yet being so much under the control of B that he is not a free agent, makes a will, dictated by B. It appears that he would not have executed the will but for fear of B. The will is invalid.

(vi) A, being in so feeble a state of health as to be unable to resist importunity, is pressed by B to make a will of a certain purport and does so merely to purchase peace and in submission to B. The will is invalid.

(vii) A being in such a state of health as to be capable of exercising his own judgment and volition, B uses urgent intercession and persuasion with him to induce him to make a will of a certain purport. A, in consequence of the intercession and persuasion, but in the free exercise of his judgment and volition, makes his will in the manner recommended by B. The will is not rendered invalid by the intercession and persuasion of B.

(viii) A, with a view to obtaining a legacy from B, pays him attention and flatters him and thereby produces in him a capricious partiality to A. B, in consequence of such attention and flattery, makes his will, by which he leaves a legacy to A. The bequest is not rendered invalid by the attention and flattery of A.

3. Coercion.

4. Undue influence.

5. Persons in fiduciary position.

6. Husband and wife.

7. Pardanashin ladies.

8. Burden of proof.

9. Propounder taking benefit under the will.

1. 'Any part of the will." — [1] Where a provision is found in a will under which the writer gets a substantial advantage and the evidence is not sufficient to remove the suspicion attaching to the provision, and to satisfy the Court that the testator knew and approved of the said provision, probate should not be granted of that part but should not be refused in respect of the remainder of the will (Vol 16) 1929 P C 45 (50) : 8 Pat 382 : 56 Ind App 62 (P C).

2. Fraud — Averment of. — [1] In pleadings general allegations, however strong may be the words in which they are stated, are insufficient even to amount to an averment of fraud of which any Court ought to take notice. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 7 (13) : 42 Ind App 135 : 39 Bom 441 (PC).

3 Coercion.—[1] It is not correct to contend that nothing can be "coercion" under Indian law unless it satisfies the definition of coercion in S. 15 of the Indian Contract Act. Outside S. 15, Contract Act, "coercion" must be taken in its general and ordinary sense as an English word and definition of the word in S. 15 does not control the interpretation of "coercion" when used in other surroundings. ('13) 40 Cal 598 (611-613) : 40 Ind App 56 (PC).

4. Undue influence. — [1] Undue influence, in order to render a will void, must be an influence which can justly be described by a person looking at the matter judicially to have caused the execution of a paper pretending to express a testator's mind, but which really does not express his mind but something else which he did not really mean. (1920) 1920 App Cas 349 (357), Craig v. Lamoureux.

[2] Undue influence cannot be presumed from foolish and heartless nature of testator's dispositions. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 28 (33) (PC).

[3] Mere disinheriting one heir and preference of other, who was actively concerned with the management of the estate of the deceased testator is not enough to establish a case of undue influence as regards the execution of a will (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 42 (44): 7 Rang 720 (DB).

[4] Where the evidence showed that there was motive and opportunity for the exercise of undue influence by persons relying upon a will and that some of them in fact benefited by the will to the exclusion of other relatives of equal or nearer degree it was held that circumstances of that character would certainly lead the Court to scrutinize with special care the evidence of those who propounded the will. but in order to set it aside there must be clear evidence that the undue influence was in fact exercised. ('11) 38 Cal 355 (367): 38 Ind App 13 (PC).

[5] Will in favour of person in attendance on testator —He must show that will originated in testator's own desire in order to remove suspicion that he himself had suggested and prepared it. ('10) 5 Low Bur Rul 141 (144) (DB).

[6] Per Thomas J. — Person appearing before Judge as accused—Such person executing will in his presence —Will cannot be attacked on ground of undue influence. (Vol 22) 1935 All 425 (427) (SB).

5 Persons in fiduciary position.—[1] A and her sister B who had been brought up in the house of their uncle C and were under his influence executed a sale-deed in his favour for an inadequate consideration. After the death of B, A sued to recover the property conveyed by the sale deed — Held that C stood in a fiduciary position towards A and B and therefore the sale-deed was null and void as regards the share of both A and B. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 93 (94) : 43 Bom 173 (DB). (Case under S. 88, Trusts Act.)

6. Husband and wife. — [1] General evidence brought to show wife's dominion over husband, loose and vague — Husband nearly blind and in failing health — Wife possessing great force of character and will and apt to show temper when thwarted — Held, that if there is not evidence to show coercion in the special matter of codicils, general assertions of the wife's commanding character and the husband's weakness and of wrangling about expenses went for little. ('98) 22 Bom 17 (28) : 24 Ind App 148 (PC).

[2] Where a person who has been enfeebled by a painful illness and had been suffering great pain for some months before the will was executed is led into the belief that his wife was neglecting him and that she and her father are only after his property and where the testator's father and brother in order to mislead the testator into the belief that his wife is neglecting him did not write to her about his health and send her any moneys to come down to him, though the testator asked them to do so, and the testator thereby conceived an unreasonable dislike of his wife brought about by the machinations of those who were near him — Held, that a will leaving a meagre maintenance to his wife, whom he loved very affectionately all through his life, is not valid. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 295 (297, 298).

[3] In transaction between a Mahomedan husband and his purdanashin wife the burden of proving the reality and the bona fide of the transactions is upon the husband. ('67) 11 Moo Ind App 551 (584, 585) (PC).

[4] Where a wife was pressed by her husband to sign and did sign a document which was very different from what she supposed it to be and a document of the true nature of which she had no conception the document is open to the objection of having been obtained by pressure and concealment of material circumstances and is not binding on the wife. ('02) 6 Cal W N 809 (815). (Deed giving security.)

7. Pardanashin ladies. — [1] There is no absolute rule of law that a gift by a pardanashin lady cannot stand unless it is proved that the lady had independent advice. The possession or absence of independent advice is a fact to be taken into consideration and weighed on a review of the circumstances relevant to the issue whether the grantor thoroughly comprehended and deliberately and of her own free will carried out, the transaction. If the conclusion is reached that the obtaining of independent advice would not really have made any difference in the result, then the deed ought to stand. ('14) 36 All 81 (91, 92) : 41 Ind App 23 (PC).

[2] In the case of deeds, and powers executed by pardanashin ladies, it is requisite that those who rely upon them should satisfy the Court that they have been explained to and understood by those who executed them. ('12) 34 All 455 (462) : 39 Ind App 156 (P C). (Deed executed by a pardanashin illeterate woman who was separated from her husband — Held, that it was not proved that she understood the deed intelligently.)

8. Burden of proof. — [1] There is no inflexible rule that when a testator of a competent mind has had his will read over to him and has thereupon executed it all further inquiry is shut out. No doubt these circumstances afford very grave and strong presumption that the will has been duly and properly executed by the testator; still circumstances may exist which may require that something further shall be done in the matter. In cases where the ingriedient of fraud enters, it is impossible to lay down any clear and unyielding rule like this. (1875) L R 7 H L 448 (469), Fulton v. Andrew.

[2] Where a will is challenged it is for the propounder to show not only that it was executed but that it was executed by the testator intelligently and that he had a sound disposing mind and after they have put forward their evidence it is for the objectors to break that evidence down or to meet it with other evidence. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 178 (185) (DB).

[3] The burden of proof that a will is genuine lies upon the person who sets up the will and not upon the person who is prepared to impeach it. ('01) 23 All 405 (413) : 28 Ind App 186 (PC).

[4] The standard of proof to establish a will is that of a prudent man and not an absolute or conclusive one. The presumption against misconduct is not without its due weight as a circumstance of improbability, though the standard of proof to the exclusion of all reasonable doubt required in a criminal case may not be applicable Though it is desirable that all the attesting witnesses capable of being called should be examined to remove all suspicion of fraud, it is not absolutely necessary that where there are many attesting witnesses, the absence of every one not called should be specifically explained. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 260 (266) : 49 Cal 132 (DB).

9. Propounder taking benefit under the will.— [1] Where the propounder of a will is the principal beneficiary under it and has taken a leading part in giving instructions for the execution of the will and procuring its registration and execution, the circumstances are such as would excite the suspicion of any Probate Court and require it to examine the evidence in support of the will with great vigilance and scrutiny. The propounder is not entitled to probate unless the evidence removes such suspicion and clearly proves that the testator approved of the will. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 24 (25) : 8 Rang 179 : 57 Ind App 96 (PC) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 539 (541) (DB) ✠ ('05) 29 Bom 530 (559, 560) : 32 Ind App 142 (PC) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 574 (576) (DB).

[2] On proof of the signature of the deceased or his acknowledgment that he has signed the will he will be presumed to have known the provisions of the instrument he has signed. This presumption, however, is liable to be rebutted by proof of suspicious circumstances, such as, if the testator from want of education or physical infirmity was unable to read or unable to understand the provisions of the document or his capacity for executing the instrument is doubtful. Then the propounder of the will is bound to remove those suspicious circumstances. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 484 (489) : 56 Cal 390 (DB).

[3] For the objector it is not enough to show that there was motive and opportunity for the exercise of undue influence. It must be shown that the evidence discloses circumstances which cause the Court to suspect that this was not the last true will of the testator and that, that evidence has not been displaced by the person upon whom rests the burden of displacing it. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 539 (541) (DB).

[4] When the writer of a will has taken a very active part in the preparation of the will under which he gets a substantial advantage, the propounders of the will must prove that the testator was aware of the contents of the will. It is not correct to say that benefit must be a pecuniary benefit, a legacy, for instance, more or less of a substantial nature. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 45 (46, 47) : 56 Ind App 62 : 8 Pat 382 (PC) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 P C 306 (307) (PC) ✠ (1903) 1 Ch 27 (50, 51, 52), Wright v. Carter. CHAPTER III.

OF THE EXECUTION OF UNPRIVILEGED WILLS.

Execution of unprivileged wills.

63. Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [a][or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:—

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary

1. Revocation of will.
2. Destruction or loss of will—Effect.
3. Suit for cancellation of will.

1. Revocation of will. — [1] The will of a living man does not come into operation when it has been executed but only upon his death. So long as a testator is living he may at any moment cancel his will and make a totally different disposition of his property. This power he possesses upto the hour of his death provided he be competent then to execute a valid will. (1905) 27 All 14 (15) (DB).

[See also ('10) 33 Mad 304 (307) (DB). (One of the invariable tests in coming to a conclusion as to the testamentary character of a paper is whether the paper is revocable.)]

[2] If an instrument is on the face of it of a testamentary character, the mere circumstance that the testator calls it irrevocable does not alter its quantity. A testator who makes his testament and last will irrevocable may yet revoke it. ('09) 10 Cal L Jour 644 (645) (DB).

[3] Mere expression of intention to revoke a will at at some future date cannot amount to revocation of will under any system of law. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 616 (617).

[4] Hindu will though not signed by testator or attested will, if proved to be the last will, operate to revoke the previous registered will. (Vol 14) 1927 All 497 (498) : 50 All 314 (DB).

2. Destruction or loss of will — Effect. — [1] There is a presumption that if a will traced to the possession of the deceased and last seen there is not forthcoming on his death, it is presumed to have been destroyed by himself, animo revocandi. In such a case, the paper is revoked. This presumption will have an effect unless there is sufficient evidence to rebut it. The presumption will be more or less strong according to the character of the custody. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 24 (26): 24 Pat. 395 (DB). (Nature of evidence and inferences to be drawn in the case where both the parties fail to prove their respective story regarding destruction of will indicated.) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 All 175 (177) (DB).

[2] Loss of will does not operate as a revocation. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 24 (27) : 24 Pat 395 (DB).

3. Suit for cancellation of will.—[1] No suit for the cancellation of a will can lie so long as the testator is alive as he can, at any moment during his lifetime, cancel his will and make a totally different disposition of his property. ('05) 27 All 14 (15) (DB).

[See however ('91) 15 Bom 697 (701) (DB). (Will of a widow operating to defeat an award was declared invalid in so far as it operated to defeat the award.)]

1. Scope and applicability.
2. "Sign or affix his mark".
3. Will comprised of several sheets — Signature on.
4. "Shall affix his mark"
5. "Signed by some other person."
6. Proper attestation—What is.
7. Scribe as attesting witness.
8. Endorsement by Registrar.
9. "Has seen the testator sign."
10. Personal acknowledgment of his signature.
11. Proof of execution and attestation.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] This section merely lays down formalities required to be observed in execution and attestation of a will and does not concern itself with question of proof. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 78 (79) (DB).

[2] Unprivileged will can only be made in accordance with the provisions of S. 63. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 400 (402).

[3] Execution under S. 50 includes the testator's signature and the attestation by witnesses and so long as there is no attestation the will is not executed. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 337 (344) : 28 Oudh Cas 8 (DB). (Testator admitting execution and signing in witnesses' presence and witnesses signing is sufficient compliance with the section.) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 187 (188) (DB.)

[4] Will prepared under direction of testator — Attestors attest it and testator affixes his thumb mark in presence of attestators—Execution is complete. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 156 (157) : 45 Bom 989 (DB).

[5] Will executed without attesting witnesses and deposited in Registrar's office but taken out at Registrar's office ten years afterwards in presence of witnesses who signed same in proper places, sufficiently satisfies provisions of S. 50 and must be taken as having been executed and registered on same day. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 52 (60) (DB).

[6] This section applies to Hindu wills, hence no oral will could legally be made by a Hindu after January 1927. (1940) 42 Pun L R 326 (328) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 861 (868).

[See however (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1279 (1281) : 52 Mad 160. (Unattested will executed by Hindu outside Madras in 1922 held valid.)]

[7] Act applies even to wills made by Talukdars whose names are found in lists made for approval but not yet approved. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 24 (26) (PC).

2. 'Sign or affix his mark' — [1] The Act enables a testator to execute a will either by signing it or by making his mark and the fact that a person who can sign his name makes a mark would not affect the validity of the will. But in such a case the evidence as regards the execution should be scrutinised with great care. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 355 (355, 356) (DB).

[2] Where a person who was unable to read and write was in the habit of using a name stamp and the stamp used to be kept by a servant and under his directions, the servant used to attach it to any document, the execution of will by the name stamp under the master's orders was proper and came strictly within the meaning of the words used in S. 50 (1898) 25 Cal 911 (917) (DB).

3. Will comprised of several sheets—Signature on.—[1] Where will is wholly in handwriting of deceased and bears his signature on various pages thereof and alongside his signature on top of left-hand corner of first page are signatures of four witnesses and on each of other three pages, signatures of two out of those four persons, signature of testator on first page is operative signature by which he intends to make document effective. Witnesses put their signatures animo attestandi and will was properly executed by deceased. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 630 (632) (DB).

[2] Where each of the several sheets of a will is not signed or initialled but there is one signature at the end made with the intention of authenticating the whole instrument, such a signature is sufficient, though as a precaution against possible substitution each sheet may be initialled by the testator or the witnesses. But this is not essential and it will be presumed that all sheets were put together in the same order at the time of execution as at the testator's death. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 644 (646) (DB).

4. 'Shall affix his mark'.—[1] Unprivileged will is not duly executed under S. 50 where testator who cannot sign his name simply touches pen and hands it to some one to affix his mark. He should affix mark himself though he is allowed under S. 50 to get will signed for him by substitute. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 900 (901) : 40 Mad 550 (DB).

[See however (1896) 6 Mad L Jour 209 (210). (There is nothing in law to prevent one person asking another person to make a mark with the pen touched and handed over by the former in token of his having consented to enter into the contract. Execution of muchilika held valid.)]

[2] To constitute a direction it is not necessary that anything should be said. If a testator in making his mark is assisted by some other person and acquiesces and adopts it, it is just the same as if he had made it himself. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 756 (757) (DB)

5. 'Signed by some other person'. — [1] The words "some other person" mean some person other than any of the attesting witnesses. (1874) 11 Bom H C R 87 (88) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 900 (901) : 40 Mad 550 (DB) ✠ (1883) 9 Cal 226 (229) (DB).

[2] When an execution of a will by a person other than the testator in his presence and by his direction takes place, it is sufficient for that other to affix the signature of the testator himself. Section does not require that the other person executing the will under the direction of the testator must sign in his own name with sufficient indication to show that he has executed it under the testator's direction. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 436 (446, 447) : 57 Mad 979 (DB). (Per Krishnan Pandalai and Sundaram Chetty JJ., Pakenham Walsh J. Contra.)

[3] Provided the person who signs in the presence and by the direction of the testator at such a place that it will appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will, the provisions of the section are complied with, and it does not matter whether there are other words written by that person so long as those words do not destroy the effect of the signature. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 156 (157, 158) : 45 Bom 989 (DB).

6. Proper attestation—What is. — [1] When a comparison of the English Statute with the Indian Statute shows that there is no essential difference regarding what constitutes attestation there is no reason why English decisions should not be relied upon for coming to a conclusion as to what is meant by attestation under the Indian law. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 168 (175) : I L R (1944) 2 Cal 388.

[2] Attesting is more than merely signing on the will. It means signing a document for a particular purpose, the purpose being to testify to the signature of the executant. If it is shown that a person put his signature on a document not with the intention of attesting or witnessing the signature of the executant but also intuitu then such person cannot be deemed to be an attesting witness although he may have seen the executant sign the deed and although he may have signed in the presence of the executant. Therefore, even if a person sees the testator sign and signs the will after seeing the testator sign and in the presence of the testator he would not be an attesting witness unless he puts his signature on the will animo attestandi. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 168 (171, 173) : I L R (1944) 2 Cal 388 ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 367 (367). (Persons signing will in token of consent can be held to be attesting witnesses if other conditions are satisfied.)

[3] Will must be attested by two or more witnesses each of whom has either seen testa or sign or affix his mark to will or has received personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark from testator. Besides this, it is necessary that each of witnesses should sign will in presence of testator. It is not essential that more than one witness should be present at one and same time. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah. 3 (8, 9) : I L R (1944) Lah 495 (DB) ✠ (1881) 6 Cal 17 (19) (DB). (The two witnesses shall sign their names after the testator shall have signed his name on the paper.) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 861 (868). (Witnesses need not attest in each other's presence.) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal. 756 (757, 758) (DB) (Witnesses to a will need not be present at the same time.)

[4] Where the attesting witnesses affixed their initials at the time of witnessing the execution of the will, it was held, to be a sufficient attestation. (1892) 15 Mad 261 (264) (DB).

[5] Will is validly attested even either of two necessary attesting witnesses has merely affixed his mark to the will. (Vol 23) 1936 All. 576 (578): 58 All 1064 (FB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 389 (391, 392) (DB).

[But see (1885) 11 Cal 429 (432) (DB). (Case before the passing of General Clauses Act, 1897.)]

[6] A will after having been executed but without having been signed by any attesting witnesses was Incorporation of papers by reference.

64. If a testator, in a will or codicil duly attested, refers to any other document then actually written as expressing any part of his intentions, such document shall be deemed to form a part of the will or codicil in which it is referred to.

deposited in a sealed cover at the office of the Sub-Registrar—About ten years later, the executant went to the Sub Registrar's office, took out the will from the sealed cover and formally presented it for registration as a will and admitted its execution in the presence of attesting witnesses and these witnesses as well as the executant himself signed the document in proper places. Held that the above proceedings amounted to an attestation of the will sufficient to satisfy the requirements of S. 50. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 52 (60) (DB).

[7] A pleader signed the endorsement of presentation made on the cover as an identifier as required by S. 43, Registration Act. On the cover was a superscription in Oriya, signed by the testator where the testator said 'I do execute this last will.' Held, (Per Kulwant Sahay J.) that the pleader could be considered as an attesting witness. (Contra Per Macpherson J.) — That the pleader was purely a witness to the deposit of the will, was not asked by the testator to attest his will and had no animus attestandi. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 401 (403): 8 Pat 419 (DB).

[8] A will was executed by two executants who affixed their thumb impressions and against their thumb impressions one P signed on behalf of the executants. One K signed the will as a scribe and he stated that he read over the contents to the executants. He did not state under his signature that he attested the signature of the executants. The signature of one L also appeared on the will, but his signature was from the pen of K. and there was a mark below it. There was no evidence that this mark was by L. He was dead before proceedings were started in Court. Held, that the will was not properly attested. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 368 (369) (DB).

7. Scribe as attesting witness. — [1] Scribe may be attesting witness to will but it must be shown that signature of scribe was put down for purpose of attesting document. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 595 (596) (DB).

8. Endorsement by Registrar. — [1] Where a will bore an endorsement by the Sub-Registrar that the testatrix had admitted execution of the will to him, the endorsement was also signed by the testatrix, marking her mark "by the pen of the scribe" : Held that the signature of Sub-Registrar must be taken as an attestation and when so taken, the will must be held to be properly attested. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 402 (404) : 1 Pat 300 (DB).

[See also (1885) 11 Cal 429 (433) (DB).]

[2] The Registrar who endorses on the cover containing the will but does not sign it, and copies the superscription and endorsement and signs the same in his Register No. 5 as required by S. 43, Registration Act, is not an attesting witness. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 401 (403) : 8 Pat 419 (DB).

9. 'Has seen the testator sign.'—[1] Under the section, it is sufficient if attesting witnesses had clear view of testator at time of signing. They may not see that his fingers moved at the time. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 87 (92) (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 96 (102) (DB).

[2] Where at the time of signing will, testator and witness were in different rooms and there was no evidence on the record to show one could have seen other when he was signing declaration : Held that presumption cannot be made that testator and witness were in visual presence of each other while signing declarations. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 258 (259) : 3 Luck 482 (DB).

10. Personal acknowledgment of his signature. — [1] It is sufficient if testator makes attesting witnesses understand that paper which they attest is his will though they do not see him sign it (1913) 15 Bom L R 209 (216) (DB)✠(1846) 4 Moo P C 419 (442), Cooper v. Bockett ✠ (1900) 27 Cal 169 (171) (DB).

[2] A "personal acknowledgment" of execution need not necessarily be restricted to an express statement to that effect, but may include words or conduct, or both, on the part of the testator which may be construed unequivocally as such an acknowledgment. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1054 (1056) : 50 Mad 927 (FB).

11. Proof of execution and attestation. — [1] What the person propounding the will has got to prove is that the will was duly and validly executed and that must be done by not simply proving that the signature on the will was that of the testator but that the attestations were also properly made as required by cl. (c). It is not necessary to examine both or all the attesting witnesses but it does not follow therefrom that if one attesting witness only proves that the testator had acknowledged his signature to him, it is not necessary that the acknowledgment by the testator before the other attesting witness need be proved. All that it means is that if two witnesses had signed in each other's presence, it is not necessary to examine both of them to prove that they had received the acknowledgment from the testator. But if, the attestations to the testator's signature were not made at the same time, it is necessary to prove that both the persons who put down their attesting signatures on different occasions had done so on the acknowledgment of the testator. In such a case the will cannot be admitted to proof on the evidence of only one of the attesting witnesses. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 12 (16, 17) (DB).

[2] Where out of three only one attesting witness is available, the other two being dead, the fact that he may turn hostile does not excuse party producing document from duty of calling him. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 148 (150).

[3] Every presumption will be made in favour of due execution and attestation in the case of a will regular on the face of it and apparently duly executed. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 213 (222) (DB).

[4] If a will does not show attestation memo but there is signature of the testator at the foot and the subscription of two witnesses, then in the absence or death of the witnesses the first and the main presumption is that the testator signed in the joint presence of the witnesses and that they subscribed in his presence. If in the presence of witnesses who were all present in the assembly the testator signed the will and the circumstances show that the witnesses must have put their signatures in that assembly, the presumption arises that the will was duly executed. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 499 (501) (DB).

[1] A will was executed but not registered within one month as required by S. 13, Oudh Estates Act. Subsequently an addendum was made to it which referred to the will and explained it. The latter was duly executed, attested and registered. It was held that the former will, by virtue of S. 51, (now S. 64) formed the part of the later deed and was legally enforceable. (1902) 25 All 121 (126) : 30 Ind App 54 (PC).

CHAPTER IV.

OF PRIVILEGED WILLS.

Privileged wills.

65. Any soldier being employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [a][or an airman so employed or engaged,] or any mariner being at sea, may, if he has completed the age of eighteen years, dispose of his property by a will made in the manner provided in section 66. Such wills are called privileged wills.

Illustrations.

(i) A, a medical officer attached to a regiment, is actually employed in an expedition. He is a soldier actually employed in an expedition, and can make a privileged will.

(ii) A is at sea in a merchant-ship, of which he is the purser. He is a mariner, and, being at sea, can make a privileged will.

(iii) A, a soldier serving in the field against insurgents, is a soldier engaged in actual warfare, and as such can make a privileged will.

(iv) A, a mariner of a ship, in the course of a voyage, is temporarily on shore while she is lying in harbour. He is, for the purposes of this section, a mariner at sea, and can make a privileged will.

(v) A, an admiral who commands a naval force, but who lives on shore, and only occasionally goes on board his ship, is not considered as at sea, and cannot make a privileged will.

(vi) A, a mariner serving on a military expedition, but not being at sea, is considered as a soldier, and can make a privileged will.

[a] Inserted by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1927 (X [10] of 1927), S. 2 and Sch. I.

Mode of making, and rules for executing, privileged wills.

66. (1) Privileged wills may be in writing, or may be made by word of mouth.

(2) The execution of privileged wills shall be governed by the following rules:—

(a) The will may be written wholly by the testator, with his own hand. In such case it need not be signed or attested.

(b) It may be written wholly or in part by another person, and signed by the testator. In such case it need not be attested.

(c) If the instrument purporting to be a will is written wholly or in part by another person and is not signed by the testator, it shall be deemed to be his will, if it is shown that it was written by the testator's directions or that he recognised it as his will.

(d) If it appears on the face of the instrument that the execution of it in the manner intended by the testator was not completed, the instrument shall not, by reason of that circumstance, be invalid, provided that his non-execution of it can be reasonably ascribed to some cause other than the abandonment of the testamentary intentions expressed in the instrument.

(e) If the soldier, [a][airman] or mariner has written instructions for the preparation of his will, but has died before it could be prepared and executed, such instructions shall be considered to constitute his will.

(f) If the soldier, [a][airman] or mariner has, in the presence of two witnesses, given verbal instructions for the preparation of his will, and they have been reduced into writing in his lifetime, but he has died before the instrument could be prepared and executed, such instructions shall be considered to constitute his will, although they may not have been reduced into writing in his presence, nor read over to him.

[2] Where a deed poll of the same date is referred to in the will but not for the purpose of making or so as to make its contents a part of the will it does not come within this section. (1905) 29 Bom. 530 (564) : 32 Ind App 142 (PC).

[3] The testator of a will made three specific bequests and gave the residue of his estate to his son and appointed executors in the will. This will was written on three sides of a sheet of paper and the signature and attestation were at the bottom of the third side and the fourth side contained a schedule of the testator's landed property and particulars of some personal property, it was signed by him but the signature was unattested. The question before the Court was whether in construing the will and finding the meaning of the testator this schedule could be looked at : Held the document could be looked at if two conditions were satisfied, the first being that it must be clearly identified by the description given of it in the will, and secondly it must be shown to have been in existence at the time when the will was executed; as witnesses who were present at and attested the will had no recollection of seeing the schedule and could not give any explanation in regard to it, the document could not be looked into in this case. (1878) 3 App Cas 404 (414), Singlaton v. Tomlinson.

[1] A soldier under training cannot be said to be, in the absence of any other evidence, employed in an expedition, or engaged in actual warfare. A will made by him cannot be said to be a privileged will, within the meaning of S. 65. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 73 (74).

(g) The soldier [a][airman] or mariner may make a will by word of mouth by declaring his intentions before two witnesses present at the same time.

(h) A will made by word of mouth shall be null at the expiration of one month after the testator, being still alive, has ceased to be entitled to make a privileged will.

[a] Inserted by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1927 (10 [X] of 1927), S. 2 and Sch. I.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE ATTESTATION, REVOCATION, ALTERATION AND REVIVAL OF WILLS.

Effect of gift to attesting witness.

67. A will shall not be deemed to be insufficiently attested by reason of any benefit thereby given either by way of bequest or by way of appointment to any person attesting it, or to his or her wife or husband; but the bequest or appointment shall be void so far as concerns the person so attesting, or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under either of them.

Explanation. — A legatee under a will does not lose his legacy by attesting a codicil which confirms the will.

Witness not disqualified by interest or by being executor.

68. No person, by reason of interest in, or of his being an executor of, a will, shall be disqualified as a witness to prove the execution of the will or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof.

Revocation of will by testator's marriage.

69. Every will shall be revoked by the marriage of the maker, except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the property over which the power of appointment is exercised would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his or her executor or administrator, or to the person entitled in case of intestacy.

Explanation.—Where a man is invested with power to determine the disposition of property of which he is not the owner, he is said to have power to appoint such property.

[1] The reason for the prohibition contained in this section is not the incompetency to give evidence on the ground of interest which has ceased both in England and India to be a disqualification but it is the suspicion or rather the chance of possible collusion which is favoured by the prospect of benefit. The extension of the prohibition to the wife seems to rest on the unity of interest or temptation between the husband and wife. (1879) 4 Mad 244 (246).

[2] By S. 19, Oudh Estates Act, 1869, this section has been made applicable to all wills and codicils made by any Taluqdar in Oudh. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 465 (465, 466) (DB).

[3] Section 15, Wills Act (1 Vic. C. 26) strikes at beneficial legacies but does not affect those where the legatee is a trustee for the purpose of directing their disposition. (1868) 6 Eq 69 (74), Cresswell v. Cresswell.

[4] A bequest to an attesting witness is void whether or not the attestation of the witness is indispensable to the validity of the will. (1882) 4 Mad 244 (245, 246).

[5] Father making will and calling sons to sign it as token of consent to avoid quarrels among themselves — Sons, so signing, do not sign as attesting witnesses. (Vol 14) 1927 P. C. 248 (249) : 52 Ind. App. 1 : 2 Luck 640 (PC). ((Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 465 Affirmed.)&(Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 67 (76). (The mere fact that the word "gaw ashud" appears above their signature does not make them attesting witnesses.)

[See also (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 494 (507) : 5 Luck 305 (DB). (Acceptance of the will shown by the signature on it does not involve voidness of bequest in favour of the signing legatee.)]

[6] A presumption that the witnesses signed as attesting witnesses created by the position of the signature can be rebutted by parole evidence as to what actually occurred at the time of putting the signatures. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 248 (250) : 52 Ind App 1 : 2 Luck 640 (PC).

[7] Attesting witness taking no benefit under a devise at the time of attesting it but subsequently marrying a devisee under it — Marriage held, did not destroy the validity of the devise. (1881) 6 Q B D 311 (312), Thorpe v. Bestwick.

[8] Bequest to son of an attesting witness independently and not as person claiming under the attesting witness is not void. Section 67, has no application. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah. 292 (294).

[2] An ante-nuptial will executed by a woman having a foreign domicil where marriage does not revoke a will is not revoked by the acquisition of an English domicil by the woman and her husband subsequent to their marriage. (1904) L R 1904 P D 269 (272, 273), Jeanne Thedora Groos.

[3] A will is revoked by a second marriage even in cases where a second marriage is lawful e.g., in the case of Jews. (1876) 1 Cal 148 (149).

[4] Decree absolute for divorce was obtained by A and B in India on 27-11-1879. B went to England and there married with C on 3-2-1880—C executed a will on 6-2-1880—C and B again went through a second form of marriage on 2-4-1881 — Held that as the marriage

70. No unprivileged will or codicil, nor any part thereof, shall be revoked otherwise than by marriage, or by another will or codicil, or by some writing declaring an intention to revoke the same and executed in the manner in which an unprivileged will is hereinbefore required to be executed, or by the burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same by the testator or by some person in his presence and by his direction with the intention of revoking the same.

Revocation of unprivileged will or codicil.

Illustrations.

(i) A has made an unprivileged will. Afterwards, A makes another unprivileged will which purports to revoke the first. This is a revocation.

(ii) A has made an unprivileged will. Afterwards, A, being entitled to make a privileged will, makes a privileged will, which purports to revoke his unprivileged will. This is a revocation.

celebrated on 3-2-1880 was within 6 months of the date of divorce decree and was invalid as it offended the Indian Divorce Act IV [4] of 1869 and the will was revoked by the subsequent marriage celebrated on 2-4-1881. (1890) 15 P D 152 (156), Warter v. Warter.

[5] Where in a will made by a father there was, first of all a settlement on each daughter of the income of her share during her life, with remainder to her children or the other grandchildren of the testator as the lady should appoint and that for the moment as each share was so settled, the trusts in default of appointment were not declared but there was a clause that 'I have all my residuary estate that may not hereby or hereunder be effectually disposed of'. One of the daughters made a will in respect of her share whereby she created a trust in favour of her son. Subsequently she married again : Held that as the property, in default of appointment, could not have passed to the daughter's heirs etc., the will made by the daughter was not revoked by her second marriage. (1921) 2 Ch 1 (5), Trustee v. Pearce.

[6] Frenchwoman residing in England and making a will—Subsequent to the making of the will she marrying a French who came to England from France to escape from punishment in his country—Both husband and wife carrying a laundry business in England and investing sums in it—The husband returning to France after nearly twenty years: Held that the Frenchman acquired an English domicil and the ante-nuptial will was revoked by the French woman's marriage as the English law governed the matrimonial property. (1900) L R (1900) P D 211 (240), Loustalan v. Loustalan.

1. Another will or codicil—Revocation by.
2. "Some writing."
3. Tearing of will—Effect.
4. "Otherwise destroying."
5. Destruction of will by third party.
6. Intention to revoke — Evidence of.
7. Loss of will — Presumption arising from.
8. Burden of proving revocation.

1. Another will or codicil—Revocation by. — [1] Execution of wills on different dates—Subsequent instrument not professing to be a codicil but is adequate to the disposition of entire property. Subsequent instrument can be held to supplant prior instrument. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 759 (762, 763) (F B).

[2] Will and codicil made — Subsequent revocation of will—Codicil cannot be deemed an integral component of the will and the mere fact of the revocation of the will cannot operate to revoke the codicil. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 182 (184) (D B) ✠ (1873) 16 Eq 19 (23), Farrer v. St. Catharine's College Cambridge ✠ (1870) 2 P and D 78 (80), In the Goods of Savage.

[3] Where a testator authorised by his will his wife to adopt a son after his death and he made a second will which was silent as to the power : Held, that the power to adopt contained in the earlier will was unaffected. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 37 (39) : 43 Ind App 20 : 39 Mad 107 (P C).

[4] An alternative inconsistent subsequent disposition which is not valid or effectual in itself, does not revoke an earlier disposition of the same property. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 37 (39) : 43 Ind App 20 : 39 Mad 107 (P C).

[5] A Hindu testator executed three testamentary documents. By the first he divided his whole property equally among his six sons. By the second document he established a common cutcherry, the managers of which were to look after their estates even after the sons have attained majority and to distribute profits among the sons according to their shares. By a third document the sons were deprived from getting personal possession and restrictions as to alienation were imposed upon them : Held that the restrictions contained in the second and third document were invalid and inoperative as they barred the sons' right to claim possession and therefore, the first will remained unaffected by the subsequent wills. (1888) 15 Cal 409 (421) : 15 Ind App 37 (PC).

2. "Some writing"—[1] There can be no clearer evidence of revocation of will than a statement made by the testator himself in a registered document that he has cancelled the will, whether the document itself operates as cancellation or not — Section 70 does not apply to this revocation and the formalities required thereby also have no application. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 223 (224) (DB).

3. Tearing of will—Effect.—[1] Writing of word "cancelled" on will with date and signature by testator accompanied with tearing of will partially revokes will completely. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 400 (403) (SB).

[2] Where a will professed to be executed under seal and was published and attested as a sealed instrument, when the seal was torn off it ceased to be the instrument which the testator professed to execute and to publish to the attesting witnesses and through them to the world. (1858) 3 H & N 341 (506), Price v. Powell.

4. "Otherwise destroying."—[1] A very strict interpretation has been put upon the words "otherwise destroying." There must be an act of destruction and mere symbolical destruction is not sufficient. The destruction must be destruction with an intention to revoke and by some method ejusdem generis with those described in that proviso in the section. Both under the English and Indian Statute Law, cancellation appears to have ceased to be one of the ordinary modes of revocation. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 194 (197) : 52 Bom 653. (Where the testatrix had drawn two cross-lines on the first page of the will and wrote words. "This will is cancelled," but otherwise the will was intact Held, that the will could not be held to have been revoked)

71. No obliteration, interlineation or other alteration made in any unprivileged will after the execution thereof shall have any effect, except so far as the words or meaning of the will have been thereby rendered illegible or undiscernible, unless such alteration has been executed in like manner as hereinbefore is required for the execution of the will :

Effect of obliteration, interlineation or alteration in unprivileged will.

Provided that the will, as so altered, shall be deemed to be duly executed if the signature of the testator and the subscription of the witnesses is made in the margin or on some other part of the will opposite or near to such alteration, or at the foot or end of or opposite to a memorandum referring to such alteration, and written at the end or some other part of the will.

[2] The two elements which constitute revocation under this section are, (1) intention and (2) some outward act or symbol of intention. A defacement, obliteration or destruction without the animo revocandi is not sufficient. Neither is the intention, the animo revocandi, sufficient unless some act of obliteration or destruction is done. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 400 (403) (SB).

[3] Codicil written at foot of will—Testator revoking will by striking off his signature to the will but keeping the codicil intact—Proof of testator's wish to die intestate—Testator's intention, held was to revoke both will and codicil. (1883) 8 P. D. 169 (170), In the goods of Bleckley.

5. Destruction of will by third party.— [1] Verbal authority to third party to destroy will is sufficient to constitute revocation. (1878) 3 Cal 626 (643) : 4 Ind App 228 (PC).

6. Intention to revoke—Evidence of.— [1] If under S. 70, an expression of an intention by the testator to revoke the will is sufficient the statement by the testator in a subsequent registered document that he has actually cancelled the will is in itself sufficient to express such intention. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 223 (225) (DB).

[2] It is true that no particular formality is necessary under the law in the mofussil for showing an intention to revoke a will, but when an inference in favour of revocation is asked to be drawn from the conduct of the testator, the conduct must be such as to show that his mind was directed to the question whether the will was to remain in force or not and his conduct proceeded on the footing that the will was no longer to be in force. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 26 (26) (DB).

[3] Making various gifts during life time of part of the property included in the will does not amount to revocation of the will. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 934 (935).

7. Loss of will—Presumption arising from. — [1] That if a will, traced to the possession of the deceased, and last seen there, is not forthcoming on his death, it is presumed to have been destroyed by himself and that presumption must have effect unless there is sufficient evidence to repel it. (1836) 1 Moo P C 299 (302), Anna Maria Welch & Lucy Allenwelch v. Nathaniel Phillips ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 365 (367) (DB).

[2] Revocation—Presumption of destruction of will from non-tracing after possession of testator must be applied cautiously. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 111 (112) : 1915 Pun Re No. 93 (PC).

[3] The onus of rebutting the presumption of revocation lies on party propounding the will. (1836) 1 Moo P C 299 (302), Anna Maria Welch and Lucy Allen Welch v. Nathaniel Phillips.

8. Burden of proving revocation. — [1] When the due execution of will is proved in the manner required by law, it lies upon the objector to plead and prove revocation. If revocation is not pleaded, then the Court will not presume revocation from the fact that the will is not forthcoming. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 365 (368) (DB) ✠ (1870) 2 P & D 172 (176), Benson and Sankey v. Benson.

[2] The rule of the English law that a will with false attestations is void for all purposes when applied to Hindus does not go beyond this that the alteration in a will renders it invalid as the foundation of a suit by the party who has altered it or in whose custody it was when altered but that it does not render the instrument void for all purposes and the altered instrument may be used as proof of some right or title created by, or resulting from, its having been executed. (1884) 7 Mad 302 (303) (DB).

[3] This section applies only to alterations made after the execution of the will. Where the alterations made are unattested and the intention of the will is clear even without them and is not affected by them will as it originally stood without the unattested alterations will be admitted to probate. (1913) 19 Ind Cas 692 (693) (DB) (Lah)✠(1844-46) 4 Moo PC 419 (453):13 E R 365, Cooper v. Bockett✠(Vol 8) 1921 Cal 677(686): 47 Cal 1043 (DB). [4] T executing a will in 1894—In 1901 T handing over a copy of that will with various pencil alterations to W for custody—T by codicil confirming the copy-will as altered by him in pencil—Section 71 held did not apply as the alterations were made before the execution of the will and probate was granted of the copy-will with pencil alterations. (1902) 29 Cal 311 (313).

[5] Blank spaces in the body of a will do not themselves make the will invalid. (1892) 16 Bom 652 (655) (DB).

[6] Where the will appears to have been drawn up with great care and attention, and the Court has every reason to feel certain what the intention of the testator was on the day of execution, and the Court has no satisfactory information that the subsequent pencil alterations which the testator, in the wanderings of illness may have projected, were anything more than transient and deliberative, the Court should pronounce for the will without the pencil alterations. (1828) 1 Hagg 490 (498) : 162 E R 655, Edwards v. Astley.

[7] If there be any blemish in the deed by erasure or interlineation, the deed ought to be proved though it were above thirty years old, by the witnesses, if living, and if they be dead, by proving the hand of the witnesses, or at least one of them, and also the hand of the party, to encounter the presumption arising from the blemish of the deed and this ought more especially to be done, if the deed impute a fraud. (1844-46) 4 Moo P C 419 (451) : 13 E R 365, Cooper v. Bockett.

Revocation of privileged will or codicil.

72. A privileged will or codicil may be revoked by the testator by an unprivileged will or codicil, or by any act expressing an intention to revoke it and accompanied by such formalities as would be sufficient to give validity to a privileged will, or by the burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his direction, with the intention of revoking the same.

Explanation. — In order to the revocation of a privileged will or codicil by an act accompanied by such formalities as would be sufficient to give validity to a privileged will, it is not necessary that the testator should at the time of doing that act be in a situation which entitles him to make a privileged will.

Revival of unprivileged will.

73. (1) No unprivileged will or codicil, nor any part thereof, which has been revoked in any manner, shall be revived otherwise than by the re-execution thereof, or by a codicil executed in manner hereinbefore required, and showing an intention to revive the same.

(2) When any will or codicil, which has been partly revoked and afterwards wholly revoked, is revived, such revival shall not extend to so much thereof as has been revoked before the revocation of the whole thereof, unless an intention to the contrary is shown by the will or codicil.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF WILLS.

Wording of will.

74. It is not necessary that any technical words or terms of art be used in a will, but only that the wording be such that the intentions of the testator can be known therefrom.

[1] Where will is not a privileged will, S. 72 cannot apply to it. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 213 (221) (DB).

Section 73—Note 1

[1] The effect of confirming a will by codicil is to bring the will down to the date of the codicil and to effect the same disposition of testator's property as would have been effected if the testator had at the date of the codicil made a new will containing the same dispositions as in the original will but with the alterations introduced by the codicil. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 307 (308) (PC) ✠ (1904) 1 Ch. 726 (734), Lowther v. Frasher.

[2] A codicil duly made to pass a testator's real estates amounts to a republication of the will so as to make the will bear date with the codicil and to affect all the lands the testator had at the time of the making of the codicil. (1893) 1 Ch. 101 (110, 115), Dudley v. Champion.

SECTION 74 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Construction of will—General principles.
2. Technical words— Interpretation of.
3. Construction of wills by Hindu.

1. Construction of will— General principles.

[2] Clear and unambiguous dispositive words are not to be controlled or qualified by any general expression of intention. Technical words or words of known legal import must have their legal effect even though the testator uses inconsistent words, unless those inconsistent words, are of such a nature as to make it perfectly clear that the testator did not mean to use the technical terms in their proper sense. (1897) 24 Cal 834 (846) : 24 Ind App 76 (PC).

[3] The sound principle of construction is that where the language of a will is clear and consistent, it shall receive its literal construction unless there is something in the will itself to suggest departure from it. (1895) 18 Mad 347 (358) : 22 Ind App 119 (PC).

[4] Where there has been a devise or bequest of all a man's property, the generality of the disposition has not been held to be cut down unless the intention that it should be so cut down is clear. (1908) 31 Mad 283 (305) (DB).

[5] In the case of transfer by gift, a benignant construction is to be used and that if the real meaning of the document can be reasonably ascertained from the language used, though that language be ungrammatical or untechnical or mistaken as to name or description or in any other manner incorrect provided it sufficiently indicates what was meant, the meaning shall be enforced to the extent and in the form which the law allows. (1872) 18 Suth W R 359 (364) : Ind App (Sup) 47 (PC).

[6] A testator cannot, by the use of mere negative words unaccompanied by any effective disposition of property, alter the course of the law. (1880) 4 Bom 537 (543) (DB).

[7] Where a testator, in one part of his will, has recited that he had given a legacy to a certain person but it does not appear that any such legacy was given, the Court takes the recital as conclusive evidence of an intention to give by the will and fastening upon it, gives to the erroneous recital the effect of an actual gift. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 788 (791) (DB).

[8] Testator, after giving his wife a life-estate in his property by will authorised her to draw upon "current deposit accounts" for her maintenance and for working and maintenance of the property as "she may require" the words "as she may require" were held to mean as may be necessary and not as she may think fit. (1908) 31 Mad 283 (307) (DB).

2. Technical words — Interpretation of.—[1] A testator who writes his own will and is not a lawyer is not, in all cases, to be held to have rightly apprehended

75. For the purpose of determining questions as to what person or what property is denoted by any words used in a will, a Court shall inquire into every material fact relating to the persons who claim to be interested under such will the property which is claimed as the subject of disposition, the circumstances of the testator and of his family, and into every fact a knowledge of which may conduce to the right application of the words which the testator has used.

Inquiries to determine questions as to object or subject of will.

Illustrations.

(i) A, by his will, bequeaths 1,000 rupees to his eldest son or to his youngest grandchild, or to his cousin, Mary. A Court may make inquiry in order to ascertain to what person the description in the will applies.

(ii) A, by his will, leaves to B "my estate called Black Acre." It may be necessary to take evidence in order to ascertain what is the subject-matter of the bequest; that is to say, what estate of the testator's is called Black Acre.

(iii) A, by his will, leaves to B "the estate which I purchased of C." It may be necessary to take evidence in order to ascertain what estate the testator purchased of C.

the meaning of technical words which he may have used on the occasion of making his will; but a testator who uses words which have an intelligible conventional meaning is not to be held as having used the words with any other meaning unless the context of the instrument shows that he intended to do so. (1894) 1894 App Cas 310 (313), Hamilton v. Ritchie.

[2] Technical words shall have their legal effect, unless, from subsequent inconsistent words, it is very clear that the testator meant otherwise. Technical terms or words of known legal import should have their proper legal effect attributed to them, although the testator uses inconsistent terms or gives repugnant and impossible directions. To deprive the technical words of their appropriate sense, there must be sufficient to satisfy a judicial mind that they were meant by the testator to be used in some other sense, and to show what that sense is. (1913) 1 Ch. 552 (557), Evans v. Noton.

[3] The words "enjoy with son, grandson and so on in succession" are frequently used in Hindu wills and they have acquired the force of technical words conveying a heritable and alienable estate. (1897) 24 Cal 834 (849) : 24 Ind App 76 (PC).

[4] Testator bequeaths property to his wife by a will which provides "in trust and for her maintenance and support during her life" and appoints her his sole administratrix —Held, on construction that in using the words "in trust" the testator intended that she should enjoy the income of the property for life but that she should not be entitled to deal with the corpus. (1908) 31 Mad 283 (304) (DB).

[5] Indenture deed settling income of property on some person for life and giving him power of appointment. On default of appointment, upon trust and for the use of said trustees absolutely to be expended and used by them for such charitable purposes as they may think fit. Held on construction that having regard to the phrase following the word "absolutely" it cannot be said that the deed conferred an unfettered and unlimited interest on the persons designated as trustees. (1905) 29 Bom 375 (385) (DB).

3. Construction of wills by Hindu. — [1] The nature and extent of the testamentary disposition by Hindus is not governed by any analogy to the law of England. (1866) 10 Moo Ind App 279 (308) (PC).

[2] In construing the will of a Hindu it is not improper to take into consideration what are known to be the ordinary notions and wishes of Hindus with respect to the devolution of property. It may be assumed that a Hindu generally desires that an estate, especially an ancestral estate, shall be retained in his family and it may be assumed that a Hindu knows that, as a general rule, at all events, women do not take absolute estates of inheritance which they are enabled to alienate. (1841) 2 Ind App 7 (14, 15) (PC).

[3] Where the will of a Hindu testator among other things provided "If both the daughters have issue they shall divide the properties equally. Those who have no issue shall enjoy the income for their lives and those who have issue shall enjoy the whole property." Held, on construction, that the words "have issue" showed that the testator contemplates the existence of those having issue and the words did not mean those who "leave issue." Therefore one of the daughters who had a son born to her but who predeceased her, took his share absolutely and the share did not go over to her sister on her death. (1895) 18 Mad 347 (358) : 22 Ind App 119 (PC).

[4] Will of a Hindu father—Gift to daughter's and their respective sons and in the event of one of the daughters dying without leaving any male issue surviving, then the share of the deceased daughter is to go to the surviving daughter and her sons to the exclusion of female issues in both cases—The intention of the testator is to exclude daughters' daughters and the daughters take only a woman's estate. (1908) 35 Cal 896 (902) : 35 Ind App 118 (PC). (Principle in (1874-75) 2 Ind App 7 followed.)

[5] Where a Hindu, in a document of a testamentary character, after stating that the property was ancestral recites the death of his son, his own wife and further states : "Only D. K. widow .... of my deceased son .... who too, excepting her two daughters ... has no other heirs, is my heir". And further he goes on to say "except D. K. none other is nor shall be my heir and malik", "Further more to the said D. K. too, her two daughters .... together with their children, are and shall be heir and Malik". Held, that the will should be construed as meaning that D. K. should take not an absolute estate but an estate subject to her daughters succeeding her in that estate. (1874-75) 2 Ind App 7 (15) (PC).

[6] Deed purporting to be a deed of permission to adopt—Deed registered in life-time of its maker – Deed not containing any words of devise—Maker of deed not having any intention to dispose of his estate by it — Deed held did not amount to will. (1866) 10 Moo Ind App 279 (309) (PC).

[1] Even if the principle of S. 75 is to be applied to Hindu wills, it cannot be applied to a will executed in the mofussil to which the Hindu Wills Act does not apply. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 492 (493). (Will before 1927.)

[2] In all cases it is the primary duty of a Court to ascertain from the language of the testator what were his intentions and in so doing they are entitled and bound to bear in mind other matters than merely the

76. (1) Where the words used in a will to designate or describe a legatee or a class of legatees sufficiently show what is meant, an error in the name or description shall not prevent the legacy from taking effect.

Misnomer or misdescription of object.

(2) A mistake in the name of a legatee may be corrected by a description of him, and a mistake in the description of a legatee may be corrected by the name.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths a legacy to "Thomas, the second son of my brother John." The testator has an only brother named John, who has no son named Thomas, but has a second son whose name is William. William will have the legacy.

(ii) A bequeaths a legacy "to Thomas, the second son of my brother John." The testator has an only brother, named John, whose first son is named Thomas, and whose second son is named William. Thomas will have the legacy.

(iii) The testator bequeaths his property "to A and B, the legitimate children of C." C has no legitimate child, but has two illegitimate children, A and B. The bequest to B and A takes effect, although they are illegitimate.

(iv) The testator gives his residuary estate to be divided among "my seven children" and, proceeding to enumerate them, mentions six names only. This omission will not prevent the seventh child from taking a share with the others.

(v) The testator, having six grandchildren, makes a bequest to "my six grandchildren" and, proceeding to mention them by their Christian names, mentions one twice over omitting another altogether. The one whose name is not mentioned will take a share with the others.

(vi) The testator bequeaths "1,000 rupees to each of the three children of A." At the date of the will A has four children. Each of these four children will, if he survives the testator, receive a legacy of 1,000 rupees.

words used. They must consider the surrounding circumstances, the testator's position, his family relationships, the probability that he would use words in a particular sense and many other things including influences and aims arising from the race and religious opinions of the testator. But all this is solely as an aid to arriving at a right construction of the will and as soon as it is settled, the duty of the Court is to carry out the intentions as expressed and none other. ('14) 37 Mad 199 (221, 222) : 41 Ind App 51 (P C) ✠ ('13) 24 Mad L Jour 418 (422) (DB).

[3] That the native testators should be ignorant of the legal phrases proper to express their intentions or of the legal steps necessary to carry them into effect is one of the most important "surrounding circumstances" which the Court must bear in mind and it is justified in refusing to allow defects in expression to prevent the carrying out of the testator's true intentions. ('14) 37 Mad 199 (222, 223) : 41 Ind App 51 (P C).

[4] Courts should not enter into an enquiry regarding external circumstances to gather the intention of the testator when the language of the document is clear. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 759 (763) (FB) ✠ ('10) 12 Bom L R 863 (865) ✠ (1867) 3 Ch App 420 (424), Hensman v. Fryer.

[See also (1902) 1902 App Cas 1 (10, 11), Higgins v. Dawson. (Extrinsic evidence cannot be admitted to enable the Courts to construe a difficult will where the words themselves require no interpretation, but the difficulty is only in the construction of the sentence in which the words occur.)]

[5] It is not proper to admit extrinsic evidence of testator's intention in a case in which the difficulty created by the use of a particular expression can be solved by adopting a construction bespeaking a reasonable and probable intention and rejecting that which indicates an intention unreasonable, capricious and inconsistent with the testator's views as evidenced by his conduct and by the dispositions of will which are not open to controversy : ('88) 15 Cal 725 (749) : 15 Ind App 127 (P C). (Testator, a taluqdar leaving two childless widows bequeathing to "Maharani Sahiba" his entire estate and giving power to the same to adopt a son to him : Held no extrinsic evidence was admissible to show whether the testator referred to elder widow or both—Abbott v. Middelton, (1858) 7 H L C 389, Foll.)

[6] Hindu testator had a son J by Mahomedan wife, J was brought up as a Hindu and married a Hindu lady from whom he had a son B. J also had four sons by his Mahomedan mistress. The testator's will provided "J, though illegitimate, he being my son it is incumbent on me to provide for him and his (aulad) issue and that certain amount should be paid to him and his (aulad) issue for generation after generation so long as the family of J and his (aulad) issue remain in existence": Held the construction and evidence that the word "aulad" meant only legitimate children and that intention of testator was to treat J's marriage with Hindu lady as valid and the issue of that marriage as legitimate issue. ('14) 36 All 101 (122, 123) : 41 Ind App 1 (P C).

[7] Testator adopting B—Testator executing a document which provided "I place all my property in the possession of my wife to be enjoyed by her during her life time and to appropriate the profits therefrom but she is not to sell the property and after her death the estate is to devolve on B—B giving consent to the deed": Held, on considering the instrument together with the surrounding circumstances which are proper to be regarded, that it was in the nature of a family settlement which gave to the testator's wife an estate for life and not a widow's estate and to B a vested remainder on her death. ('76) 1 Cal 104 (104) : 2 Ind App 256 (PC).

[8] Where a testator directed that a certain pecuniary legacy be entrusted to one H to be disposed of by him in accordance with instructions given by testator to one of his trustees and that his share in a certain company be transferred to the person whose name will be disclosed by H and the intended beneficiary filed a suit praying that H might be ordered to disclose the trust : Held that a parol evidence was admissible to prove the trust. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 10 (14) : 40 Bom 1.

[1] The distinction between what is description only and what is the reason or motive of a gift or bequest may often be very fine, but it is a distinction which must be drawn from a consideration of the language and the surrounding circumstances. ('85) 11 Cal 463 (484) : 12 Ind App 72 (P C).

When words may be supplied.

77. Where any word material to the full expression of the meaning has been omitted, it may be supplied by the context.

The testator gives a legacy of "five hundred" to his daughter A and a legacy of "five hundred rupees" to his daughter B. A will take a legacy of five hundred rupees.

[2] There is a maxim that names shall prevail against an error of demonstration. But it must first be shown that there was an error of demonstration and the rule does not apply till it was shown. But there is no presumption in favour of the name more than of the demonstration. (1860) 8 H L C 172 (179), Drake v. Drake.

[3] Extrinsic evidence as to testator's intention is admissible when the description in the will is equally applicable to two or more persons but imperfectly descriptive of each of them. (1916) 1 Ch 461 (465), Cant v. Johnstone.

[See also (1908) 2 Ch 111 (116), King v. Winn. [4] Bequest to B whom the testator referred to as "his wife" Though marital tie between B and the testator was motive of bequest yet if it was not proved bequest can be treated as made to B as persona designata. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 830 (832) (DB).

[5] T, by first will settling his property on his aurasa son K — Second and third will confirming his intention to give his property to his aurasa son K — K not a natural son of T — Held that there is a gift by will to K and the gift is not vitiated by false description. ('99) 22 Mad 383 (391) : 26 Ind App 83 (PC).

[6] Bequest to wife for her life and then to L testator's "adopted son" — Wife predeceasing testator — Adoption not proved : Held as there was nothing in the will to show that adoption was motive or reason for the gift the bequest was valid and L took as persona designata. ('09) 31 All 5 (6) (DB) ✠ ('01) 24 Mad 214 (218) : 27 Ind App 162 (PC).

[7] Testatrix adopting H, a daughter of N— Subsequently testatrix giving her property to H by will—H, a near relation of testatrix—In will sometimes the phrase 'adopted daughter' occurs and sometimes it does not occur in relation to the name H —Adoption invalid— On construction held that H was not to take the property under the will as being the adopted daughter but H was the adopted daughter and was to take the property because she was the special object of testatrix's bounty, (i. e. persona designata). ('13) 37 Bom 116 (121) (DB).

[8] If there be a conveyance of real estate described in general terms followed by a definite and specific enumeration of particulars, as by schedule with or without plan, which enumeration omits something which might otherwise have been covered by the general description, then the designation by schedule and plan would not be read as an imperfect enumeration to be disregarded as "false demonstration" but as restrictive of the prior general description. So in a will if there be not a schedule and plan but an equivalent specific enumeration of particulars by name and locality, that specific enumeration must be held to limit and restrict what has gone before. (1908) 1 Ch 185 (196), Dawes v. Miller.

[1] A will ought to be read, if possible, so as to lead to a testacy and not an intestacy. (1885) 30 Ch D 390 (394), In re Harrison; Turner v. Hellard. (Will prepared by filling up blanks in a common printed form — Executrix leaving certain blanks unfilled and not cancelled — Will capable of being read so as to give a gift to a particular individual : Held that the will was to be read in that sense.)

[2] Where it is clear on the face of a will that the testator has not accurately or completely expressed his meaning by the words he has used, and it is also clear what are the words which he has omitted, those words may be supplied in order to effectuate the intention, as collected from the context. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 64 (66). (Abbott v. Middleton (1858) 7 H L C 68, Rel. on.)

[3] Where there is an uncertainty as to the meaning of any part of a will, the Court of construction has a right even to introduce words in case of necessity but the power of this kind must necessarily be very cautiously exercised, not merely on a conjectural hypothesis of a testator's intention however reasonable in opposition to the plain and obvious sense of the language of the instrument. (1858) 7 H L C 68 (81), Abbott v. Middleton. (Words 'in the event of my son dying before his mother' interpreted as in case he dies "issueless" before his mother.)

[4] Where the main purpose and intention of the testator are ascertained to the satisfaction of the Court, if particular expressions are found in the will which are inconsistent with such intentions, such expressions must be discarded or modified, and, on the other hand, if the will shows that the testator must necessarily have intended an interest to be given which there are no words in the will expressly to devise, the Court is to supply the defect by implication, and thus to mould the language of the testator, so as to carry into effect, as far as possible, the intention which it is of opinion, that the testator has on the whole will sufficiently declared. (1886) 33 Ch D 198 (206), Mellore v. Daintree.

[5] The Court is not to introduce and interpolate unnecessarily words in a will, nor even to give a construction to any clause of a will contrary to what the plain words import, without an absolute necessity by intention declared or carried in some other part of the will. (1858) 7 HLC 68 (88), Abbott v. Middleton. (Per Lord Cranworth.)

[6] The will of a Hindu testator ran: "After twenty years from my death my sons will be at liberty to divide the family business but before that my sons will be incompetent to divide the business. I have appointed my eldest son to carry on the business but before the lapse of twenty years from my death, neither he nor any of my other sons shall acquire any rights therein." Held that the words "rights therein" meant the rights of immediate enjoyment and that the testator gave the property to his sons in equal shares but postpones their separate enjoyment for twenty years. Such a restriction being repugnant to gifts was invalid. ('75) 1 Cal 104 (107, 108) : 2 Ind App 256 (P C).

[7] Will, after appointing testators' brother as executor and directing him to pay debt and the maintenance of his wife and to make over the estate to his son when he comes of age, proceeded "but if my minor sons should

Rejection of erroneous particulars in description of subject.

78. If the thing which the testator intended to bequeath can be sufficiently identified from the description of it given in the will but some parts of the description do not apply, such parts of the description shall be rejected as erroneous, and the bequest shall take effect.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L but had no marsh-lands in the occupation of X. The words "in the occupation of X" shall be rejected as erroneous, and the marsh-lands of the testator lying in L will pass by the bequest.

(ii) The testator bequeaths to A "my zamindari of Rampur." He had an estate at Rampur but it was a taluq and not a zamindari. The taluq passes by this bequest.

When part of description may not be rejected as erroneous.

79. If a will mentions several circumstances as descriptive of the thing which the testator intends to bequeath, and there is any property of his in respect of which all those circumstances exist, the bequest shall be considered as limited to such property, and it shall not be lawful to reject any part of the description as erroneous, because the testator had other property to which such part of the description does not apply.

Explanation.—In judging whether a case falls within the meaning of this section, any words which would be liable to rejection under section 78 shall be deemed to have been struck out of the will.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L, some of which were in the occupation of X, and some not in the occupation of X. The bequest will be considered as limited to such of the testator's marsh-lands lying in L as were in the occupation of X

(ii) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X, comprising 1,000 bighas of lands." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L some of which were in the occupation of X and some not in the occupation of X. The measurement is wholly inapplicable to the marsh-lands of either class, or to the whole taken together. The measurement will be considered as struck out of the will, and such of the testator's marsh-lands lying in L as were in the occupation of X shall alone pass by the bequest.

Extrinsic evidence admissible in cases of patent ambiguity.

80. Where the words of a will are unambiguous, but it is found by extrinsic evidence that they admit of applications, one only of which can have been intended by the testator, extrinsic evidence may be taken to show which of these applications was intended.

die and my daughter should get married and a grandson be born, then on the said grandson's attaining majority you will give him half of my share and give half to your son etc." Held that the direction to make over the estate to the son when he comes of age has the effect of a gift to him to take effect at that time and the words "if my minor son dies" in order to be consistent with that must mean dies during minority. ('90) 17 Cal 122 (127) : 16 Ind App 166 (P C).

[1] Where some subject-matter is devised as a whole under a denomination which is applicable to the entire land and then that description is followed by words which are added on the principle of enumeration but which do not exhaust all the particulars, then the entirety, which has been expressly and definitely given, shall not be prejudiced by an imperfect and inaccurate enumeration of the particulars. ('94) 18 Bom 283 (288) (DB).

[2] A testator willed away his farm "in Little Bentley and Little Bromley in occupation of Mr. G and purchased by me from one T." Actually only a part of the farm was purchased from T. The remaining parts being purchased from one N : Held the words "purchased from T" ought to be treated as being in the nature not of a definition or restriction but of explanatory comment and as they do not fit the farm which was in G's occupation they should be disregarded. (1919) 1 Ch 297 (305, 306), Norman v. Norman.

[3] Bequest of all that part of R estate purchased by testator consisting of six closes (named therein) to trustees in trust for his son J for life with remainder to the use of J's children as he would by his will appoint. —J by his will appointing all property devised by his father's will and described as that part of R estate purchased by his father but mentioning only four closes to his two sons —The omitted closes lay between the other closes : Held the estate was sufficiently described in J's will and mention of four closes being fasla demonstratio could be rejected — That J's sons were entitled to all the closes. (1876) 6 Ch D 436 (444, 445), Travers v. Blundell.

[1] Where a given subject is devised and these are found two species of property, the one precisely corresponding to the description in the devise and the other not completely answering thereto, the latter will be excluded. ('11) 33 All 66 (67) (D B).

Section 80 — Note 1

[1] The question was whether evidence was admissible to show that, having regard to the intention of the testator as expressed in the will, the name "K. N. Godbole" applied to "K. G. Godbole" : Held that the case was not covered by S. 80, but applying principles of English law as principles of equity, justice and good conscience evidence could be taken to show circumstances, habits and state of testator's family including names of his friends. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 496 (496).

Illustrations.

(i) A man, having two cousins of the name of Mary, bequeaths a sum of money to "my cousin Mary". It appears that there are two persons, each answering the description in the will. That description, therefore, admits of two applications, only one of which can have been intended by the testator. Evidence is admissible to show which of the two applications was intended.

(ii) A, by his will, leaves to B "my estate called Sultanpur Khurd". It turns out that he had two estates called Sultanpur Khurd. Evidence is admissible to show which estate was intended.

Extrinsic evidence inadmissible in case of patent ambiguity or deficiency.

81. Where there is an ambiguity or deficiency on the face of a will, no extrinsic evidence as to the intentions of the testator shall be admitted.

Illustrations.

(i) A man has an aunt, Caroline, and a cousin, Mary, and has no aunt of the name of Mary. By his will he bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "my aunt, Caroline" and 1,000 rupees to "my cousin, Mary" and afterwards bequeaths 2,000 rupees to "my before-mentioned aunt, Mary". There is no person to whom the description given in the will can apply, and evidence is not admissible to show who was meant by "my before-mentioned aunt, Mary". The bequest is, therefore, void for uncertainty under section 89.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to leaving a blank for the name of the legatee. Evidence is not admissible to show what name the testator intended to insert.

(iii) A bequeaths to B rupees, or "my estate of ". Evidence is not admissible to show what sum or what estate the testator intended to insert.

Meaning of clause to be collected from entire will.

82. The meaning of any clause in a will is to be collected from the entire instrument, and all its parts are to be construed with reference to each other.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator gives to B a specific fund or property at the death of A, and by a subsequent clause gives the whole of his property to A. The effect of the several clauses taken together is to vest the specific fund or property in A for life, and after his decease in B; it appearing from the bequest to B that the testator meant to use in a restricted sense the words in which he describes what he gives to A.

(ii) Where a testator having an estate, one part of which is called Black Acre, bequeaths the whole of his estate to A, and in another part of his will bequeaths Black Acre to B, the latter bequest is to be read as an exception out of the first as if he had said "I give Black Acre to B, and all the rest of my estate to A".

[1] The words of the will were "I direct that my executor and trustee shall disburse various petty pensions to some poor persons mentioned by me." There is a deficiency, on the face of the will, as to the objects of this bequest and no extrinsic evidence can be admitted as to the intention of the testator. ('92) 15 Mad 448 (474).

[2] A made a will of her property on a printed will and left blank spaces naming therein certain specified legacies and the name of the executor. A was illegitimate and had no issue or "next of kin". The Crown claimed the residue of the estate by escheat and after admitting part of evidence on behalf of the executor it was held that the executor was entitled to hold the estate for his own benefit as the effect of the blanks left by the testatrix on a printed form was quite conceivable to be the belief that in doing so the executor would be entitled to the residue. (1886) 31 Ch D 460 (465), Camp v. Coe.

[3] The circumstance that blank spaces were left in the body of it is no valid objection to its being a will. ('92) 16 Bom 652 (655) (D B).

[1] In the interpretation of the will, made by taluqdar, Court must be guided by the rules of construction laid down in Ss. 82 and 87, Succession Act 1925, as these rules are applicable to bequest made by talukdars. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 198 (202): 10 Luck 606 (DB).

[2] The primary rule of construing a document in the nature of a will is that the meaning of any clause is to be collected from the entire instrument and all its parts are to be construed with reference to each other. The general words may be understood in a restricted sense where it may be collected from the will that the testator meant to use them in a restricted sense and it is only when two clauses in a will are so absolutely irreconcilable that they cannot stand together the latter of the two clauses shall prevail the theory being that the testators may have changed his mind. ('91) 14 Mad 65 (71) (D B) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 282 (286) : 49 Bom 478 (D B).

[3] There are two cardinal principles in the construction of wills, deeds and other documents. The first is that clear and unambiguous dispositive words are not to be controlled or qualified by any general expression of intention. The second is that technical words or words of known legal import must have their legal effect even though the testator uses inconsistent words unless those inconsistent words are of such a nature as to make it perfectly clear that the testator did not mean to use the technical terms in their proper sense. ('97) 24 Cal 834 (846) : 24 Ind App 76 (P C) ✠ ('08) 31 Mad 283 (304) (D B).

[4] Where a father appeared to make a gift of an absolute estate in the will to his sons, but some words which occurred subsequently in relation thereto plainly showed that what was given was no more than an estate for life, inspite of the fact that the subsequent provisions in the will for the grand-children on the death of the legatees failed (as none of the grand-children were in existence), the will conferred only a life estate on the sons. ('05) 28 Mad 386 (389) (D B).

[5] If a widow is designated as a malik or permanent malik in a will, that by itself is not sufficient to justify a Court construing the will to conclude that the inten-

General words may be understood in a restricted sense where it may be collected from the will that the testator meant to use them in a restricted sense; and words may be understood in a wider sense than that which they usually bear, where it may be collected from the other words of the will that the testator meant to use them in such wider sense.

(i) A testator gives to A "my farm in the occupation of B", and to C "all my marsh-land in L". Part of the farm in the occupation of B consists of marsh-lands in L, and the testator also has other marsh-lands in L. The general words, "all my marsh-lands in L," are restricted by the gift to A. A takes the whole of the farm in the occupation of B, including that portion of the farm which consists of marsh-lands in L.

(ii) The testator (a sailor on ship-board) bequeathed to his mother his gold ring, buttons and chest of clothes, and to his friend, A (a shipmate), his red box, clasp-knife and all things not before bequeathed. The testator's share in a house does not pass to A under this bequest.

(iii) A, by his will, bequeathed to B all his house-hold furniture, plate, linen, china, books, pictures and all other goods of whatever kind; and afterwards bequeathed to B a specified part of his property. Under the first bequest, B is entitled only to such articles of the testator's as are of the same nature with the articles therein enumerated.

Which of two possible constructions preferred.

No part rejected, if it can be reasonably construed.

tion of the testator was to confer an absolute estate on her, and similarly it would be an incorrect mode of construction to accept such a clause as conferring an absolute estate and then to eliminate one by one all subsequent clauses indicating testator's intention to limit the widow's estate as void for repugnancy. This mode of interpretation contravenes S. 82 read with S. 87. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 199 (205) (D B).

[1] When used in a will principal money means all the capital that the testator possessed and a 'gift of principal money by will' means a universal disposition of all his monies worth, that is a bequest of all personal property. The words cannot be extended to the real estate. (1870) 11 E Q 232 (235), Prichard v. Prichard.

[2] A testator's will contained the following provision 'I give and bequeath unto my wife monies in Bank securities, my house-hold furniture and effects of whatever nature and kind I may be possessed at the time of my decease'. It was held that the word "effects" must receive a more limited interpretation and must be confined to articles ejusdem generis with those specified in the preceding part of the sentence. (1806) 13 Ves. 39 (46): 33 E R 209, Rawlings v. Jennings.

[1] A by an "anumatipatra" permitted after his death his two wives to adopt "three sons successively" that is one after another, it was held that the authority intended his widows to do what the law allowed and not to do something which if not absolutely illegal was very unusual and not practiced among Hindus and that a fair and reasonable interpretation of the anumatipatra was that it did not contemplate simultaneous adoption by widows but successive adoptions in accordance with rules of law as now established and as established at the time when the document came into existence. ('12) 39 Cal. 582 (586) (DB) ✠ ('12) 16 Cal L Jour 304 (308) (DB).

[2] An earlier clause in a will stated "you must adopt for me a boy you like from the children that may be born in the families of my brother." Later on the testator mentioned "the object of this will is that you should adopt for me any suitable boy." It was held that the choice of the boy was restricted to the boys from brother's family as any other interpretation would be imputing to the testator's expressed intention and thus importing him an intention to contradict himself. ('91) 14 Mad. 65 (69) (DB).

[3] Testator leaving direction in the will that his daughter-in-law should adopt K in the following words: "There is my nephew M's son K. He is about nine years of age. It is my wish to adopt him as my son. If I should not be able to do so in my lifetime then my son L's widow is to take the said K in adoption:" Held that it was a direction to adopt a son to her husband and herself and not to the testator which she was not entitled to do according to law. ('88) 12 Bom 185 (199).

[1] In construing the will of an exceedingly illiterate man the rules of grammar and the usual meaning of technical language may be disregarded but the Court cannot strike out from his will any word which, standing where it is, has a clear and definite operation in the disposal of his property. (1861) 9 H L 420 (427) : 11 E R 791, Hall v. Warren.

[2] Under this section no part of a will is to be rejected as destitute of meaning if it is possible to put a reasonable construction upon it. Thus where a will by a Parsi provided that in case his son dies issueless, son's widow should be excluded from getting any share in the property and the son died issueless it was held that his widow was excluded from any share whether as heir of her husband or otherwise. (Vol 6) 1919 Sind 4 (5) : 14 Sind L R 203.

Testator's intention to be effectuated as far as possible.

87. The intention of the testator shall not be set aside because it cannot take effect to the full extent, but effect is to be given to it as far as possible.

Illustration.

The testator by a will made on his death-bed bequeathed all his property to C D for life and after his decease to a certain hospital. The intention of the testator cannot take effect to its full extent, because the gift to the hospital is void under section 118, but it will take effect so far as regards the gift to C D.

The last of two inconsistent clauses prevails.

88. Where two clauses or gifts in a will are irreconcilable, so that they cannot possibly stand together, the last shall prevail.

Illustrations.

(ii) If a man at the commencement of his will gives his house to A, and at the close of it directs that his house shall be sold and the proceeds invested for the benefit of B, the latter disposition will prevail.

writer. But the circumstance however that there is no such thing as punctuation properly so called in native writings but merely a practice by no means general which has grown up of making a dot to denote to end a sentence, gives the existence of a dot a special importance which the Court may take note of without any risk. ('88) 12 Bom. 202 (214).

[4] Testator making various gifts of immovable property to various persons one amongst them being to his widowed daughter-in-law for her maintenance — Will wound up with a general clause that all the gifts were made absolute — Contention that the general clause could not apply to the gift to the widow for the reason that the testator who gifted the property for maintenance could not have intended to give the widow more than a life estate: Held that the general clause removed the ambiguity in all cases and that it was not necessary to strike out or alter a material word in any one of the special clauses in order to give effect to the several devices and that therefore the widow also took absolutely the land gifted to her in the will. ('08) 31 Mad. 349 (353).

[5] The material words of a will were: My self-acquired property the aforesaid houses by the three devisees from generation to generation (Vamsa Paramparai) unitedly (or jointly — "Egopithu") the survivors surviving without power of gift etc., or sale shall be enjoyed — Contention by plaintiff that the word "Egopithu" only meant harmoniously or unitedly and was not a word of limitation: Held that the word "Egopithu" should be given effect to in reading the will and so reading the will was held to establish a line of descent unknown to law. ('09) 5 Mad L Tim 103 (104, 105).

[3] In construing a Hindu will benignant construction is to be used and if the real meaning of the document can be reasonably ascertained from the language used, though the language is ungrammatical or untechnical, or mistaken as to name or description or in any other manner incorrect, provided it sufficiently indicates what was meant, that meaning shall be enforced to the extent and in the form which the law allows. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 284 (286) (D B) ✠ ('72) 18 Suth W R 359 (364) : Ind App (Sup) 47 (PC).

[4] Where in a will, there is no gift in so many words and an intention to make a gift can be gathered from the provisions in certain and definite shares effect should be given to the general prevailing intention, however imperfectly and obscurely indicated if discovered by a fair and liberal construction of the language of the will and if allowed by law. [7] The gift by a testator if there be any must be found either in express words or by implication. Where a testator declares that a person has right independent of will a mere recital to that effect in the will is no evidence of intention to gift nor is there gift by implication. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 788 (791) (DB).

[1] The general rule is that if there be a repugnancy, the first words in a deed and the last words in a will, shall prevail. But this rule has no application when the supposed inconsistencies are found in one and the same provision. ('05) 29 Bom 375 (381) (DB).

Will or bequest void for uncertainty.

89. A will or bequest not expressive of any definite intention is void for uncertainty.

If a testator says "I bequeath goods to A," or "I bequeath to A," or "I leave to A all the goods mentioned in the Schedule" and no Schedule is found, or "I bequeath 'money,' 'wheat,' 'oil,'" or the like, without saying how much, this is void.

[3] 'The executors shall get a Shivas temple erected at reasonable cost in a suitable plan in my baithakkhana' was sufficiently definite to constitute valid bequest, while a bequest that 'the executors shall spend the residue on proper and just acts for the testator's benefit' was held void for uncertainty as the words give the executors authority to dispose of an indefinite surplus in an indefinite manner. Precatory trusts.

[4] A direction or trust in favour of a third party will be regarded as binding and obligatory where such a binding obligation can be clearly ascertained from the will. A mere wish or desire or confidence or hope on the part of the testator that the donee of the fund should or would or ought to or is expected to apply it for the benefit of other persons will not be enforced or treated as obligatory. ('99) 23 Bom 1 (10). (Gift to D for life "she thereout maintaining educating and bringing up the children of the testator' : Held, that the widow took a life interest but subject to the obligations of maintaining, educating and bringing up the children and that this obligation was absolved from the time that the children were not in need of being maintained by D.) ✠ (1895) 2 Ch 370 (374), In re Hamilton; Trench v. Hamilton.

[5] In the case of precatory trusts the words of gift used by the testator must be such that the Court finds them to be imperative on the first taker of the property and the subject of the gift over must be well defined and certain. If there is uncertainty as to the amount or nature of the property that is given over a difficulty in the execution of the trust arises because the Court cannot know on what property to lay its hands. The uncertainty in the subject of the gift will have a reflex action upon the previous words and throw doubts upon the intentions of the testator as his words of appeal to the conscience of the first taker would not show that he intended them to be imperative. ('82) 4 All 500 (510).

[6] A will after appointing three persons as executors said "you should give my brothers, their wives and children according to your wishes' : Held that these words merely gave a discretionary power to the executors and that they did not create a power in the nature of a trust. ('83) 9 Mad 325 (330).

[7] A will which commenced with 'I desire M to pay every month my dependants and personal servants" and also contained the words: "Be it known that the expenses of imambara etc. will be continued for ever" and "the pay of G and A will be defrayed for ever and the rest of the servants will be paid only for life" constituted a bequest and not merely the expression of a wish or a direction ('82) 8 Cal 1 (6) : 8 Ind App 117 (PC).

2. Bequests for charitable purposes. — [1] In a will the testator directed his trustees to divide his estate to charitable religious institutions and the testator had not given a class from which he allowed his trustees to select individually but had left directions so vague that it was in effect giving some one else power to make a will for himself. Law will not allow this and the bequest is void. (1905) 1905 App Cas 124 (126), Grimond v. Grimond ✠ ('02) 26 Bom 632 (636). (Where a testator had made a gift by a clause in his will to "some one or more charitable, educational or other philanthropic institution," it was held the gift in question is not a good gift.)

[See however ('08) 30 All 111 (115) (D B). (An endowment for "charitable purpopes" (पुण्य) punya) alone that is for charity generally will always be carried out notwithstanding that the objects of charity are not specifically defined. The Court can if necessary in such a case settle a scheme for its proper administration.)]

3. Bequests for 'dharma.'—[1] A bequest for "dharma" "khairat", etc., is void for uncertainty. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 127 (127) ✠ (('99) 23 Bom 725 : 26 Ind App 71 (P C), Followed.) ('99) 23 Bom. 725 (735) : 26 Ind App 71 (P C).

[But see ('07) 30 Mad 340 (344) (DB). (Per Subramania Iyer J.)]

[2] The dedication of property by will for "dharma kriya" in connexion with death is for a definite object and not void for uncertainty. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 191 (193) : 54 Bom 358.

4. Devisee's right to choose. — [1] If a man devises two acres out of four acres that lie together this is a good devise and the devisee shall select his portion of land. ('95) 18 Mad 460 (462) (DB).

[2] A testator who by his will intends to give a particular property to the legatee and owing to the testator having several properties answering the description in the will of the particular property given the Court is unable to say either from the will itself or from extrinsic evidence which of the several properties the testator referred to then on principle the gift must fail for uncertainty and the Court cannot in order to avoid intestacy change the will or construe it as giving to the legatee the option of choosing any one of the properties. (1894) 3 Ch 260 (263), Asten v. Asten.

Words describing subject refer to property answering description at testator's death.

90. The description contained in a will of property, the subject of gift, shall, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, be deemed to refer to and comprise the property answering that description at the death of the testator.

Power of appointment executed by general bequest.

91. Unless a contrary intention appears by the will, a bequest of the estate of the testator shall be construed to include any property which he may have power to appoint by will to any object he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power; and a bequest of property described in a general manner shall be construed to include any property to which such description may extend, which he may have power to appoint by will to any object he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power.

Implied gift to objects of power in default of appointment.

92. Where property is bequeathed to or for the benefit of certain objects as a specified person may appoint or for the benefit of certain objects in such proportions as a specified person may appoint, and the will does not provide for the event of no appointment being made; if the power given by the will is not exercised, the property belongs to all the objects of the power in equal shares.

Illustration.

A, by his will, bequeaths a fund to his wife, for her life, and directs that at her death it shall be divided among his children in such proportions as she shall appoint. The widow dies without having made any appointment. The fund will be divided equally among the children.

[1] Under S. 90 there is a presumption, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, that it comprises all property as at the testator's death, and in the absence of any indication of testator's intention to exclude after acquisitions from the operation of the will, presumption against an intestacy in respect of those properties must prevail. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 383 (386) (DB) (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 163 (165): 28 Nag L R 255. (Description of property as that which the testator "now" owns or occupies, prima facie does not show a contrary intention as to exclude after-acquired property of the specified nature.)

[2] The provisions of this section made one read the will as speaking from the death and therefore a gift of "so many shares" must be a gift of so many shares as they are found by the executor. (1909) 1 Ch 345 (353), In re Gillins; Inglis v. Gillins. (£50 shares converted into £10 shares by the company after will—Bequest of fifty shares held passed only fifty £10 shares and not so many £50 shares.)

[3] Bequest of property known as "Rahemat Manor" —On date of will property consisting of one building and open space—Three more buildings of different names constructed subsequently on open space — Entire property known as "Rahemat Manor" at the time of death: Held all the buildings passed under the will. (Vol 34) 1947 Bom 122 (131). (Etans v. Powell (1909) 1 Ch 784 and Spencer v. Wills (1911) 2 Ch 563, Rel. on.)

[1] A testator X willed away his property in 1885 by which he bequeathed an estate to trustees for a charitable object: In 1888, he executed a deed of settlement about the same property for the same purpose in which he reserved a power of appointment to himself. He died without revoking the will and without an issue. The question raised was whether the testator could be said to have exercised his power of appointment reserved to himself under the deed of settlement — three years previous to the deed of settlement: Held that a will speaks from the date of the death of the testator and the will, though made, before the power of appointment was created, was a good execution of the power. ('07) 31 Bom 473 (478, 479).

[2] A had a power of appointment by deed or will £500 amongst all or such one or more exclusively of the others or other of his children. In default of appointment the sum was to be given between the children equally. A bequeathed to his son generally all the residue of his estate after payment of debts, legacies etc.: Held, that as the power of appointment was not to appoint in any manner he might think proper but a 'restrictive appointment' restricted to A's children this power did not come within S. 27, English Wills Act, and it could not be said that the power was executed by the will. (1850) 12 Beav 604: 50 E R 1191, Cloves v. Awdry.

[1] If the power of appointment is a power which it is the duty of the party to execute put upon him as such by the testator who has given him an interest extensive enough to enable him to discharge it he is a trustee for the exercise of that power and not as having a discretion, whether he will exercise it or not and the Court will not permit his negligence accident or other circumstances to disappoint the interest of those for whose benefit he is called upon to execute it. (1803) 8 Ves 561 (575): 32 E R 473, Brown v Higgs.

[2] In order to exercise a special power there must be a sufficient expression or indication of intention in the will or other instrument alleged to exercise it and either a reference to the power or a reference to the property subject to the power constitutes in general a sufficient indication for the purpose. (1913) 1913 Ch 510 (515), In re Ackerley; Chapman v. Andrew.

[3] Existence of power of appointment does not prevent the vesting of the property. The exercise of the power will divest the estate but until the power is exercised, property remains vested in those who are to take in default of appointment. (1866) 2 Eq 151 (155), Lambert v. Thwaites.

[4] Where there is power to appoint among relations so as to give the donee of the power the right of selection the donee of the power can appoint to any relations, but in modelling the trust to be applied in default or arising from the power being coupled with

Where a bequest is made to the "heirs" or "right heirs" or "relations" or "nearest relations" or "family" or "kindred" or "nearest of kin" or "next-of-kin" of a particular person without any qualifying terms, and the class so designated forms the direct and independent object of the bequest, the property bequeathed shall be distributed as if it had belonged to such person and he had died intestate in respect of it, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

Bequest to "heirs," etc., of particular person without qualifying terms.

(i) A leaves his property "to my own nearest relations." The property goes to those who would be entitled to it if A had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

(ii) A bequeaths 10 000 rupees ' to B for his life, and, after the death of B, to my own right heirs." The legacy after B's death belongs to those who would be entitled to it if it had formed part of A's unbequeathed property.

(iii) A leaves his property to B; but if B dies before him, to B's next-of-kin; B dies before A; the property devolves as if it had belonged to B, and he had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

(iv) A leaves 10,000 rupees "to B for his life, and after his decease to the heirs of C." The legacy goes as if it had belonged to C, and he had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of the legacy.

94. Where a bequest is made to the "representatives" or "legal representatives" or "personal representatives" or "executors or administrators" of a particular person, and the class so designated forms the direct and independent object of the bequest, the property bequeathed shall be distributed as if it had belonged to such person and he had died intestate in respect of it.

Bequest to "representatives", etc., of particular person.

Illustration.

A bequest is made to the "legal representatives" of A. A has died intestate and insolvent. B is his administrator. B is entitled to receive the legacy, and will apply it in the first place to the discharge of such part of A's debts as may remain unpaid : if there be any surplus B will pay it to those persons who at A's death would have been entitled to receive any property of A's which might remain after payment of his debts, or to the representatives of such persons.

duty the class of relations may be confined to a particular set of relations and the relations who take in default of the exercise of power are those next of kin according to statute, they take as tenants-in-common but not in shares defined by statute. (1883) 24 Ch D 244 (251), Wilson v. Dugniel.

[5] A person devised his whole estate in a house to his executors and trustees upon certain trusts to pay the net balance of the income to his daughters C and J in equal moieties and after their death to the use of such of their issues as they should appoint—Such direction, limitation or appointment to affect their own respective share or moiety only, not that of the other of them : Held that the power of appointment was valid and even if invalid the gift over on failure of the exercise of that power would be upheld. ('94) 18 Bom 1 (6).

[6] By his will A directed all his property to be formed into a trust in favour of his daughter whose children were to divide the property, the trust becoming void on their birth. If his daughter had no issue she had the power to appoint any person to get the property after her death by deed or will. It was urged that the bequest was void following ruling in Tagore's case : Held, that as there was no gift over on failure to exercise the power the testator had expressed the incidents of an absolute gift instead of making an absolute gift in more simple form and omitted to specify them and hence the power of appointment to the daughter was valid. ('95) 19 Bom 647 (652, 653) (DB).

1. "Heirs" or "rightful heirs."
2. "Family."
3. "Without any qualifying terms."

1. "Heirs" or "rightful heirs."—[1] Under the English law, in a gift of real and personal estate together, the word "heir" has one meaning as to the real estate and another meaning as to the personal estate. It means the heir-at law in relation to the real estate and the next-of-kin in relation to the personal estate. (1883) 25 Ch D 212 (218, 220), Keay v. Boulton.

[See also (1852) 3 H L C 524 (550, 551) : 10 E R 206, Sir John Edmond De Beauvoir v. Richard Benyon De Beauvoir.]

2 "Family." — [1] The word 'family' has three meanings In one sense it means the whole household, in another sense it means everybody descended from a common ancestor. In the third sense it means his "wife" and "children." Every word which has more than one meaning has a primary meaning. The primary meaning of the word "family" being children. (1876) 3 Ch D 672 (674), Pegg v. Clarke. (Held that 'my said family' in a will meant children of a testator in a will.)

[See also (1870) 9 Eq 622 (624), Snow v. Teed. (In the ordinary acceptation of the word "family" which would not strictly speaking be confined to statutory next of kin.)]

[2] The word "family" in the English authorities upon English wills is generally construed to mean children. But if the English rule is applied to the construction of the word 'family' in a Hindu will it would defeat the intention of the testator. (1900) 4 Cal W N 671 (673) (DB) (The word was held to mean the relatives of the testator whether connected by marriage or blood who were living at the time of testator's death and then formed part of his household and were maintained by him.)

[3] If the words "members of my family" used by a testator in will, mean the members of the testator's family at the date of his death, there is nothing that can be urged against the validity of the bequest, but the Bequest without words of limitation.

word 'family' is elastic and capable of different interpretations and where a house is provided in a will on trust so as to be available to the male or female members of the testator's family, it was held that there was no reason why the definition should be extended to include people other than those existing when the testator died. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 27 (28) (PC).

3. "Without any qualifying terms."—[1] The words "without any qualifying terms" in the section refer to the heirs and not to the bequest. (Vol 6) 1919 Sind 4 (6) : 14 Sind L R 203. (Dictum in ('05) 7 Bom L R 205 held obiter and dissented from.)

[But see ('05) 7 Bom L R 207 (212). (The words "without any qualifying terms" refer to the bequests and not to relations and they mean that there must be nothing to qualify the bequest—that it must not be conditional.)]

1. Scope.
2. Bequests conferring absolute estates.
3. Bequests conferring restricted interest.
4. Bequests to Hindu females.

1. Scope. — [1] This section applies to Hindus. ('13) 24 Mad L Jour 418 (422) (D B).

[2] Where the two clauses in a will provide for different circumstances they need not be read together and construed so as to reconcile their meaning. ('98) 22 Bom 833 (841) : 25 Ind App 126 (P C).

[3] The use of the word 'absolutely" in a will as defining the amount of the estate which is given under it must be subject to any executory limitation or any other valid limitation or exception which may be found engrafted on that estate in fee simple. (1905) 1905 App Cas 84 (90, 91), Comiskey v. Bowring Hanbury. (Testator bequeathing absolutely with the confidence that she would devise it at her death to such one or more of his nieces as she thought fit. Direction that nieces should share equally on default of any disposition by the wife : Held that there was good executory limitation which created an obligatory trust in favour of the neices.)

2. Bequests conferring absolute estates.—[1] A died leaving a will bequeathing his property to P. The will recited that after A's death entire property will vest in P and that P shall be "my heir and successor". "The said heir shall after he has inherited me be bound to abide by the following terms," and then the will provided certain conditions : Held that the words "the estate shall vest in P" and that P shall be testator's "heir and successor" created an absolute estate of inheritance in P and the various clauses that followed the main provisions were to come into operation after P had so inherited; they must, therefore, be regarded as an attempt to impose repugnant conditions upon the estate so created and were, therefore, void. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 283 (286) : 56 Ind App 372 : 4 Luck 483 (P C).

[2] Where according to the will the devisee was to have an interest so long as he resided in the house of the testator, his maternal grandfather : Held, that, the restriction was imposed as a condition and not as an indication that the interest created was a life estate. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 654 (656) (D B).

[3] When a testator had made a gift by will of a certain zamindari to his wife and his son for 'their maintenance' but language of the gift clearly showed that the estate given is one of inheritance with express power to the donees of making alienation by sale or gift : Held that it was not limited to the bare right of maintenance and was the transfer of an absolute interest. ('96) 23 Cal 670 (678) : 23 Ind App 37 (P C).

[5] Where the will contained the following provision "I will and bequeath to my dear wife Anne in trust and for her maintenance and support during her life all property which I may die possessed" : Held that the words "for her maintenance and support" are words of description or motive and in no way cut down the estate 'during her life' which the testator in terms gave to his wife. ('08) 31 Mad 283 (306) (D B).

[6] Will—Testator giving to his widow his real estate for life — At her death to his eldest son J for life and thereafter to "become absolute property" of J's eldest son, alternatively "to become property of my son K or of his eldest son"—Failing either to appellant—Death of J during testator's lifetime without male issue — K and his son who had predeceased him surviving widow—Held that as gift to J's eldest son was of absolute interest, alternative gift to K was also to be absolute. (07) 1907 App Cas 494 (498), Mc Cormick v. Simpson.

3. Bequests conferring restricted interest.—[1] Testator bequeathed his landed property among his heirs and gave one part to his wife and provided that if her son out-lived mother, her share should descend to him : Held interest of wife was only life interest and not absolute one. It is only where testator speaks of death which is certain as if it were mere contingency by using expression "If any of them die" or "in case of his decease" that such death, to render the divesting clause operative, must be deemed to be death within testator's life-time. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 355 (356, 357) (Low Bur).

[2] A, a Hindu talukdar of Oudh, by his will declared that his wife should have full powers but that during the life-time of his son the minor on whose behalf she was to be the manager she should have no power to transfer without necessity any portion of his property, but the wife should have the power to mortgage property for payment of the testator's debts or Government revenue. Held that the will conferred no greater power on the wife of alienating her minor son's estate that she had under Hindu law as its manager on her minor son's behalf. ('99) 26 Cal 707 (710) : 26 Ind App 97 (P C).

4. Bequests to Hindu females.—[1] The rule of law applicable to a gift of immovable property by a Hindu husband to his wife is that though a mere gift of immovable property does not carry with it the power of alienation yet when such power of alienation is given expressly or by implication, she acquires an absolute power of disposal over the property and when the gift is by a will, this section entitles her to the whole interest, unless it appears from the will that only a restricted interest was intended to be given. ('01) 5 Cal W N 300 (303) (D B).

[See also (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 37 (38). (Under Hindu law a grant to a female does not necessarily confer absolute estate and this section does not apply to such a case.)]

96. Where property is bequeathed to a person with a bequest in the alternative to another person or to a class of persons, then, if a contrary intention does not appear by the will, the legatee first named shall be entitled to the legacy if he is alive at the time when it takes effect; but if he is then dead, the person or class of persons named in the second branch of the alternative shall take the legacy.

(vii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B or his heirs B dies in the testator's lifetime. A survives the testator. Upon A's death the bequest to the heirs of B takes effect.

97. Where property is bequeathed to a person, and words are added which describe a class of persons but do not denote them as direct objects of a distinct and independent gift, such person is entitled to the whole interest of the testator therein, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

[2] In case of a bequest to a Hindu widow there must be some words indicating an absolute gift either expressly or by implication. Where the words of the will are "the documents of the house shall be taken by two ladies" and there are no other words of inheritance or words authorising them to alienate, the ladies cannot be held to have an absolute estate. ('13) 24 Mad L Jour 418 (423) (D B).

[3] A Hindu testator gave certain property to his two younger daughters in equal shares and the remainder to his elder daughter and her son. The son was to pay the Government assessment and subject to the direction of his mother was to enjoy the land but not in any way to alienate the right to property. It was held that the intention was to grant life estate to daughter with remainder to her son whose interest was subordinate to his mother. As mother's interest was not absolute the property passed to her son's heirs. ('98) 21 Mad 425 (428) (D B).

[1] Will providing that estate should go to testator's daughter during her lifetime and after death to her sons or sons' children as would be alive : Held, the word "or" could not be read as "and" and after the daughter's death the property would go to her sons or if sons were not living, to her sons' children. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 245 (246) (D B).

[2] Bequest of life interest in favour of sons—Residue devised in favour of male issue of sons; such issue failing, to female issue and that again failing, in favour of the grand-daughters by his daughters — No grandchildren by son at the time of testator's death — Two daughters of the daughter and not the sons are entitled to the residue. ('05) 28 Mad 386 (389) (D B).

[3] A bequest was made to two ladies for life and after the death of the survivor of them, to male issue of one J and in default of such male issue to any person or persons J might by his deed appoint. J had no male issue and by his will appointed his daughters A and B to the estate. B was born after the death of the testator. It was held that the alternate gift to persons to be appointed by J was valid but as B was not alive at the death of the testator it was invalid in regard B. ('92) 16 Bom. 492 (497, 499) (D B). (Appeal from ('91) 15 Bom 326)

[4] A gave certain pecuniary legacies to children of his deceased son B and gave the residue to his other children excepting B and added that if such child died before A leaving his child or children at the time of A's death, such child or children would take the share of his parent. Question was whether B's children could share the residue. It was held that they could not as the gift in favour of other grand children was a substitutional gift and not an independent gift in favour of all the grandchildren. (1907) 1907 App Cas 225 (228), Gorringe v. Mahlstedt.

[5] Alternative gift in favour of a class of persons to be selected by person having power to appoint — In default of appointment all such persons take as tenants-in-common in equal shares. (1883) 24 Ch D 244 (252), Wilson v. Dugmid.

(iii) A bequest is made to A for life and after his death to his issue. At the death of A the property belongs in equal shares to all persons who then answer the description of issue of A.

Construction of terms.

99. In a will—

(a) the word "children" applies only to lineal descendants in the first degree of the person whose "children" are spoken of;

(b) the word "grandchildren" applies only to lineal descendants in the second degree of the person whose "grandchildren" are spoken of;

(c) the words "nephews" and "nieces" apply only to children of brothers or sisters;

(d) the words "cousins", or "first cousins", or "cousins-german", apply only to children of brothers or of sisters of the father or mother of the person whose "cousins", or "first cousins", or "cousins german", are spoken of;

(e) the words "first cousins once removed" apply only to children of cousins-german, or to cousins german of a parent of the person whose "first cousins once removed" are spoken of;

(f) the words "second cousins" apply only to grandchildren of brothers or of sisters of the grandfather or grandmother of the person whose "second cousins" are spoken of;

(g) the words "issue" and "descendants" apply to all lineal descendants whatever of the person whose "issue" or "descendants" are spoken of; applied to a will by a Hindu, though if the clear intention of the testator appeared otherwise it is inapplicable. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 22 (23) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 459 (461) : I L R (1937) Bom 679.

[2] The use of the words 'male heirs" in a will do not import any limitation. According to the rule of construction in this section such an expression would be rejected as having no effect in the absence of any indication of contrary intention. There is no reason why a different effect should be given to that expression in a deed of family settlement. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 306 (306) (PC).

[See also ('13) 35 All 211 (223): 40 Ind App 105 (PC). (Devise to my eldest son T and his lawful male children according to the law of inheritance followed by other life limitations : Held, T was entitled to only a interest.)]

[3] A house was by a will devised in the first instance to the testator's wife with a limited interest; then it was to devolve after the death of the wife on the testator's daughter and her children: Held the devise directly falls within the first illustration of Illus. (i) and the daughter takes an absolute interest. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 24 (26) (D B).

[1] A gift to a class implies an intention to benefit those who constitute the class and to exclude all others; but a gift to individuals described by their several names and descriptions, though they may together constitute a class, implies an intention to benefit the individuals named. In a gift to a class you look to the description and inquire what individuals answer to it; and those who do answer to it are the legatees described. But if the parties to whom the legacy is given be not described as a class but by their individual names and additions, though together constituting a class, those who may constitute the class at any particular time may not, in any respect, correspond with the description of the individuals named as legatees. (1838) 40 ER 1091 (1095): 3 My and C 688, Barber v. Barber.

[2] A number of persons are popularly said to form a class when they can be designated by some genera name, as 'children,' grandchildren, "nephews;" but in legal language the question whether a gift is one to a class depends not upon these considerations, but upon the mode of gift itself, namely, that it is a gift of an aggregate sum to a body of persons uncertain in number at the time of the gift, to be ascertained at future time, and who are all to take in equal or in some other definite proportions, the share of each being dependent for its amount upon the ultimate number of persons. ('91) 15 Bom 543 (548) (D B). (Benefit of each member of class not dependent on number in the class—Each member having independent right to the benefit—Bequest not affected by non-existence of some at the death of the testator.)

[3] When the gift is to a number of persons who are united or connected by some common tie and you can see that the testator was looking to the body as a whole rather than to the members constituting the body of individuals and so you can see that he intended that if one or more of that body died in his lifetime the survivors should take the gift between them there is nothing to prevent the Courts giving effect to the wishes of the testator. (1901) 1901 App Cas 187 (190, 191), Kingsbury v. Walter.

[4] Gift to a class fails when the class cannot be ascertained within the period allowed by the rule against perpetuities. But when it can be ascertained within that period, the incapacity of some of the members does not make gift invalid, as regards the other members. ('11) 38 Cal 188 (200) (D B).

[1] Section 99 (g) is not applicable to wills of Hindus. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 637 (638).

(h) words expressive of collateral relationship apply alike to relatives of full and of half blood; and

(i) all words expressive of relationship apply to a child in the womb who is afterwards born alive.

Words expressing relationship denote only legitimate relatives or failing such relatives reputed legitimate.

100. In the absence of any intimation to the contrary in a will, the word "child", the word "son", the word "daughter", or any word which expresses relationship, is to be understood as denoting only a legitimate relative, or where there is no such legitimate relative, a person who has acquired, at the date of the will, the reputation of being such relative.

Illustrations.

(i) A having three children, B, C and D, of whom B and C are legitimate and D is illegitimate, leaves his property to be equally divided among "my children". The property belongs to B and C in equal shares, to the exclusion of D.

(ii) A, having a niece of illegitimate birth, who has acquired the reputation of being his niece, and having no legitimate niece, bequeaths a sum of money to his niece. The illegitimate niece is entitled to the legacy.

(iii) A, having in his will enumerated his children, and named as one of them B, who is illegitimate, leaves a legacy to "my said children". B will take a share in the legacy along with the legitimate children.

(iv) A leaves a legacy to "the children of B". B is dead and has left none but illegitimate children. All those who had at the date of the will acquired the reputation of being the children of B are objects of the gift.

(v) A bequeaths a legacy to "the children of B". B never had any legitimate child C and D had, at the date of the will, acquired the reputation of being children of B. After the date of the will and before the death of the testator, E and F were born, and acquired the reputation of being children of B. Only C and D are objects of the bequest.

(vi) A makes a bequest in favour of his child by a certain woman, not his wife. B had acquired at the date of the will the reputation of being the child of A by the woman designated. B takes the legacy.

(vii) A makes a bequest in favour of his child to be born of a woman who never becomes his wife. The bequest is void.

(viii) A makes a bequest in favour of the child of which a certain woman, not married to him, is pregnant. The bequest is valid.

[1] This Act contemplates only legal relations and an illegiatimate child being in the eye of law 'filiae nullius" its claim to succeed as a relation must be rejected. ('06) 30 Bom 500 (505).

[2] The term "children" in will prima facie means legitimate children and if there is nothing more in the will the circumstance that the person whose children are referred to has illegitimate children will not entitle the illegitimate children to take. This prima facie interpretation, however, is departed from in a case where there is on the face of the will, an expression of the testator's intention to use the word 'children" as including illegitimate children. (1887) 35 Ch D 728 (732), In re Hastie's Trusts. (Bequest to all and every other children and child which may be born of the said M previous to and of, which she may be pregnant at the time of my death—Connexion between testator and M regarded as subsisting and to continue — Connexion not in fact ended till testator's death — 'Children' held included illegitimate children.)✠(1886) 31 Ch D 511 (517, 520), In re Haseldine; Grange v. Sturdy. (Bequest to "all the living children of one M"—Children known to have been born before the marriage of M—No legitimate child born to M after her marriage—Held, (Per Bower and Fry JJ; Cotton L. J., contra) children included the illegitimate children.) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 222 (223) (D B).

[See also (1902) 2 Ch 542 (545), In re Wood; Wood v. Wood. (It is lawful for a testator to give legacies to an illegitimate child and the word children must be read as meaning legitimate and illegitimate having regard to the intention of the testator.)]

[4] A man cannot provide for the illegitimate children either of himself or of another man by any reference that involves an enquiry as to their paternity. The law allows no criterion of paternity but marriage. The law does not forbid a gift to illegitimate children if the Court could make out from the will that the testator means that all children of the woman born during his cohabitation with her, should be considered, or reputed to be his (1886) 31 Ch D 542 (553), In re Bolton; Brown v. Bolton. (In the absence of any such indication the bequest to illegitimate children held failed).

[5] There is a great distinction to be drawn between gifts whether by deed or by will, by a man in favour of illegitimate child or children and gifts by the mother of an illegitimate child or children. In the former case there is an immoral consideration but the argument cannot apply in the case of gifts by the mother. The illegitimate child when the mother wants to benefit it by a will, can take the bequest as there is nothing in the policy of law to effect this gift to her own child. (1905) 1905 P D 137 (139), In the Estate of Sararah Eggar Frogley.

101. Where a will purports to make two bequests to the same person, and a question arises whether the testator intended to make the second bequest instead of or in addition to the first; if there is nothing in the will to show what he intended, the following rules shall have effect in determining the construction to be put upon the will :—

Rules of construction where will purports to make two bequests to same person.

(a) If the same specific thing is bequeathed twice to the same legatee in the same will or in the will and again in the codicil, he is entitled to receive that specific thing only.

(b) Where one and the same will or one and the same codicil purports to make, in two places, a bequest to the same person of the same quantity or amount of anything, he shall be entitled to one such legacy only.

(c) Where two legacies of unequal amount are given to the same person in the same will, or in the same codicil, the legatee is entitled to both.

(d) Where two legacies, whether equal or unequal in amount, are given to the same legatee, one by a will and the other by a codicil, or each by a different codicil, the legatee is entitled to both legacies.

Explanation.—In clauses (a) to (d) of this section, the word "will" does not include a codicil.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having ten shares, and no more, in the Imperial Bank of India, made his will, which contains near its commencement the words "I bequeath my ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India to B". After other bequests, the will concludes with the words "and I bequeath my ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India to B". B is entitled simply to receive A's ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India.

(ii) A, having one diamond ring, which was given him by B, bequeaths to C the diamond ring which was given by B. A afterwards made a codicil to his will, and thereby, after giving other legacies, he bequeathed to C the diamond ring which was given him by B. C can claim nothing except the diamond ring which was given to A by B.

(iii) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and afterwards in the same will repeats the bequest in the same words. B is entitled to one legacy of 5,000 rupees only.

(iv) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and afterwards in the same will bequeaths to B the sum of 6.000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 11,000 rupees.

(v) A, by his will, bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees and by a codicil to the will he bequeaths to him 5,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 10,000 rupees.

(vi) A, by one codicil to his will, bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees and by another codicil bequeaths to him 6,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 11,000 rupees.

(vii) A, by his will, bequeaths "500 rupees to B because she was my nurse", and in another part of the will bequeaths 500 rupees to B "because she went to England with my children". B is entitled to receive 1,000 rupees.

(viii) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and also, in another part of the will, an annuity of 400 rupees. B is entitled to both legacies.

(ix) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and also bequeaths to him the sum of 5,000 rupees if he shall attain the age of 18. B is entitled absolutely to one sum of 5,000 rupees, and takes a contingent interest in another sum of 5000 rupees.

102. A residuary legatee may be constituted by any words that show an intention on the part of the testator that the person designated shall take the surplus or residue of his property.

Constitution of residuary legatee.

Illustrations.

(i) A makes her will, consisting of several testamentary papers, in one of which are contained the following words :—"I think there will be something left, after all funeral expenses, etc., to give to B, now at school, towards equipping him to any profession he may hereafter be appointed to." B is constituted residuary legatee.

There is thus no latent ambiguity and no evidence can be let in to show that the illegitimate grandniece was intended by the testator. (1894) 2 Ch 83 (87), Ingham v. Rayner.

[8] Gift to all my nephews and nieces then living—No possibility of lawful nephews and nieces competing with natural nephews and nieces—Expression held included sons and daughters of testator's natural sister. (1906) 2 Ch 316 (320), In re Corsellis; Freeborn v. Napper.

[1] The common case where the legacies have not been held to be accumulative is where the same corpus is given twice to the same person, the second legacy nil operatur, because it cannot be given more than once. Where the same quantity has been given, and the same cause, or no additional reason assigned for a repetition of the gift the Court has inferred the testator's intention to be the same, and rejected the accumulation; but where the same quantity is given, with any additional cause assigned for it, or any implication to shew that the testator meant that the same thing, prima facie, should accumulate, the Court has decided in favour of the accumulation. (1794) 28 E R 1196 (1196) : 1 Bro C C 390, Hooley v. Holton. (Additional cause or mark of favour mentioned in codicil—Gift held accumulative.)

[1] This Act does not contain any formal definition of the expression "residuary legatee" but its meaning is evident from Ss. 102 and 103 of that Act. A residuary legatee is the person designated by the testator as one who will take the residue, surplus of his property and residuary bequest implies that the legatee is

(ii) A makes his will, with the following passage at the end of it :—I believe there will be found sufficient in my banker's hands to defray and discharge my debts, which I hereby desire B to do, and keep the residue for her own use and pleasure". B is constituted the residuary legatee.

(iii) A bequeaths all his property to B, except certain stocks and funds, which he bequeaths to C. B is the residuary legatee.

Property to which residuary legatee entitled.

103. Under a residuary bequest, the legatee is entitled to all property belonging to the testator at the time of his death, of which he has not made any other testamentary disposition which is capable of taking effect.

Illustration.

A by his will bequeaths certain legacies, of which one is void under section 118, and another lapses by the death of the legatee. He bequeaths the residue of his property to B. After the date of his will A purchases a zamindari, which belongs to him at the time of his death. B is entitled to the two legacies and the zamindari as part of the residue.

Time of vesting legacy in general terms.

104. If a legacy is given in general terms, without specifying the time when it is to be paid, the legatee has a vested interest in it from the day of the death of the testator, and, if he dies without having received it, it shall pass to his representatives.

entitled to all property belonging to the testator at the time of his death so that whatever is not effectively disposed of goes to the residuary legatee. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 239 (240) : 31 Nag L R (Sup) 30.

[2] The very essence of a residuary clause is that its terms should be such as to carry with the bequest of all the enumerated items, if any, all items of property belonging to the deceased not mentioned in the will. Therefore where in a will there were no words bequeathing to a person any immovable property excepting those mentioned therein he is not a residuary legatee in respect of any immovable property. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 418 (420) (DB).

[3] Prima facie, the words "I give all my personal property and effects" were sufficient to constitute a person a residuary legatee of the personalty of the deceased within S. 102 and hence prima facie under S. 103 the person becomes entitled to all the personal property belonging to the testatrix at the time of her death of which she had not made any other testamentary disposition which was capable of taking effect. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 71 (71) : 12 Rang 705 (DB).

[4] Devise of specific immovable property to A for life only — No direction as to what should happen after determination of A's interest — General direction to executors to sell all the residue of his moveable and immovable property and to make over the proceeds to a university : Held, reversion after determination of A's life interest passes to university under the residuary devise. ('04) 31 Cal 166 (169).

[5] A testator bequeathed "all the real and personal estate" to his trustees for sale and conversion and out of the proceeds to pay "my debts" and hold the residue thereof in trust for certain residuary legatees. It was held that notwithstanding the absence of the words "rest and residue" the general devise and bequest of the real and personal estate as a mixed fund in one mass was clearly residuary so that legacies were charged upon and payable out of the real estate. (1909) 1 Ch 791 (795), Trewby v. Balls.

[1] The residuary gift carries every lapsed legacy and any legacy which on any ground fails to take effect—But this is subject to other rule that if the testator has shown any intention with regard to the excepted property inconsistent with its ever falling again into residue effect must be given to that intention. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 71 (71) : 12 Rang 705 (DB) ✻ ('02) 6 Cal W N 321 (325) ✻ (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 239 (240) : 31 Nag L R (Sup) 30. (No particular mode of expression is necessary to constitute a residuary legatee.)

[See also (1861) 8 Moo Ind App 66 (88) (PC).]

[2] Where the testator has manifested a general charitable intention this should not fail to be carried out merely because the executors are all dead and the particular land, on which the testator desired the dispensary to be erected, is not available for the purpose. ('09) 36 Cal 261 (265).

[3] The residuary estate should be construed to include such portions of the enumerated estate as were not specifically given but it does not apply to property unknown to the testator. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 356 (361) : 60 Cal 1406 (DB) ✻ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 17 (18) : 38 Mad 1096.

[4] Certain items to remain as tarwad — Properties omitted, to go to certain persons — Attempt to create property on analogy of tarwad, held, invalid and items fell into residue. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 785 (787) (DB).

[1] Probate granted to executor — Simultaneous agreement recorded between beneficiaries to have properties disposed of by the executor not in complete accordance with the terms of will—Executor agreeing to distribute according to the terms of agreement — Held executor holds property under the will and not as a trustee and the heir of residuary legatee who has not received his share can invoke the aid of S. 104. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 841 (843) : 60 Cal 1135 (DB).

[2] A person who is given by will definite share after expiration of life estate takes vested interest in such share and it is transmissible to his heirs. ('28) 109 Ind Cas 654 (654) (Lah).

[3] A bequest unless the testator intended otherwise, as in the case of a contingent bequest, becomes vested in interest in the devisee or legatee from the date of the testator's death although he may not be entitled to receive what has been bequeathed to him except in due course of administration. ('12) 22 Mad L Jour 228 (229) (DB).

[4] The estate vested under this section is not full or absolute and until the assent of the executor is given the legatee has only an inchoate right to the legacy. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 422 (423, 424) : 38 Mad 474 (DB). (A legacy even if vested could be divested by the disclaimer of the legatee.)

105. (1) If the legatee does not survive the testator, the legacy cannot take effect, but shall lapse and form part of the residue of the testator's property, unless it appears by the will that the testator intended that it should go to some other person.

In what case legacy lapses.

(2) In order to entitle the representatives of the legatee to receive the legacy, it must be proved that he survived the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator bequeaths to B "500 rupees which B owes me." B dies before the testator; the legacy lapses.

(ii) A bequest is made to A and his children. A dies before the testator, or happens to be dead when the will is made. The legacy to A and his children lapses.

(iii) A legacy is given to A, and, in case of his dying before the testator, to B. A dies before the testator. The legacy goes to B.

(iv) A sum of money is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B. A dies in the lifetime of the testator; B survives the testator. The bequest to B takes effect.

(v) A sum of money is bequeathed to A on his completing his eighteenth year, and in case he should die before he completes his eighteenth year, to B. A completes his eighteenth year, and dies in the lifetime of the testator. The legacy to A lapses, and the bequest to B does not take effect.

(vi) The testator and the legatee perished in the same ship-wreck. There is no evidence to show which died first. The legacy lapses.

[5] A will directed that in the event of any of his legatees dying during his life time or any time thereafter "prior to the division" of the proceeds from the sale of his estate as directed in earlier part of the will, leaving lawful issue, such issue would be entitled to the share of the deceased parent. One legatee died after the testator's death but before the said division took place and left a lawful issue. It was held that the interest of the deceased legatee did in law vest in him at the death of the testator but he having died prior to the division of the estate it was divested and the gift over took effect in favour of his issue. ('84) 6 All 583 (597) (DB).

[1] This section applies to Hindus and where a legacy is given to A, a Hindu alone and he predeceases the testator, the legacy will lapse. But from that it does not follow that illustration (ii) will apply if the bequest is contained in a Hindu will. To say so would be inconsistent with the rule laid down by S. 97 which is expressly made inapplicable to Hindus. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 459 (462) : I L R (1937) Bom 679. (Hindu will giving legacy to A and his sons and daughter — A and daughter dying before testator — Legacy held was for parent and issue concurrently and sons took the whole legacy as survivors.)

[2] A person capable of taking under a will must be such a person as could take a gift inter vivos and therefore either in fact or in the contemplation of law be in existence at the death of the testator. ('72) 18 Suth W R 359 (367).

[4] A Parsi devised a house to his wife for her life and then to his son A and after him to his widow subject to certain restrictions, and issues of A if any and then to his another son B. A died in the lifetime of testator's widow and left neither widow nor any issue. It was held that B was entitled to the house subject to life-estate of his mother. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 206 (208) : 45 Ind App 257 : 43 Bom 88 (PC).

[6] Where by the terms of a will an annuity is payable to a certain person putra pautradi krame, but is not charged on any specific property, and the legatee predeceases the testator, it must be held that the will confers an estate of inheritance, but the legacy lapses because the legatee has predeceased the testator. The words putra pautradi krame etc., are merely descriptive of the estate which the testator proposed to confer on the legatee and do not import a gift over to the sons and grandsons of the legatee. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 458 (458, 459) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 257 (257) (DB).

[7] If the Court finds upon the construction of the will, that the testator clearly intended not to give a mere bounty to the legatee, but to discharge what he regarded as a moral obligation, whether it were legally binding or not, and if that obligation still exists at the testator's death, there is no necessary failure of the testator's object merely because the legatee dies in his lifetime; and therefore death in such a case does not cause a lapse (1904) 2 Ch 30 (33), Stevens v. King. (On construction of the will held that the testatrix intended to discharge an obligation and that there was no lapse.)

[8] It can make no difference that legatee ceased to exist immediately after the death of the testator. The same law must be applicable whether it was a day, or month, or year or ten years after. The legacy becomes the property of the legatee upon the death of the testator though he might not for some reason, obtain the receipt of it till long after. (1891) 2 Ch 236 (243), In re Slavin; Slavin v. Habburn. (Principles relating to lapse of legacies to charitable objects discussed—Charitable bequest to orphanage existing at the time of testator's death but coming to an end before legacy was paid over—Legacy does not lapse into residue.)

[9] Where a legacy is bequeathed to a particular charitable institution existing at the date of the will and the institution has ceased to exist before the testator's death, the legacy fails and lapses in the same way as in the case of an individual. (1895) 1 Ch 19 (24, 34, 35), Rymer v. Stanfield. (Case law as to lapse of bequests to charitable institutes discussed.)

Legacy does not lapse if one of two joint legatees die before testator.

106. If a legacy is given to two persons jointly, and one of them dies before the testator, the other legatee takes the whole.

Illustration.

The legacy is simply to A and B. A dies before the testator. B takes the legacy.
[1865—S. 93.]

Effect of words showing testator's intention to give distinct shares.

107. If a legacy is given to legatees in words which show that the testator intended to give them distinct shares of it, then, if any legatee dies before the testator, so much of the legacy as was intended for him shall fall into the residue of the testator's property.

Illustration.

A sum of money is bequeathed to A, B and C, to be equally divided among them. A dies before the testator. B and C will only take so much as they would have had if A had survived the testator.
[1865—S. 94.]

[1] Where there are no words to indicate an intention to create tenancies in-common the rule of English law is to presume that the donees are joint tenants. This rule has been adopted in this section. The difference in dates as to handing over the management to each donee, does not sufficiently indicate donor's intention to create tenancies-in-common. ('11) 34 Mad. 80 (81) (DB). (The rule was applied to the case of a gift and held that a gift to A, B and C, simply was a gift to them jointly and not as tenants-in-common.)

[2] Where the gift is to two donees jointly and the one is capable of taking and the other not, he who is capable shall take the whole. This principle does not depend on any peculiarity in English law and is applicable to this deed of gift. ('89) 16 Cal. 677 (682) : 16 Ind App 44 (P C).

[3] Sections 106, 97 — Will by Hindu—Legacy to T, his sons and daughter — Death of T and daughter during testator's lifetime — Sons take whole legacy as the legacy was for parent and issue concurrently. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom. 459 (462) : I L R (1937) Bom. 679.

[4] Where the relevant portion of the will by a Christian ran : "After my death my wife and foster daughter should get these properties and enjoy them" it was held, that there was a joint bequest to wife and foster daughter and that, therefore, the foster daughter was entitled to succeed to the whole of the property bequeathed by survivorship after the wife's death. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 12 (14).

[5] Testator directing the net income of trust created during the joint lives of his wife and daughter to be applied first for the payment of monthly allowances to daughter and wife and the residue to be used for their purposes and then the children of the daughter : Held that there was a gift of the residue to wife and daughter in equal proportions during their joint lives and that on the death of one, the survivor would take the whole for her lifetime. ('91) 15 Bom. 443 (449, 450).

[6] Bequest to 'children' where a testator directed to sell the estate and pay the proceeds to and among his nephew and nieces as tenants-in common and that in the case of death of any of his nephews and nieces, the children of the one dying should be paid the parents' share, it was held that the children took as joint tenants and not as tenants-in-common. (1915) 2 Ch 216 (221), Public Trustee v. Clarkson. (Interpretation of 'monies to be paid'.)

[7] Maintenance grant — When a grant is made for maintenance in favour of two persons, prima facie it may be concluded that upon the death of either the other would be entitled to only a proportionate amount. But where a grantor provided that two ladies were to receive Rs 650 and that after the death of both one-half of the amount was to be continued as maintenance of a son born of the womb of one of them named therein there was sufficient indication to the contrary so as to construe the grant to the two ladies as if they constituted one grantee with a right of survivorship inter se. ('13) 17 Cal L Jour 87 (91) (DB).

[See also (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 175 (175) (DB). (Case of annuity.)]

[1] Where any property is bequeathed to two or more persons without any specification of shares, the natural presumption is that they are intended to take in equal shares: and when the estate bequeathed is one of inheritance, it is far more reasonable to suppose that each legatee and his heirs are the objects of the testator's bounty, than that he intends that the legatees should take by survivorship, and the heirs of the last surviving legatee should take the whole. Even in English law the leaning has been in favour of tenancy in common ; and the Court decrees a tenancy in common as much as it can. ('97) 24 Cal 646 (654) (DB) ✠ ('92) 15 Mad 448 (468, 469). (A bequest of a fund to my grandchildren by my daughter A, also to my grandson B and to his step-brother C in 'equal shares' is a bequest to the testator's grand-children as persona designata to be enjoyed as tenants-in common.)

[2] The principle of joint tenancy as obtaining in England is quite foreign to the Hindu law and when property is gifted to more than one, in the absence of anything in the grant to the contrary the presumption is that the donees take as tenants-in-common. In case of Hindu wills, where the grant is to persons incapable of forming a Hindu joint family they can of course take only as tenants in common. Where the grant is to persons who constitute such a family, it may even then be the prima facie view that they take in severalty and those who argue in favour of joint tenancy have to show some clear foundation for it in the terms of the will. ('05) 28 Mad 363 (373, 374) (DB). ("Shall enjoy the house from son to grandson and so on in succession" indicates grant of absolute estate while "shall take in equal shares" shows that grantees will take as tenants in common)✠('96) 23 Cal 670 (679) : 23 Ind App 37 (P C). (Bequest of 4 anna share of zamindary to testator's daughter and her son "for your maintenance' with power to alienate—Each took absolute estate in 2 anna share — The words "for your maintenance" did not reduce their interest. 11 Mad 258, Overruled.)✠('11) 33 All 41 (44) (DB). When lapsed share goes as undisposed of.

108. Where a share which lapses is a part of the general residue bequeathed by the will, that share shall go as undisposed of.

Illustration.

The testator bequeaths the residue of his estate to A, B and C, to be equally divided between them. A dies before the testator. His one-third of the residue goes as undisposed of.

When bequest to testator's child or lineal descendant does not lapse on his death in testator's lifetime.

109. Where a bequest has been made to any child or other lineal descendant of the testator, and the legatee dies in the lifetime of the testator, but any lineal descendant of his survives the testator, the bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect as if the death of the legatee had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

Illustration.

A makes his will, by which he bequeaths a sum of money to his son, B, for his own absolute use and benefit. B dies before A, leaving a son, C, who survives A, and having made his will whereby he bequeaths all his property to his widow, D. The money goes to D.

Bequest to A for benefit of B does not lapse by A's death.

Survivorship in case of bequest to described class.

111. Where a bequest is made simply to a described class of persons, the thing bequeathed shall go only to such as are alive at the testator's death.

[3] When all persons who are to benefit under the will are mentioned by name the bequest to them is not as a class but as tenants-in-common. Where therefore a bequest is made to one sister and four brothers, mentioning their names and specific shares and one of the brothers dies before testator the dead brother's share lapses and forms part of the residue of testator's property and other brothers and sisters cannot claim it. [See also ('98) 22 Bom 833 (840): 25 Ind App 126 (P C). (On construction of the will held that two brothers took life interest as tenants in common and there being no valid disposal of the ulterior interest, it fell into the residue.)]

[4] Bequest of certain property in equal shares to the testators's children A, B and C or the survivors or survivor of them — A attesting the will — A's share becoming void falls into the residue and does not go over to B and C. ('03) 26 Mad 433 (437) (DB).

[1] Will by one K in which a legacy was bequeathed to Mrs. J who was his sister — J attesting the will : Held that the legacy to Mrs. J lapsed under S. 54 of the Act of 1865 (S. 67 of this Act) and therefore should be dealt with under S. 95 of that Act (corresponding to S. 108 of this Act). ('82) 4 Mad 244 (246).

[1] This section is an exception to the general rule laid down in S. 105 and its effect is to prolong the life of the original devisee by a fiction of law for the purpose of giving effect to the will in which the gift which would otherwise lapse, occurs and it only points out the mode in which that is to be given. (Vol 34) 1947 Oudh 45 (62) : 21 Luck 463 (DB).

[2] All that S. 109 provides is that the bequest shall take effect as if the death of the legatee had happened immediately after the death of the testator. In other words, in order to prevent a lapse it must be assumed that the legatee survived the testator. The section does not contain any provision that on such assumption being made the bequest is to take effect only in favour of the lineal descendants. The benefit of this section extends to all the heirs. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 437 (439) : 11 Luck 376 (DB).

[3] This section applies to taluqdars — See S. 19, Oudh Estates Act, 1869. (Vol 34) 1947 Oudh 45 (62): 21 Luck 463 (DB).

[4] This section applies even if the legatee is dead at the date of the will. (1900) 27 Cal 521 (527) : 27 Ind App 10 (P C).

[5] Bequest by a Hindu having no male issue to his eldest daughter and her sons from generation to generation — Legatee dying before testator having only two daughters—Testator leaving widow and other daughters after him—Daughters of legatee claiming property on equitable principles on analogy of this section : Held, the words "sons and grandsons" in the will meant only "heirs" and that the section or its principle could not be applied as the will was not governed by the Act. ('01) 24 Mad 299 (304) (DB).

[6] Bequest to testator's daughter of certain amount— Daughter predeceasing testator leaving a daugher born during life time of testator: Held, S. 96 of Act of 1865 applied and the legatee's daughter was entitled to the legacy and further that, the rule in Tagore's case was not contravened as the effect of this section was to vest the legacy in the legatee herself treating her as dying immediately after the death of the testator. ('89) 16 Cal 549 (555) (DB).

[7] The expression "any child or other lineal descendant" in this section does not include an illegitimate son. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 458 (458, 459). (An illegitimate child would be included in the word "child" only when there is a designatio personæ.)

[1] It is a question of construction in each case whether the class is to be ascertained at the death of the testator or at a later date. It is for those who assert that the class is to be ascertained at a date other than that of the death of the testator to show that that is the fair result of the language of the will. (1920) 1920 App Cas 794 time later than the death of the testator by reason of a prior bequest or otherwise, the property shall at that time go to such of them as are then alive, and to the representatives of any of them who have died since the death of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "the children of B" without saying when it is to be distributed among them. B had died previous to the date of the will, leaving three children, C, D and E. E died after the date of the will, but before the death of A. C and D survive A. The legacy will belong to C and D, to the exclusion of the representatives of E.

(ii) A lease for years of a house was bequeathed to A for his life, and after his decease to the children of B. At the death of the testator, B had two children living, C and D, and he never had any other child. Afterwards, during the life-time of A, C died, leaving E, his executor. D has survived A. D and E are jointly entitled to so much of the lease-hold term as remains unexpired.

(iii) A sum of money was bequeathed to A for her life, and after her decease, to the children of B. At the death of the testator, B had two children living, C and D, and, after that event, two children, E and F, were born to B. C and E died in the lifetime of A, C having made a will, E having made no will. A has died, leaving D and F surviving her. The legacy is to be divided into four equal parts, one of which is to be paid to the executor of C, one to D, one to the administrator of E and one to F.

(iv) A bequeaths one-third of his lands, to B for his life, and after his decease to the sisters of B. At the death of the testator, B had two sisters living, C and D, and after that event another sister E was born. C died during the life of B D and E have survived B. One-third of A's lands belong to D, E and the representatives of C, in equal shares.

(v) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life and after his death equally among the children of C. Up to the death of B, C had not had any child. The bequest after the death of B is void.

(vi) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "all the children born or to be born" of B to be divided among them at the death of C. At the death of the testator, B has two children living, D and E. After the death of the testator, but in the lifetime of C, two other children, F and G, are born to B. After the death of C, another child is born to B. The legacy belongs to D, E, F and G, to the exclusion of the after-born child of B.

(vii) A bequeaths a fund to the children of B, to be divided among them when the eldest shall attain majority. At the testator's death, B had one child living, named C. He afterwards had two other children, named D and E. E died, but C and D were living when C attained majority. The fund belongs to C, D and the representatives of E, to the exclusion of any child who may be born to B after C's attaining majority.

CHAPTER VII.

OF VOID BEQUESTS.

Bequest to person by particular description, who is not in existence at testator's death.

112. Where a bequest is made to a person by a particular description, and there is no person in existence at the testator's death who answers the description, the bequest is void.

[2] Where a will contains an immediate gift to the children of a living person and nothing more and there are children living at the death of the testator those children only take. Where, however, the period of distribution is postponed the gift will apply not only to the children living then at the death of the testator but also to those born before the period of distribution. (1891) 3 Ch. 197 (202), Mervin v. Crossman ✠ (1879) 5 App Cas 123 (134), Engeltina Dias v. Alfred De Livera. (Immediate gift—Children alive at the death of testator take.) ✠ ('94) 18 Bom. 7 (13). (Do.) ✠ ('05) 7 Bom. L R 207 (211). (Do.)

[3] Where the gift is by will to a class the rule of lapse of bequest does not apply. The true rule is that those members of the class who are at the testator's death capable of taking take and that those who become incapable of taking whether by dying in the testator's lifetime or by attesting the will or by some other operation of law do not take. (1876) 4 Ch D 165 (172, 173), In re Coleman and Jarrom.

[4] In case of a bequest to a class, even by a Hindu under a power of appointment, the appointment should be made during the life of the life tenant so that the appointee may be ascertained when the event arises when he is to take and secondly the persons who take must be alive at the death of the testator. ('92) 16 Bom 492 (499) (DB).

[See also (1803) 8 Ves Jun 375 (381) : 32 E R 400, Paul v. Compton. (Bequest to such of the children of A as B shall by will direct and in default of such directions, among the children share and share alike—B in executing her power of appointment is to take only those as objects of her disposition who were born before her death.)]

1. Scope.
2. Applicability to Hindu wills.
3. "Kindred."
4. Exception.

1. Scope.— [1] A person capable of taking under a will must be such a person as could take a gift inter vivos and, therefore, must either in fact or contempla-

Exception.—If property is bequeathed to a person described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to a specified individual, but his possession of it is deferred until a time later than the death of the testator, by reason of a prior bequest or otherwise; and if a person answering the description is alive at the death of the testator, or comes into existence between that event and such later time, the property shall, at such later time go to that person, or, if he is dead, to his representatives.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of B. At the death of the testator, B has no son. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life, and after his death to the eldest son of C. At the death of the testator, C had no son. Afterwards during the life of B, a son is born to C. Upon B's death the legacy goes to C's son.

(iii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life, and after his death to the eldest son of C. At the death of the testator, C had no son. Afterwards, during the life of B, a son, named D, is born to C. D dies, then B dies. The legacy goes to the representative of D.

(iv) A bequeaths his estate of Green Acre to B for life, and at his decease, to the eldest son of C. Up to the death of B, C has had no son. The bequest to C's eldest son is void.

(v) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of C, to be paid to him after the death of B. At the death of the testator C has no son, but a son is afterwards born to him during the life of B and is alive at B's death. C's son is entitled to the 1,000 rupees.

113. Where a bequest is made to a person not in existence at the time of the testator's death subject to a prior bequest contained in the will the later bequest shall be void, unless it comprises the whole of the remaining interest of the testator in the thing bequeathed.

Bequest to person not in existence at testator's death subject to prior bequest.

Illustrations.

(i) Property is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his eldest son for life, and after the death of the latter to his eldest son. At the time of the testator's death, A has no son. Here the bequest to A's eldest son is a bequest to a person not in existence at the testator's death. It is not a bequest of the whole interest that remains to the testator. The bequest to A's eldest son for his life is void.

tion of law be in existence at the death of the testator. ('97) 21 Bom 709 (721) : 24 Ind App 93 (P C).

[2] Will providing three legacies in succession—Last legatee or descendants of three to nominate successor—In event of disagreement between them Government to appoint successor. Will held invalid as offending rule of perpetuities and as creating interest in unborn persons. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 494 (506) : 5 Luck 305 (DB).

[3] A gift to a woman during widowhood and after death or remarriage to persons or class of persons living at her death, has been held to enure on her marriage for the immediate benefit of the persons or class of persons then living. (1918) 1 Ch 368 (370, 371), Watts v. Silvey.

2. Applicability to Hindu wills.—[1] Section 112 is not included in the limitation upon the power of a Hindu to make a bequest by will to an unborn person contained in S. 3 of the Hindu Disposition of Property Act—S. 112 therefore does not make a bequest by a Hindu in favour of an unborn person void) (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 396 (400) (DB). (('82) 8 Cal 637 (DB) held no longer good law.)

[But see (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 647 (649) : 12 Pat 708 (DB). (Hindu law—Bequest to L's first male child—Male child born to L only after death of testator — Gift is void—S. 112 is subject to restriction No. 1 of Sch. III.) ✠('82) 8 Cal 637 (638) (DB). (Reversing ('82) 8 Cal 157.)]

[2] The rules of Hindu law regarding wills are not affected by the Hindu Wills Act. S. 112 which has been made applicable by S. 3 of Wills Act to Hindus does not apply to wills under Hindu Law. ('12) 39 Cal 87 (93) (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 258 (264) : 44 Mad 446 (DB).

[3] The principle of Hindu law which invalidates a gift other than to a sentient being capable of accepting it does not apply to a bequest to trustees for the establishment of an image and the worship of a Hindu deity after the testator's death (and does not make such a bequest void). ('10) 37 Cal 128 (134) (F B).

3. "Kindred".— [1] The word "kindred" should not be limited to blood relations when that word is imported into a Hindu will. Therefore a bequest made by a Hindu father to the would-be wife of his son may be deemed a bequest to a person described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to his son. ('12) 39 Cal 87 (101, 103) (DB).

4. Exception. — [1] A will executed by a Hindu provided, inter alia : "A, first male child by the present wife to be heir in default of any male child being born to him or dying in childhood, either a son of B or C to be heir. The boy should live with the daughter-in-law as her adopted son". It was held that no son of A was in existence at the time of the testator's death and it could not have been within the contemplation of the testator that the operation of the bequest should be suspended indefinitely, the exception to S. 112 also could not apply. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 647 (649) : 12 Pat 708 (DB).

[2] The general principle that a donee must be in existence for the validity of a gift is subject to an exception in the case of conditional gifts on marriages, so that a bequest in favour of a girl who was to be married by the testator's son and who was in existence at the time of his death, is valid. ('12) 39 Cal 87 (92) (D B).

[1] Sections 100, 101, 102 constitute law of British India applicable to succession to property of every one except Hindus, Mahomedans or Buddhists. They are, therefore, applicable to those subject to a variety of systems of jurisprudence, and must therefore be cons-

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his daughters. A survives the testator. A has daughters some of whom were not in existence at the testator's death. The bequest to A's daughters comprises the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The bequest to A's daughters is valid.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his daughters, with a direction that, if any of them marries under the age of eighteen, her portion shall be settled so that it may belong to herself for life and may be divisible among her children after her death. A has no daughters living at the time of the testator's death, but has daughters born afterwards who survive him. Here the direction for a settlement has the effect in the case of each daughter who marries under eighteen of substituting for the absolute bequest to her a bequest to her merely for her life; that is to say, a bequest to a person not in existence at the time of the testator's death of something which is less than the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The direction to settle the fund is void.

(iv) A bequeaths a sum of money to B for life, and directs that upon the death of B the fund shall be settled upon his daughters, so that the portion of each daughter may belong to herself for life, and may be divided among her children after her death. B has no daughter living at the time of the testator's death. In this case the only bequest to the daughters of B is contained in the direction to settle the fund, and this direction amounts to a bequest to persons not yet born, of a life-interest in the fund, that is to say, of something which is less than the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The direction to settle the fund upon the daughters of B is void.

Rule against perpetuity.

114. No bequest is valid whereby the vesting of the thing bequeathed may be delayed beyond the lifetime of one or more persons living at the testator's death and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the thing bequeathed is to belong.

Illustrations.

(i) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life and after his death to B for his life; and after B's death to such of the sons of B as shall first attain the age of 25. A and B survive the testator. Here the son of B who shall first attain the age of 25 may be a son born after the death of the testator; such son may not attain 25 until more than 18 years have elapsed from the death of the longer liver of A and B; and the vesting of the fund may thus be delayed beyond the lifetime of A and B and the minority of the sons of B. The bequest after B's death is void.

[2] Omission of S. 100 in Act 8 of 1921 does not make S. 113 inapplicable to Hindu wills in Madras. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 705 (708) : 58 Mad 15 (D B). (Hindu will in city of Madras conferring life estate on son and after his death a life interest by way of remainder to son's wife with a further gift after her death to certain other person. Wife not in existence at the death of testator—Gift to wife is void.)

[3] Rules in Ss. 113 and 114 have to be applied as at the testator's death. They include the possibilities existing at that time and are not confined to actual events (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 396 (401, 405, 406) (D B). (Testator's will after creating some maintenance allowances providing in cl. (9) that legitimate sons, natural or adopted, of his son A would be entitled to residuary estate, actual vesting taking place after only son or youngest son completes 21 years — No son born to or adopted by A till testator's death — A adoptiug son after testator's death — In suit by A claiming residuary estate to exclusion of his son, held that bequest in cl. (9) did not offend against provisions of Ss. 113 and 114 — A's son held became entitled to residuary estate on his adoption.)

[4] Reference to a prior bequest in the section does not exclude the idea of more than one prior bequest. The illustrations given in the text beneath these sections do not indicate that when there are two or more prior life interests the bequest would be void even if it comprised the whole of the interest of the testator. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad. 22 (23). (Hindu will — After testator's and his wife's death his only daughter K and children that might be born to her to enjoy his property—Will held conferred absolute estate on K — Bequest to K's children held valid under S. 113.)

[5] If there is a possibility of the interest given to a beneficiary being defeated either by contingency or by a defeasance clause, the beneficiary under the later bequest does not receive the interest bequeathed in the same unfettered form as that in which the testator held it and the bequest to him does not, therefore, comprise the whole of the remaining interest of the testator in the thing bequeathed within S. 113. The executors were to hand over the funds to P's trustees, who were to create a trust so that the funds may go to the children of P. P was not married till the death of H. Subsequently P married D and had from her a daughter V, who died shortly after her birth. P then died without any issue but left a will leaving the funds to D absolutely. It was held that P took only a life interest in the funds and further that V, immediately she was born and came into existence became entitled to the bequest. After V's death P took as V's representative and hence bequest by P in favour of D was valid. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom. 134 (136-138).

1. Scope.
2. Applicability to Hindu wills.
3. Bequests to charitable objects.
4. "In existence."
5. "Thing bequeathed."
6. Bequest to a class.

1. Scope.—[1] When by a disposition a previous life estate is created, and the ulterior estate is bequeathed to a person on his attaining age, such disposition is valid. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 812 (813) (D B).

[2] Vested Interest—Testator's intention to vest the interest in his son's sons before they attain the age of twenty-five and to divest them of it if they die before

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B for his life, and after B's death to such of B's sons as shall first attain the age of 25. B dies in the lifetime of the testator, leaving one or more sons. In this case the sons of B are persons living at the time of the testator's decease and the time when either of them will attain 25 necessarily falls within his own lifetime. The bequest is valid.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B for his life, with a direction that after B's death it shall be divided amongst such of B's children as shall attain the age of 18, but that, if no child of B shall attain that age, the fund shall go to C. Here the time for the division of the fund must arrive at the latest at the expiration of 18 years from the death of B, a person living at the testator's decease. All the bequests are valid.

(iv) A fund is bequeathed to trustees for the benefit of the testator's daughters, with a direction that, if any of them marry under age, her share of the fund shall be settled so as to devolve after her death upon such of her children as shall attain the age of 18. Any daughter of the testator to whom the direction applies must be in existence at his decease, and any portion of the fund which may eventually be settled as directed must vest not later than 18 years from the death of the daughters whose share it was. All these provisions are valid.

attaining that age — Payment of interest and not vesting dependant upon attaining that age — Question of remoteness does not arise. (1899) 2 Ch. 739 (746) In re Turney; Turney v. Turney.

[3] The rule contained in this section has to be applied as at the testator's death and include possibilities existing at that time and are not confined to actual events. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal. 396 (400) (DB) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Cal. 809 (812, 813): 46 Cal. 485 (DB) ✠ ('02) 29 Cal. 260 (276, 277) ✠ (1888) 39 Ch D 155 (158), In re Dawson; Johnston v. Hill.

[4] The mere fact of some of the restrictions and qualifications in the will being void, cannot affect the validity of the arrangement. ('04) 31 Cal 111 (127) (DB).

[5] A person created a will in which he said that his estate shall remain intact and that his heirs, sons, son's sons and great grandsons and so on in succession shall be entitled to enjoy the profits thereof. Alienation was strictly prohibited by the will as also division of the estate. Held, that what the testator intended to give was the enjoyment of the profits to the persons mentioned in the will and that as his object was to create a perpetuity as regards the estate and to limit, for an indefinite period the enjoyment of the profit thereof the bequest was invalid. ('85) 11 Cal. 684 (692, 693) : 12 Ind App 103 (P C).

2. Applicability to Hindu wills. — [1] This section lays down a special rule which differs from the English law on the subject and there is no reason why it should be invoked for the construction of Hindu wills made before the section had come into operation. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 461 (463) (DB).

[2] The rule in S. 114 must be applied in the light of the Hindu Disposition of Property Act, the provisions of which are subject to the section. Therefore, a bequest to an unborn person or a class is valid provided the bequest vests in that person or in the whole or some members of that class within the period prescribed by the section. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 396 (404) (DB).

[See however (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 258 (267) : 44 Mad 446 (DB). (The fact that a bequest is void under Hindu law is not a ground for refusing to apply S. 101, and to hold that it is void also under this section so as to attract the provisions of S. 102.)]

[3] The will of a Hindu provided: "If no son is born but one or more daughters are born, then those daughters shall with sons, grandsons and so on in succession receive ownership of my estate. If no children are born to me my nephew shall become my sthulabhishikto and keep the estate intact and enjoy proceeds of my estate with sons and grandsons and so on in succession:" Held that there is not any express prohibition against alienation of the estates which were heritable and the gift is valid. ('97) 24 Cal 834 (849) : 24 Ind App 76 (PC).

[4] See also Note 13 under S. 13 of the A. I. R. Commentary on Transfer of Property Act 1882.

3. Bequests to charitable objects. — [1] The positive language of the provision in this section is sufficient to preclude the application of the English Law to determine the validity of bequests in favour of charitable objects. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 809 (812) : 46 Cal 485 (DB).

[2] The language of this section is clear and unequivocal and applies to all bequests whether they are of charitable nature or not, In this respect it differs from the rule of English law in which an exception is made in favour of charities. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 809 (813): 46 Cal 485 (DB). (Bequest of property to church subject to certain conditions — On breach of conditions property to be made over to another church — Gift over held invalid for remoteness.) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 305 (310) : 1941 Rang L R 410 (DB).

[See however ('05) 1 Cal L Jour 605 (614). (Hindu will — Where the purposes are clearly religious and charitable in their nature, the trust is not invalid merely because it transgresses against the rule which forbids the creation of perpetuity.)]

[4] Testator's will containing gift of residue of his estate to a family idol—Testator appointing his brothers as shebaits and directing maintenance of their families out of offerings to deity: Held, that will contains a gift of entire property to the idol, that the members take only maintenance from the offerings made to idol and the gift is valid. ('89) 16 Cal 103 (114) : 15 Ind App 159 (PC).

[5] A bequest for the performance of masses according to the forms of the Roman Catholic religion whether the masses be for the testator's own soul or for souls generally is void as it offends the rule against perpetuities. ('92) 15 Mad 424 (442) (DB).

[6] Direction in will that the trustee should look after and keep in repair the graves of himself, his wife and his child is not a charity but a perpetuity and therefore void. ('13) 40 Cal 192 (207).

4. "In existence". — [1] The section makes distinction between living person and person in existence. The words 'in existence' must mean 'existence in law and be either in fact or in contemplation of law. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 396 (412) (DB). (Held, after-adopted person is person in existence at father's death.)

5. 'Thing bequeathed'.—[1] All property, whatever be its nature, is subject to the rule of perpetuity enunciated in S. 114. ('96) 20 Bom 511 (516) (DB) ✠ ('92) 15 Mad 424 (446) (DB) ✠ (1916) 1 Ch 91 (96), In re Atkinson; Atkinson v. Atkinson.

Bequest to a class some of whom may come under rules in sections 113 and 114.

115. If a bequest is made to a class of persons with regard to some of whom it is inoperative by reason of the provisions of section 113 or section 114, such bequest shall be [a][void in regard to those persons only and not in regard to the whole class].

(i) A fund is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to all his children who shall attain the age of 25. A survives the testator, and has some children living at the testator's death. Each child of A's living at the testator's death must attain the age of 25 (if at all) within the limits allowed for a bequest. But A may have children after the testator's decease, some of whom may not attain the age of 25 until more than 18 years have elapsed after the decease of A. The bequest to A's children, therefore, is inoperative as to any child born after the testator's death, [b][and in regard to those who do not attain the age of 25 within 18 years after A's death, but is operative in regard to the other children of A].

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B, C, D and all other children of A who shall attain the age of 25. B, C, D are children of A living at the testator's decease. In all other respects the case is the same as that supposed in illustration (i). [b][Although the mention of B, C and D does not prevent the bequest from being regarded as a bequest to a class, it is not wholly void. It is operative as regards any of the children B, C or D, who attains the age of 25 within 18 years after A's death.]

6. Bequest to a class.—[1] The rule with regard to perpetuities is that the limitation must be such that every member of the class, where it is the question of a class gift, must of necessity take within the time allowed. (1888) 39 Ch D 155 (164), Johnston v. Hill; In re Dawson.

[2] Limitations to a woman for life and then to any husband she may intermarry and who may survive her for life and then to her children is not within the rule against perpetuities where the ultimate takers are to be the children of a person living at the date of a will. (1915) 1 Ch 493 (502), In re Bullock's Will Trusts; Bullock v. Bullock.

[3] Where the vesting of the legacy is postponed for the lifetime of persons living at the testator's death and a period of twenty-one years, the legacy in favour of all the legatees fails if it fails as regards any, due to non-fulfilment of the condition laid down in the Majority Act for extending the period of minority up to 21 years. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 258 (261) : 44 Mad 446 (DB). (Case before the amendment of S. 115 in 1929.) ✠ ('13) 17 Cal W N 488 (489, 490) (PC). Section 115 — Note 1

[1] This section as it stood before the amendment in 1929 was based upon the English Rule as laid down in Leake v. Robinson (1817) 2 Mer 363 (390, 391) : 35 E R 979.

[2] In England it is well settled, that where a gift is made to a class of persons, some of whom are incapable of taking, the disposition fails as to all. This rule rests upon the ground that the intention of the testator was to benefit all the members of his class equally, and that it is impossible to know what shape his wishes would have taken if he had known that they could not be carried out as intended. The rule was applied in this country to the wills of Hindus as in consonance with the Hindu law and a convenient rule to follow. ('02) 29 Cal 260 (276) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 P C 244 (247) : 52 Ind App 310 : 48 Mad 906 (P C) ✠ ('84) 6 All 560 (572, 573, 574) : 11 Ind App 164 (P C). (Gift of ancestral property by Hindu father to his grandson with consent of son— Deed expressing gift to children of testator's son — Gift deed, a sort of family arrangement — Immediate transfer of possession in grandson's name : Held that the deed confers a present interest upon a present person and is not affected by Ss. 100, 101 and 102 of Act of 1865.)

(Hindu will—Class can be ascertained within time allowed—Certain members only incapable of taking —Gift as a whole is not void—Section does not apply.)]

[3] This section itself does not confine its application to members of a class who are in existence at the date of a testator's death. The section is of general application and effect and applies to all members of a class in whose favour a bequest is made. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 396 (403) (D B).

1. Object and scope.
2. "Nearer relative."
3. Religious or charitable uses.
4. Doctrine of cypres— Applicability.
5. Twelve months.
6. Withdrawal from custody—Effect.

1. Object and scope.—[1] The intention of the Legislature in enacting S. 118 was to prevent death-bed bequests to charitable trusts by persons having near relatives, and the section must be construed in a sense which is in harmony with that intention, and so as to give a real meaning to each part of the section, if that can be done without doing violence to the plain language thereof, and not so as to reduce one of the provisions of the section to an absurdity. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 305 (313): 1941 Rang L R 410 (D B).

[2] The bequest may be a direct bequest or a contingent bequest. So long as it is a bequest to charity the section is wide enough to make it applicable to bequests of any kind. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 317 (318) (D B).

[3] But before a bequest to charity can be held to be good under S. 118, the following conditions must be fulfilled. First the will must be executed not less than twelve months before the death of the testator, secondly, it must be deposited within six months from the execution in some place provided by law and thirdly, the testator has a nephew or niece or any nearer relative and he is alive at the time of the death of the testator. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 317 (318) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 30 (38) (D B). (Son and daughter living— Bequest to charity within 12 months of death. Will not deposited— Bequest to charity held void.)

2. 'Nearer relative'.— [1] An adopted son may be included in the expression "nearer relative" but wife is not such a relative. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 131 (132) (DB).

3. Religious or charitable uses.—[1] "Charitable uses" do not mean those clauses of the will which define the investment and deal with the funds but means the same thing as "charitable purposes". (1901) 2 Ch 640 (644, 646), Lewis v Sutton. (Continuing trust to provide dwelling for the poor at reduced rent held charitable.)

[2] The following cases are the instances of good and valid charitable bequests : (Vol 29) 1942 Rang 64 (65); 1941 Rang L R 712 (720) (DB). (Bequest to Bhishop Strachan's Home for Girls, Rangoon)✠(1851) 14 Beav 509 (524) : 51 E R 381, Whicker v. Hume. (Bequest for the benefit, advancement and propogation of education and learning in every part of the world.) ✠ (1918) 1 Ch 228 (231), Brandwood v. Haden. (Bequest of income of fund to provide an annual treat or field day for the school children of certain parish) ✠ (1879) 4 Cal 443 (454) (DB). (Bequests for Annual Shradhs or anniversaries of testator, his father, mother and grand-father; performance of ceremonies, feeding Brahmins and the poor, annual contributions and gifts to Brahmins ; contribution towards the marriage of daughters of the poor of the testator's class and of poor Brahmins and for the education of the sons of the poor and of other respectable class—Quaere — Whether bequests to Pundits holding tols and for reading the Mahabharat and Poranas and for prayer of God are valid.)

[3] The following cases illustrate what are not valid charitable bequests : (1913) 40 Cal 192 (209). (Trust for keeping the graves of the testator, his wife and family in repairs—Expenses to be paid out of trust estate — Trust held a perpetuity and not a charity.) (1902) 1902 App Cas 37 (42), Blair v. Duncan. (Residue of testator's estate to be applied for "such charitable or public purposes as my trustee thinks proper" — Direction held void for uncertainty.) ✠ (1902) 26 Bom 632 (636). (A bequest for "some one or more charitable, educational and other philanthropic institution or institutions.) ✠ (1863) 1 Bom H C R 71 (74). (Bequest to "Dharma" in Hindu bequest.)

[4] Where a testator completely sets apart specific properties for specific purposes and describes the manner in which the income of these properties is to be employed, the bequest is not invalid merely because there is no express gift to any specific idol or because certain idol sare non-existent. (1905) 1 Cal L Jour 605 (613, 614).

[5] An immediate gift to a charity for charitable purposes with a gift over, an event which may occur beyond the limit of perpetuities, to another charity is not illegal. (1913) 40 Cal 192 (212).

4. Doctrine of cypres—Applicability.—[1] Held doctrine could not be applied as the gift to charity failed owing to failure of condition precedent upon which it depended. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 389 (391, 392) : 48 Cal 124 (DB). (Doctrine of cypres is that when a general intention of charity is manifest but the particular object of the bounty of the founder cannot be carried out literally, it must be carried into effect as nearly as possible. To attract its application an absolute declaration of intention to give to charity must be established.) ✠ (1912) 1 Ch. 106 (110), Pearson v. Webster. (Bequest to "the Ormond Home for Nurses, a nursing home run by testatrix midwife for the poor. Directions for carrying on the home for next few months given in the will—No person or institution of the above name. General intention to provide for nursing of working women —Disposition held valid.)

[2] Where the testator has manifested a general charitable intention, it should not fail to be carried out merely because the executors are all dead and the particular land in which a charitable institution is to be erected is not available for the purpose. CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE VESTING OF LEGACIES.

Date of vesting of legacy when payment or possession postponed.

119. Where by the terms of a bequest the legatee is not entitled to immediate possession of the thing bequeathed, a right to receive it at the proper time shall, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, become vested in the legatee on the testator's death, and shall pass to the legatee's representatives if he dies before that time and without having received the legacy, and in such cases the legacy is from the testator's death said to be vested in interest.

Explanation.—An intention that a legacy to any person shall not become vested in interest in him is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the payment or possession of the thing bequeathed is postponed, or whereby a prior interest therein is bequeathed to some other person, or whereby the income arising from the fund bequeathed is directed to be accumulated until the time of payment arrives, or from a provision that, if a particular event shall happen, the legacy shall go over to another person.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B 100 rupees, to be paid to him at the death of C. On A's death the legacy becomes vested in interest in B, and if he dies before C, his representatives are entitled to the legacy.

(ii) A bequeaths to B 100 rupees, to be paid to him upon his attaining the age of 18. On A's death the legacy becomes vested in interest in B.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B. On the testator's death the legacy to B becomes vested in interest in B.

(iv) A fund is bequeathed to A until B attains the age of 18 and then to B. The legacy to B is vested in interest from the testator's death.

(v) A bequeaths the whole of his property to B upon trust to pay certain debts out of the income, and then to make over the fund to C. At A's death the gift to C becomes vested in interest in him.

(vi) A fund is bequeathed to A, B and C in equal shares to be paid to them on their attaining the age of 18, respectively, with a proviso that, if all of them die under the age of 18, the legacy shall devolve upon D. On the death of the testator, the shares vested in interest in A, B and C, subject to be divested in case A, B and C shall all die under 18, and, upon the death of any of them (except the last survivor) under the age of 18, his vested interest passes, so subject, to his representatives.

SECTION 119—SYNOPSIS.

1. "Vested in interest."
2. Postponement of payment or possession—Effect.
3. Bequest of prior interest—Effect.
4. Condition divesting interest.

1. "Vested in interest."— [1] The ordinary distinction between vested and contingent interest consists in the nature of the event or condition upon which the donee should take the property. If the event is one which must happen, it is a vested interest but if if the event is uncertain which may or may not happen the interest is contingent. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 885 (886) (DB). (Interest taking effect on termination of two life estates is vested one.)

[2] A devise or bequest in favour of a person in esse simply i.e., without any intimation of a desire to suspend or postpone its operations confers an immediately vested interest. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 466 (467) (DB).

[3] Where it is doubtful whether a condition is precedent or subsequent, the Court prima facie treats it as being subsequent ; for there is a presumption in favour of early vesting. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 270 (275, 276) (PC).

[4] The existence of power of appointment does not prevent vesting of the remainder because where estate is subjected to a general power of appointment in the first taker with remainder over in default of such appointment, the power does not suspend the remainder from vesting. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 163 (164) (DB).

[5] Residuary legatee's interest, though finally it may turn out to be nothing, is vested interest and can be attached in execution. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 76 (76). (He becomes proprietor only after the administration is completed, residue ascertained and made over to him.)

[6] Comparison of S. 98 with S. 106 (now Ss. 111 and 119 respectively) makes it clear that the title to the property bequeathed to a class of persons certainly vests in such of the persons of that class who are actually alive at the testator's death. It is because of such legal vesting of title that even the representatives of any of those dying since the death of the testator get a share in property, when time arrives for distribution. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 885 (887) (DB) (Mortgage of his interest by remainderman during lifetime of life tenant is valid.)

[7] In substance there is not much difference in a trust to pay until the happening of the certain event and trust to pay that is abrogated on the happening of that event. But legal effects in the two cases is widely different. In the first case, trust will fail altogether. In the second case. trust will remain and clause of abrogation will fail. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 270 (276) (PC).

[See also (1905) 2 Ch 295 (300), In re Francis; Francis v. Francis. (A devise to A when he shall attain a given age is contingent.)]

2. Postponement of payment or possession—Effect.—[1] The mere fact that a legatee is not entitled to its immediate possession of the thing bequeathed does not make it a contingent bequest. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 885 (886) (DB).

[2] As a general rule, where a testator creates a particular estate and then goes on to dispose of the ulterior interest expressly in an event which will determine the prior estate, the words and description of such event occurring in the latter devise will be construed as referring merely to the period of the determination of the possession or enjoyment under the prior gift and not as designed to postpone the vesting. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 466 (467) (DB). (Will granting life interest in property to widow of testator and after her death, absolute ownership to his son—Entire interest of testator parcelled out between widow and son—Estate of testator held vested in his son after testator's death.)

Date of vesting when legacy contingent upon specified uncertain event.

120. (1) A legacy bequeathed in case a specified uncertain event shall happen does not vest until that event happens.

(2) A legacy bequeathed in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen does not vest until the happening of that event becomes impossible.

(3) In either case, until the condition has been fulfilled, the interest of the legatee is called contingent.

Exception.—Where a fund is bequeathed to any person upon his attaining a particular age, and the will also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from the fund before he reaches that age, or directs the income, or so much of it as may be necessary, to be applied for his benefit, the bequest of the fund is not contingent.

[3] A testator gave all his property after the death of himself and his wife to his daughter A and his nephew B. B died after testator but before the death of his wife—Held B had vested interest on death of the testator which was transmissible to his heirs though possession and enjoyment was postponed. (1911) 33 All 558 (559) (SB).

[4] Hindu will — Bequest to testator's mother and wife for their lives without any power of alienation and after their death, to the sons of his sister who are now in existence as also those who may be born hereafter to be held in equal shares in possession and enjoyment by right of inheritance—Held, testator did not intend merely to declare right of inheritance but to give the sister's sons a vested interest in their share at his death, postponing their possession and enjoyment till the death of his mother and wife. (1911) 38 Cal 468 (473) : 38 Ind App 54 (PC).

[5] A dying leaving behind sons B and C, and a will under which B and C to get life-interest contingent upon satisfaction of certain conditions— After death of B and C their issue to enjoy property 'at proper time'— B dying leaving infant son D and C dying without issue — C's widow adopting E before D attains majority — Suit for declaration of his right under will by D—Held, though estate vested in D at B's death, the period of distribution arose 'at proper time' which meant date of D's majority—E being adopted before that date was entitled to half share. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 835 (836, 837) (DB).

[6] Testator bequeathing all his real and personal estate to his wife absolutely— In the event of wife predeceasing testator trustees and executors empowered to create a fund in cash by selling and converting into money real or personal property other than money and to hold that in trust and to divide the money amongst the several persons named in the will according to the shares given—Payment to be made when the legatees attained the age of twenty-one in the case of males and in the case of females when they attained that age or married —Wife predeceasing testator — Held that the legatees got a vested interest in their several shares upon the death of the testator. (1884) 6 All 583 (593, 597) (DB). (Held that a divesting clause operated against the suitor in this case and that he was not therefore entitled to the legacy.)

3. Bequest of prior interest—Effect.—[1] A bequest on the death of a life-tenant is bequest to take effect not on a contingency but on an event which must happen and is therefore vested. (Vol 34) 1947 Oudh 45 (60) (DB). (Bequest by A to his wife for life and then to his daughter's son B absolutely — B acquires vested interest from testator's death) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 253 (256) (DB). (Bequest of absolute estate with intervention of two life-estates—Held, thing is not unknown to Hindu law and is valid even apart from Succession Act — Possession and not vesting is postponed.) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 All 102 (104) (DB) ✠ (1928) 109 I C 654 (654) (Lah) ✠ (1905) 27 All 406 (409) (DB). (Remainderman can sue for injunction to restrain the life-estate holder from committing waste.)

[2] Ordinarily the words "after the death of the life-tenant" operate to vest the estate both in the life-tenant and in the remainderman on the death of the testator. The ordinary meaning of vest is vested in interest (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 202 (204, 205) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 305. (Bequest to wife for life and after her death to vest in his sons who may be then in existence—Vesting held postponed to death of wife—Son's interest held contingent and not vested within S. 119.) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 163 (165) (DB). (Life-estate given to two persons by will with remainder to other person — Interest in the remainder is not a mere chance or possibility but vested interest which is transferable.)

[3] The fact that trustees are legatees to take after termination of life-estate does not make any difference. If they predecease the life tenant, representatives of trustees take the interest. (1882) 4 Mad 124 (127) (DB).

[4] A Parsi devised house to his wife for life and then to his son A and after his death to his widow and issues if any and then to his another son B—A died in the life time of testator's wife and did not leave widow or child. It was held that B became entitled to the estate subject to life-estate of his mother. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 206 (209): 43 Bom 88: 45 Ind App 257 (PC) ('In the event of death' means 'on' the death.)

[5] Where a will confers life-estate on a widow and vested interest in the sons after her death in equal shares the interest of son dying before widow passes to his heirs, but where an agreement between the brothers provides that they would take the property in equal shares, after their step mother's death, interest of brother dying before the mother, passes to his full brother by inheritance. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 691 (692).

4. Condition divesting interest.—[1] Interest in favour of wife and sons—Defeasance clause —On construction held, wife's interest was vested and indefeasible but son's interest vested and defeasible. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 7 (8) (PC).

1. Contingent interests.
2. Exception.

1. Contingent interests.—[1] Where there is no gift but only a direction to transfer from and after a given event, the vesting would be postponed till after that event has happened, unless, from particular circumstances, contrary intention can be collected. (1817) 2 Mer 363 (387): 35 E R 979, Leake v. Robinson ✠ (1905) 2 Ch. 295 (298), In re Francis; Francis v. Francis. Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to D in case A, B and C shall all die under the age of 18. D has a contingent interest in the legacy until A, B and C all die under 18, or one of them attains that age.

(ii) A sum of money is bequeathed to A "in case he shall attain the age of 18", or "when he shall attain the age of 18". A's interest in the legacy is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by his attaining that age.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B if B shall then be living; but if B shall not be then living to C. A, B and C survive the testator. B and C each take a contingent interest in the estate until the event which is to vest it in one or in the other has happened.

(iv) An estate is bequeathed as in the case last supposed. B dies in the lifetime of A and C. Upon the death of B, C acquires a vested right to obtain possession of the estate upon A's death.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A when she shall attain the age of 18, or shall marry under that age with the consent of B, with a proviso that, if she neither attains 18 nor marries under that age with B's consent, the legacy shall go to C. A and C each take a contingent interest in the legacy. A attains the age of 18. A becomes absolutely entitled to the legacy although she may have married under 18 without the consent of B.

(vi) An estate is bequeathed to A until he shall marry and after that event to B. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by A's marrying.

(vii) An estate is bequeathed to A until he shall take advantage of any law for the relief of insolvent debtors, and after that event to B. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until A takes advantage of such a law.

(viii) An estate is bequeathed to A if he shall pay 500 rupees to B. A's interest in the bequest is contingent until he has paid 500 rupees to B.

(ix) A leaves his farm of Sultanpur Khurd to B, if B shall convey his own farm of Sultanpur Buzurg to C. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until he has conveyed the latter farm to C.

(x) A fund is bequeathed to A if B shall not marry C within five years after the testator's death. A's interest in the legacy is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by the expiration of the five years without B's having married C, or by the occurrence within that period of an event which makes the fulfilment of the condition impossible.

(xi) A fund is bequeathed to A if B shall not make any provision for him by will. The legacy is contingent until B's death.

(xii) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees a year upon his attaining the age of 18, and directs that the interest, or a competent part thereof, shall be applied for his benefit until he reaches that age. The legacy is vested.

(xiii) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees when he shall attain the age of 18, and directs that a certain sum, out of another fund, shall be applied for his maintenance until he arrives at that age. The legacy is contingent.

Vesting of interest in bequest to such members of a class as shall have attained particular age.

121. Where a bequest is made only to such members of a class as shall have attained a particular age, a person who has not attained that age cannot have a vested interest in the legacy.

to educate him and when son comes of age to hand over the residue to him : Held, son's interest is merely contingent.)

[2] A bequest of legacy or an estate on a future contingent event is good under this section. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 782 (784) : 41 Cal 642 (DB) (Hindu will — Widow authorised to adopt—Bequest to sister's son in case widow dying before adoption or adopted son dying before widow: Held, bequest to sister's son is good)

[3] Where a legacy is payable only if and when a contingency occurs and if that contingency occurs in the life-time of the testator, it cannot be claimed under the will. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 191 (198) : 54 Bom 358.

[4] A bequeathing property to B—On B's death property to devolve on B's issue or in default of issue, on C —C predeceasing B who died issueless : Held, sub-s. (1) and not (2) applied and C did not acquire any vested interest which could descend to his heirs. (1939) 20 Pat L. T. 90 (92) (DB).

2. Exception. — [1] If a share of a residuary estate is given to a person to be paid or transferred to that person on attaining a particular age and there is a maintenance clause providing for maintenance in the meantime out of the income of that share then the share is vested. (1903) 1 Ch 448 (451), In re Gossling, Gossling v. Elcock ✠ (1888) 12 Bom 137 (147) ✠ (1875) 19 E Q 286 (290, 291), Fox v Fox. (Interest is not less vested because there is a direction conferred on the trustees to apply less than whole income for that purpose.)✠ (1887) 34 Ch D 716 (720), In re Bevan's Trusts.

[2] Where the provisions in a will amount to a direction to spend a part of the income for the benefit of the legatee, it would be sufficient to bring the case within the exception. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 96 (102 (DB). (Reversed in (Vol 12) 1925 P C 27 : 49 Bom 167: 52 Ind App 95 (PC) on another point.)

[3] Direction to executor to spend income from fund for maintenance of family and if there was a surplus to spend it in certain other ways—No definite ascertained interest can be held to arise from the fund within the meaning of the exception. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 27 (28, 29) : 52 Ind App 95 : 49 Bom 167 (PC).

[4] Interest in corpus given to unborn grand-children on attaining 18 and on surviving their father—Gifts are subject to double contingency and exception does not apply. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 67 (70) : I L R (1944) Kar (PC) 238 : 71 Ind App 93 (PC).

[5] Where corpus is not given to the legatee from the date of death but could be spent by executor exception does not apply. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 27 (28, 29) : 52 Ind App 95 : 49 Bom 167 (PC).

[1] Where the words of contingency form part of the description of the class of persons to take, such as gift to those "who shall attain the age of twenty-one" the words must receive their natural construction and no estate vests in any one till he attains the prescribed age. (1881) 7 Cal 218 (223).

[2] In the case of words of contingency occurring in the description of persons to take, a mere gift over is not sufficient to change their meaning. (1881) 7 Cal 218 (224).

A fund is bequeathed to such of the children of A as shall attain the age of 18, with a direction that, while any child of A shall be under the age of 18, the income of the share, to which it may be presumed he will be eventually entitled, shall be applied for his maintenance and education. No child of A who is under the age of 18 has a vested interest in the bequest.

CHAPTER IX.

OF ONEROUS BEQUESTS.

Onerous bequests.

122. Where a bequest imposes an obligation on the legatee, he can take nothing by it unless he accepts it fully.

Illustration.

A, having shares in (X), a prosperous joint stock company and also shares in (Y), a joint stock company in difficulties, in respect of which shares heavy calls are expected to be made, bequeaths to B all his shares in joint stock companies; B refuses to accept the shares in (Y). He forfeits the shares in (X).

One of two separate and independent bequests to same person may be accepted, and other refused.

123. Where a will contains two separate and independent bequests to the same person, the legatee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the other, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

Illustration.

A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is higher than the house can be let for, bequeaths to B the lease and a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He will not by this refusal forfeit the money.

CHAPTER X.

OF CONTINGENT BEQUESTS.

Bequest contingent upon specified uncertain event, no time being mentioned for its occurrence.

124. Where a legacy is given if a specified uncertain event shall happen and no time is mentioned in the will for the occurrence of that event, the legacy cannot take effect, unless such event happens before the period when the fund bequeathed is payable or distributable.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A, and, in case of his death, to B. If A survives the testator, the legacy to B does not take effect.

21 years the shares shall belong to the survivors in the class" : Held, that the children dying before that age took no shares and that 21 years age of the legatee was the age of vesting and not of payment. (1888) 12 Bom 137 (148, 149).

[1] Hindu will — Bequest to testator's wife for her life and after her death to son if any adopted by her — In absence of adoption, property to pass absolutely to A provided he resided in testator's ancestral house — On failure of A to obey the condition to other relations on the same condition — Widow not adopting any son but selling the house — A joining widow in sale of house : Held, A's interest though absolute a condition of a residence was superadded to it. The condition was valid but as its fulfilment was rendered impossible by A by joining in the sale, A forfeited his interest. (1913) 17 Cal W N 39 (41) (DB).

[2] Ordinarily, the executor or the administrator would be the legal representative and the estate that is to be paid out to the legatees would be the estate minus the liabilities on it. In case, however, there is only one legatee and there is no executor or administrator to manage the estate, it may be taken that the estate that vests in him must be the estate minus all the liabilities on it and the legatee would be liable in respect of such causes of action that survived the deceased. (Vol 32) 1945 All 433 (439) : I L R (1946) All 1 (DB).

[1] This section reverses the rule in (1834) 3 My & K 252 (254): 40 E R 96, Talbot v. Earl of Radnor. (Bequest of lease-hold house and annuity for life — Rent reserved by lease higher than house would let : Held, legatee cannot reject lease and retain annuity but must take both.)

[2] When two distinct legacies or gifts are made by a will to one person he is, as a general rule, entitled to take one and disclaim the other, but his right to do so may be rebutted if there is anything in the will to show that it was the testator's intention that that option should not exist. (1883) 22 Ch D 573 (577), Guthree v. Walrond ✠ (1896) 2 Ch 511 (516), Frewen v. Law Life Assurance Society ✠ (1886) 32 Ch D 408 (417, 418), Freke v. Calmady. (It does not at all depend upon the question whether it is given in one sentence or in two sentences.)

[3] Where, however, the question arises upon a single and undivided gift, such gift is a prima facie evidence of testator's intention to make the gift indivisible and the legatee has no option. He shall either take it all or none of it. (1883) 22 Ch D 573 (577), Guthree v. Walrond ✠ (1896) 2 Ch 511 (516, 517), Frewen v Law Life Assurance Society.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. "Specified uncertain event".
3. "No time is mentioned".
4. Period of payment or distribution.
5. Event must happen before the period.

1. Scope and applicability. [1] This section embodies the rule enunciated in (1852) 15 Beav 357 (362): 21 L J Ch 324, Edwards v. Edwards, which is

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, and, in case of his death without children, to B. If A survives the testator or dies in his lifetime leaving a child, the legacy to B does not take effect.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A when and if he attains the age of 18, and, in case of his death, to B. A attains the age of 18. The legacy to B does not take effect.

(iv) A legacy is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death to B, and, "in case of B's death without children," to C. The words "in case of B's death without children" are to be understood as meaning "in case B dies without children during the lifetime of A".

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death to B, and, "in case of B's death," to C. The words "in case of B's death" are to be considered as meaning "in case B dies in the lifetime of A".

however, considerably modified by later English decisions (e g. see O'Mahoney v. Burdett, (1874) 7 H L 388 (404)). It should be applied only to cases strictly coming within its scope. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 101 (103) : 43 Ind App 12 : 43 Cal 432 (P C). (Affirming (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 782 : 41 Cal 642 (DB).)✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 34 (35) (D B).

[2] The reason of the rule is that when there is a gift followed by a contingent gift over the inclination of the gift over is to interfere as little as possible with the first gift; the second gift is therefore read as a gift in substitution and not in remainder. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 281 (282).

[3] Section 124 only applies, if without doing violence to the terms of the will, it can be held, as a matter of words, that the occurrence of the uncertain event prior to "the period when the fund bequeathed is payable or distributable' is alone within the contemplation of the testator. If the terms of the will make that construction of his words impossible the section then does not apply. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 55 (59, 60) (DB). (Section embodies both a rule of construction and a rule of law.) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 P C 269 (272) : 60 Cal 554: 59 Ind App 419 (P C) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 281 (282). (The rule in this section is at the most a rule of construction and, therefore, is subject to any other provisions in the will which may rebut its application)

[But see (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 126 (127):12 Pat 18(DB). (The intention of the testator is immaterial.) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (356) (D B). (The rule enunciated in this section is a rule of law and not a rule of construction.) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 414 (415) (DB). (The rule laid down in this section is a statutory rule of construction which the Courts are bound to follow. It cannot be contradicted by other evidence appearing on the face of the will)]

[4] Applicability of the section should not be based on forced interpretation of the will as opposed to the natural meaning of the words used. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 81 (82) (D B).

[5] The principle underlying this section cannot be applied as a rule of justice, equity and good conscience in construction of a will to which Succession Act does not apply. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 34 (35) (D B). (Hindu will prior to 1927.)

[6] This section applies to bequests of all descriptions of property as there is no difference in India between real and personal property. (1896) 23 Cal 563 (573) : 23 Ind App 18 (P C).

[8] Section applicable to cases under Hindu Wills Act, is not applicable to Punjab. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 649 (650) (D B).

2. "Specified uncertain event"—[1] Gift not made contingent on the happening of an uncertain event — This section does not apply. (1911) 38 Cal 327 (335) : 38 Ind App 7 (P C).

[2] Uncertainty or certainty of event is with reference to time of its happening. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 258 (268) : 44 Mad 446 (D B).

[3] Death simpliciter cannot be specified as uncertain event under this section as of all events death is the most certain. But the mere fact that no express or specific words of contingency are attached to the reference to death is not conclusive that the case is one of death. Simpliciter and no qualification is intended. The qualification may be implied in other words of the will or in the words taken as a whole. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 55 (60) (D B).

[4] Where death is spoken of as a contingency it should be construed, whenever, possible, to mean death before the period of distribution i. e., when the gift is immediate, death before the testator, or when the gift is in remainder, death before the expiration of the particular estate. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 55 (60) (D B).

[5] Gift over in event of minor legatee not attaining full age is valid — Failure of the minor to attain full age is the uncertain event. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 570 (571) (D B).

[6] Property bequeathed to one — Intention to dispose it of to another should not be imputed especially when later donee is described as related to the testator and not prior donee. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 269 (273) : 59 Ind App 419 : 60 Cal 554 (P C).

3. "No time is mentioned".—[1] Section is applicable only where the time of the occurrence of an event is left uncertain, as where a contingent gift is made to depend upon the death of the legatee. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 281 (283). (Bequest to widow and daughter for life and after that alternative gift to daughter's male issue that may be born or to charity — Gift to male issue held void — Gift to charity valid.)

[2] Section does not apply if a period is specified in the will within which the contingent event is to happen. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 269 (272) : 60 Cal 554 : 59 Ind App 419 (P C).

[3] Testator giving his estate to his two sons half and half each taking vested interest in it at the death of the testator—Further direction that in case a son dies issueless, his share to go over to the survivor—Held that the contingency was intended to happen after the death of the testator and as the time was thus specified in the will S. 124 did not apply—Further that the clause was a defeasance clause to which S. 131 applied. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 499 (501) (D B).

[4] Absolute bequest to son with a direction added that in case son dies after the testator's death without marrying or if married without lineal heir, his share should revert equally to his sisters or their heirs — Son claiming legacy absolutely—Plea that direction was good under this section — Held, no time was fixed for the event to happen — The period of distribution was testator's death and gift to son became indefeasible at that date under this section. (1913)37Bom 644(649,650).

4. Period of payment or distribution. — [1] Property bequeathed to A and in the event of his death without issue to B—Death of A issueless after testator's death — B takes an absolute estate: (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 126 (127) : 12 Pat 18 (DB).

Bequest to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period not specified.

125. Where a bequest is made to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the legacy shall go to such of them as are alive at the time of payment or distribution, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

Illustrations.

(i) Property is bequeathed to A and B to be equally divided between them, or to the survivor of them. If both A and B survive the testator, the legacy is equally divided between them. If A dies before the testator, and B survives the testator, it goes to B.

(ii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B and C, to be equally divided between them, or to the survivor of them. B dies during the life of A ; C survives A. At A's death the legacy goes to C.

(iii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B and C, or the survivor, with a direction that, if B should not survive the testator, his children are to stand in his place. C dies during the life of the testator; B survives the testator, but dies in the lifetime of A. The legacy goes to the representative of B.

(iv) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B and C, with a direction that, in case either of them dies in the lifetime of A, the whole shall go to the survivor. B dies in the lifetime of A. Afterwards C dies in the lifetime of A. The legacy goes to the representative of C.

[2a] Word 'period' in S. 124 does not mean indefinite period after testator's death during which contingency may occur but lawful period for distribution by executors and "before the period" means "before the commencement of such period." (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 126 (127): 12 Pat 18 (D B).

[2] The period of payment in the section is the period when the last payment which is not of an alternative character is directed in the will. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 258 (268): 44 Mad 446 (D B). (Such time may be a time when a person attains a certain age)

[3] The ordinary rule of construction where the testator has given an absolute gift to a legatee and then has made a gift simpliciter on a contingency of death is that he was referring to death before the period of distribution, that is the death of the testator. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 414 (415) (D B).

[4] Bequest to daughters and brother's daughters in equal shares as "maliks"—In the event of any of the daughters dying childless, her share to devolve in equal shares on the surviving daughters—Daughter dying long after testator's death—Held as no time was fixed by the will death of the daughter could refer only to death at the period of distribution i. e. the date of death of the testator and that section did not affect the bequest. (1897) 24 Cal 406 (410) (D B).

5. Event must happen before the period.—[1] Estate divided equally between two sons—Another clause directing the half of one son to be given to such son's son if one be born on his attaining his full age—Under the terms of will, half the estate conveyed vested in the son a morte testatoris—Gift over to son's son was void under the section son having survived his father. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 18 (20) : 42 Ind App 71 : 39 Bom 296 (P C).

[2] Legacy to "my three sons; if any one dies childless, survivors shall be entitled to whole" — All sons living at testator's death — Gift to three sons becomes indefeasible on that date, executory gift not taking effect afterwards. ('96) 23 Cal 563 (571, 572): 23 Ind App 18 (P C).

[3] Under will testator's daughter on attaining majority to get property and if she be not there eldest son of executor to get it—Death of daughter after attaining majority — S. 124 applies—Bequest over to executor's son does not take effect. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 55 (62) (D B).

[4] Gift of absolute estate subject to defeasance—Gift over is void if the defeasing event does not happen at close of life in being and subsequent donee is not living then. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 34 (36) (D B).

[5] Hindu testator creating adopted son as full proprietor—Gift over to nephews if son dies issueless during testator's widow's lifetime — Son dying without issue and without disposing of property duaring testator's widow's life time—Held (1) gift over to nephews failed (2) adopted son was absolute owner and gift over was repugnant (3) it created succession unknown to Hindu Law and (4) contingency of son's death should have happened during testator's life under S. 124. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 145 (148) (D B).

[6] By his will the testator devised his estate to his widow and his two daughters-in-law and then provided as follows: "In case the said three Musammats die, M son of R my brother's son shall be the heir and possessor of the properties." All the three ladies survived the testator. Held, that S. 124 would operate so as to bar the right of M to take under the will. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (356) (D B).

[7] A Hindu will providing "if my wife dies before, my daughter shall get" etc.—Wife not dying before the testator —This section bars daughter's legacy. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 258 (260): 44 Cal 181 (D B).

[8] Where testator leaves will devising absolute estate to female with proviso that in the event of her death, his nephew is to be heir and no time was specified for the happening of that event, gift over to nephew will not take effect the female will take absolute estate in case she survives the testator. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 398 (411): 13 Pat 550 (D B).

[1] Hindu will — Self acquired property divided between and given to two sons—Further clause that should either of two sons die without having had any male issue the survivor to take whole property appertaining to the share of the deceased, after undertaking the expenses of maintenance of his widow and of maintenance and marriage of his minor daughters—Death of testator leaving both sons surviving—Elder dying leaving widow and daughter—Clause held not limited to survivorship occurring before testator's death but pointed to survivorship at any time—Survivor held entitled to share of the deceased subject to obligations of maintaining his widow and daughter. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 60 (62) : 38 Bom 399 (P C).

[2] Survivors or survivor, meaning of. (1919) 1 Ch 138 (145, 146), Powell v. Hellicar & (1906) 1 Ch 47 (54), In re Friend's Settlement; Cole v. Allcot. (Held, 'survivors' means 'others'.)

CHAPTER XI.

OF CONDITIONAL BEQUESTS.

Bequest upon impossible condition.

126. A bequest upon an impossible condition is void.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall walk 100 miles in an hour. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 500 rupees to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter. A's daughter was dead at the date of the will. The bequest is void.

Bequest upon illegal or immoral condition.

127. A bequest upon a condition, the fulfilment of which would be contrary to law or to morality, is void.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 500 rupees to B on condition that he shall murder C. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 5,000 rupees to his niece if she will desert her husband. The bequest is void.

[1] Where the performance of the condition appears to be the motive of the bequest the impracticability of the performance will be a bar to the claim of the legatee. In such a case the bequest does not take effect: (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 116 (117) : 48 Cal 1100 (D B).

[1] Even though the provisions of the section are not applicable to Hindus living in the muffussal the principle contained therein is applicable as a rule of equity and good conscience. (1900) 23 Mad 613 (615, 616) (D B).

[2] If the matter of the condition tend to provoke or further the doing of some unlawful act or to restrain or forbid a man the doing of his duty, the condition for the most part is void. And hence also it is that such conditions as are against the liberty of law, as that a man shall not marry or the like, are void. And hence also as are against the public good. (1908) 1 Ch 383 (387), Beard v. Hall.

[3] According to English law, if a condition subsequent which is to defeat an estate is against the policy of the law the gift is absolute, but if the illegal condition is precedent there is no gift. (1888) 39 Ch D 116 (129, 130), In re Moore Trafford v. Maconychil. (J by his will directed a payment of £ 2 10 sh. to his married sister during such time as she may live apart from her husband before his son attained the age of 21 —Held that the gift was not a gift of an annuity subject to a condition but a limited gift the commencement and duration of which were fixed in a way which the law did not allow.)

[4] In determining whether a condition is void or not as opposed to public good the Court ought to ascertain whether its fulfilment necessarily involves any act or conduct contra bonos mores or against the welfare of the state. If it does not it is valid even though its fulfilment is capable of being brought about by acts and conduct opposed to the public welfare. (1919) 2 Ch 305 (311, 312), Champion v. Wallace. (Condition that the residuary estate should go to and vest in testator's sole surviving son if he had obtained the title of Baronet or other superior title and if not to be divided between the British and Indian treasury is not bad.)

[5] Where there is any condition the object of which is to determine and divest, upon the happening of the specified event, estates or interests antecedently vested, and that condition is void as being contrary to public policy the gifts will be absolute both as regards the real and personal estate. (1908) 1 Ch 383 (386), Beard v. Hall.

[6] Where there is an unconditional gift it is complete at the time when the actual transfer takes place and the parties could not afterwards import a condition. Even if it were otherwise—assuming a condition, and an immoral condition—it would be the condition that is immoral and not the consideration and the gift to which an immoral condition is attached remains good while the condition is void. (1884) 6 All 313 (321) : 11 Ind App 44 (P C). ((1878, 80) 2 All 433 (D B), Affirmed.)

[7] Any provision which tends to deter person from entering the naval or military services of the country is against public good and therefore void. (1908) 1 Ch 383 (387), Beard v. Hall.

[8] Where a bequest was made conditional on the continuance of the immoral relations between devisee and the testator the bequest becomes void. (1900) 23 Mad 613 (615) (D B).

[9] All estates of inheritance created by gift or will so far as they are inconsistent with the general law of inheritance are void as such. (1872-73) Ind App Sup Vol 47 (66) (P C) = (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 226 (228, 229) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 63 (D B). (Absolute estate on son— Subsequent clause in will prohibiting widow of son or daughter of son from getting the property and giving them only a right to maintenance—Held that the subsequent clause was void as it set up a line of inheritance not known to the Hindu law.)

[10] Post-nuptial settlement — Husband assigning lands to trustees for the payment of rents to his wife so long as she continued to cohabit with him or remained his widow—The condition restricting wife's enjoyment of the rent during the time she continued to cohabit is not void as opposed to public policy. (1904) 1 Ch 470 (479), In re Hope Johnstone v. Hope Johnstone.

[11] Will providing that the legatee should take nothing if she married before the death of her father— Prohibition is valid and not contrary to law and morality. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 350 (351): 59 Cal 102 (D B).

[12] Every condition which does not directly or indirectly import an absolute injunction to celibacy is a lawful condition. Therefore an injunction to ask consent is a lawful condition as not restraining marriage generally. (1798) Dick 712 (721): 21 E R 448, Tidd v. Clare.

[13] A parent or appointor disposing by will either of his own property or of any property over which he has a power of appointment is perfectly justified in making a provision in favour of such of his children as shall not embrace a particular faith and such a provision to that effect is not void as opposed to public policy. (1879),11 Ch D 959 (967), Hodgson v. Halford.

[14] Conditions in the will that no ordained minister or missionary or member of the Baptist Missionary Church should be allowed to be elected as deacon or to canvass votes for his election as such deacon and that fermented and unfermented wine should be kept at the communion service of the chapel and that old practices

128. Where a will imposes a condition to be fulfilled before the legatee can take a vested interest in the thing bequeathed, the condition shall be considered to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Fulfilment of condition precedent to vesting of legacy.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C, D and E. A marries with the written consent of B, C is present at the marriage. D sends a present to A previous to the marriage. E has been personally informed by A of his intentions, and has made no objection. A has fulfilled the condition.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. D dies. A marries with the consent of B and C. A has fulfilled the condition.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A marries in the lifetime of B, C and D, with the consent of B and C only. A has not fulfilled the condition.

(iv) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A obtains the unconditional assent of B, C and D to his marriage with E. Afterwards B, C and D capriciously retract their consent. A marries E. A has fulfilled the condition.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A marries without the consent of B, C and D, but obtains their consent after the marriage. A has not fulfilled the condition.

(vi) A makes his will whereby he bequeaths a sum of money to B if B shall marry with the consent of A's executors. B marries during the lifetime of A, and A afterwards expresses his approbation of the marriage. A dies. The bequest to B takes effect.

(vii) A legacy is bequeathed to A if he executes a certain document within a time specified in the will. The document is executed by A within a reasonable time, but not within the time specified in the will. A has not performed the condition, and is not entitled to receive the legacy.

129. Where there is a bequest to one person and a bequest of the same thing to another, if the prior bequest shall fail, the second bequest shall take effect upon the failure of the prior bequest although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the testator.

Bequest to A and on failure of prior bequest to B.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths a sum of money to his own children surviving him, and, if they all die under 18, to B. A dies without having ever had a child. The bequest to B takes effect.

(ii) A bequeaths a sum of money to B, on condition that he shall execute a certain document within three months after A's death, and, if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in the testator's lifetime. The bequest to C takes effect.

are to be observed are neither illegal not impossible. ('13) 40 Cal 192 (209).

[15] The keeping of a tomb in repair is not an illegal object and no rule of law prohibits the enforcement of a condition creating a perpetual inducement to do a thing which is lawful. ('13) 40 Cal 192 (208, 209).

[1] A condition precedent to a legacy could not be imported from outside into a will which gave the legacy (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 193 (204) : 21 Luck 314 (D B). (G agreeing to pay Rs. 50 per month to testator if the latter executed a will giving life estate to testator's wife and remainder to G — Testator executing will giving life estate to his wife and remainder to G—Agreement of G not referred to in the will : Held that the will was not a conditional will within the meaning of the section.)

[2] W B by will appointing his wife and two others executors and also appointing his wife the sole guardian of his children during their minority—Legacies to daughters on their attaining twenty-one or on marriage with the consent of guardian or guardians whichever should happen first—One of the daughters before attaining 21 marrying without consent of guardian, a sole guardian having died previously : Held that the principle that where a literal compliance with the condition becomes impossible without any default of the party it is sufficient that it is complied with as nearly as practical did not apply to the case as guardian or guardians could have been appointed by the child or by the Court and then the requisite consent obtained. (1881) 18 Ch D 61 (65), In re Brown's Will; In re Brown's Settlement.

[1] The section which merely incorporates the rule of the English law provides that a gift over shall take effect on the failure of a prior bequest although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the testator. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 570 (571) (DB).

[2] The failure contemplated by S. 129, is the failure of a valid gift. When the gift is ab initio void the subsequent gifts also must fail. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 155 (158) : I L R (1942) Bom 441.

[3] Testator bequeathing his property to his minor son and in the event of the minor dying after the testator to the testator's sister—Minor son predeceased the testator : Held that S. 129 did not apply to this case as it applied only to the prior gift failing altogether for want of an object. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 119 (120).

[4] Where the prior gift failed ab initio by reason of its object never coming into existence the executory gift was held to have taken effect notwithstanding that it was intended to take effect in defeasance of the prior gift. ('06) 33 Cal 947 (963) (F B) ✠ ('05) 9 Cal W N 1033 (1044). (Bequest to adopted sons, and in case the adopted sons did not survive the wife of the testator or where they survived her if they died subsequently without leaving son or sons, to the daughters and their sons of real and personal estate to be divided equally between the daughters — Defeasance of prior gift to adopted sons by reason of its failure ab initio, as its object could never come into existence : Held that the daughters were absolutely entitled to the estate in equal shares.)

[5] A testator bequeathed his property in the following terms : "My wife is supposed to be in the family way : should she bring forth a male issue in that case

When second bequest not to take effect on failure of first.

130. Where the will shows an intention that the second bequest shall take effect only in the event of the first bequest failing in a particular manner, the second bequest shall not take effect, unless the prior bequest fails in that particular manner.

Illustration.

A makes a bequest to his wife, but in case she should die in his lifetime, bequeaths to B that which he had bequeathed to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him; the bequest to B does not take effect.

Bequest over, conditional upon happening or not happening of specified uncertain event.

131. (1) A bequest may be made to any person with the condition superadded that, in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, the thing bequeathed shall go to another person, or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, the thing bequeathed shall go over to another person.

(2) In each case the ulterior bequest is subject to the rules contained in sections 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 129 and 130.

Illustrations.

(i) A sum of money is bequeathed to A, to be paid to him at the age of 18, and if he shall die before he attains that age, to B. A takes a vested interest in the legacy, subject to be divested and to go to B in case A dies under 18.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A with a proviso that if A shall dispute the competency of the testator to make a will, the estate shall go to B. A disputes the competency of the testator to make a will. The estate goes to B.

he will be the sole heir of my property and effects. If on the other hand she is delivered of a female child all the expenses of her marriage and maintenance till that period should be defrayed from my estate. In case my son dies before attaining proper age all my estate and property should be taken possession of by my brother N." Testator's widow gave birth to a female child. On a construction of the will, it was held that the clause which gave possession of property to N in the event of son dying before proper age was a clause which purported to give him the property and that the gift over to N took effect on the failure of the first gift in whatever mode the failure took place even though not in the precise manner expressed in the terms of the gift. ('88) 15 Cal 282 (289, 291) (S B).

[1] Property bequeathed to the minor son of testator and in the event of his death after the death of testator to the sister of the testator: Minor son predeceasing testator—Held that S. 130 applied to the case as the first bequest which failed had not failed in the particular manner indicated by the testator and therefore the sister was not entitled to succeed. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 119 (120).

[2] Will bequeathing the residuary estate to the grandson, or grandsons who may be born to the son of the testator within ten years of the death of the testor — Gift over to granddaughters in the event of grandsons not being born as aforesaid — Grandson born within ten years of testator's death: Held that the gift to the grandson was void as it was one made to an unborn person and the gift over to the granddaughters failed because it was subject to a contingency which actually happened. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 936 (938) (D B).

[1] The word 'interest' in S. 28, T. P. Act, has the same meaning as the thing bequeathed in S. 131 of this Act. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 401 (403): 14 Pat 640 (DB).

[2] A legacy may be bequeathed to A and in case of his death before or after that of the testator to B by reason of S. 131 even though such a case would fall outside the scope of S. 124. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 269 (272, 273): 59 Ind App 419: 60 Cal 554 (P C).

[3] Testator executing will leaving his estate half and half to his two sons—Any son dying sonless, surviving son to take his share: Held that S. 131 applied to the case and the clause of defeasance was valid. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 499 (501) (D B).

[4] Will providing that M one of the two sons of the testator should give one-half of the property to V the other son if he should turn to good ways and reside with M respectably after the testator's death—Testator died immediately — V living in amity with M for 2 or 3 years: Held that this section applied and therefore half the estate which vested in M became vested in V on the happening of the uncertain event contemplated by the will. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 298 (299) (DB).

[5] It is competent to a Hindu in making a will to make provisions that the estates which he creates and gives to the recipient may be divested or defeated by something which takes place after, provided that the event must happen immediately on the close of a life in being at the time of the gift and that the defeasance by way of gift over must be in favour of somebody in existence at the time of the gift. ('89) 16 Cal 383 (392): 16 Ind App 29 (P C) ✠ ('97) 24 Cal 834 (850) (S B) ✠ (1863) 9 Moo Ind App 123 (135) (P C) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 281 (283) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 262 (264): 45 Bom 1038 (D B). (Bequest of absolute estate, with provision that it should go to the third person if the legatee would die without male issue is valid and not opposed to Hindu law.)

[6] A clause of defeasance in order to be operative must contain express words or words of necessary implication of a gift over to a definite person or persons. ('05) 32 Cal 861 (869) (D B).

[7] Testator after conferring absolute estate on sons providing that in the event of their dying sonless, their widows or daughters shall not get the property but only maintenance: Held that the proviso did not operate as a defeasance clause because it did not reduce the absolute estate into a life estate and was also repugnant to the grant of an absolute estate and to the provisions of Hindu law because it set up a line of inheritance unknown to Hindu law. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 226 (228, 229): I L R (1939) 1 Cal 63 (D B).

(iii) A sum of money is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B; but if B shall then be dead, leaving a son, such son is to stand in the place of B. B takes a vested interest in the legacy, subject to be divested if he dies leaving a son in A's lifetime.

(iv) A sum of money is bequeathed to A and B, and if either should die during the life of C, then to the survivor living at the death of C. A and B die before C. The gift over cannot take effect, but the representative of A takes one-half of the money, and the representative of B takes the other half.

(v) A bequeaths to B the interest of a fund for life, and directs the fund to be divided at her death equally among her three children, or such of them as shall be living at her death. All the children of B die in B's lifetime. The bequest over cannot take effect, but the interests of the children pass to their representatives.

Condition must be strictly fulfilled.

132. An ulterior bequest of the kind contemplated by section 131 cannot take effect, unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if he marries without the consent of B, C and D, the legacy shall go to E. D dies. Even if A marries without the consent of B and C, the gift to E does not take effect.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if he marries without the consent of B, the legacy shall go to C. A marries with the consent of B. He afterwards becomes a widower and marries again without the consent of B. The bequest to C does not take effect.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, to be paid at 18, or marriage, with a proviso that, if A dies under 18 or marries without the consent of B, the legacy shall go to C. A marries under 18, without the consent of B. The bequest to C takes effect.

Original bequest not affected by invalidity of second.

133. If the ulterior bequest be not valid the original bequest is not affected by it.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A for his life with condition superadded that, if he shall not on a given day walk 100 miles in an hour, the estate shall go to B. The condition being void, A retains his estate as if no condition had been inserted in the will.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A for her life and, if she do not desert her husband, to D. A is entitled to the estate during her life as if no condition had been inserted in the will.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A for life, and, if he marries, to the eldest son of B for life. B, at the date of the testator's death, had not had a son. The bequest over is void under section 105, and A is entitled to the estate during his life.

[8] Failure of condition subsequent — Estate vests absolutely in legatee. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 594 (595) (DB).

1. Scope.
2. Condition of residence.

1. Scope.—[1] Hindu widow's power to adopt cannot be controlled by the will of her deceased father-in-law — Adoption contrary to the terms of will — Son's right to take under will as persona designata will be affected — His rights as grandson of testator however are not affected. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 295 (295, 296) (DB).

2. Condition of residence. — [1] There is nothing in law to prevent a testator giving an absolute estate with the condition superadded that the legatee shall live in a particular house. ('13) 17 Cal W N 39 (41) (DB). (Life estate to widow with a gift over to A absolutely provided A lived in testator's ancestral house —On A's failure to reside, gift over to others — A joining with widow to sell house: Held, A himself made fulfilment of condition impossible and hence was not entitled to legacy.) ✠ ('97) 24 Cal 646 (655, 656) (D B). (Will by Hindu husband requiring his widows to reside in family house or in case of quarrel at a holy place to entitle them to their share — Younger widow quarrelling with the elder and residing with her father: Held condition was broken and forfeiture incurred.)

[2] To reside at a house means that a man is to be found at that house whenever he is wanted, that for that house he is rated to the poor rate, or is on the Parish or the Government rate-books, and that there he has a home. (1884) 25 Ch D 605 (610). In re Moir; Warner v. Moir. (Devise of residence—Condition that legatee stayed at least for six months, not consecutively, in the house and took possession of the house within six months after the testator's death — Legatee performing condition as to possession but failing to stay for six months although he paid the taxes, kept a staff of servants and his son stayed on the place: Held he resided in the house and no forfeiture was incurred.) ✠(1907) 1 Ch 231 (236), In re Wright; Mott v. Issott. (Residing means personally residing; making the place as one's home. Using it as a place of rest and amusement is not residing in it.)

[3] A Hindu widow is not entitled to maintenance by residing elsewhere without a cause if she was directed by her husband to be maintained in the family house. ('91) 15 Bom 236 (237) (D B). (('72-73) Ind App (Suppl) Vol 203 (P.C), Foll.) ✠ ('89) 13 Bom 218 (221) (DB). (Bequest to wife to the effect that if she comes to live at testator's place, she is to have one of the houses and Rs. 15 miscellaneous expenses — Wife residing at her parents — Suit by wife for arrears of maintenance: Held, she had just cause for residing apart and did not forfeit her maintenance.) ✠ ('08) 8 Cal L Jour 489 (495) (D B). (Held widow had just cause not to reside in the places mentioned in the will and maintenance was allowed.)

[1] When subsequent bequests are made upon happening of certain condition, fact that these ulterior gifts are not valid does not and cannot affect validity of prior bequest or gift. (Vol 22) 1935 All 1042 (1046): 58 All 467 ✠(1900) 4 Cal W N 671 (677) (DB). (Specific trusts or specific estates good in themselves are not invalidated by a subsequent illegal disposition of the residue or remainder.)

[2] Residue after meeting certain charges and expenses left by testator to his son to be dealt with at his pleasure till the son's sons attained the age of 21—

Bequest conditioned that it shall cease to have effect in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or not happen.

134. A bequest may be made with the condition superadded that it shall cease to have effect in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A for his life, with a proviso that, in case he shall cut down a certain wood, the bequest shall cease to have any effect. A cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the estate.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A, provided that, if he marries under the age of 25 without the consent of the executors named in the will, the estate shall cease to belong to him. A marries under 25 without the consent of the executors. The estate ceases to belong to him.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A, provided that, if he shall not go to England within three years after the testator's death, his interest in the estate shall cease. A does not go to England within the time prescribed. His interest in the estate ceases.

(iv) An estate is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if she becomes a nun, she shall cease to have any interest in the estate. A becomes a nun. She loses her interest under the will.

(v) A fund is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B, if B shall be then living, with a proviso that, if B shall become a nun, the bequest to her shall cease to have any effect. B becomes a nun in the life-time of A. She thereby loses her contingent interest in the fund.

135. In order that a condition that a bequest shall cease to have effect may be valid, it is necessary that the event to which it relates be one which could legally constitute the condition of a bequest as contemplated by section 120.

Such condition must not be invalid under section 120.

136. Where a bequest is made with a condition superadded that, unless the legatee shall perform a certain act, the subject-matter of the bequest shall go to another person, or the bequest shall cease to have effect but no time is specified for the performance of the act; if the legatee takes any step which renders impossible or indefinitely postpones the performance of the act required, the legacy shall go as if the legatee had died without performing such act.

Result of legatee rendering impossible or indefinitely postponing act for which no time specified, and on non-performance of which subject-matter to go over.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequest is made to A, with a proviso that, unless he enters the Army, the legacy shall go over to B. A takes Holy Orders, and thereby renders it impossible that he should fulfil the condition. B is entitled to receive the legacy.

(ii) A bequest is made to A, with a proviso that it shall cease to have any effect if he does not marry B's daughter. A marries a stranger and thereby indefinitely postpones the fulfilment of the condition. The bequest ceases to have effect.

Son to divide it equally amongst them after retaining his share on their attaining that age: Held that gift to grandsons of the testator was void under Ss. 114 and 115 and that the son took an absolute estate. ('96) 20 Bom 450 (463) (DB).

[1] This section is a departure from English law, viz., that a gift may be coupled with a condition that on the happening or not happening of a specified uncertain event, it shall cease, and that to effectuate the defeasance a gift over is not necessary as required by English law. According to this section, if the condition subsequent is valid, if accompanied by a gift over, it will be equally valid without the gift over. In England it is treated as in terrorem. The condition referred to in this section is a condition subsequent which terminates an interest. It is not a conditional limitation which creates an interest in a third person. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 145 (152): I L R (1942) Kar 392.

[2] Will executed by Hindu in 1899: Held, in absence of any rule of Hindu law, the validity and binding effect of a forfeiture clause must be determined according to principle involved in S. 121 of Act of 1865 (now S. 134). (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 145 (152): I L R (1942) Kar 392.

[3] On construction of will, held that the bequest was in favour of testator's daughter's son of the entire taluqa including certain villages and was liable to be defeated so far as the latter villages were concerned, only if certain life tenant thereof died leaving any male issue. (Vol 34) 1947 Oudh 45 (61): 21 Luck 463 (D B).

[4] A Hindu bequeathed certain properties to various persons including his brothers and provided that if any of his brothers raised any dispute regarding any of the provisions of the will and his sole right to the properties bequeathed and refused to acknowledge his right to make the will, he would forfeit any benefit given to him by the will. One of the brothers M instituted a suit in 1905 contesting the will. It was held that M incurred forfeiture of legacy by institution of the suit. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 145 (152): I L R (1942) Kar 392.

[5] Where according to the will the devisee was to have an interest so long as he resided in the house of the testator, his maternal grandfather, it was held that the restriction was imposed as a condition and not as an indication that the interest created was a life-estate and that the condition was perfectly legal under this section. [1] Bequest to wife for life and after her absolutely to A provided A resided in the ancestral house — On A's failure to so reside, property to go to other relations on same condition — A joining with testator's widow in selling the ancestral home: Held A by his own act rendered the performance of the condition super-

Performance of condition, precedent or subsequent, within specified time. Further time in case of fraud.

137. Where the will requires an act to be performed by the legatee within a specified time, either as a condition to be fulfilled before the legacy is enjoyed, or as a condition upon the non-fulfilment of which the subject-matter of the bequest is to go over to another person or the bequest is to cease to have effect, the act must be performed within the time specified, unless the performance of it be prevented by fraud, in which case such further time shall be allowed as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud.

OF BEQUESTS WITH DIRECTIONS AS TO APPLICATION OR ENJOYMENT.

Direction that fund be employed in particular manner following absolute bequest of same to or for benefit of any person.

138. Where a fund is bequeathed absolutely to or for the benefit of any person, but the will contains a direction that it shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, the legatee shall be entitled to receive the fund as if the will had contained no such direction.

added to his absolute estate impossible and hence incurred forfeiture of the same. ('13) 17 Cal W N 39 (41) (D B).

[1] In case of conditional limitation, i.e., a devise over to some other person on happening of event, the Court cannot relieve against forfeiture if the event has taken place. (1807) 14 Ves Jun 341 (346, 347): 33 E R 552, Simpson v. Vickers.

[2] Even conditions subsequent to defeat vested estates must be construed strictly, and to work a forfeiture there must be shown a breach of a defined line of conduct which the parties concerned must reasonably have known would work a forfeiture (1866) 7 H L C 707 (721, 723), Swindon Water Works Co. v. Wilts and Berkscoud Navigation Co. (Legatee prevented by vis major from fulfilling condition—There is no forfeiture.)

[3] Neither ignorance, illness nor neglect on the part of the executor to inform the legatee can excuse him from not complying with the direction so as to entitle him to the gift. [5] Where the legatee is prevented from performing the condition of the will by duress no forfeiture is caused by the failure. ('93) 20 Cal 15 (17) (D B). (Testator providing that any member of his family living away from his house for more than three months would forfeit the property. Widowed daughter-in-law removed from house by her maternal relations with the aid of police : Held she did not forfeit.)

[6] A condition subsequent which is impossible of performance will not bind the devisee and he need not comply with it in order to retain the bequest. (1904) 1 Ch 252 (259), In re Croxon; Croxon v. Ferrers.

[7] See also Notes under S. 37 of the A.I.R. Commentaries on the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

[2] A will contained the following directions as to the devolution of a fund "I hereby give, devise and bequeath to my grand-children by my late daughter, also to my grandson and his step-brother in equal shares the benefit, interest and profit that shall arise and accrue from and out of the fund...." and "I hereby direct that the fund shall be a continuing fund to all time and that the interest and profit derived therefrom shall be received and enjoyed as expressed in this will not only to the legatees to whom such has been bequeathed by me, but the same shall be inherited by any child or children of them from time to time and from one generation to another in accordance with all legal rights" : Held, that the words referring to children of the legatees in the latter clause were words of inheritance and not of purchase and that their effect was to give an absolute interest in the fund to the legatees. ('92) 15 Mad 448 (467).

[3] Grant of mirasi taluk to A for her life and then to her adopted son if she adopted one for his life — On the death of adopted son the estate to go to his sons, grandsons etc., by right of inheritance in the male line— Estate to revert to grantor or his heirs after A's life in the event of A not adopting or where she adopted if the adopted son died sonless—Forfeiture also in case the estate was attached or sold : Held, on a construction of the grant that no absolute estate was created. ('08) 35 Cal 1069 (1073) (DB). (Case decided under the Transfer of Property Act.)

[4] Bequest to wife of a sum of money to be credited in the books of the shop of B and interest to be paid to her half-yearly—Money to be paid to her if demanded by her during her life-time for good works—Otherwise money to be used by B at his pleasure : Held, that the testator's intention was to bequeath the money absolutely to his wife with directions as to its application or enjoyment and therefore the mention of good works did not limit the absolute right of the testator's wife to the money. ('98) 22 Bom 774 (777) (DB).

[5] When a property is transferred absolutely it must be transferred with all its legal incidents and it is not competent to the grantor to sever from the right of property incidents which the law inseparably annexes to it—There is nothing in Hindu law which Direction that mode of enjoyment of absolute bequest is to be restricted, to secure specified benefit for legatee.

139. Where a testator absolutely bequeaths a fund, so as to sever it from his own estate, but directs that the mode of enjoyment of it by the legatee shall be restricted so as to secure a specified benefit for the legatee, if that benefit cannot be obtained for the legatee, the fund belongs to him as if the will had contained no such direction.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths the residue of his property to be divided equally among his daughters, and directs that the shares of the daughters shall be settled upon themselves respectively for life and be paid to their children after their death. All the daughters die unmarried. The representatives of each daughter are entitled to her share of the residue.

(ii) A directs his trustees to raise a sum of money for his daughter, and he then directs that they shall invest the fund and pay the income arising from it to her during her life, and divide the principal among her children after her death. The daughter dies without having ever had a child. Her representatives are entitled to the fund.

permits a departure from this principle. ('82) 4 Mad 200 (202, 203) (DB).

[6] A man cannot by gift inter vivos or by will give property absolutely to another and yet control his mode of enjoyment in respect of partition or otherwise. ('81) 6 Cal 106 (116) ✠ ('76) 1 Cal 104 (107). (Testator giving property to sons—Prohibition of partition for a certain period was held void.) ✠ ('91) 15 Bom 443 (449). (Testator directing the net income during the joint lives of his wife and his daughter to be applied in payment of monthly allowances to them and the residue for the purposes of the wife and daughter and daughter's children in such manner as the trustees think proper—Directions amount to a gift of residue to use of wife and daughter in equal proportions absolutely—Direction that the trustees should control the manner of the expenditure held could not be given effect to.)

[7] Where a testator gives by express gift to the legatees as maliks and also prohibits alienation directly or indirectly the effect is not to produce a life estate in favour of the legatees but to give them an absolute estate precluding the operation of the restricting clause. ('97) 24 Cal 406 (411, 412) (DB).

[8] Where the will provided that the testator's elder son P and younger son J were proprietors of the estate of the tastator in equal shares the legatees took an absolute estate and other clauses in the will restricting the powers of enjoyment, alienation and disposal of the property given to P and J were held invalid, inoperative and opposed to law. (1911) 13 Bom L R 141 (149) (DB).

[9] Bequest of estate absolutely with an added condition that in the event of legatee selling it, she was to pay certain legacies : Held that the condition to pay legacies on sale was repugnant and void. (1896) 2 Ch 353 (356, 357), Kelly v. Elliot.

[10] Where in a deed of gift or will an absolute estate of inheritance is created in favour of a person any subsequent clause which purports to restrict that interest is invalid and the donee or legatee takes an absolute estate as if the deed contained no such restrictive condition. The rule is the same even if the restriction is for a limited period only. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 201 (202, 203) 14 Lah 353 (DB). (Testator after declaring his sons absolute owners in equal shares of his property restricting alienation or partition until the last of them became a major : Held that the restriction was invalid.)

[11] No condition could be annexed to a gift in fee simple which is repugnant to that gift even though the restraint is only for a limited time. (1884) 26 Ch D 801 (823), Rosher v. Rosher. (Condition restraining sale during the lifetime of a particular individual held void.)

[12] Where there is a direction implying a postponement of the division of the residue for ten years or until the death of the last surviving sons the direction is inoperative, the interest to which it attaches being absolute. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 122 (127) (PC).

[13] A person bequeathed by will his properties to his sons in specific shares—By a second and third will he imposed conditions restraining partition, personal possession of the specific share and alienation of the property allowing the sons to get only profits according to their specific shares : Held that these clauses which imposed restrictions were invalid and void and therefore did not affect the gift of the property in the shares specified in the first will. ('88) 15 Cal 409 (420, 421) : 15 Ind App 37 (PC).

[14] If an estate is given in terms which confer an absolute estate on the donee and then further interests are given merely after or on the termination of that donee's interest his absolute interest is not cut down and the further interests fail. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 365 (368) : 14 Lah 485 (DB). (Donees Hindu widows with full powers of alienation—Gift over will not curtail it.)

[1] This section is an enactment in statutory form of a principle laid down by the English decision in Lassence v. Tierney (1 Mac and G 551) which is that where reading the will as a whole, the intention to confer an absolute estate in the first instance is expressed or implied, and following on that absolute estate there is a provision for settlement which in the event cannot be operative, then the words of prior intention prevail and the absolute estate takes effect notwithstanding the failure of the provision for settlement that follows. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 244 (247) : 48 Mad 906: 52 Ind App 310 (PC) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 76 (77, 78) : ILR (1940) Bom 254 (DB).

[See also (1920) 2 Ch 33 (37), Moryoseph v. Moryoseph. (The rule in Lassenee v. Tierney (1 Mac and G 551) applies to realties as well.)]

[2] In India the words of this section must be followed as laying down the above principle. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 244 (247) : 48 Mad 906 : 52 Ind App 310 (PC).

[3] Where a will by an earlier clause merely directed apportionment or division and not distribution or disposition of property, and by the next clause effected the distribution giving the daughters an income for life, followed by gifts to their children, it was held the will did not confer upon the daughters any such absolute gift as is contemplated by this section but only a gift for life to which case this section did not apply. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 244 (247) : 48 Mad 906 : 52 Ind App 310 (PC).

[4] Direction to sell the property and the sale proceeds to be equally divided between two sons A and B of the testatrix—As regards half share of B, further direction that the amount of his share to be held in Bequest of fund for certain purposes, some of which cannot be fulfilled.

140. Where a testator does not absolutely bequeath a fund, so as to sever it from his own estate, but gives it for certain purposes, and part of those purposes cannot be fulfilled, the fund, or so much of it as has not been exhausted upon the objects contemplated by the will, remains a part of the estate of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A directs that his trustees shall invest a sum of money in a particular way, and shall pay the interest to his son for life, and at his death shall divide the principal among his children. The son dies without having ever had a child. The fund after the son's death, belongs to the estate of the testator.

(ii) A bequeaths the residue of his estate, to be divided equally among his daughters, with a direction that they are to have the interest only during their lives, and that at their decease the fund shall go to their children. The daughters have no children. The fund belongs to the estate of the testator.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF BEQUESTS TO AN EXECUTOR.

Legatee named as executor cannot take unless he shows intention to act as executor.

141. If a legacy is bequeathed to a person who is named an executor of the will, he shall not take the legacy, unless he proves the will or otherwise manifests an intention to act as executor.

Illustration.

A legacy is given to A, who is named an executor. A orders the funeral according to the directions contained in the will, and dies a few days after the testator, without having proved the will. A has manifested an intention to act as executor.

trust for B, interest to be given for B's maintenance and should B die leaving a widow or issue his share to be given to such widow or issue according as he may devise : Held that there was a gift over to the widow or issue of B and to that extent B's otherwise absolute gift was qualified, and further that should the gift over fail B's absolute interest remained unimpaired under this section ('95) 19 Bom 770 (774) (DB). (Affirming on appeal ('95) 19 Bom 221.)

[5] Bequest in favour of testator's wife firstly in the event of her remaining testator's widow to her and testator's daughter and any other child of him through her, for their general benefit and after her death, children to take per stirpes—In case of wife's remarriage and children dying in her life time estate was given half to testator's half-brother and half to the wife, but in case the half-brother died without issue, the whole to the wife—Testator's children died before the widow who did not remarry—It was held that the testator intended by the first devise to give the estate to his wife and children jointly and that what followed was merely a restriction on the mode of their enjoyment. ('94) 21 Cal 488 (496) (DB).

[6] A gave by will certain land to his daughter and her son for enjoyment and the grandson was specially prohibited from alienating it and was to act under the directions of his mother. It was held that the mother and son did not take joint interest but that the mother took a life estate with the remainder over to her son and that the prohibition as to alienations took no effect in case of the son. ('98) 21 Mad 425 (428) (DB).

1. Scope.
2. "Manifests an intention to act."

1. Scope.—[1] The prohibition in this section is not confined to cases of bequests to executors as such but extends to any bequest, whatever be reason for which it is made, provided legatee is named as executor. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 335 (337) : I L R (1944) Mad 821 (DB).

[See also (1840) 11 Sim 202 (203, 204) : 59 E R 851, Griffiths v. Pruen. (An executor being also a residuary legatee rule does not apply.)]

[2] This section implies that the executor survives the testator. It therefore cannot apply to a case where the executor predeceases the testator and therefore does not affect the case contemplated by S. 96 (now S. 109) which can only apply to a case where the legatee predeceases the testator whether he has been named an executor or not. ('03) 13 Mad L Jour 351 (353) (FB).

[3] The language of this section is peremptory and it is not left to the Court to decide whether the legacy was given to the person named in his character as executor. It is assumed that it was so given and the prohibition follows. Oral evidence cannot, therefore, be given to prove in what capacity the legacy was given. ('88) 15 Cal 83 (87).

[4] After giving various legacies including one to executor by his name, the remainder or residue of the testator's property placed "at the discretion and at his own disposal" of the executor—Property held received by the executor not by virtue of any gift but simply as an executor and must be disposed of by him as such i. e., in his representative capacity and not for his own benefit. (1914) 2 Ch 173 (181), In re Howell; In re Buckingham; Liggins v. Buckingham.

2. "Manifests an intention to act." — [1] Proving of the will when the person is in a position to prove it, is of course the best manifestation of his intention and if he failed to prove it the Court would require a very strong reason for the omission before finding that the intention existed. ('88) 15 Cal 83 (87).

[2] The cases where the executor has clearly shown an intention to act as such but has been prevented by some happening beyond his control from proving the will fall within the meaning of this expression. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 335 (337) : I L R (1944) Mad 821 (DB). (Executor going to the house of deceased after reading of the will and announcing his intention to take inventory—Objection raised by widow — Executor returning and after four days resigning executorship to avoid unpleasantness and possible trouble to himself : Held this did not amount to manifestation of intention required by section.)

[4] An executor to whom a legacy was given was in Australia at the time of testator's death. He sent a power of attorney to England under which his agent administered the estate and also recovered certain rents Executor died without proving the will. It was held that he had sufficiently shown his intention to act as an executor. (1869) 8 Eq 277 (282), Lewis v. Mathews.

[5] Where the person named as executor was found to be always ready and willing to act and it was proved that after testator's death, he made arrangements for the cremation and shradh or borrowed or advanced the money necessary for those purposes it was held that there were sufficient manifestations of his intention to act as executor. ('88) 15 Cal 83 (89).

[1] A specific legacy is in the first place a part of the testator's property whereas a general legacy may or may not be so and secondly it must be a part emphatically, as distinguished from the whole. (1875) 20 Eq 304 (308, 309), Bothamley v. Sherson.

[2] Where a testator gives his property generally by the words "all my property" or "all my estates" or "all that I have power over" and then proceeds to enumerate particulars such enumeration does not abridge or cut down the effect of the general words. (1876) 4 Ch D 435 (437), King v. George.

[3] Clause in a will directing the payment in equal proportion to named legatees after realising a fixed deposit belonging to the testatrix in a particular bank — Investment not existing at the time of testatrix's death: Held that the legacy was specific as the testatrix was thinking in terms of her actual investments and not in terms of the money value. ('35) 1935 Mad W N 275 (276, 277).

[4] Testator bequeathing rent by specific property to wife and daughters—Bequest is specific and not demonstrative. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 384 (385) ✻ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 418 (420) (DB) (M bequeathing by will a garden and a bungalow to S along with other properties immovable and moveable — S directed by will to pay half the net income therefrom to J for life and after her death to her children—Provision in the will that if the property should be sold one half of the same amount should be paid to J and the children that may be born to her : Held that though what was granted to J was only a moiety of net rental income from the property still as the payment was not directed to be made only for a limited period and as in the event of the sale of the property half the proceeds was to be paid to J the bequest in law was of the specific property itself as a specific legacy to J.)

[5] A legacy of stock is a general and not a specific legacy. It is not correct to say that it is general where the sum happened to be a round sum and specific where it happened to be one which ran into pounds, shillings and pence. (1921) 2 Ch 327 (330), Warwick v. Wallcock.

[6] Person having life interest in certain G. P. Notes bequeathing one third of her income to her servants and directing the maintenance of the Imambara under the belief that she owned the G. P. notes : Held that the bequest was specific as she should have meant the expenses of maintaining the Imambara to come out of the general estate. ('32) 8 Cal 1 (6) : 8 Ind App 117 (PC).

[7] Testator making oral agreements of sale leaving directions that sale proceeds when received should be paid towards the legacies in certain proportions : Held that legacies are not specific. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 506 (507) (DB).

[8] Testator having a fixed deposit in a bank gifting a sum of Rs. 12,000 out of that to one of his sons and directing the executors to buy as soon as possible a house of the value of Rs. 12,000 in Madras : Held that the gift was not a specific gift but a demonstrative gift and that the direction that it was to be paid out of a specified fund did not make it a specified gift. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 17 (18).

[9] Testator making a gift by will of all sums of money which he may possess or may be owing to him at the time of his decease together with all the furniture, farming implements, stock and crops belonging to a particular place by name "Asby Hall Estate": Held that there was no specific gift. (1876) 3 Ch D 309 (313), Fairer v. Park.

"all such sums of money as my executors may, after my death, receive in respect of the debt due to me from the insolvent firm of D and Company" :
"all the wine which I may have in my cellar at the time of my death" :
"such of my horses as B may select" :
"all my shares in the Imperial Bank of India" :
"all my shares in the Imperial Bank of India which I may possess at the time of my death" :
"all the money which I have in the 5½ per cent. loan of the [a][Central Government]" :
"all the Government securities I shall be entitled to at the time of my decease".

Each of these legacies is specific.

(ii) A having Government promissory notes for 10,000 rupees, bequeaths to his executors "Government promissory notes for 10,000 rupees in trust to sell" for the benefit of B. The legacy is specific (iii) A having property at Benares, and also in other places, bequeaths to B all his property at Benares. The legacy is specific.

(iv) A bequeaths to B —

Each of these bequests is specific.

(v) A by his will charges his zamindari of Y with an annuity of 1,000 rupees to C during his life, and subject to this charge he bequeaths the zamindari to D. Each of these bequests is specific.

(vi) A bequeaths a sum of money — to buy a house in Calcutta for B : to buy an estate in zila Faridpur for B : to buy a diamond ring for B :
to buy a horse for B :
to be invested in shares in the Imperial Bank of India for B : to be invested in Government securities for B :

A bequeaths to B —
"a diamond ring" :
"a horse" :
"10,000 rupees worth of Government securities" :
"an annuity of 500 rupees" :
"2,000 rupees to be paid in cash" :
"so much money as will produce 5,000 rupees four per cent. Government securities" :

These bequests are not specific.

(vii) A, having property in England and property in India, bequeaths a legacy to B, and directs that it shall be paid out of the property which he may leave in India. Bequest of stock where testator had, at date of will, equal or greater amount of stock of same kind.

144. Where a bequest is made in general terms of a certain amount of any kind of stock, the legacy is not specific merely because the testator was, at the date of his will, possessed of stock of the specified kind, to an equal or greater amount than the amount bequeathed.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees five per cent. Government securities. A had at the date of the will five per cent. Government securities for 5,000 rupees. The legacy is not specific.

Bequest of money where not payable until part of testator's property disposed of in certain way.

145. A money legacy is not specific merely because the will directs its payment to be postponed until some part of the property of the testator has been reduced to a certain form, or remitted to a certain place.

(ii) A, having an annuity during the life of B, bequeaths it to C, for his life, and, after C's death, to D. C is to enjoy the annuity as A left it, although, if B dies before D, D can take nothing under the bequest.

Sale and investment of proceeds of property bequeathed to two or more persons in succession.

148. Where property comprised in a bequest to two or more persons in succession is not specifically bequeathed, it shall, in the absence of any direction to the contrary, be sold, and the proceeds of the sale shall be invested in such securities as the High Court may by any general rule authorise or direct, and the fund thus constituted shall be enjoyed by the successive legatees according to the terms of the will.

Illustration.

A, having a lease for a term of years, bequeaths all his property to B for life, and, after B's death, to C. The lease must be sold, the proceeds invested as stated in this section and the annual income arising from the fund is to be paid to B for life. At B's death the capital of the fund is to be paid to C.

Where deficiency of assets to pay legacies, specific legacy not to abate with general legacies.

149. If there is a deficiency of assets to pay legacies, a specific legacy is not liable to abate with the general legacies.

CHAPTER XV.

OF DEMONSTRATIVE LEGACIES.

Demonstrative legacy defined.

150. Where a testator bequeaths a certain sum of money, or a certain quantity of any other commodity, and refers to a particular fund or stock so as to constitute the same the primary fund or stock out of which payment is to be made, the legacy is said to be demonstrative.

Section 146 — Note 1.

[1] Where there is a gift of the residue and the testator unnecessarily chooses to enumerate some particular things in that residuary gift that circumstance is not sufficient to constitute the things so enumerated specific gifts. (1857) 1 Deg and J 438 (444) : 44 E R 793, Fielding v. Preston.

[2] The word "Articles" cannot be construed as including items of immovable property. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 418 (420) (DB). (Case decided under S. 133 of Act of 1865 corresponding to this section.)

[1] Where property of a perishable nature is given to be enjoyed in succession the object of the testator can only be effected by converting the property into permanent annuities and giving each person in succession the dividend of the fund. But the testator can take the case of any particular bequest out of this rule and small indication of such intention is sufficient. Therefore the persons contesting the application of that rule and the Court which forbids that application should point out the words in the will which exclude the rule. (1851) 51 E R 214 (218) : 14 Beav 72, Morgan v. Morgan & (1878) 8 Ch D 101 (121), Macdonald v. Irvine. (Baggallay L. J. dissenting.)

[2] In construing a will which bequeathes property to two or more persons in succession it is the duty of the Court to consider whether or not the whole scope and context of the instrument does express an intention by the testator that the tenants for life should enjoy in specie that property which was his at the date of the will. (1875) 19 Eq 395 (415), Thursby v. Thursby.

[3] The mere absence of any direction by the testator to convert his property cannot be construed to mean that it should be enjoyed in specie by the legatees in succession. (1851) 51 E R 214 (218) : 14 Beav 72 (83), Morgan v. Morgan.

[4] A bequeathing his real and personal estate upon trust for sale and conversion and the proceeds to be held in trust for his wife till her life-time and after her death for his children — Trustees invested with power to postpone sale so long as they thought fit—Rents profits and income from such unsold real and personal estate to be paid to person or persons in the same manner as indicated in the will when the sale and conversion had been actually made — Held that the direction as to payment during the time the sale is postponed exclude the application of the general rule and that the widow was entitled to the profits from the unsold business and not merely to a four per cent interest thereon. (1884) 26 Ch D 42 (46, 47), Chancellor v. Brown.

[1] Sections 137 and 140 of the Act of 1865 (Ss. 150 and 153 of this Act) do not apply to Hindus but they embody the general principles of law applicable to wills

Explanation.— The distinction between a specific legacy and a demonstrative legacy consists in this, that—where specified property is given to the legatee, the legacy is specific; where the legacy is directed to be paid out of specified property, it is demonstrative.

Order of payment when legacy directed to be paid out of fund the subject of specific legacy.

151. Where a portion of a fund is specifically bequeathed and a legacy is directed to be paid out of the same fund, the portion specifically bequeathed shall first be paid to the legatee, and the demonstrative legacy shall be paid out of the residue of the fund and, so far as the residue shall be deficient, out of the general assets of the testator.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF ADEMPTION OF LEGACIES.

Ademption explained.

152. If anything which has been specifically bequeathed does not belong to the testator at the time of his death, or has been converted into property of a different kind, the legacy is adeemed: that is, it cannot take effect, by reason of the subject-matter having been withdrawn from the operation of the will.

[2] To determine whether a particular bequest is specific or demonstrative the only guiding factor can be the exact words used in the will and no other. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 384 (385).

[3] Legacies which are to be paid out of the sale proceeds of the lands with regard to which the testator had made oral agreements of sale and left direction that they should be sold and after the money was received the payments of the legacies should be made in certain proportions are demonstrative and not specific legacies. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 506 (507) (DB).

[4] If there is first a gift and then a subsequent direction of the fund out of which it should be paid, it would be demonstrative and payable out of the general estate, in the absence of the existence of the fund at the date of the death of the testator. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 17 (18).

[5] The Queen of Oudh created a will where one of the clauses said that in the event of the income from the landed properties was not sufficient to meet the purposes of the will her agent was to make up the deficiency from "the pensionary allowances and interest on notes and etc. paid from the treasury." Another clause made provision for payment of Rs. 981 out of the allowance from Washka and notes and etc. from the Government treasury to her relations, servants and other dependents as detailed in the will by her. The pension which was being granted to her by the Government was subsequently stopped; Held that on a restricted interpretation of the will the gift of annuities or stipends were to be regarded as demonstrative legacy and were payable out of the general estate of the testatrix in the event of the failure of particular fund pointed out for their payment. (1892) 19 Cal 444 (452): 19 Ind App 83 (PC).

[6] The rule that in the case of demonstrative legacies the legatee is entitled to resort to the general assets on failure of the source intended is subject to any direction to the contrary by the testator. (1906) 29 Mad 155 (159) (DB).

[7] A legacy payable at a further day carries interest only from the time fixed for its payment. But where no time for payment is fixed, the legacy is payable at, and therefore bears interest from the end of the year after the testator's death even though it be expressly made payable out of a particular fund which is not got until after a long interval. (1912) 1 Ch 219 (225), Kenyon v. Walford.

[8] The Indian law is not different from the rule of English law under which demonstrative legacies also carry interest from one year from the testator's death. The absence of any provision in the Indian Probate and Administration Act for the payment of interest on demonstrative legacies does not imply an intention to disallow interest on them (1906) 29 Mad 155 (160) (DB).

Non-ademption of demonstrative legacy.

153. A demonstrative legacy is not adeemed by reason that the property on which it is charged by the will does not exist at the time of the death of the testator, or has been converted into property of a different kind, but it shall in such case be paid out of the general assets of the testator.

[2] The question whether an appointment is defeated by reason of a change in investment where the appointor who is not disposing off his own property but is merely designating the persons who are to take property under an instrument which contemplates and authorises a change of investment appoints a particular portion of the property to an object of the power, must depend upon the true construction of the testamentary instrument which is said to have exercised that power. In each case it is a question of intention which is to be gathered from the words used and if the language used is such that a devise of his own property would have failed by reason of some subsequent act an appointment under the special power in the same language must equally fail. (1868) 5 Eq 555 (560), Jones v. Green.

[4] Testator bequeathing his movable and immovable property to his wife — Testator who had a mortgage decree taking mortgage bond from debtor in satisfaction of decree — Held that the mortgage bond having been executed during the lifetime of the testator satisfied also the description of property left by him namely movable and immovable property and therefore no question of ademption under S. 152 arose. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 18 (19) (DB).

[5] Debenture bonds given under will upon certain trusts—Testator converting them into Debenture stocks of the same company subsequently — Held that the bequest was adeemed as the stock was substantially a different thing from what was bequeathed and did not answer the description in the will. Section 153—Note 1

[1] It is a general rule of English law that demonstative legacies will not fail, although the particular fund out of which they are directed to be paid be called in or be not in existence at the time of the testator's death; but will then be payable out of the general assets. The rule is the same if the particular fund though in existence cannot by reason of some provision of law of which the testator was apparently in ignorance be charged with the payment of the legacy in question. Ademption pro tanto by testator's receipt of portion of entire fund of which portion has been specifically bequeathed.

156. If a portion of an entire fund or stock is specifically bequeathed, the receipt by the testator of a portion of the fund or stock shall operate as an ademption only to the extent of the amount so received; and the residue of the fund or stock shall be applicable to the discharge of the specific legacy.

Where a portion of a fund is specifically bequeathed to one legatee, and a legacy charged on the same fund is bequeathed to another legatee, then, if the testator receives a portion of that fund, and the remainder of the fund is insufficient to pay both the specific and the demonstrative legacy, the specific legacy shall be paid first, and the residue (if any) of the fund shall be applied so far as it will extend in payment of the demonstrative legacy, and the rest of the demonstrative legacy shall be paid out of the general assets of the testator.

He died before L & Co. actually sold and repaid themselves. It was found that the general assets were sufficient to pay off the purposes mentioned in the will: Held that the case stood on a par with the case of a mortgage with the power of re-sale not exercised during the lifetime of the testator and that the specific legatee was entitled to have the debt paid out of the general assets and that there was no partial ademption of the specific legacy. She delivered the draft to one F to invest it in 3 per cent. annuities if he thought fit. F invested the amount in the very S. Testator attached to a codicil to his will subsequently not referring to transaction : Held, on a claim by the devisee of the personal estate to recover the mortgage that there was clear intention to the contrary both in the will and the subsequent documents. [4] Testatrix appointing executor and giving him power to spend the entire amount for his own benefit —Will providing that if he turned out to be of immoral character one of the properties was to be sold and a temple built out of the proceeds—Held, that the intention of the testatrix was to give income of the estate and therefore the estate belonged to the executor by reason of S. 172. OF BEQUESTS OF ANNUITIES.

Annuity created by will payable for life only unless contrary intention appears by will.

173. Where an annuity is created by will, the legatee is entitled to receive it for his life only, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, notwithstanding that the annuity is directed to be paid out of the property generally, or that a sum of money is bequeathed to be invested in the purchase of it.

Where the will directs that an annuity shall be provided for any person out of the proceeds of property, or out of property generally, or where money is bequeathed to be invested in the purchase of any annuity for any person, on the testator's death, the legacy vests in interest in the legatee, and he is entitled at his option to have an annuity purchased for him or to receive the money appropriated for that purpose by the will.

[7] There is no distinction between giving the income of the land and the rents and profits of the land. Income means the rents and profits of the land and the rents and profits mean the income. [3] Section 160 (corresponding to S. 173) does not require that the contrary intention of the testator to which it refers should be indicated by express words. It is sufficient if the contrary intention appears sufficiently from the language of the will read as a whole. (1921) 62 Ind Cas 681 (683) (DB) (Cal).

OF LEGACIES TO CREDITORS AND PORTIONERS.

Creditor prima facie entitled to legacy as well as debt.

177. Where a debtor bequeaths a legacy to his creditor, and it does not appear from the will that the legacy is meant as a satisfaction of the debt, the creditor shall be entitled to the legacy, as well as to the amount of the debt.

Child prima facie entitled to legaac as well as portion.

178. Where a parent, who is under obligation by contract to provide a portion for a child, fails to do so, and afterwards bequeaths a legacy to the child, and does not intimate by his will that the legacy is meant as a satisfaction of the portion, the child shall be entitled to receive the legacy, as well as the portion.

[1] The principle of S. 177 embodying the general equitable principle can be applied even to wills where the section itself is not applicable. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 956 (960) (DB).

[2] Section 164 (S. 177 of the Act of 1925) expressly abolishes doctrine of satisfaction in India and although the Act itself is not applicable to Hindus, Mahomedans or Buddhists, yet it announces a correct principle of interpretation universally applicable unless overridden by some special provision of local law or usage. (1913) 37 Bom 211 (214).

[3] Section 164 (S. 177 of the Act of 1925) is advisedly worded so as to narrow the field of enquiry to which large extension had been given in England. Therefore where there is no ambiguity in a clause S. 62 (S. 75 of the Act of 1925), which enacts the general principles upon which English Courts have acted, cannot be invoked to construe a clause in the will by letting in extrinsic evidence. (1910) 12 Bom L R 863 (865, 869).

[4] One C by his will said "My elder brother, V's self-acquisition to the extent of about Rs. 10,000 is kept with me. So that money should be given to him"— Held, that the bequest of Rs. 10,000 was a legacy meant as satisfaction of the indebtedness of the testator to V for money kept with him by V. CHAPTER XXII.

OF ELECTION.

180. Where a person, by his will, professes to dispose of something which he has no right to dispose of, the person to whom the thing belongs shall elect either to confirm such disposition or to dissent from it, and, in the latter case, he shall give up any benefits which may have been provided for him by the will.

Circumstances in which election takes place.

general equitable principles can be applied. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 956 (960) (DB).

[2] The rule of English law as applied to what are called 'double portions' that where the two provisions are of the same nature or there are but slight differences the two instruments afford intrinsic evidence against a double provision and that where the provisions are of a different nature they afford intrinsic evidence in favour of a double provision, is one which is based upon principles of equity, justice and good conscience and is one to be remembered in considering the intentions of the testator even though the will is governed by Hindu law. (1905) 7 Bom L R 299 (304, 305).

[3] The distinction between ademption and satisfaction is that in ademption the former benefit is given by a will which is a revocable instrument alterable at the pleasure of the testator and consequently when he gives benefit by a deed subsequently to the will he may either by express words or by implication of law substitute a second gift for the former. But where a person covenants to settle land or money on the marriage of a child which covenant he can neither adeem or alter, and if he by will gives some benefit to the same objects and states that that is to be in satisfaction of the covenants, the objects of covenant necessarily get the right either to take under the covenant or under the will. In cases of satisfaction, the person intended to be benefited by the covenant and the persons intended to be benefited by the bequest are the same; in cases of ademption they may be different. (1867) 2 H L 71 (90, 91), Chichester v. Coventry.

[1] Principle of election applies to all wills whether part 6 of Succession Act is applicable to them or not. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 497 (498).

[2] The doctrine of election involves compensation and not forfeiture. Therefore where the property which should be sequestered for the purpose of making compensation to the persons who have been disappointed by the failure of the appointment in their favour is given in such a manner that the testatrix herself must be deemed to intend that the persons to whom she gives it shall not deal with it and that it shall not be dealt with adversely to them, to imply a condition of election would be to imply a condition of election against the express language of the will. (1884) 27 Ch D 606 (612), Smith v. Spence.

[3] The doctrine of election depends on an implied condition that the devisee will comply with all the provisions of the will by renouncing the right to his own property and the doctrine is equally applicable to wills made in India. (1890) 14 Bom 438 (440) (DB).

[4] If anyone has the right by law to take a share of a testator's estate which the testator has not given but otherwise disposed of, that person takes it against the will and cannot go on to found on the will and claim its benefit. ('08) 1908 App Cas 224 (232), Douglas-Menzies v. Umphelby.

[5] The doctrine of election is utterly inapplicable to creditors and therefore where the creditors take a benefit under a will of the testator by the devise for payment of the debts generally they shall not be prevented from laying claim to the property comprised in the devise to the widow as a provision for her in another part of the will. (1806) 12 Ves 136 (154) : 33 E R 53, Kidney v. Coussmaker.

[6] A person who accepts a benefit under a will is not precluded from disputing a transaction entered into by the testator long before his death and which is also not the subject of the will. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 357 (358) (DB).

[7] When the beneficiary does not claim any property bequeathed by the testator as his own no question of election arises. (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 19 (38) (DB).

[8] Where the gifts themselves are void no question of election can arise under the will. (1906) 2 Ch. 288 (293), Whitworth v. Wright.

[9] Where the Court has to decide whether an election under Ss. 180 and 181 has in fact been made the time factor must enter into the account. A simultaneous approbation and reprobation does not amount to election either to approbate or reprobate. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 485 (488, 489).

[10] Testator entitled to a provident fund governed by the Provident Funds Act and deposits in two other Funds, bequeathing all to his wife and daughters in definite shares — Nomination in respect of provident fund existing, the fund not disposable by will — Held, that the widow or persons representing her interest should elect either to take the Provident Fund alone or to stand by the will. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 485 (488).

[11] Bequest of properties standing in the name of his wife by the husband—Wife producing will for registration and adopting under power given in will — Wife getting life estate in certain other properties by the will—Held, that the wife had elected to waive any right which she might have had in the properties bequeathed by the husband and her election bound her heirs also. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 1066 (1067).

[12] Person empowered under the marriage settlement to appoint only the children of that marriage to certain hereditaments appointing a son of that marriage to these hereditaments but subject to the charge of all children including those by the second marriage — Appointment of the same son to his own property subject to a similar charge—Held, that children by second marriage should elect. (1882) 22 Ch D 555 (560), White v. White.

[13] A advancing a certain sum of money to B on the latter assigning to him a covenant by C to transfer some stock of certain value and paying interest at a certain rate—A by will giving C a certain amount of money and moneys due by C to her — A directing the retention by the executors of an amount equal to the value of the stock covenanted by C to transfer to B and to pay the surplus over the amount advanced by her to B and interest thereon—When C predeceased her she directed that the amount given to C should become part of her residuary estate and also that C's representatives should not be asked to pay or transfer the stock covenanted for by C to B and that B should not be asked to repay the amount advanced to him by her : Held, M cannot enforce the covenant for transfer of stock. Devolution of interest relinquished by owner.

181. An interest relinquished in the circumstances stated in section 180 shall devolve as if it had not been disposed of by the will in favour of the legatee, subject, nevertheless, to charge of making good to the disappointed legatee the amount or value of the gift attempted to be given to him by the will.

Though knowledge of law can be imputed to every person knowledge of a rule of equity cannot be so imputed. Therefore where a person who is not proved to have been informed of his obligation to elect cannot be said to have elected when he acts in ignorance of it. [3] Two things are essential to constitute a settled and concluded election by any person who takes an interest under a will which disposes of property belonging to that person. OF GIFTS IN CONTEMPLATION OF DEATH.

Property transferable by gift made in contemplation of death.

191. (1) A man may dispose, by gift made in contemplation of death, of any moveable property which he could dispose of by will.

Section 188 — Note 1.

[1] Section 175 (corresponding to S. 188(2) of the Act of 1925) differs from S. 174 (S. 188 (1)) in that it only permits an inference while the latter section compels an inference. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal. 724 (726, 727, 729) (DB).

[2] Donationes mortis causa fall into two classes — The first is the class of cases in which there is complete delivery or transfer such as would be sufficient in the case of an ordinary gift and as in the case of a donatio mortis causa would necessitate a retransfer to the donor should he recover; and there is also as regards some kinds of property at all events a second class of cases in which the transaction is sufficiently effectuated by an inchoate or incomplete delivery or transfer such as would not be sufficient in the case of an ordinary gift and as in the case of an intended donatio mortis causa requiring something further to be done by the legal personal representatives of the donor after his death (1915) 1 Ch 195 (202). Union of Land and Smiths Bank Ltd. v Wasserberg.

[3] Hindu Law recognises some gifts in contemplation of death. But to constitute a valid disposition by gift there must be a giving orally or in writing with the intention of passing the property in the thing given accompanied by its actual delivery and acceptance in the donor's lifetime. [6] Under Mahomedan law, the requirements which constitute a Marz-ul-maut (death-bed illness) are:

(1) Proximate danger of death so that there is a preponderance of khauf or apprehension that at the given time death must be more probable than life.

(2) There must be some degree of subjective apprehension of death in the mind of the sick person.

(3) There must be external indicia, chief among which would be the inability to attend to ordinary avocations. (1907) 31 Bom. 264 (266) (D B).

(3) Such a gift may be resumed by the giver; and shall not take effect if he recovers from the illness during which it was made; nor if he survives the person to whom it was made.

PART VII.

PROTECTION OF PROPERTY OF DECEASED.

192. (1) If any person dies leaving property, moveable or immoveable, any person claiming a right by succession thereto or to any portion thereof, may make application to the District Judge of the district where any part of the property is found or situate for relief, either after actual possession has been taken by another person, or when forcible means of seizing possession are apprehended.

Person claiming right by succession to property of deceased may apply for relief against wrongful possession.

(2) Any agent, relative or near friend, or the Court of Wards in cases within their cognizance, may, in the event of any minor, or any disqualified or absent person being entitled by succession to such property as aforesaid, make the like application for relief.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841 — Ss. 1, 2.]

Section 192 — Note 1.

[1] The Succession (Property Protection) Act (corresponding to Part 7 in Act of 1925) has a larger scope than S. 145, Criminal P. C., and affords a more appropriate remedy in cases involving disputes regarding succession to larger estates accompanied by breaches of the peace. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat. 372 (376): 23 Cri. L. Jour 236.

[2] The expression 'succession' is not confined to intestate succession but also applies to testamentary succession. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal. 779 (780) : 53 Cal. 637 (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 930 (931).

[3] Section 1 of Act XIX of 1841 (S. 192 of Act of 1925) makes it manifest that an application may be made under it even when the applicant claims a right by succession to a portion only of the property left by the deceased which is sufficient to cover the case where the claim relates to an undivided share of the estate left by the deceased. (1910) 12 Cal. L. Jour 8 (10) (DB).

[4] Sections 192 to 194 will not apply to a case where joint Hindu family property passes by survivorship. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah. 753 (754) : I L R (1939) Lah. 196 ✠ (1912) 23 Mad. L. Jour 537 (538). [7] The idols are entitled to make an application under the Act and as the idol must act through some human agency shebaits can apply on their behalf. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal. 779 (780) : 53 Cal. 637 (DB).

[8] Application for relief should be in the nature of a plaint in a summary suit. The proceedings of the Court under Act XIX of 1841 are of interlocutory nature depending upon the filing of an application for relief asking the Court to determine who has the right to possession pending the final determination of the rights of parties in a regular suit. An application for an inventory and appointment of curator is not contemplated by the Act and the Court cannot consider such an application. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom. 507 (509, 510) (DB)

The District Judge to whom such application is made shall, in the first place, examine the applicant on oath, and may make such further inquiry, if any, as he thinks necessary as to whether there is sufficient ground for believing that the party in possession or taking forcible means for seizing possession has no lawful title, and that the applicant, or the person on whose behalf he applies, is really entitled and is likely to be materially prejudiced if left to the ordinary remedy of a suit, and that the application is made bona fide.

[12] Application under S. 192 — Preliminary point as to maintainability decided in applicant's favour— No revision filed by objector till decision on merits— High Court should not exercise discretionary power in revision in respect of preliminary point. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 251 (254) : 21 Pat 197 (DB).

[1] Under S. 3 of Act (XIX [19] of 1841) the Judge has to be satisfied that the applicant is really entitled to the property and is likely to be materially prejudiced if left to the ordinary remedy of regular suit before an order under the Act can be passed. Therefore, an application for interlocutory orders ought not to be entertained under this Act as such orders could be passed in a regular suit by virtue of the wide powers possessed by Courts and as no person could be said to be materially prejudiced if he is referred to a regular suit wherein he could with ordinary diligence ask for such relief. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 507 (510) (DB).

[2] Section 3 of Act XIX [19] of 1841 (S. 193 of the Act of 1925) merely implies that an application ought not to be granted as a matter of course, but that the Court should proceed with caution and satisfy itself that there are sufficient grounds in support of a prima facie case. ('10) 12 Cal L Jour 8 (13) (DB).

[3] Before action can be taken under Act XIX [19] of 1841 (Part 7 of this Act) the provisions of S 3 (S. 193) should be strictly fulfilled. They are that, (1) the opposite party has no title, (2) the person claiming is really entitled to property and (3) that the applicant is likely to be prejudiced materially, if left to the ordinary remedy of a regular suit. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 504 (505) (DB) (Cal) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 229 (229) ✠ ('10) 11 Cal L Jour 522 (523) (DB).

[4] Under S. 3 of Act XIX [19] of 1841 as it then stood the Judge who acted on the application supported by a solemn declaration was held to have had sufficient materials to justify his order under the Act. ('10) 34 Bom 115 (120) (DB).

[5] Under S. 3 of Act XIX [19] of 1841 a solemn declaration by the agent of a Pardanashin lady was held sufficient. ('11) 1911 Pun L R No. 65, p. 289 (290).

[7] Where the party in possession was an heir, but claimed half the property in dispute against the heirs on the ground of himself having been owner of it even during the lifetime of the deceased : Held that the Court had jurisdiction to proceed under the Act against him. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 507 (508, 509) (DB).

[8] Part VII reproduces Act XIX [19] of 1841 under which action could be taken only by the District Judge. Under Succession Act (XXI [21] of 1865) which the present Act replaces it was provided that the District Judge shall be the Court competent to pass orders under that Act and similar provisions are contained in this Act also Therefore so far as the Indian Succession Act alone stands the District Judge alone has jurisdiction to entertain proceedings under it. ('36) 38 Pun L R 398 (399, 400). (Senior Subordinate Judge of Delhi held had jurisdiction to entertain application under S. 192 by virtue of notification issued by the High Court of Lahore under S. 30 of Punjab Courts Act which gave power to High Court to authorise any Subordinate Judge to take cognisance of or any District Judge to transfer to any Subordinate Judge under his control proceedings under the Indian Succession Act.)

[9] Subordinate Judge has no jurisdiction to deal with application under the Act unless there was any general assignment of cases by District Judge. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 380 (382) : 1918 Pun Re No. 72.

[10] Contravention of the provisions of S. 3 of Act XIX [19] of 1841, (S. 193 of this Act), is a material irregularity and would be interfered with in revision in the absence of any other remedy to the aggrieved party. (Order without any finding on the points required by S. 3 of Act of 1841 (S. 193) can be set aside in revision.) ✠ ('15) 15 Ind Cas 504 (505) (Cal) (DB). (Where action has been taken under Act XIX [19] of 1841 (Part 7 of this Act) without considering the requisites contained in S. 3 of Act of 1841 (S. 193) the High Court will set aside the order.)

[11] Although the omission to observe strictly all the requirements of S. 193 of Succession Act may constitute a material irregularity in the exercise of jurisdiction, the High Court will not interfere in revision if the petitioner has availed himself of another remedy open to him by instituting a regular suit. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 151 (151, 152).

[12] Court refusing to admit indirect evidence on ground that enquiry would be unreasonably prolonged cannot be said to have acted with material irregularity in exercise of its jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 251 (257) : 21 Pat 197 (DB).

[13] District Judge not actually finding in words that there could be material prejudice—Facts found by him showing that this question was present in his mind— Reference made to S. 3 (S. 193 of Act of 1925) by the Judge : Held that the finding was sufficient to maintain the application. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 779 (781) : 53 Cal 637 (DB).

[14] District Judge holding complete enquiry but committing the technical irregularity of not recording before issuing notice to the opposite party the finding that he has satisfied that the applicant had a prima facie title to the property and that he would suffer material prejudice if left to the ordinary remedy of suit—Applicant also taking remedy by way of suit : Held that there would be no interference in revision. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 151 (151, 152).

194. If the District Judge is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for believing as aforesaid but not otherwise, he shall summon the party complained of, and give notice of vacant or disturbed possession by publication, and, after the expiration of a reasonable time, shall determine summarily the right to possession (subject to a suit as hereinafter provided) and shall deliver possession accordingly :

195. If it further appears upon such inquiry as aforesaid that danger is to be apprehended of the misappropriation or waste of the property before the summary proceeding can be determined, and that the delay in obtaining security from the party in possession or the insufficiency thereof is likely to expose the party out of possession to considerable risk, provided he is the lawful owner, the District Judge may appoint one or more curators whose authority shall continue according to the terms of his or their respective appointments, and in no case beyond the determination of the summary proceeding and the confirmation or delivery of possession in consequence thereof :

Appointment of curator pending determination of proceeding.

Provided that, in the case of land, the Judge may delegate to the Collector, or to any officer subordinate to the Collector, the powers of a curator :

[2] Order under S. 194 can be passed only after conditions embodied in S 193 have been fulfilled. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 930 (931).

[3] In the preliminary stage contemplated by S. 3 of Act XIX [19] of 1841 (now S. 193) the Judge has merely to satisfy himself upon the declaration of the complainant and also upon the examination of witnesses and documents if he deems necessary, whether there are strong reasons to believe that the application is bona fide and that judicial action ought to be taken. This merely means that an application ought not to be granted as a matter of course. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 523 (524) : 1915 Pun Re No. 11 (DB).

[3] Court has no jurisdiction to act and appoint a curator unless it is satisfied that otherwise the applicant would be materially prejudiced and that the application is bona fide and in the absence of any such finding the order can be set aside in revision. Provided that in cases of urgency the Judge may proceed, in the first instance, without such report.

(2) The Judge shall not be obliged to act in conformity with any such report, but in case of his acting otherwise than according to such report, he shall immediately forward a statement of his reasons to the High Court, and the High Court, if it is dissatisfied with such reasons, shall direct the Judge to proceed conformably to the report of the Collector.

[8] Where the District Judge had held that in his discretion the case was not a suitable or advisable one for the appointment of a curator the High Court will not go into the question and determine whether or not the discretion was wisely exercised. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 253 (255).

[1] Section 200 does not require specific authorisation from the District Judge to institute or defend suits. (Vol 18) 1931 All 423 (424) (D B).

201. Pending the custody of the property by the curator, the District Judge may make such allowances to parties having a prima facie right thereto as upon a summary investigation of the rights and circumstances of the parties interested he considers necessary, and may, at his discretion, take security for the repayment thereof with interest, in the event of the party being found, upon the adjudication of the summary proceeding, not to be entitled thereto.

Allowances to apparent owners pending custody by curator.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841—S. 10.]

Accounts to be filed by curator.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841—S. 11.]

203. (1) The accounts of the curator shall be open to the inspection of all parties interested; and it shall be competent for any such interested party to appoint a separate person to keep a duplicate account of all receipts and payments by the curator.

Inspection of accounts and right of interested party to keep duplicate.

(2) If it is found that the accounts of the curator are in arrear, or that they are erroneous or incomplete, or if the curator does not produce them whenever he is ordered to do so by the District Judge, he shall be punishable with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees for every such default.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841—S. 12.]

204. If the Judge of any district has appointed a curator, in respect of the whole of the property of a deceased person, such appointment shall preclude the Judge of any other district within the same Province from appointing any other curator, but the appointment of a curator in respect of a portion of the property of the deceased shall not preclude the appointment within the same Province of another curator in respect of the residue or any portion thereof:

Bar to appointment of second curator for same property.

Provided that no Judge shall appoint a curator or entertain a summary proceeding in respect of property which is the subject of a summary proceeding previously instituted under this Part before another Judge:

Provided, further, that if two or more curators are appointed by different Judges for several parts of an estate, the High Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the appointment of one curator of the whole property.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841—S. 13.]

205. An application under this Part to the District Judge must be made within six months of the death of the proprietor whose property is claimed by right in succession.

Limitation of time for application for curator.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841—S. 14.]

206. Nothing in this Part shall be deemed to authorise the contravention of any public act of settlement or of any legal directions given by a deceased proprietor of any property for the possession of his property after his decease in the event of minority or otherwise, and, in every such case, as soon as the Judge having jurisdiction over the property of a deceased person is satisfied of the existence of such directions, he shall give effect thereto.

Bar to enforcement of Part against public settlement or legal directions by deceased.

Saving of right to bring suit.

208. Nothing contained in this Part shall be any impediment to the bringing of a suit either by the party whose application may have been rejected before or after the summoning of the party in possession, or by the party who may have been evicted from the possession under this part.

[Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841—S. 17.]

PART VIII.

REPRESENTATIVE TITLE TO PROPERTY OF DECEASED ON SUCCESSION.

Character and property of executor or administrator as such.

211. (1) The executor or administrator, as the case may be, of a deceased person is his legal representative for all purposes, and all the property of the deceased person vests in him as such.

(2) When the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, nothing herein contained shall vest in an executor or administrator any property of the deceased person which would otherwise have passed by survivorship to some other person.

1. Vesting in executors—General.
2. Hindu and Muhammdan will.

1. Vesting in executors—General.— [1] S. 179 of Act X of 1865 (S. 211 of the present Act) applies to Parsis. ('03) 27 Bom 281 (283). (See Parsi Act XXI of 1865, Section 8.)

[2] The position of an executor or administrator under the section is similar to that of a sebait of an idol. ('05) 29 Bom 96 (100) (D B).

[3] An executor under the law derives his title and authority from the will of his testator and not from the grant of probate; an administrator on the other hand derives his title solely under his grant. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 202 (204): 43 Ind App 113 (P C) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 392 (395): 47 Bom 231 (D B).

[4] An administrator derives his title wholly from the Court and has none until the letters of administration are granted and the property of the deceased vests in him only from the time of the grant. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 218 (219): 53 Mad 480 (D B).

[5] The effect of S. 211 is that the estate of the deceased testator vests in the executor by virtue of the will and from the date of the testator's death. So a person who has obtained probate of the will should be recognized as the legal representative of the testator from the date of his death. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 120 (127) (D B) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 218 (219): 53 Mad 480 (D B) ✠ ('03) 27 Bom 281 (283, 284). (Probate is operative only as the authenticated evidence and not at all as the evidence of the executor's title.)

[6] All the properties of the testator vests in the executor. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 387 (392) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 151 (154) (D B). (Will appointing 20 executors and providing also for the management of the estate by them. Widow and daughter who were given life interest in possession of substantial portion of property —Executors applying for probate in respect of other portions of the property : Held that by force of S. 211 all the property of testator vested in the 20 executors and that they were alone the legal representatives of the deceased testator for all purposes and that therefore no probate for a part of the property could be granted.) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (344). (Property vests in executor even before grant of probate.)

[6a] Estate remains vested in an executor until the properties are distributed. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 306 (307) (D B) (Mortgage by minor legatee before distribution is not binding on the executor— Executor not entitled to sue for declaration that the mortgage is invalid until his possession or title is sought to be disturbed.)

[7] Title in the executor or administrator ordinarily appointed under the Succession Act would not cover the property which has passed to a third person by survivorship. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 242 (243) : 59 Bom 544 ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1077 (1078) : 38 Mad 369 (D B). (Survivorship has the effect of rendering a will invalid only with respect to property which the testator could not dispose of at the time of his death)

[8] Words "all the property of the deceased" must be construed as meaning actual property of deceased, whether held by him for his own benefit or for benefit of others. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 130 (134) : 5 Pat 80 (DB).

[9] An administrator is entitled to be put in possession of the whole of the properties of the deceased and not only of the shares of those at whose instance letters of administration are obtained. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 753 (756) : 11 Lah 325 (D B).

[10] An executor or administrator takes by virtue of his office an estate in the property of the deceased and a legal character is vested in him. The estate vests in the legatee for enjoyment but it vests in the executor for administration and enjoyment is postponed to administration. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 313 (314) (D B).

[11] An executor as such is the owner of the properties of the testator and holds these in the right of the testator and not in the right of the beneficiaries. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 721 (729) : 3 Pat 880 (D B).

[12] The property vests in the executor for the purposes of administration (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 555 (556) (D B). (Legatee mortgaging part of property— Administration of estate not interfered with thereby : Held the administrator could not challenge the mortgage and obtain a declaration that the mortgage deed did not affect the property comprised therein.

[13] The substratum of Ss. 211 and 307 is that if a stranger has paid consideration to the executor, so far as the estate is concerned it is merely one form of asset taking the place of another. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 385 (389).

2. Hindu and Muhammadan will.— [1] The executor under a Hindu will before Act V of 1881 came into force holds property only as manager and the property does not vest in him as it does in an executor under an English will. ('98) 25 Cal 103 (105) (DB) ✠ ('88) 12 Bom 621 (623) (D B) ✠ ('78) 2 Bom 388 (406) (D B). (The rule of the common law in England that the undisposed of residue of personal estate vests in the executor's beneficiary does not apply to wills of Hindus.)

[2] Where property is made over for a specific purpose and that fails, and there is clear intention that the person to whom it is made over is not to take it for his own benefit a resulting trust for the heirs of the testator would arsise under the English law. But in a Hindu will before the Hindu Wills Act there is no room and no necessity for the doctrine of resulting trusts which arises out of the conflict between equitable and legal estates. The Hindu executor takes no estate but only a power of management and upon the special purpose failing, the property undisposed of vests at once in the heir. ('79) 4 Cal 455 (469) (D B).

[3] Probate does not confer upon the executor of a Hindu will any personal rights of property analogous to an English estate or interest. The will gives him just such powers of dealing with the property comprehended in it as its words express, and no more. Beyond the scope of the will, and so far as he is not constructively restricted by its directions, it may be that he has the powers which are implied in the bare authority of a manager during minority. ('78) 2 Bom 388 (408) (D B).

[4] Hindu testator appointing by will executors as trustees, for the whole of his property— Executors taking possession of property after testator's death — Grant of letters of administration to executors with consent of widows of testator : Held that presumption arose that the executors acted on title derived from will and not from the widows and that they were not express trustees for the heir of the testator except in so far as the terms of the will constituted them such trustees. ('97) 21 Bom 646 (663) (D B).

[5] Self-acquired property of a testator does not come within the exemption provided for in S. 211. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 740 (740) (D B).

[6] Case not governed by Hindu Wills Act—Estate of deceased vest in executor on testator's death. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 51 (54) : 37 Mad 175.

[7] In the case of Hindu wills executed in the Moffussil to which the Hindu Wills Act does not apply the estate vests in the executor, who accepts office from the date of the death of the testator. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 434 (447) : 49 Mad 261 (F B).

[8] Under Mahomedan law, in absence of any letters of administration being granted, estate of deceased vests in heirs. But statutory vesting under Probate and Administration Act must take effect in substitution for vesting in heirs which exists between death of deceased and grant of letters. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 16 (17) (D B).

(2) This section shall not apply in the case of wills male by Mohammadans, and shall only apply in the case of wills made by any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina where such wills are of the [a][classes] specified in [b][clauses (a) and (b) of section 57].

[4] One of the several heirs of a deceased who died intestate was impleaded as a defendant to a suit as the legal representative of the deceased : Held that S. 190 (now S 212) applied to the case and that no right to any part of the property of the deceased could be established in any Court unless letters of administration were granted by a Court of competent jurisdiction. 2. Hindu wills.
3. Right as executor or legatee to be established by probate.
4. Value of probate.
5. Unprobated wills can be used for collateral purposes.
6. Probate obtained after institution of suits.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] No suit can be brought by an executor or administrator as such in the Court of any other country except that from which he derives his authority to act, and in a foreign country he must obtain new letters of administration and give new security according to the rules of law prescribed in that country before the suit is brought. ('94) 17 Mad 14 (16) (DB).

[2] The meaning of S. 213 is that no Court shall recognize the right of an executor unless he has obtained the probate of the will under which he claims. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 120 (127) (DB).

[3] K, before he died made a will by which he gave his wives P and B power to adopt and also made provision for them and his two daughters by B—P adopted and the adopted son when he became of age refused to pay the daughters the allowance given to them in the will —The daughters brought a suit when no letters of administration had been granted — P obtaining letters while suit was pending which were subsequently modified by High Court —P dying before the District Judge could alter the letters in conformity with High Court's order and the letters therefore remaining unaltered — Adopted son objecting to daughter's suit on the ground that they had not obtained letters of administration: Held that there was sufficient compliance with S. 187 (now S. 213) and probate as required under that section had in fact been obtained. [8] Section 213 does not bar the jurisdiction of Court to add a person who has not yet obtained probate or letters of administration as representing the estate of the deceased in a case of originating summons, on his undertaking to take out the probate or letters of administration before a formal decree is drawn up. 2. Hindu wills.—[1] Probate is not necessary unless executor is asserting right in Court as plaintiff, in case of will by Hindu. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 385 (388) : 45 Bom 1186 (DB).

[2] When a will made by a Hindu does not fall under the classes specified in cls. (a) and (b) of S. 57 probate of the will need not be taken out before an executor or a legatee files a suit by reason of the provisions of S. 213. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 318 (320) (DB). [4] Section 213 does not apply to wills made by Hindus of Punjab and relating to immovable property situate in Punjab. Legatee can, therefore, claim rights under will without probate. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 599 (600) : 15 Lah 898.

3. Right as executor or legatee to be established by probate.—[1] Section 213 is not limited in its operation only to cases where the plaintiff brings a suit as executor or legatee or even to cases where the defendant claims as executor or legatee. It extends to all cases where it becomes necessary in the suit to decide that under the will the right as an executor or legatee accrued. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 401 (406) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 13 (DB).

[See however (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 67 (71) (DB). [3] Person governed by Succession Act of 1925 at the time of his death — Probate must be obtained before a claim based upon the will can be established. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 85 (87) (DB).

[4] Where title to debutter is founded on will, it can only be established by probate or letters of administration to will annexed and cannot be established by merely relying on recitals in will. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 252 (254) (DB).

[5] No right as executor can be established in any Court of Justice unless competent Court has granted probate of will under which he claims. ('09) 12 Oudh Cas 390 (394, 395) (DB).

4. Value of probate.—[1] Issue of a certified copy of will by Court with a grant of letters of administration is 'probate' within the meaning of the Act. ('11) 38 Cal 327 (334) : 38 Ind App 7 (P C).

Proof of representative title a condition precedent to recovery through the Courts of debts from debtors of deceased persons.

214. (1) No Court shall—

(a) pass a decree against a debtor of a deceased person for payment of his debt to a person claiming on succession to be entitled to the effects of the deceased person or to any part thereof, or

(b) proceed, upon an application of a person claiming to be so entitled, to execute against such a debtor a decree or order for the payment of his debt, except on the production, by the person so claiming, of—

(i) a probate or letters of administration evidencing the grant to him of administration to the estate of the deceased, or

(ii) a certificate granted under section 31 or section 32 of the Administrator General's Act, 1913, and having the debt mentioned therein, or

(iii) a succession certificate granted under Part X and having the debt specified therein, or

---

[2] A probate is authenticated evidence and not foundation of title of an executor, as the vesting of the estate in the executor is complete on the testator's death. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (344).

[3] Unless a probate or letters of administration are taken under the Act, a will cannot prove that anybody named therein has title to the estate of the testator. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 207 (208) (DB).

[4] Subsequent limitation of the grant of a probate by the appellate Court does not affect the grant. ('11) 38 Cal 327 (334) : 38 Ind App 7 (P C) ✠ ('06) 4 Cal L Jour 523 (526) (DB). (Letters of administration with the will in respect of the entire estate of the deceased granted on proof of the will of the deceased to one of his widows—High Court subsequently holding that it should have been of limited character for a specific purpose : Held that until formally cancelled the letters and probate would be authority in favour of anyone of the legatees or any other claiming under the will.)

[5] No Court other than a Court of Probate is competent to hold that the letters of administration had been imperfectly drawn up or on an investigation of the proceedings of the Probate Court to hold that the letters of administration have the same effect as if a copy of the terms of the will had been annexed thereto. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 325 (327) (DB).

5. Unprobated wills can be used for collateral purposes.—[1] Per Schwabe C. J.—An unprobated will is a perfectly valid document. The executor under it can deal with the property and give perfectly good title though it may be that to complete the title it requires probate to be taken out at a later date. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 67 (67) (DB).

[2] Under S. 213 an unprobated will cannot be used for establishing any right as executor or legatee. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1 (31) (DB).

[3] Will dealing with immovable property — Suit for pecuniary legacy unconnected with same maintainable without probate. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 956 (959, 961) (DB).

[4] Unprobated will can be looked into for collateral purpose. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 401 (405) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 13 (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 779 (781) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 341 (343) (DB).

[5] A defendant can rely on an unprobated will only when he does not seek to establish his title under the will. But where he defends his possession under the will it must be probated even though he is a defendant. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1054 (1059) : 50 Mad 927 (F B). (('10) 33 Mad 91 (DB) Overruled.)

[6] A defendant can prove the unprobated will of the propositus for the purpose of showing that the plaintiff would not be entitled to succeed as heir on intestate succession. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 861 (869) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1110 (1110).

[See however (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 401 (405) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 13 (DB). (Title to property claimed by inheritance — Claim cannot be defeated by an unprobated will.)]

6. Probate obtained after institution of suits.—[1] Under S. 213, the grant of probate is not a condition precedent to the institution of the suit—The executor or legatee may institute the suit without obtaining probate but he will not be entitled to a decree unless probate is granted to him before the passing of the decree. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 13 (14, 15) : 56 Bom 65.

[2] So long as compliance with S. 213 is prior to the decree the fact that it was after the institution of the suit is immaterial. ('11) 38 Cal 327 (334) : 38 Ind App 7 (P C) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 571 (574) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 363 (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 234 (236) : 59 Cal 911 (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 1 (5) : 50 Cal 49 (DB).

[3] But executor who has not obtained probate can be effectively sued as defendant when he had intermeddled with estate of testator. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 571 (574) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 363 (DB).

[4] In a suit instituted without obtaining probate the trial Court is not bound to stay proceedings to enable the plaintiff to obtain probate of will from the Court of competent jurisdiction. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 85 (87) (DB).

[5] In a case where the suit is commenced without the necessary letters of administration the Court may grant a conditional decree suspending its operation until letters have been obtained. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 218 (221) (DB).

(2) The word "debt" in sub-section (1) includes any debt except rent, revenue or profits payable in respect of land used for agricultural purposes.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Property vesting in the Crown by escheat — Secretary of State realising the debt due to the person dying heirless need not apply for succession certificate as S. 214 does not apply to Crown. (Vol 19) 1932 All 220 (221) : 54 All 226.

[2] The provisions of the Succession Certificate Act apply to suits in the village Munsif's Court under Act I of 1889, Madras. (1898) 21 Mad 115 (116) (DB).

[3] Section 4, Succession Certificate Act applies also to suits for sale under S. 88 of Transfer of Property Act. ('12) 14 Ind Cas 570 (571) (DB) (All).

[4] Section 4 of Succession Certificate Act is not applicable to payment of dividends by Receiver to creditor entered in schedule for it is applicable only to decrees or orders for the payment of debts. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 899 (899) : 49 Mad 952 (DB). (Case decided under Act VII of 1889.)

[5] The prohibition against suing without a succession certificate applies only in respect of debts and not to claims against executors or trustees—At all events it does not apply to claims for immovable property. ('76-77) 2 Cal 45 (54).

[6] Administration of estate not complete and residue not ascertained at the time a person died intestate — Person dying has only the right to call upon the Administrator-General to administer the estate in due course— Section 214 does not apply as no relationship of creditor and debtor exists between the Administrator-General and the deceased. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 203 (206, 207) : 63 Cal 677 : 63 Ind App 61 (PC). (Affirming (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 841 : 60 Cal 1135.)

[7] Section 4 of the Succession Certificate Act (now S. 214 of this Act) was adopted to protect a debtor when called upon to pay a debt due by him to a deceased person. Therefore, it does not apply to a case where the heir seeks to recover the amounts due to the estate from a person who had wrongfully collected them. (Vol 8) 1921 All 155 (157) : 43 All 440 (DB). (Succession certificate held not necessary.)

[8] Section 214 not only applies to cases where the suit is instituted by the legal representatives but also to cases where the suit was started by the creditor and his legal representatives are brought on record on his dying during the pendency of the suit (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 285 (286) : I L R (1940) Bom 514 (DB).

[9] Where a claim is not against the debtor of a deceased person but against one of the heirs of a debtor by the creditor himself who has inherited a specific portion of his liability there is no necessity for a succession certificate. (Vol 8) 1921 All 173 (174) : 43 All 493 (DB).

[10] The claim contemplated by S. 4 (1) (a) of Act 7 of 1899 (now S. 214 (1) (a) of the Succession Act 1925) is a claim made by a person in the capacity of and as a personal representative of a deceased person and it is immaterial whether the decree has to be made in favour of a personal representative who has himself instituted the suit or in favour of one who has taken the conduct of the suit in hand after its institution by the original creditor. In both cases when decree is passed it is passed in favour of a person who claims to be entitled to the effects of the deceased person and who must consequently produce proof of the representative title. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 301 (303) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 All 233 (236) : 38 All 474 (DB).

[11] The purpose of S. 214 is merely to make it clear that no debt to a deceased person can be recovered through Court except by a holder of one of the documents specified, the only exceptions being either where the claim is made on survivorship, or where it relates to matters contained in sub section (2). (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 24 (25) (DB).

[12] Suit by widow not as entitled to the effects of her deceased husband, nor for the payment of a debt due to the deceased husband but as trustee of endowment founded by her husband—No certificate of heirship is necessary. ('97) 20 Mad 162 (166) : 24 Ind App 73 (PC).

[13] Executor appointed by will for which probate need not be obtained must obtain succession certificate before obtaining decree for debt due to testator. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 301 (301).

[14] Section 214 has reference only to suits to enforce payment of simple debts; suits to bring mortgaged property to sale are not within its purview. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 369 (372) : 12 Rang 690.

[15] No personal decree can be passed under S. 90 of the T. P. Act, in favour of the representatives of the mortgagee who have not obtained succession certificate as S. 4 of Act of 1889 (now S. 214) applies to the case. ('08) 35 Cal 767 (772) (DB).

[16] An application on the part of the successful party in appeal in the appellate Court for restitution from the unsuccessful party, if that is expressed in terms of rupees, is one for the recovery of a debt. Hence the heir of an original party cannot obtain such restitution without providing himself with the necessary succession certificate. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 445 (445) (DB).

[18] Succession certificate has to be taken in respect of only the share of the applicant in the debt due to the deceased. ('09) 9 Cal L Jour 331 (334, 335) (DB).

[19] Plaintiff who sues for redemption is trying to pay a debt and not recover it and therefore need not produce a succession certificate. (Vol 16) 1929 All 896 (896).

2. Persons claiming on succession. — [1] The word "succession" in the section is inserted to except the case where the claim to be entitled to the effects of the deceased is based on survivorship; it has nothing to do with the question whether the person holding one of the documents mentioned in the section is a heir of the deceased or not. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 24 (25) (DB).

[2] On the death of a Hindu who had obtained a money decree, his widow obtains the right to execute the decree on succession. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 243 (245) : ILR (1944) Nag 832 (DB). (Succession certificate necessary to the extent of her interest in the property.)

[3] The Hindu widow does not obtain the right given to her under S. 3, Hindu Women's Rights to Property Act, by survivorship. Nor does she obtain it by inheritance and, therefore, an indorsee of pronote and the two sons of the payee need not obtain a succession certificate to enforce payment against the widow and son of the maker of the promissory note. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 246 (246).

[4] As a personal representative who is the holder of one of the documents enumerated in S. 214 is a person claiming by succession to the assets of the deceased, an administrator who by virtue of S. 211 is the legal representative of the deceased in relation to all his properties other than those which have passed by survivorship, is a person claiming on succession to be entitled to the assets of the deceased. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 24 (25) (D B).

[5] Hindu gentleman taking out a policy of insurance payable on his death—Assured adopting a son and also leaving a will in favour of the adopted son — Adopted son being a minor, Court of Wards which took over the property of the deceased demanding payment of the sum due under the policy — Suit filed by the Court of Wards for recovery of the amount on the insurance company refusing to pay without a probate of the will: Held that the plaintiff claimed by right of succession to the effects of the deceased and, therefore, S. 214 applied to the case. (Vol 20) 1933 All 1 (2) : 54 All 1026 (D B).

[6] The executor of a will becomes entitled to the 'debt' on succession. (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 42 (43) (D B).

[7] A Receiver ordinarily is not the representative or agent of either party in the administration of the trust but his appointment is for the benefit of all parties and he holds the property for the benefit of those ultimately found to be the rightful owners. ('10) 37 Cal 754 (757) (DB). (No succession certificate is necessary when he seeks to take the securities and monies of the deceased in the bank.)

[8] Receivers appointed by Court in litigation after the death of a person with authority to sue in their own name to realise outstandings due to the estate of the deceased are not persons claiming on succession to be entitled to the effects of the deceased. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 210 (210). (Receivers suing need not produce succession certificate.)

[9] The common manager appointed under S. 301 represents the estate of the deceased for all intents and purposes and can sue on a pronote, in favour of the deceased, even if he is not a holder in due course. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 403 (404). ((Vol 24) 1937 Pat 100 : 16 Pat 74 (FB), Rel. on.)

3. Persons claiming by survivorship. — [1] In Hindu law, there is clearly marked distinction between succession and devolution of survivorship and as the succession certificate is designed to facilitate the collection of debts on succession, prima facie the cases of devolution by survivorship are not within the ambit of the Act. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 951 (952).

[2] Section 214 does not require a certificate in respect of a debt due to a person claiming it by survivorship. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 390 (391) (DB).

[3] Where a member of a joint Hindu family dies the other members succeed to him by the right of survivorship and no succession certificate is necessary for the realisation of debts due to the family. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 343 (343) ✠(Vol 17) 1930 All 99 (99) : 52 All 252 (DB). (Terms "legal representatives" and 'successors," are not strictly applicable to case of survivors of a joint Hindu family.)✠(Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1188 (1190). (Managing member of joint Hindu family advancing money out of family funds—Pro-note given to the manager — Surviving member can sue and take the benefit of the pro-note without succession certificate.) ✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 149 (149) (DB). (Mitakshara joint family—Amount due to father—Son need not get succession certificate.) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 919 (920, 921) (DB). (Dayabhaga joint family—Pro-note in favour of karta A—On his death renewed in favour of karta B—A's heirs need not obtain succession certificate.)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 326 (327, 328) (DB). (Mortgage-deed in the name of a person who with his sons and nephew formed a joint Hindu family — Suit by sons claiming entire money due on mortgage — Nephew disclaiming any interest as he had already received his share from the sons : Held that the plaintiffs being the survivors of a joint Hindu family, a succession certificate was not required to enable them to bring a suit on the mortgage.) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 All 419 (420) ✠ ('11) 38 Cal 182 (185, 187) (DB).

[4] The fact that a debt is due upon a promissory note in favour of a member of a joint Hindu family does not make any difference in the construction of the section. In all cases the question is whether the moneys sought to be recovered were advanced from joint funds or were the individual earnings of the person in whose favour the document was executed. The Act does not require that upon the face of the document the debt should appear to belong to the family. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 951 (952)✠(Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1160 (1161).

[But see (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 344 (345).]

[5] Illegitimate son of a Sudra can recover the debts due to his father without a succession certificate as he is a coparcener. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 67 (67).

[6] An adopted son takes ancestral property as survivor and does not require succession certificate to recover ancestral property. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 808 (808) (DB).

[But see (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 107 (108) : 21 Pat 849 (DB). (Decree for rent in favour of the last holder of impartible estate. Income from estate accrued due to the last holder is not an accretion to the estate but is his separate property—Successor must take out succession certificate before executing the rent decree.)]

[8] Maintenance grant to be paid under ekrarnama to R and her daughter P and half of that amount to the male issue of P after the demise of both R and P —P dying—R suing for arrears of maintenance—Contention that arrears upto the death of P constituted a debt to P and R should, therefore, obtain succession certificate before decree can be made in her favour': Held that R took by survivorship and not by inheritance. ('13) 17 Cal L Jour 87 (92) (DB).

[9] In the case of a partnership if a partner dies the surviving partner does not succeed to the dead partner by survivorship and if the surviving partner claims to be entitled to the effects of the deceased person as due to himself alone a succession certificate is required. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 343 (343, 344).

4. Suits to recover mortgage debts.—[1] Obiter. —Succession certificate is not necessary for maintaining suit by mortgagee for recovery of amount due by sale of mortgaged property. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 401 (405, 406) : I L R (1941) Lah 71 (FB).

[2] The bar of S. 214 does not apply to a suit on mortgage brought by a representative of the mortgagee. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 714 (717): I L R (1939) 1 Cal 21 (DB)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 307 (308). (Decree for enforcement of mortgage right, as against mortgaged property is not decree for debt.)

[3] Certificate under the section is not necessary before a decree can be passed directing sale of mortgaged properties in a suit by heirs of the mortgagee for the recovery of mortgaged debts. ('12) 12 Mad L Tim 202 (202) (DB) ✠ ('04) 28 Bom 630 (635) (DB). (Suit to recover mortgage money by possession also is not barred by the absence of succession certificate.)

[4] Equity of redemption is not a security or debt within the meaning of the section and the person entitled to the equity can file a suit for redemption without a succession certificate or letters of administration. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 425 (426) (DB) (Rang).

[5] Joint family consisting of father A and his sons B and C—C taking mortgage in his name in 1912—C disappearing and A obtaining decree as manager—Certain moneys realised towards decree and deposited into Court — C's widow bringing suit against B for mere declaration that moneys belonged to her as mortgage was self-acquired property of C: Held, that S. 214 did not apply as plaintiff had not claimed any personal relief against mortgagor or defendant B. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 503 (506).

[6] The heir of a Chinese Buddhist who dies intestate cannot be compelled to obtain a grant of letters of administration or a succession certificate before asking the Court to grant them a mortgage decree. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 369 (372) : 12 Rang 690.

[7] To obtain a personal decree on a simple mortgage succession certificate is necessary. ('06) 29 Mad 77 (80) (DB) ✠ ('04) 28 Bom 630 (635) (DB).

5. Assignees of debt. — [1] Where an assignee from the decree-holder seeks to execute the decree he does not claim to execute it as the heir of the deceased decree-holder but under the assignment or conveyance from the decree-holder and this section has no application to such cases (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 591 (593) (DB).

[2] The succession certificate procedure is obligatory on any person claiming debts or debt, the property of deceased not only by succession but under any title whatsoever. An assignee from the deceased's legal representative is not exempt. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 168 (169): 44 Mad 499 (FB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 All 185 (187) : 42 All 549 (DB).

[1] Per Wallis C. J.—The section is not confined to Hindus but applies to all. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 720 (722) : 39 Mad 365 (D B).

[2] All that the section provides is that until the grant is recalled or revoked, no other person will have the right to act as the representative of the deceased. But the right to represent the estate for the purposes specified in the section is not the same as the right to deal with the benefical interest in the estate. The moment the administration is completed the purpose of the grant will have been fulfilled and the administrator would virtually become functus officio. Thereupon the grant would stand revoked in effect if not by a formal order of the Court. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 714 (719, 720) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 21 (D B).

[4] The effect of the provisions contained in S. 4 and S. 82, Probate and Administration Act (Ss. 211 and 216 of this Act) is that the executor or administrator by virtue of his office takes an estate in the property of the deceased and a legal character is vested in him. To whom administration may be granted, where deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or exempted person.

218. (1) If the deceased has died intestate and was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, administration of his estate may be granted to any person who, according to the rules for the distribution of the estate applicable in the case of such deceased, would be entitled to the whole or any part of such deceased's estate.

(2) When several such persons apply for such administration, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to grant it to any one or more of them.

(3) When no such person applies, it may be granted to a creditor of the deceased.

(Vol 18) 1931 Rang 283 (285) : 9 Rang 360 (D B).

[10] General grant continues in force till probate or letters of administration have been recalled or revoked by Probate Court on grounds mentioned in S. 263. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 292 (293) (D B).

[1] Difference between application for probate of will and application for letters of administration — On an intestacy, letters of administration are an expensive luxury. In a will they are an absolute necessity and until probate is taken out or letters of administration granted effect cannot be given to the terms of the will. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 595 (596) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 75 (D B).

[2] Distinction between case of letters of administration granted on intestacy and the case of probate or letters of administration with will annexed — In the former case, the deceased having died intestate, his estate has to be distributed by an administrator in accordance with such rules of succession as may apply to the particular individual. In the other cases, the estate has to be distributed in accordance with the wishes of the deceased contained in his will. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 310 (311) : 12 Lah 584 (D B).

[3] An application for probate or letters of administration is in the nature of an application for permission to perform the duty created by the will or for recognition as a testamentary trustee and the right to apply continues so long as the object of the trust or any part of the trust, if really created, remains to be executed. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 595 (599) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 75 (D B).

[4] In considering applications for letters of administration in case of intestate succession, it is the duty of the Court in granting letters to consider whether the estate had or had not been fully administered. But this principle has no application where it is absolutely necessary for the legatees or persons claiming through them to have their title established under the will by proving the will. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 595 (600) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 75 (D B).

[5] Probate — Grant of — No debts due by or to testator—Legatees in possession according to will—Still probate should be granted—But if estate had been administered letters need not be granted. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 277 (278) (D B).

Limitation.

[6] Application for probate or for letters of administration with the will annexed (as well as applications for revocation of probate or letters of administration) are not governed by the law of limitation. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 595 (598) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 75 (D B). (Long delay in making the application is no doubt a circumstance which may be taken into account in determining the genuineness of the will.)

[2] Letters of administration to the estate of deceased dying intestate — A Court ought never to grant letters of administration without having good prima facie evidence that the applicant has such an interest in the estate of the deceased as would entitle him to grant of letters. [2] Case under Probate and Administration Act — Administration of a portion of estate: Held that S. 23, Probate and Administration Act, 1881, contemplated the grant of administration of the whole estate and not of a portion — It would lead to great inconvenience to grant separate letters of administration for separate portions of one estate to all the various heirs of the deceased. Exceptions might under certain circumstances be made under S. 42. ('09) 9 Cal L Jour 576 (578) (DB).

6. Discretion of Court. — [1] In exercising the discretion under sub s. ('94) 21 Cal 164 (168) (DB).

7. Rival claimants : sub-s. (2). — [1] Prima facie, where there are a number of rival claimants, and the claim of one of the rivals is admitted by the other claimants, and the applicant for letters of administration whose claim is admitted is a fit and proper person to be granted letters, in the normal course, letters of administration will be granted to him, and it is unnecessary to consider the status of the other rival claimants. But where, as between the rival claimants inter se, the claim of none of the claimants is admitted by the other claimants, it is incumbent upon the Court to determine the status of the applicant before letters are issued to him. [2] Where two persons apply for letters of administration to the estate of a deceased person, and the status of one of the applicants to so apply is disputed while the other is entitled to a portion of the estate the correct procedure for the Court is to ignore the question of status and grant the letters of administration to the applicant entitled to a part of the estate. [5] Where upon the granting of letters of administration to the step-children, an appeal was filed by the objector on the ground that she was the adopted daughter of the deceased : Held, that as the step-children, in any case, were entitled to a small fraction of the estate, they were entitled to apply for letters of administration and that if the objector wanted to get letters of administration, she must apply for the same and prove that she is the adopted daughter and then she would have preferential right. But if she fails to do so, letters of administration should be given to the step-children. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 280 (281) (DB).

[6] Application for letters of administration filed by A and B, proved to have been duly adopted by deceased —Application opposed by C also claiming to have been adopted—Court should grant letters to A and B, without deciding question of C's adoption as A and B together are entitled to a larger share than C and are therefore to be preferred to C. [3] In proceedings for letters of administration on the ground of adoption, if the applicant would be the only person entitled to inherit the estate of the deceased in case his status as adopted person is proved, the Court is perfectly justified in going into the question of the adoption of the applicant. (i) The widow is a lunatic or has committed adultery or has been barred by her marriage settlement of all interest in her husband's estate. There is cause for excluding her from the administration.

(ii) The widow has married again since the decease of her husband. This is not good cause for her exclusion.

(b) If the Judge thinks proper, he may associate any person or persons with the widow in the administration who would be entitled solely to the administration if there were no widow.

(c) If there is no widow, or if the Court sees cause to exclude the widow, it shall commit the administration to the person or persons who would be beneficially entitled to the estate according to the rules for the distribution of an intestate's estate :

Provided that, when the mother of the deceased is one of the class of persons so entitled, she shall be solely entitled to administration.

(d) Those who stand in equal degree of kindred to the deceased are equally entitled to administration.

(e) The husband surviving his wife has the same right of administration of her estate as the widow has in respect of the estate of her husband.

(f) When there is no person connected with the deceased by marriage or consanguinity who is entitled to letters of administration and willing to act, they may be granted to a creditor.

(g) Where the deceased has left property in British India, letters of administration shall be granted according to the foregoing rules, notwithstanding that he had his domicile in a country in which the law relating to testate and intestate succession differs from the law of British India.

joint administration. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 356 (357) (D B)☆ (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 348 (352) : 2 Pat 508 (D B). (Son is to be preferred to daughter —In cases of equal claimants, first in field should be preferred.)

[5] It is well established according to the English cases that the Court should prefer a sole to a joint administration and even where several persons stand in the same degree of kinship to the deceased, it is the rule to select one only, the selection being made according to certain recognized principles. The interest of the estate which has to be administered and the interests of the parties entitled thereto must be primarily looked to and, other things being equal, a person with business experience and capacity will be preferred to one who has none. A son as a rule will be preferred to a daughter and where none of the usual tests can be applied, the Court frequently appoints the applicant who is first in the field. Where the applicants for administration are quarrelling between themselves and are antagonistic to each other, the administration of the estate is likely to suffer. As they must act jointly, one of them, if obstinate, could defeat the proper administration of the estate. This has also undoubtedly been held to be the practice in this country where administration has frequently been refused to more than one person even where the claimants by reason of kinship are equally entitled to it. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 348 (350): 2 Pat 508 (D B).

Clause (f) :

[6] Under S. 219 (f) before letters of administration can be granted to creditor, it must be shown that there is no person connected with deceased by marriage or consanguinity who is entitled to letters of administration and willing to act. It is not enough if application sets out allegation that deceased left no relatives or persons connected with him by marriage or consanguinity who were entitled to letters of administration and willing to act, but it is necessary just as in case of civil suit, that evidence should be given in support of allegations in application. Mere evidence to the effect that deceased had no wife or children and was not married and that applicant had known him for 5 or 6 years is not enough. It is necessary for applicant to produce evidence that enquiries have been made in the place where father and mother of deceased originally lived which would show whether deceased had any relative still surviving. (Vol 21) 1934 All 885 (885) (D B).

SECTION 222— SYNOPSIS.

1. "Shall be granted".
2. Executor appointed by will.
3. Appointment of executor by implication : Sub-S. (2).
4. Probate of part of will or portion of estate.
5. Miscellaneous.

1. "Shall be granted".— [1] Although the Court has discretion to refuse grant of letters of administration, no such discretion is given in regard to an application for probate by a person selected by a testator for the administration of his estate. (1898) 20 All 189 (191).

[2] The District Judge has no discretion to refuse an application for probate by an executor named in the will on the ground that in the opinion of the Judge, he is not a fit and proper person to be entrusted with that office. (1894) 21 Cal 195 (198) (D B).

[3] The fact that the testatrix had no power to dispose of some or even all of the property which she purported to dispose of is by itself no ground for refusing probate. (1894) 18 Bom 749 (750) (D B). [(1888) 12 Bom 164, Foll.]

[4] Where there is a statutory law governing the grant of probate, it is not open to the Court to refuse grant to a named executor on the ground of his disputing the will or any other ground not authorised by law for the refusal of the grant of probate. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 580 (581) (D B).

2. Executor appointed by will.—[1] Under S. 222, no person who has not been named in will either expressly or by necessary implication can be granted probate of will. (Vol 21) 1934 All 1053 (1054) (D B).

[2] Under S. 222 probate can be granted only to an executor appointed by the will and where the probate is granted to a universal legatee by mistake the grant itself is invalid in law and under such an invalid grant the universal legatee cannot be constituted an executor to exercise any of the powers conferred on executors under the Act. (1902) 6 Cal W N 787 (791).

[3] A mere exhibition of bad temper and levelling foolish charges against the man whom the testator has appointed, ought not to be allowed to prevent the testator's nominee from becoming the executor in the ordinary way. If, after he has taken charge of the estate, it can be shown that he is in any way causing waste to the estate, no doubt the parties will have ample remedy. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 803 (804) (D B).

[4] If there had been an appointment of executor either expressly or by necessary implication in the will then the person so appointed would by the act of the testator be constituted into a legal representative, but if no such appointment is made, the mere fact that there are certain dispositions of property and legacies in the will has not the effect of making the legatees the legal representatives. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 243 (243).

[5] Before the applicants are entitled to probate or grant of letters of administration they must show that they are executors or that under the will the property has vested in them. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 27 (30) (D B).

[6] If member, without being named, of firm is appointed executor, applicant for probate of will must show that he was member of firm both at date of will and at date of testator's death. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 606 (606).

3. Appointment of executor by implication : sub-s. (2). — [1] Executor by necessary implication is also sometimes called executor according to tenor of will. Appointment of such executor is question of construction. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 400 (402, 403).

[2] There is nothing in the Act which imposes upon a testator an obligation himself to name his executor. A testator is not precluded from appointing as his executor such person as some one selected by him may name for that purpose. (1903) 5 Bom L R 639 (641) (DB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 All 804 (804) : 57 All 235 (DB).

[3] In order to constitute one an executor according to the tenor of the will it must appear on a reasonable construction thereof that the testator intended him to collect assets and pay his debts, funeral expenses and legacies and where these rights, powers and duties are not conferred he cannot be regarded as an executor by necessary implication. (1907) 6 Cal L Jour 453 (460) (D B).

[4] Where a will provided, "I appoint my sons S, R and H and on behalf of my minor son, and grandson their mothers respectively as executors" — Held that the minors were appointed executors by necessary implication (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 164 (165) (D B).

[5] Where will stated as follows : "It is devised that my nephew X is to discharge debts due by me to world" : Held, that nephew X was appointed executor by implication. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 343 (343, 344) : 54 Mad 266 (D B).

[6] Under the will bulk of property left to deceased's minor daughter — Deceased's mother appointed as her guardian — Mother given full power to spend income, but not the principal — Directions that mother should feast poor on his death anniversaries — Held that mother was not appointed executrix by implication. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 770 (770).

[7] Where under a will, certain property was left to the applicant for probate with a direction that she should pay certain debts, held that the direction was insufficient to show that for general purposes of administration, applicant should be executrix. (1899) 22 Mad 345 (346) (D B). (There ought to have been a petition for grant of letters).

[8] The mere fact that a testator has appointed by will his elder son to be trustee of his minor younger son in the event of the testator's death during the younger son's minority, is not sufficient to indicate that the elder son was appointed executor of his will. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 270 (270) : 7 Low Bur Rul 266 (D B).

[9] Certain clause in a will ran as follows : "As to the power which I have, I give the same to L and one whom he appoints shall carry on vahivat of property. The general power given to L was curtailed by other clauses following it — Held that L was not appointed executor by the will. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 397 (398).

4. Probate of part of will or portion of estate.—[1] Where a portion of a will has been introduced through fraud or inadvertence, such portion may be rejected and probate granted of the remainder if the two are severable. (1905) 1 Cal L Jour 109 (113) (DB).

[2] As regards partial admission of wills to probate the law is that when the Court is satisfied that a particular clause has been inserted in the will by fraud or when a clause has been added without instructions of the testator it not having been read over to him probate would be granted omitting such a clause but the Court cannot even by consent order a passage of the will to be expunged which the testator being of sound mind intended to form part of it, and therefore the will as a whole should be admitted to probate having all questions as to disposition to be decided between the contestants in a future litigation. (1911) 15 Cal W N 1014 (1018) (DB).

[3] Where the contents of a lost will are not completely proved, probate can be granted of a portion of a will as there is no probibitory word in the section which prohibits the Court from granting a probate for the proved portion of the will. (1899) 26 Cal 634 (636) (DB).

[4] As a general rule, grant of probate should be made for whole estate of deceased person. In certain circumstances Court would be justified in limiting grant to specific portion of estate but in order to justify that circumstances must be special ones. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 310 (312) : 12 Lah 584 (DB).

[5] The main idea of probate or letters of administration is that the grant should be of all the property to one individual or to two or more jointly and so it is not permissible to grant certificate or letters of administration in fraction to two or more persons. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 456 (459) (D B).

[6] See also under Ss. 237, 238 and 248.

[1] There can be no probate of a codicil distinct from probate of will. Codicil may, in certain cases, vary will to very limited extent and in such cases although codicil is subsequent discovery, probate of codicil may be obtained as practical matter in order to add codicil to will or combine codicil with will. Where probate of will is already granted and codicil subsequently discovered vitally changes will, grant of probate of will and codicil together is in effect new grant necessitating revocation of probate of will. (Vol. 28) 1941 Cal. 417 (420).

[2] "Subsequently discovered will" under S. 225, Succession Act, does not mean will subsequently discovered to be probated by Court. (Vol. 28) 1941 Cal. 417 (422).

[3] Subsequently discovered codicil should be proved at place where will is proved. More so in case of codicil discovered prior to probate of will. (Vol. 28) 1941 Cal. 417 (420, 421).

[4] When a will is propounded in a proper proceeding and codicil is referred to in that proceeding and challenged and those interested in propounding the codicil come in and file a caveat substantially and substantively propounding their codicil, the proceeding must be deemed to be proper and effective proceeding in support of the codicil. (Vol. 28) 1941 Cal. 417 (421).

[5] In the first instance any Court which has power to make the grant has power to revoke the grant. But once probate has issued, it is only the Court which has made the grant which retains the power to revoke such grant. (1941) 45 Cal W N 757 (751, 760),

[6] Where there has already been a grant of probate of a will, there cannot be any further grant of probate of codicil having the effect of revoking the will, until the grant in existence has been revoked. (1941) 45 Cal W N 757 (758).

[7] Where a will and codicil have been in existence and the will is afterwards revoked, it must be shown by the party applying for probate of the codicil alone, that it was intended by the deceased that it should operate separately from the will otherwise it will be presumed that as the will is destroyed, the codicil is also revoked. SECTION 227—SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Effect of grant.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] The provisions of this section do not suggest that before probate the executor has no title but are only intended to simplify the proof of his title as dating from the testators' death. The object is only to get rid of the multiplicity of proof in every case where either the will itself or anything done under it by the executor is challenged and the proof of execution and of the appointment of executor would be required. (Vol. 19) 1932 P. C. 92 (94): 55 Mad. 443: 59 Ind. App. 112 (P. C.) (Case under S. 12, Probate and Administration Act, 1881).

[2] Under S. 227, an executor derives his title from the will and probate is the only effective evidence of his title and he can act before probate and subsequent probate validates the intermediate acts. But the provisions of that section do not apply to cases of representation in suits. (Vol. 29) 1942 Cal 571 (574): I. L. R. (1942) 2 Cal 363 (DB). ((1910) 14 C. W. (According to view adopted by Calcutta High Court regarding wills after 1870, on executors obtaining probate, they immediately become vested by force of statute with whole of estate which belonged to testator at time of his death; or, in other words, vesting takes place on taking of probate, but relates back to time of testator's death and to estate which then belonged to him. ((Vol. 13) 1926 Mad. 434: 49 Mad. 261 (FB), Not foll)]

[3] Although a grant of probate is an order of the Court, it does not actually order the grantee to do anything. (Vol. 29) 1942 P. C. 31 (35) (P. C.).

2. Effect of grant—[1] Distinction between effects of letters and probate—While the probate of a will renders valid all intermediate acts of executor as such, letters of administration do not render valid any intermediate acts of the administrator tending to the diminution of damage of the intestate's estate although they entitle the administrator to all rights belonging to the intestate as effectually as if the administration had been granted at the moment after his death. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal. 57 (58) (DB).

[2] Probate once granted authenticates the will against all the world; it affords a ready means of proof of the contents of the will; and it is a complete answer by the executor to any challenge of his authority as such. (Vol. 19) 1932 P. C. 92 (94); 59 Ind App. 112: 55 Mad. 443 (P. C.) ((84) 8 Bom. 241, overruling (1883) 7 Bom 966, Approved.)

[3] The grant of probate is decisive only of the genuineness of the will propounded and of the right of the executors thereby appointed to represent the estate of the testator. It in no respect decides any question as to the disposing power of the testator or as to the existence of any disposable property (1902) 26 Bom. 792 (796) (D.B). ✠(Vol. 24) 1937 Bom. 341 (355) (DB). [5] The judgment of a probate Court granting or refusing probate is a judgment in rem and therefore the judgment of any other Court in a proceeding inter partes cannot be pleaded in bar of an investigation in the probate Court as to the factum of the will propounded in that Court. [2] The grant made under this section is only an ancillary grant in order to give efficacy to the grant already made by another Court of competent jurisdiction and the procedure in this section is analogous to the procedure in England which enabled the probate Court in England to re-seal Scotch, Irish or Colonial grants. Grant under this section is in no sense a grant of probate

[3] If a foreign will has already been proved and deposited in a competent Court abroad, this section, following the English law enables a Court in British India to grant letters of administration to the applicant with a properly authenticated copy of such will annexed, and thus to dispense with the necessity of proof of the original will. But where a foreign will has not been so proved, the Judge will have himself to take evidence as to the due execution of the will, according to the law of the country in which the testator was domiciled, in cases where the property in respect of which probate is sought is movable or personal property. [7] This section does not require that the will should have been deposited once in foreign Court and should have remained in Court for all time. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 506 (507) (D B).

[8] A copy authenticated by the notarial seal of a notary as provided for by the judicial process of a foreign Court is a properly authenticated copy within the meaning of this section. Copy authenticated under the seal of the foreign Court is not required. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 506 (507) (D B).

(Vol 30) 1943 Cal 235 (236) (DB). [3] An executor may renounce executorship even before proceedings in Court or before any issue of citation. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 746 (747): 13 Lah 233 (D B).

[4] Mere failure of an executor to appear in Court in pursuance of the citation issued to him does not amount to his renunciation of the executorship. If he fails to appear, his conduct may amount to renunciation in England, but not in India. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 470 (471). (Affirmed in (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 746 : 13 Lah 233.)

[5] Renunciation by executor is not invalid by his having intermeddled with estate of deceased. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 864 (867) : 51 Cal 745 (D B).

[6] Widow named as one of the executors — Other executors applying for probate — Widow disputing will but praying that if probate was issued it should be issued in her favour as well — Held that there was no renunciation by the widow and S. 230 did not apply to the case — Court could not refuse grant. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 580 (581) (D B).

[7] No doubt S. 230 applies to the case of an executor but that by itself does not authorise administrator to act contrary to practice laid down in the section. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 33 (34) : 53 Bom 172.

[8] An executor once having acted unquestionably as an executor cannot renounce that character and all the liabilities which attach to it and having once acted, the subsequent renunciation is void and he continues liable to be sued in the character of an executor. (1908) 32 Bom 364 (369). (Rogers v. Frank, (1827) 1 Y & J 409: 148 E R 730, Foll.)

2. "Orally in the presence of the Judge." — [1] 'Judge' means Judge of Probate Court. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 470 (471). (Affirmed in (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 746: 13 Lah 233.)

[2] It is open to an executor to openly assert outside the Court that he is renouncing his executorship, but it is by his statement in Court that he will stand or fall. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 605 (605) (DB). ((1908) 35 Cal 156, Rel. on.)

3. "By a writing signed." — [1] Written renunciation need not be made in Court — Written renunciation proved to Court's satisfaction is enough. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 797 (797) (DB).

[2] Renunciation in writing in absence of Judge need not be addressed to Court. Signature of renunciant executor is sufficient compliance with S. 230. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 746 (748) : 13 Lah 233 (DB). ((Vol 15) 1928 Lah 470, Affirmed.)

4. Retraction of renunciation. — [1] Renunciation once validly made cannot be retracted. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 746 (748) : 13 Lah 233 (DB). ((Vol 15) 1928 Lah 470, Affirmed; (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 864 : 51 Cal 745, Rel. on.) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 864 (867) : 51 Cal 745 (DB).

[2] Executor is not concluded by renunciation once declared and may retract his renunciation at any time before grant of administration has passed seal. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 96 (99) (DB).

[3] Retraction of renunciation of right to obtain letters can be allowed only in proper cases — Mere change of mind not enough. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 33 (35) : 53 Bom 172.

[4] An official trustee, who has retracted his intention of renouncing probate, is not precluded from applying for probate, where there is no formal renunciation. (1908) 35 Cal 156 (159).

[5] Application to withdraw renunciation of executorship two months after grant of probate is too late. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 444 (445) (DB).

[1] Executor called upon to accept or renounce is compellable if he accepts to take out probate within limited time, otherwise, letters of administration with copy of will annexed may be granted to any competent applicant. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 315 (315) : 40 Bom 666 (DB).

[2] Word "prove" in Ss. 231, 232 and 234 of Act is used primarily in its ordinary meaning. It is not used in sense of taking of letters of administration or of taking of probate in case of executor. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 293 (296) : 16 Luck 454 (FB).

[1] A universal legatee is not entitled to probate but only to letters of administration with the will annexed. (1892) 19 Cal 582 (583). ((1871) 7 Beng L R 563, Not Foll.)

[2] Where probate had been granted to a universal legatee by mistake, the grant is from the first invalid in law. The grantee cannot under such invalid grant be constituted an executor so as to be empowered to exercise the powers conferred on the executors under the Act. (1902) 6 Cal W N 787 (791) (DB).

[3] Merely because an application for letters of administration is not made in proper form, the previous proceedings in which an order granting letters is passed cannot be deemed to be a nullity and the Judge can allow petitioner to make good the defects and then proceed to make a grant upon the petition. (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 150 (153) : 30 Sind L R 201 (DB).

Clause (b):

[4] Will dedicating certain property to a religious institution and the property to be managed by its an universal or a residuary legatee may be admitted to prove the will, and letters of administration with the will annexed may be granted to him of the whole estate, or of so much thereof as may be unadministered.

Right to administration of representative of deceased residuary legatee.

233. When a residuary legatee who has a beneficial interest survives the testator, but dies before the estate has been fully administered, his representative has the same right to administration with the will annexed as such residuary legatee.

mahant—Original application for letters of administration by mahant — On mahant's death, his successor held entitled to claim letters of administration with respect to the will. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 265 (265).

Clause (c):

[5] Executor dying after applying for probate—Proper course is to proceed under S. 232 — The question of granting letters is, however, to be considered when a proper application is made by a universal or residuary legatee. (Vol 21) 1934 All 1053 (1054) (DB).

[6] Where an executor dies without having fully administered the estate, the duty of carrying on the administration does not devolve on the personal representative of the deceased executor, but upon a person appointed for the purpose under Ss. 19 and 45, Probate and Administration Act, 1881 (corresponding to Ss. 232 and 258 of the present Act). (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1184 (1188).

[7] Application for probate by executor—Proceedings are in representative character — Death of executor in course of proceedings — Beneficiaries can continue proceedings though prayer for probate must be changed to one for letters of administration with the will annexed. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 114 (116) : 56 Mad 346 (DB).

Universal or residuary legatee.

[8] Probate Court can on construction of will, consider whether applicant is residuary or universal legatee. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 154 (155) (DB).

[9] "Universal legacy" means "testamentary disposition by which testator gives to one or more persons whole of property which he leaves at his decease." Testator bequeathed absolutely to his mistress property and life-interest in his other property reversionary interest in which was to vest after her death in his sister's son : Held, that mistress was one of universal legatees. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 510 (511) (DB).

[10] Residuary legatee is person who takes surplus or residue of property and residuary bequest implies that legatee is entitled to all property belonging to testator at time of death of which he has not made testamentary disposition. No particular mode of expression is necessary and it is sufficient if intention of testator be plainly expressed in will. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 239 (240) : 31 Nag L R Sup 30. (Testator made will bequeathing his property in favour of his wife. After her death property was to devolve on his two daughters and on their death, on their offsprings. His daughters and daughter's son claimed that they were residuary legatees under will : Held, position of daughters and daughter's sons was that of remainderman or reversioners and not that of residuary legatees. While former two have estate in expectancy, last have estate in possession.)

[12] Residuary legacy made to idol—Executor failing to apply for probate — Shebait and not purohit can apply for letters. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 160 (161) : 50 Cal 238 (DB).

Will—Meaning of.

[13] It cannot be said that the "will" used in the section, must be the original document. The word has been obviously used to mean the disposition. Otherwise in no case, where the will is not in existence the universal or residuary legatee can apply. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 365 (367) (DB).

Administration of whole estate.

[14] Application for grant of letters of administration with will annexed to it — Except in cases covered by S. 232 (c), application must cover entire estate of deceased. (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 277 (277, 278) (DB). ((Vol 12) 1925 Lah 493 Overruled.)

[15] Where none of the estate has been administered, it is necessary for petitioner to apply for grant in relation to whole estate. A petitioner cannot under S. 232 apply for the administration of just so much of the property as suits his purpose. (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 150 (152) : 30 Sind L R Sup 201 (DB).

[1] Word 'representative,' appearing in Ss. 233 and 234 should not, in case of Hindu, be restricted to 'legal representative.' (Vol 19) 1932 Bom. 270 (271). (Practice prevailing in office of Testamentary Registrar which requires heir of residuary legatee to obtain representation according to law to estate of residuary legatee before he can apply for letters of administration with will annexed to estate of deceased testator is not correct practice.)

[2] Sole legatee under a will, whose application for letters of administration is rejected, dying during pendency of appeal against order of rejection —His heir can be substituted in his place for carrying on the litigation. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 618 (621) : 9 Pat 698 (DB).

[3] On the death of a residuary legatee, during the pendency of application for letters of administration with a copy of will annexed, his heir has no right to be substituted in the place of his father in probate proceedings. The reason is that the right to a grant of administration is a personal right and although the heir, if the will is established, may be the proper person to obtain a grant, this is so not by virtue of any right to administration, which he inherits from his father, but by virtue of the fact that as heir of his father to the residue he is the person most interested in the estate. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 197 (197) : 45 Cal 862.

[1] The probate Court has a discretion in granting letters under this section and the High Court will not interfere with that discretion unless it is satisfied that that discretion was unreasonably exercised. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (357) (DB).

titled to the administration of the estate of the deceased if he had died intestate, or any other legatee having a beneficial interest, or a creditor, may be admitted to prove the will, and letters of administration may be granted to him or them accordingly.

Citation before grant of administration to legatee other than universal or residuary.

235. Letters of administration with the will annexed shall not be granted to any legatee other than an universal or a residuary legatee, until a citation has been issued and published in the manner hereinafter mentioned, calling on the next of-kin to accept or refuse letters of administration.

[2] Where the application is for letters of administration with the will annexed, the probate Court cannot decline to exercise its function of getting the will established because the administration is complete. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (357) (DB).

[3] The probate Court should not deprive a person of his right to administer the estate if he is entitled to the grant under this section, merely because he does not base his claim on the terms of this section. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (357) (DB).

"Executor"

[4] Where a minor is appointed executor by implication, it is not a case where no executor has been appointed. Nor is it a case of his declining to act, because in law he could not act. Section 234, therefore, has no application to such a case. Such a case is solely provided for by S. 244. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad. 343 (344) :54 Mad 266 (DB).

"Residuary legatee."

[5] The term "residuary legatee" does not include a universal legatee. The representative of a universal legatee, is therefore not entitled to a grant of letters of administration under this section. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat. 356 (357) (DB).

[6] Where under a will no residuary legatee was named, persons who were entitled to the whole of the estate under the will at the time of application for letters of administration, held might be regarded as residuary legatees for the purposes of S. 234. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 595 (598) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 75 (D B).

"Representative."

[7] The word "representative" appearing in S. 234 should not at least in the case of a Hindu, be restricted to a legal representative. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 270 (271).

[8] Property acquired by a mahant belongs to the religious shrine of which he is the mahant and letters of administration can be granted only to the person who can be shown to have near spiritual relationship with the deceased mahant. ('10) 1910 Pun W R No. 46, p. 113 (114).

"Incapable to act."

[9] Where the applicant challenged the validity of the will, held that the applicant was incapable to act in the discharge of his duties as administrator. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (357) (DB).

"Who would ..... died intestate."

[10] The nephew of the testator is a person entitled to the grant of letters under this section as he is one of the persons "who would be entitled to the administration of the estate of the deceased if he died intestate." (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (356) (D B). (See also under S. 218.)

"Other legatee having a beneficial interest."

[11] Where no one is appointed an executor by the will of a deceased person, it is open to the Court to grant letters of administration with the will annexed to one of the persons having a beneficial interest in the estate. ('11-12) 6 Low Bur Rul 118 (118) (DB).

[12] V bequeathing property to his widow U and P and S sons of his first wife's brother — U entitled to life-estate and P and S to enjoy property on U's death — S pre-deceasing V — V, held must be deemed to have died intestate with regard to S's interest — P establishing will but found to be neither residuary legatee nor executor—Court, held ought to grant letters of administration to U and could not dismiss P's suit. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 502 (503) (DB).

[13] Executors turning hostile to intentions of testator—No renunciation—Letters with will annexed can be granted to legatee only after an opportunity has been given to the executors and has not been availed of. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 96 (99) (DB).

"Creditor."

[14] It would only be in the event of a will being put forward possibly to defraud creditors that a creditor would have locus standi to come in probate proceedings. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 680 (680) (DB).

"Will, proof of."

[15] Proof of will—Court cannot take notice of will unless it is duly and formally proved. Absence of denial of execution of will is no ground for dispensing with the formal proof of the will required by law. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 69 (70). (('78) 1Cal. L R 362, Foll.)

Miscellaneous.

[16] English law—Administration—Grant was made to person who had no interest in the estate of an intestate, where the only next-of-kin, who was solely entitled in distribution, had renounced the right to the grant. (1901) 1901 P 42 (43), In the goods of Trigg. ((1862) 2 Sw. and Tr. 595, In the goods of Johnson Foll.)

[1] This section is merely intended to protect the possible right of the next-of-kin to effect the administration of the estate where no executor has been appointed and where the application is made by a mere specific legatee and it does not relieve an applicant for letters of administration even though he be a universal or residuary legatee from the obligation to call upon reversioners and to give them an opportunity of protecting their vested interests in the reversion. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 385 (386, 387) (DB).

[2] Section 235 is meant to give an opportunity to the next-of-kin to accept or refuse the letters of administration simpliciter— Notice to show cause why grant should not be made is sufficient compliance of S. 235. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 510 (511) (DB).

[3] Next-of-kin means a person, or set of persons, standing nearest in blood relationship to another person. It means, in fact, the natural heir or the heirs. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 510 (511) (DB).

[4] Denying validity of will by next-of-kin amounts to refusing letters of administration under S. 235— Subsequent statement that if will were proved to be valid, they should be given letters of administration rather than applicant, is not acceptance of letters of administration under S. 235. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 510 (511) (DB).

[5] Citations should always issue to parties who are known to Court to be interested or to claim any interest in estate of deceased, but where parties have

To whom administration may not be granted.

236. Letters of administration cannot be granted to any person who is a minor or is of unsound mind, [a][nor to any association of individuals unless it is a company which satisfies the conditions prescribed by rules to be made by the [b][Provincial Government] in this behalf].

CHAPTER II.

OF LIMITED GRANTS.

Grants limited in duration.

Probate of copy or draft of lost will.

237. When a will has been lost or mislaid since the testator's death, or has been destroyed by wrong or accident and not by any act of the testator, and a copy or the draft of the will has been preserved, probate may be granted of such copy or draft, limited until the original or a properly authenticated copy of it is produced.

Probate of contents of lost or destroyed will.

238. When a will has been lost or destroyed and no copy has been made nor the draft preserved, probate may be granted of its contents if they can be established by evidence.

not complained of proceedings omission to cite them does not call for revocation of the grant. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 207 (210) (D B).

[6] There is a broad distinction between cases of wills and cases of intestacy in the matter of citations, for in the former cases, the proof of will in a majority of cases acts prejudicially to the legitimate rights of those who would inherit or be entitled to the properties in the absence of a will and omission to cite them is likely to affect such rights of theirs in their absence, while in the latter class of cases, such omission only affects their preferential right to administer or prevents them from objecting to the personnel of the administrator or to like matters and it is not until there is any mal-administration that they are really affected. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal. 207 (209) (DB).

[7] A creditor who has acquired an interest in the properties left by the deceased, after the testator's death is not entitled to any special citation provided for in S. 235 but only to a general citation under S. 283. ('37) 41 Cal W N 120 (123) (D B).

[1] Letters of administration cannot be granted to a minor. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 197 (198): 5 Pat L Jour 347 (D B). (But they may be granted to his legal guardian or to such person as the Court thinks fit in the circumstances provided for S. 244. An application for such letters must be on behalf of his guardian and not on behalf of the minor through his guardian.)✠(Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 63 (64) (D B)✠(Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 53 (54): 9 Low Bur Rul 186 (DB) ✠ ('12) 6 Low Bur Rul 118 (118) (D B). (Where he is not the sole residuary legatee, letters cannot be granted to his guardian.)

[2] Under S. 236, letters of administration cannot be granted to any person who is minor; where such grant is made, High Court would set it aside in revision. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 323 (325) (D B).

[3] Application for grant of letters of administration by person domiciled in native State—Applicant of age by the law of the State though under 18 years of age—Application held must be refused as applicant had not attained 18 years. ('94) 21 Cal 911 (915).

[4] The registration of an association of individuals under Act XXI [21] of 1860, does not exempt such association from the operation of S. 236 and does not entitle such a registered society to a grant of letters of administration. ('47) 49 Pun L R 228 (229).

[1] The petitioner, asking for probate of the draft of a will, under S. 237 must prove that the will has been lost or mislaid since the testator's death. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 307 (309): 55 Cal 482 (D B).

[2] (Per Ray J.)—The words "since the testator's death" qualify only the verb "mislaid"; they have no reference to the word "lost". (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 365 (367) (DB).

[3] A person relying on a lost will must not only show that there was a will but also show what were its terms; and it will be quite impossible to admit to probate a document as a codicil when the terms of the codicil will be incapable of being carried out without independent knowledge of what was in the alleged will. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 33 (35): 1940 Rang L R 654 (DB).

[4] Probate of draft of will cannot be ordered in the absence of evidence to show that it had been drawn up in accordance with instructions of testator. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 114 (115).

[5] As to the presumption that arises where a will is in the testator's possession and is not forthcoming after his death, see under S. 238.

[1] English law — Where a will is shown to have been in the custody of a testator and is not found at his death the presumption arises that the will has been destroyed by the testator for the purpose of revoking it, but that presumption may be rebutted by the facts. (1876) 1 P & D 154 (217, 218), Sugden v. Leonards. (Although presumtio juris, it is not presumtio de jure and the presumption will be more or less strong according to the character of the custody which the testator had over the will.) ✠ (1900) 1900 App Cas 604 (610), Allan v. Morrison ✠ (1865-69) L R 1 P & D 281 (284, 285), Gekersley v. Platt.

[2] In India the question as to the presumption of the will being revoked by the testator with reference to the fact of its being in his possession till the time of his death is to be decided more or less upon the circumstances of each case. It cannot be laid down as a rule of law that under certain circumstances a presumption should be made that the will was revoked by the testator or not. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 307 (309): 55 Cal. 482 (D B). ((Vol 1) 1914 Cal 365 and ('04) 31 Cal 885, Not foll.) ✠ ('03) 13 Mad L Jour 135 (136) (D B). (If there is any such presumption it is one of fact and depends on circumstances of each case.)

Probate of copy where original exists.

239. When the will is in the possession of a person residing out of the Province in which application for probate is made, who has refused or neglected to deliver it up, but a copy has been transmitted to the executor, and it is necessary for the interests of the estate that probate should be granted without waiting for the arrival of the original, probate may be granted of the copy so transmitted, limited until the will or an authenticated copy of it is produced.

Administration until will produced.

240. Where no will of the deceased is forthcoming, but there is reason to believe that there is a will in existence, letters of administration may be granted, limited until the will or an authenticated copy of it is produced.

[1865 — S. 211 ; Probate and Administration Act, 1881 — S. 27.]

Grants for the use and benefit of others having right.

Administration, with will annexed, to attorney of absent executor.

241. When any executor is absent from the Province in which application is made, and there is no executor within the Province willing to act, letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be granted to the attorney or agent of the absent executor ; for the use and benefit of his principal, limited until he shall obtain probate or letters of administration granted to himself.

[3] The presumption that a will in the testator's possession and not forthcoming after his death has been revoked, does not arise unless there is evidence to satisfy the Court that it was not in existence at the time of his death. ('04) 31 Cal 885 (892) (D B). ((1867) L R 1 P & D 371, Finch v. Finch, Rel. on.)

[See also (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 325 (326) (D B). (Where the original will has been lost and its terms have been satisfactorily proved by secondary evidence, a copy of the terms as found by the Court should be annexed to the probate or letters of administration as the case may be.)]

[5] Various statements of the testator whether before or after the execution of his will, are admissible to prove its contents. (1876) 1 P & D 154 (229), Sugden v. Lord St. Leonards. ((1864) 33 L J (P M & A) 146, Quick v. Quick, Overruled.)

[6] When the contents of a lost will are not completely proved, probate will be granted to the extent to which they are proved. (1876) 1 P & D 154 (230), Sugden v. Lord St. Leonards.

[7] Probate can be granted of a portion only of a will to the extent to which its contents are proved, where the other portion is lost. There is no prohibition in S. 238, against such a grant. ('99) 26 Cal 634 (636, 637) (D B).

[See ('05) 1 Cal L Jour 109 (113) (D B). (Not a case of lost or destroyed will— Probate may be granted of a portion of a will after striking out or omitting such portions of it as are proved to have been inserted in it without the testator's knowledge.)]

[See also (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 674 (677) (D B). (If only a part of the will is lost, probate may be granted if the contents are proved.)]

[8] Where a will is found to have been duly and validly executed by the testator the applicant can prove the will by means of certified copy put in, and obtain grant under S. 237. ('04) 31 Cal 885 (894) (DB). (Case of letters of administration.)

[10] Production of copy—Presumption as to originals: See under S. 90, Evidence Act.

[1] Application for grant of letters of administration by attorney of executor who is absent from province falls under S. 241 and not under S. 242. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 400 (401).

[2] Where the executors in England were intended by the testator to have power of administering his assets in India as well as in England, their attorney was entitled to grant of letters of administration in India. ('75) 15 Beng L R (App) 8 (10).

[3] Section 241 covers application for letters of administration with copy of will annexed when original cannot be produced because it is held by Court abroad as result of that Court having granted probate. Person possessing property in India dying in England—Executor obtaining probate in England and applying in India through agent for grant of letters of administration—Agent is entitled to letters of administration under S. 241 on application with copy of will annexed. Furnishing security is not condition precedent to granting of probate as S. 228 has no application to such case. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 680 (681) : I L R (1940) Mad 820 (D B). (('75) 15 Beng. L. R. Section 247 — Note 1

Scope :

[1] The appointment of an administrator pendente lite under S. 247 is purely discretionary and the Court has to be satisfied as to the necessity of such an administration, as to the fitness of the proposed administrator, and that it is just and proper under the circumstances of the case to appoint an administrator, before subjecting the estate to the cost of such administration. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (344) ✠ ('11) 13 Cal L Jour 34 (35) (DB). (In contested probate proceedings, where the case is likely to be protracted, an order for an administrator pendente lite cannot be made as of course. In each case the Court must be satisfied that the appointment is necessary and proper.)

[2] Probate suit—Appointment of executor not questioned—Court refused to appoint administrator pendente lite. (1870) 2 P and D 85 (86), Mortimer v. Paull.

[3] The Court does not as a rule appoint a receiver as against executors whenever they have obtained probate, unless there is gross misconduct or mismanagement and waste on their part. If they are rightly in possession and there is no dispute as to their title they will not be replaced by the Court receiver except on strong grounds. The Court refuses to appoint an administrator pendente lite where there is a person named in the will as executor whose appointment is not questioned and who can discharge the functions of an administrator. But where the appointment of the executors is questioned and their title is in dispute, because the will itself is challenged on various grounds, there should be a grant of administration pendente lite. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (346).

[4] The Court of probate would grant administration pendente lite in all cases where the necessity for the grant is made out. This is so because while the suit is pending, there is no one legally entitled to receive or to hold the assets or to give discharges. ('09) 10 Cal L Jour 263 (275) (DB).

[5] The taking of possession by the executor does not take away the jurisdiction of the probate Court to appoint an administrator during the pendency of an appeal to the High Court. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 631 (633) (DB).

[6] The Court has, apart from the Succession Act, general jurisdiction to appoint a receiver in any case in which it may appear just and convenient to do so. Such an appointment cannot be claimed as of right merely because the proceedings are contested; but whenever there is a bona fide dispute and a case of necessity has been made out, the Court in its discretion

Probate limited to purpose specified in will.

249. If an executor appointed generally gives an authority to an attorney or agent to prove a will on his behalf, and the authority is limited to a particular purpose, the letters of administration, with the will annexed, shall be limited accordingly.

generally makes the grant. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (344).

[7] Where an injunction is necessary, the proper procedure to follow is for the aggrieved party to apply to the Court for the appointment of an administrator pendente lite under S. 247, as an administrator pendente lite appointed under that section takes charge of the entire estate, both movable and immovable, of the deceased. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 565 (567) (DB).

[8] Where an application is made under S. 247, the probate Court may, if necessary, grant an injunction either in the exercise of its inherent power or under O. 39 R. 7 of the Civil P. C. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 565 (567) (DB).

Position of administrator pendente lite.

[9] The position of an administrator pendente lite is similar to that of a receiver with this distinction that the administrator pendente lite represents the estate of the deceased for all purposes except distribution. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (343).

[10] Administrator pendente lite—His position is analogous to that of receiver in partition suit—Court is empowered to direct administrator to do acts necessary in interest of parties. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 980 (981) (DB).

Duration of functions of administrator pendente lite.

[11] The duties of an administrator and a Receiver pendente lite commence from the order of appointment and if the decree in action is appealed from they do not cease until the appeal is disposed of, while the functions of an administrator during the pendency of a suit terminate with a decree pronounced in favour of a will and do not continue until the executor obtains probate. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 631 (633) (DB).

"Control of the Court"

[12] The Succession Act itself should be looked to for the powers necessary for the proper custody of property pending the progress of proceedings under that Act, instead of leaving the Court to the enforcement of provisions contained in the Code of Civil Procedure which were not enacted for such special purpose and which are not so indubitably applicable. Court-fee.

[14] Grant of administration pendente lite requires court-fee but person to whom full grant is subsequently ordered is, on termination of proceedings, entitled to such grant free of payment. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 89 (90) (DB).

[1] It is not necessary when executor is appointed for limited purpose specified in will that there should be express direction that he should also carry out all general duties of executor. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 400 (403).

[2] It is true that an executor, who has been appointed by the testator for the administration of a particular fund, is competent to take out probate limited to that particular fund but where there is no direction as to any particular fund and where the applicants for the grant of letters apply in their capacity as heirs, there is no provision of law which empowers the Court to refuse administration of the whole estate and limit it to a fractional undivided portion thereof. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 673 (674) : 3 Pat L Jour 415 (DB).

[3] In order to see whether the grant of probate was limited in character or unlimited the Court must see the will. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 313 (314) (DB).

251. When it is necessary that the representative of a person deceased be made a party to a pending suit, and the executor or person entitled to administration is unable or unwilling to act, letters of administration may be granted to the nominee of a party in such suit, limited for the purpose of representing the deceased in the said suit, or in any other cause or suit which may be commenced in the same or in any other Court between the parties, or any other parties, touching the matters at issue in the said cause or suit, and until a final decree shall be made therein and carried into complete execution.

252. If, at the expiration of twelve months from the date of any probate or letters of administration, the executor or administrator to whom the same has been granted is absent from the Province within which the Court which has granted the probate or letters of administration exercises jurisdiction, the Court may grant, to any person whom it may think fit, letters of administration limited to the purpose of becoming and being made a party to a suit to be brought against the executor or administrator, and carrying the decree which may be made therein into effect.

Administration limited to purpose of becoming party to suit to be brought against administrator.

The administration might be granted to some person on its behalf· Held also that the applicant's son, in the absence of other nearer heirs, was the heir entitled to grant ('86) 12 Cal 375 (379, 380) (DB).

[6] Section 250 can apply only to property in which a deceased person had ownership so as to constitute it a portion of his estate although he held it in trust. A mohunt of a math has no ownership in the property of the math. It, therefore, does not form any portion of his estate. A person claiming to be his successor cannot therefore apply under S. 250 for grant of letters in respect of the math property. ('12) 16 Cal W N 798 (800, 801) (DB). Section 251 — Note 1

[1] Dishonest heirs, by refusing to take out probate or letters of administration, would be able to escape liability for the torts of a deceased defendant. But, the Succession Act itself provides the remedy, for by S. 251, it gives to the party himself whose interest it is to continue a suit in which the cause of action survives, the power to have constituted an administrator for the purpose of continuing the litigation. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 17 (25) : 13 Rang 385 (DB).

[2] Death of defendant testator pending suit — Executors under will not getting substituted although repeatedly asked to do so — Administrator ad litem appointed — Executors cannot apply for revocation of the grant of letters of administration—But they can be given supplementary grant of probate, keeping the administrator ad litem intact. Section 254 — Note 1

Scope.

[1] Section 254 applies to a case where for some just cause, the person who is legally entitled to letters of administration ought to be superseded and the grant made to another person (94) 21 Cal 164 (168) (DB).

[2] Section 254 has no application where there is no want of persons entitled to administration, nor does it empower a Court to make an arbitrary selection from among persons contending for a grant. A grant of administration must be made to the person who is by law entitled to the property, and it is only in exceptional circumstances that this rule should be departed from. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 197 (199) : 5 Pat L Jour 347 (DB).

[3] It is desirable that a petition filed under S. 254 should plead specifically the existence of such circumstances as would make the section operate. An averment, however, in the petition that the executors named in the will have "slept over the will", thereby making it possible for one of those executors to misappropriate the trust funds, may be treated as a sufficient averment that the executors named in the will are not willing and competent to execute the will. If necessary the petitioner might have been required to amend the petition making the petition more specific But the vagueness of the plea is not of itself a sufficient ground for the rejection of the petition. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 189 (190) : I L R (1944) Mad 658 (DB).

[4] It is not in the power of the District Judge acting under S. 254 to direct that somebody else who has no present interest in the estate should be associated with the person who under S. 218 is legally entitled to letters of administration. ('94) 21 Cal 164 (168) (DB)

Discretion of Court.

[5] The wording of S. 254 gives the Court a very wide discretion as to the person who is to be appointed administrator on a petition under the section, and a person interested in the estate can, where there is no executor willing or competent to act, ask the Court to appoint a public official or even such person as the Court may think fit as administrator, rather than allow the will to fail. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 189 (190) : I L R (1944) Mad 658 (DB).

[6] The grant of letters of administration is purely discretionary and as the object of the grant is the protection and benefit of the estate, the Court would not exercise a proper discretion in refusing to make such a grant to a person having the largest interest in the estate, merely on the ground that it would be more satisfactory to make a grant to another person. It is only when the estate, in the hands of a person having the largest interest is likely to suffer irretrievable loss and damage, that a refusal would be justified. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 197 (199) : 5 Pat L Jour 347 (DB).

[7] If persons who are not next of kin and are not legatees, come before the Court asking grant, then the Court is entitled under this section to say that a proper case must be made out for making such a grant. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 654 (656) (DB).

[8] A grant of letters may be made under S. 254 to a daughter in-law of the deceased, as guardian of her minor son, who is neither an executor nor a residuary legatee. (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 142 (143) (DB).

[9] A under a will devoted the whole of property to idol and appointed his wives and son H executrices and executor of will. The executrices and executor never applied for probate. The son H dealt with the property as if there was no will and mortgaged it. The property was sold in execution of the mortgage decree. Thereafter H's minor sons applied for probate of the will under S. 254 through their mother who was a pardanashin woman as their next friend : Held that the application could not be considered bona fide and therefore could not be granted. The mother, the next friend, was a pardanashin woman and the husband, the defaulting executor, would manage the whole business, if grant was made. ('08) 7 Cal L Jour 558 (559) (DB).

"Leaving a will . . . . to act."

[10] The expression "leaving a will of which there is no executor willing and competent to act" does not mean that at the time of the testator's death, when the will came into effect, there was no executor willing to act, but it clearly refers to the time when the Court has to decide as to whether there is no executor willing and competent. The fact that a named executor has acted for a short time can make no difference, so far as the powers of the Court are concerned, if when the Court has to take action, there is no executor willing and competent to act. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 797 (798) (DB).

Considerations for exercising discretion.

[11] It is well established according to the English cases that the Court should prefer a sole to a joint administration and even where several persons stand in the same degree of kinship to the deceased, it is the rule to select one only, the selection being made according to certain recognized principles. The interest of the estate which has to be administered and the interests of the parties entitled thereto must be primarily looked to and, other things being equal, a person with business experience and capacity will be preferred to one who has none. A son as a rule will be preferred to a daughter and where none of the usual tests can be applied, the Court frequently appoints the applicant who is first in the field. Where the applicants for administration are quarrelling between themselves and are antagonistic to eath other, the administration of the estate is likely to suffer. As they must act jointly, one of them, if obstinate, could defeat the proper administration of the estate. This has also undoubtedly been held to be the practice in this country where administration has frequently been refused to more than one person even where the claimants by reason of kinship are equally entitled to it. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 348 (350) : 2 Pat 508 (DB). (('80) 5 Cal L R 368, Foll.)

[12] Consanguinity of administrator, safety of estate and probability of proper administration should be looked to—The Court is not to be guided by the wishes or feelings of the parties but by the benefit of the estate. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 178 (180) (DB).

[See also (1872-75) 3 P & D 207 (208, 209), In the goods of Hale. (Administration—Person dying intestate —Mere fact that the persons who would be entitled to administration desire that some one else should be appointed administrator, does not constitute such a special state of circumstances as to justify a grant under S. 73, English Probate Act (20 and 21, Vict. C. 77).)]

[13] English law — The Court of probate has no power to refuse probate to any executor appointed by a testator by reason of the badness of his character only, but only in certain cases, namely, he must be resident out of United Kingdom at the time of the testator's death and there must be a necessity or convenience that such person should not be allowed to act. In these cases the Court might make grant of administration to some other person. (1872-75) 3 P & D 48 (49), In the goods of Samson.

[1] Section 255 deals with those cases wherein certain properties have to be excepted from the letters of administration for special reasons. Under that section Administration with exception.

Grants of the rest.

257. Whenever a grant with exception of probate, or of letters of administration with or without the will annexed, has been made, the person entitled to probate or administration of the remainder of the deceased's estate may take a grant of probate or letters of administration, as the case may be, of the rest of the deceased's estate.

258. If an executor to whom probate has been granted has died, leaving a part of the testator's estate unadministered, a new representative may be appointed for the purpose of administering such part of the estate.

[2] A will may be in part admitted to probate and in part may be refused. If the Court shall be satisfied that a particular clause has been inserted in the will by fraud without the knowledge of the testator in his life-time or by forgery after his death, or if he has been induced by fraud to make it a part of his will, probate will be granted of the instrument with the reservation of the clause; or where a clause has been introduced per incuriam and the deceased executes the paper not having given any instruction for such clause and it not having been read over to him, probate would be granted of the remainders of the paper omitting such clause. [3] There is no provision in the Succession Act which authorizes the Court to grant probate limited to part of the estate in cases where under S. 211 the whole estate is vested in the executor. Section 255 is in no way applicable. ('82) 6 Bom 460 (462) (DB).

[4] Different people cannot get individual grants of letters of administration limited to the particular property. Where there has been one partial grant already there should be no other grant save with reference to rest of estate. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 654 (654) (DB).

[5] When a provision is found in a will, under which the writer gets a substantial advantage and the evidence is not sufficient to remove the suspicion attaching to the provision and to satisfy the Court that the testator knew and approved of the said provision, probate should not be granted of that part which confers the benefit but probate should not be refused in respect of the remainder of the will. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 45 (50) : 56 Ind App 62 : 8 Pat 382 (PC).

[2] As a rule, in all cases, general letters of administration of a Hindu's estate must be taken out for the immovable as well as the movable property. Limited administration can only be granted under special circumstances. ('81) 6 Cal 483 (484) (SB)✠ ('84) 10 Cal 554 (557). (Considering the special circumstances of the case, letters of administration were granted in respect of separate estate of the deceased, departing from the rule laid down in (1880) 5 Cal 2.)

[3] Where property, purchased with the funds of the joint family and belonging to it, stands in the name of the karta of the family in his individual name, the legal estate vests in the karta while the beneficial interest is in the family. On the death of such person, no change takes place so far as beneficial interest is concerned, but the legal estate does not pass by survivorship to the other coparceners, and therefore letters of administration may be granted to the surviving coparceners as his "heirs" to the legal estate in such property and limited to it alone. 259. In granting letters of administration of an estate not fully administered, the Court shall be guided by the same rules as apply to original grants, and shall grant letters of administration to those persons only to whom original grants might have been made.

ALTERATION AND REVOCATION OF GRANTS.

[3] Where the will directed six persons to be panchas of whom one was to supervise the work of administration and the panchas were given power to appoint other panchas : Held, that power could only be exercised by the whole body of panchas. Any power to appoint by will was excluded. At the most one panch would be a person who might apply for letters of administration de bonis non. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 216 (216) (DB).

[4] As a result of the grant of letters of administration de bonis non, it does not follow, as of necessity, that the administrator will obtain any property. Whole of testator's estate created trust for certain idol and two persons appointed executors and also shebaits—Testator's daughter obtaining letters of administration de bonis non : Held that as soon as debts and legacies and funeral expenses were paid, executors would hold the property upon the trusts of the will and there would be no property administered by the executors, which would pass to any administrator de bonis non. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 142 (143) (DB).

[5] Under will of Hindu, self-acquired property bequeathed to his infant son — Death of executor before estate was fully administered — Suit by testator's son for recovery of arrears of rent by his next friend : Held letters de bonis non should have been taken out and without them the suit was not maintainable. (1893) 16 Mad 71 (72) (DB).

[6] Dedication, under will, of property to idol—Executrix appointed — Executrix also constituted shebait — Executrix also given power to appoint next shebait — Death of executrix without making appointment—Application for grant of letters in respect of debutter property : Held that this section authorised such a grant, inasmuch as no shebait having been appointed, portion of the estate of the testator remained to be administered. ('86) 12 Cal 375 (379) (DB).

[7] Where an executor dies without having fully administered the estate, the duty of carrying on the administration of the estate does not devolve upon the deceased executor or administrator's personal representative but on a person appointed for the purpose under S. 258. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1184 (1188) ⁂(Vol 7) 1920 Upp Bur 45 (46) : 3 Upp Bur Rul 208. Section 259 — Note 1

[1] Section 259 affords an argument against the possibility of there being such a thing as derivative executorship. The existence of a derivative executor is not contemplated by the Act and the representation is treated as coming to an end on the death of the executor. ('74) 12 Beng L R 423 (428).

[1] Letters of administration granted to widow of deceased testator durante minoritate of infant son—Death of son intestate and still infant—Estate still unadministered : Held widow was entitled to administration de bonis non to that estate. ('02) 6 Cal W N 581 (582) (SB).

Section 261 — Note 1

[1] No Court other than the probate Court is competent to hold that the letters of administration had been imperfectly or inaccurately drawn up. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 325 (326, 327) (DB).

[2] Application to rectify clerical error by omitting a word and inserting another which ought to have been there : Held that an order for omitting the words could be given but not for inserting another. (1901) Prob. D 190 (192), In the goods of Louis Schott.

[3] Will as originally drawn up bequeathing properties to G. B. White whereas the testator intended to bequeath to G. B. Ward—Will executed by striking out the word White and inserting Ward in its place—Change not initialled by testator—Probate issued in the name of White—On an application to amend, the substitution of the word White with Ward was allowed. ('79) 4 Cal 582 (582).

[4] Solicitor, in a will, under a mistake describing testatrix's interest in a property as in undivided moiety thereof — Draft submitted for approval returned with alterations in respect of other particulars—Finding of fact that the testatrix did not approve of that part which contained the restricted description of the extent of her interest in the property — Application to amend the will by deleting the restrictive words was allowed. (1902) Prob D 234 (237), Brises v. Baillie Hamilton.

Procedure where codicil discovered after grant of administration with will annexed.

262. If, after the grant of letters of administration with the will annexed, a codicil is discovered, it may be added to the grant on due proof and identification, and the grant may be altered and amended accordingly.

Revocation or annulment for just cause.

263. The grant of probate or letters of administration may be revoked or annulled for just cause.

Explanation.—Just cause shall be deemed to exist where—

(a) the proceedings to obtain the grant were defective in substance; or

(b) the grant was obtained fraudulently by making a false suggestion, or by concealing from the Court something material to the case; or

(c) the grant was obtained by means of an untrue allegation of a fact essential in point of law to justify the grant, though such allegation was made in ignorance or inadvertently; or

(d) the grant has become useless and inoperative through circumstances; or

(e) the person to whom the grant was made has wilfully and without reasonable cause omitted to exhibit an inventory or account in accordance with the provisions of Chapter VII of this Part, or has exhibited under that Chapter an inventory or account which is untrue in a material respect.

Illustrations.

(i) The Court by which the grant was made had no jurisdiction.

(ii) The grant was made without citing parties who ought to have been cited.

(iii) The will of which probate was obtained was forged or revoked.

(iv) A obtained letters of administration to the estate of B, as his widow, but it has since transpired that she was never married to him.

(v) A has taken administration to the estate of B as if he had died intestate, but a will has since been discovered.

(vi) Since probate was granted, a later will has been discovered.

(vii) Since probate was granted, a codicil has been discovered which revokes or adds to the appointment of executors under the will.

(viii) The person to whom probate was, or letters of administration were, granted has subsequently become of unsound mind.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Section 263 is exhaustive of the cases in which just cause shall be deemed to exist for the revocation or annulment of the grant of letters of administration. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 259 (261) : 1941 Rang L R 376 (DB)✠(Vol 7) 1920 Cal 584 (586) : 47 Cal 115 (DB).

[2] The section is exhaustive and not merely illustrative. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 352 (352) : 7 Lah 270 (DB).

[3] The section applies to the case of a Hindu will and an application for revocation of such a will lies under the provisions of this section. ('81) 5 Bom 638 (640).

[4] A proceeding for the revocation of probate is not suit within the meaning of O. 23, Rr. 1 and 3 of the Civil P. C. ('10) 12 Cal L Jour 91 (95) (DB).

[5] Application for revocation by a person who contested the grant when it was made is in substance an application for review and is not maintainable unless accompanied by a copy of the order. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 215 (216) : 1939 Rang L R 601 (DB).

2. Right to apply.—[1] Other persons falling within the definition "persons claiming to have any interest etc.", in S. 283 (1) (c) who are not parties to the proceedings in which probate or letters of administration were granted or though entitled to be cited were not served with personal notice thereof have for their only remedy an application for the revocation or annulment of the grant of probate or letters of administration, and in making that application they will be limited by the expression "just cause" as defined in that section. ('81) 6 Cal 460 (471) (DB).

[2] It is not only persons who would be cited before grant of probate who could apply to revoke the probate but also persons who allege that they have been defrauded. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 11 (12, 13) : 71 Ind App 1: ILR (1944) Kar PC 61 Sup (PC).

[3] The applicant for revoking probate must show that he is interested in the alleged will. It may be slight or even a bare possibility; but there must be some interest which the applicant is prima facie entitled to claim in the estate of the deceased. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 370 (372) ✠(Vol 19) 1932 Pat 95 (96): 10 Pat 817 (DB). (Application on the ground that deceased testator had no right to the properties which were alleged as held by him in his official capacity : Held the petitioner had no locus standi.)

[4] A person disputing the right of a deceased testator to deal with certain property as his own cannot be properly regarded as having an interest in the estate of the deceased. ('90) 17 Cal 48 (52) (DB). (('82) 8 Cal 570 (DB), Dissented.)

[5] Applicant for revocation must show interest in the estate of the deceased. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 532 (532) (DB)✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 38 (38) : 9 Low Bur Rul 273 (DB). (Applicant having no right to claim a share in the estate : Held he had no interest to apply for revocation.)

[7] Where an immediate reversioner is precluded from applying for revocation the remoter reversioner can do so. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 38 (40) (DB)

[8] Legatee under an earlier will has locus standi to apply for revocation of probate of later will. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 1012 (1012) (DB).

[9] B died leaving will under which K who was appointed executor obtained probate —N, the lady's husband, after the death of B and before K's application for probate selling one of the properties comprised in the will to C — C applying for revocation first as purchaser of B's property from her heir-at-law but later on changing the plea setting up N as being independently entitled to it under the will of N's father : Held that B's application for revocation would be only if he claimed the property as purchaser from her heir-at law. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 87 (88) : ILR (1938) 2 Cal 173 (DB).

[10] A person interested by assignment in the estate of a deceased may, where a will has been set up and proved at variance with his interests, apply for revocation of the probate of the will set up. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 421 (422) (DB) (Purchaser of interest in property of deceased can apply.)

[11] Assuming that a purchaser from a heir can apply to have the grant of a probate revoked it is doubtful whether an attaching creditor could do so at least in a case which is not founded on the ground that the probate has been obtained in fraud of creditors. ('84) 10 Cal 19 (27, 28) : 10 Ind App 80 (PC).

[12] Alienees since probate are not necessary parties to proceedings for revocation of probate on the ground of proceedings being defective in substance. But after revocation they may be allowed to be heard when the propounder is called upon to prove the will. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 713 (717) (DB).

[13] An applicant who was a member of joint family with deceased is not entitled to revoke. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 532 (532) (DB).

[14] Objection that applicant for revocation did not allege any interest in property cannot be raised for first time in appeal — Order will stand unless shown to be wrong on merits. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 428 (429) : 6 Lah 180 (DB).

3. Minors. — [1] A minor when properly represented can apply for revocation of probate where guardian was appointed without his consent and refused to accept citation. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 630 (631) (DB).

[2] Where a minor is interested and no citation is duly served upon the properly appointed guardian ad litem of the infant it would be open to the infant on attaining majority to institute proceedings for the revocation of probate. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 387 (388).

(Case of intestacy—Letters of administration obtained by brother—Minor interested as only heir left by deceased, neither cited nor properly represented — After attaining majority, minor heir held entitled to obtain an order for revocation of grant and have the will proved in solemn form.)]

[3] Contentious proceedings — Probate granted in consequence of a compromise between the sui juris disputants—Prayer by one of the disputant as guardian on behalf of a minor claimant that compromise be sanctioned — Court passing no formal order : Held that the minor had a right to apply for the revocation of probate on attaining age and that he may become debarred from exercising such right by his acquiescence and delay for a long time or by subsequent ratification of the dispositions of the will. ('10) 14 Cal W N 1068 (1073) (DB).

4. Bar of res judicata.—[1] The section allows one party after another to attack in turn the grant of probate but does not allow every succeeding opponent to re-open all previous attacks. It does not also enable parties already defeated to press their attacks over again. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 578 (581) (DB).

[2] The principle of res judicata applies even though the words of S. 11, Civil P. C., may not be strictly applicable where the matter has previously been in issue between the same parties and the validity of the will has been fully and finally established. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 578 (580) (DB).

[3] Obiter.— Decision under S. 263 against the applicant that he had not such interest in the subject-matter of the bequest as to justify his bringing an application for revocation of probate held operated as res judicata. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 236 (240) . ILR (1940) 1 Cal 14.

[4] An application for revocation by a party who contested the order at the time at which it was made, and having had the opportunity did not put forward a particular just cause is prima facie res judicata as between the parties. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 215 (216) : 1939 Rang L R 601 (DB).

[5] When once probate of a will has been granted in solemn form, no one who has been cited or taken part in the proceedings or who was cognisant of those proceedings and stood by can afterwards seek to have it cancelled. (Applicant pardanashin lady— Will proved in common form without citation on her — Infants practically deprived of whole inheritance by will — Mere knowledge on the part of applicant of proceedings is not sufficient ground for refusal to recall probate.)]

Executors cannot apply for revocation of the grant of letters of administration. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 718 (718).

[10] Two wills executed by testator, the latter revoking the former—Probate granted under the second will—Application for revocation by executors of first will dismissed on the ground that they had no interest in the subject-matter of the bequest—Representative suit by persons interested in the bequests under former will — Decision in the proceedings by executors does not operate as res judicata in the representative suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 236 (240) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 14.

[11] Application for revocation dismissed in the absence of both parties—Dismissal could not bar a second application. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 385 (387) (DB).

5. Whether suit lies to set aside grant.— [1] A judgment by a probate Court is a judgment in rem and cannot be set aside by a judgment in a civil suit which is conclusive only inter partes. Therefore the proper remedy of a person who wants revocation is to apply under S. 263 and not to file a suit. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 385 (388) (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Cal 236 (240) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 14✠(Vol 20) 1933 Bom 469 (474) (DB). (Probate issued by High Court—Revocation should be applied for by application invoking the probate and testamentary jurisdiction—Suit in the ordinary original civil jurisdiction is not permissible.)

[But see (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 370 (372). (For revocation there may either be an application to revoke the grant or substantive suit.)]

[2] Where a suit is filed on the original side in which revocation is prayed for among other reliefs the suit cannot be transferred to the Court dealing with testamentary and intestate matter, nor can the one relief appropriate to that division be so transferred, nor can the suit be dismissed on that ground but it must be stayed. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 469 (474, 475) (DB).

6. Forum.—[1] Where it is alleged that the letters of administration have been wrongly granted the proper course is to apply to the Court which granted the letters to revoke the same. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 483 (484, 485)✠(DB).

7. Just cause.—[1] The explanation of the term just cause is exhaustive and not merely illustrative. Therefore an application for revocation must fall under one or more of the said grounds. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 370 (373) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 584 (586) : 47 Cal 115 (DB).

[2] The Probate Court cannot revoke the grant of probate on the ground that the terms of the will are contrary to the provisions of the Muhammadan law as that is not one of the just causes set out in the section. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 113 (114) (DB).

[3] Service on guardian living under the influence of propounder and therefore not in a position to oppose grant of probate or require proof of will which was inofficious—Guardian absent and probate granted without appointing guardian ad litem : Held that failure to appoint guardian ad litem was enough to revoke the grant of probate. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 713 (715) (DB).

[4] Mal-administration of the estate by the administrator is not a just cause for revoking the grant. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 695 (696) (DB).

8. Delay in filing application.—[1] Per Das J.— Mere delay in applying for revocation of grant of letters of administration is no bar in the absence of any finding of acquiescence or waiver. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 434 (440) : 25 Pat 747 (DB)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Cal 717 (718, 719) (DB). (Probate in common form to certain persons in 1907—Special citations not issued to persons who were heirs in the event of intestacy — Application in 1928 cannot be dismissed on the ground of delay unless it amounted to waiver or acquiescence.)

[See however (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 713 (714) (DB). (Though there is no fixed time during which an application for revocation can be made, even if there may be no acquiescence a person may be debarred by long delay in making such application.) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 938 (949) (DB). (Obiter.—A person may be barred by long delay in making an application for revocation although there was no acquiescence on his part.)]

[2] In an application to set aside a probate, where knowledge, acquiescence and lapse of time are shown the petitioner must give some reasonable and true explanation of the delay or in other words the application must be made bona fide before it can succeed. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 419 (420) : 42 Cal 480 (DB).

[3] Application to call in letters after 30 years not to be entertained, if object is to frustrate the will. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 618 (619) (DB).

[4] Testator leaving minor brother, mother, married sisters and childless minor widow. Bulk of property given to brother—Widow receiving small sum of money and maintenance allowance—Mother applying for probate as executrix—Father of widow refusing service of special citation issued to him as guardian ad litem — Probate granted without objection — Statement by widow's father that he and his daughter had no objection to mutation in brother's name—Widow continuing to receive allowance even after attaining majority : Held, there was no just cause for revocation of will on application by the widow after six years. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 743 (746) (DB).

9. Clause (a).—[1] Applicant who shows substantial defect in the proceedings would be entitled to the revocation of the grant and the person who had been granted probate should prove the will in the presence of the application. Where the applicant fails to prove substantial defect he can get the probate revoked only on affirmative proof that the will is a forgery. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 (300) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB).

[2] Where the Court which had granted probate had jurisdiction of the subject-matter, namely the grant of probate but the question was whether the person who applied for probate was competent to do so, the question is not one of jurisdiction but one which the Probate Court had to determine during the exercise of its jurisdiction. Therefore where it decides and grants probate there is no defect in procedure within the meaning of this section. ('10) 37 Cal 387 (397, 398) (DB).

[3] Father, the natural guardian appointed guardian ad litem and served with notice—Mother of minor who was also served with citation not opposing the grant —Father who was resident son-in-law knew of the will to which he was an attesting witness— Father also not opposing grant to avoid the wasting of minor's money — Absence of evidence to show that he was neglecting minor's interest : Held that the proceedings for obtaining probate were not defective in substance. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 236 (237) (DB).

[4] Failure to mention in the application for probate the existence of some relatives who have claim on the estate and to have them represented and cited is defect sufficient to revoke the probate. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 74 (76) (DB).

[5] Where notice to interested persons was not issued owing to the untrue statements of the applicant for probate, the proceeding to obtain probate is defective in substance within the first clause of the section. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 623 (625) (DB).

[6] Per Manohar Lall Ag. C. J. — Illustration 2 refers not only to cases where it is imperative to issue a special citation, but it refers to all cases where the grant is made without calling the parties who ought in the opinion of Court to have been cited. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 434 (437) : 25 Pat 747 (DB).

[7] Per Das J.—The daughter of testator who should succeed under Hindu law on the death of the testator is entitled to citation as she is a person who ought to be cited as contemplated by illustration. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 434 (437) : 25 Pat 747 (DB).

[8] The probate of a will cannot be revoked on the mere ground of non-citation without a consideration of the other questions arising therefrom. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 706 (707) (DB) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 241 (242) : 1941 Rang L R 285 (DB).

[See however ('28) 109 Ind Cas 243 (245) (DB) (Cal.)]

[10] Absence of citation alone is not a just cause for revocation of the grant of probate where the person to whom citation has been issued is otherwise aware of the proceedings. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 578 (581) (DB) ✠(Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 (301): ILR(1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB).

[11] The absence of citation or failure to serve notice is not sufficient for revoking a probate granted ex parte. The proper course is to give the executor an opportunity for proving the will in solemn form. Should the will be found to be forged an order for revocation will follow. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 85 (86) : 41 Cal 819 (DB).

[12] Absence of citation of minor daughter of testator — Mother, the natural guardian, appearing and contesting grant of letters of administration — Mother not under the influence of the propounder of will and having no adverse interest to the minor : Held that there was no defect in substance and therefore no just cause for revoking the grant. (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 434 (438, 440, 441) : 25 Pat 747 (DB).

[13] Mere absence of notice to applicant who had parted with her property and was represented by her vendee was not "just cause" for holding that probate proceedings were defective in substance and liable to be set aside. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 70 (72).

[14] A reversioner is a person substantially interested in the protection of the devolution of the estate and where letters of administration are granted without issuing the necessary citations to him the procedure is defective. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 385 (386) (DB).

[15] Person served with citation in such a manner that he had no opportunity to appear : Held that proceedings were defective and that the grant should be revoked. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 2 (6) : 55 Ind App 18 : 7 Pat 221 (P C).

[16] Where the parties themselves have not complained of the proceedings having taken place in their absence the omission to cite them does not call for revocation of the grant. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 207 (210) (DB).

10. Clause (b).— [1] In a contentious proceeding, probate can be granted in a common form in consequence of a compromise between the disputants resulting in the withdrawal of opposition and it cannot afterwards be revoked except upon proof of fraud or circumvention practised either upon the Court or upon the parties. ('10) 14 Cal W N 1068 (1071) (DB).

[2] Service of notice upon one who had transferred before such service his interest in the properties — Applicant also aware of transfer of the interest : Held grant was obtained fraudulently by making of false suggestion or by concealing from Court something material to the case. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 421 (422) (DB).

[3] Where the creditors apply for revocation of probate on the ground that the will was put forward and the probate obtained in fraud of creditors and the alleged will in fact was not put foward till 8 years after the death of the testator the creditors are entitled to have an order revoking the will. ('13) 17 Cal L Jour 230 (232, 233) (DB).

[4] Creditor of an heir can apply for revocation of the grant on the ground that he is being or likely to be defeated in his rights against the heir by reason of property which otherwise appeared to be in possession of the heir being withdrawn by a will and that therefore the probate was obtained fraudulently. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 11 (12, 13) : 71 Ind App 1 : I L R (1944) Kar P C 61 Sup. (PC).

11. Clause (c).—[1] Mis-statement that the petitioner is named as executor in the will whether wilfully untrue or not constitutes a just cause under clause (c). (Vol 33) 1946 All 357 (359) : I L R (1946) All 398 (DB).

12. Clause (d).—[1] Clause (d) contemplates that there is an administrator who under certain circumstances is incapable of acting so that the estate is practically without an administrator. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 695 (696) (DB).

[2] Administration of estate completed — Clause (d) will not apply to such case—No application for revocation can be made. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 737 (739) : I L R (1939) 2 Cal 1.

[3] Where under the terms of the will there are still duties to be performed by the executors the grant cannot be said to have become inoperative. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 527 (528) : 48 Cal 1051 (DB) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 695 (696) (DB). (Administrator left only with the duty of distributing legacies—Grant does not become useless and inoperative.)

[4] Probate can be revoked where the administrator had either left the country or absconded or could not be traced or expressed a desire to withdraw. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 963 (963). (Four out of seven executors dead—Others unwilling to continue administration — Grant held became useless and inoperative and hence should be revoked.)

[5] Clause (d) applies not only where the circumstances making the grant inoperative were in existence when the grant was made though unknown either to the Court or the party but also where they happened since the grant. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 584 (586) : 47 Cal 115 (DB) ✠(Vol 22) 1935 Lah 963 (963).

[6] That the grant has become useless and inoperative because of disagreement between the administrators is not a just cause for annulling the letters. ('13) 40 Cal 50 (55) (DB).

13. Clause (e). — [1] Proceedings to obtain the grant are defective in substance where no schedule in the prescribed form is attached to the application. (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 150 (153) : 30 Sind L R 201 (DB).

[2] Where an application is made years after the grant of letters of administration to revoke the letters, cause should be shown why this should be done. The mere fact that the inventory has not been filed is not a sufficient cause unless it can be shown that the inventory was withheld wilfully and unreasonably. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 260 (260) (DB).

[3] Probate need not be revoked on the ground that an inaccurate inventory was furnished especially when an accurate one is not possible. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 399 (399) (DB).

CHAPTER IV

OF THE PRACTICE IN GRANTING AND REVOKING PROBATES AND LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION.

Jurisdiction of District Judge in granting and revoking probates, etc.

264. (1) The District Judge shall have jurisdiction in granting and revoking probates and letters of administration in all cases within his district.

(2) Except in cases to which section 57 applies, no Court in any local area beyond the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, [a][* * *] shall, where the deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, receive applications for probate or letters of administration until the [b][Provincial Government] has, by a notification in the [c][Official Gazette] authorised it so to do.

[1865 — S. 235 ; Probate and Administration Act, 1881 — Ss. 2 and 51; Devolution Act, 1920 — S. 2 and Schedule.]

[a] The words "and the province of Burma" were repealed by A. O. [b] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government". [c] Substituted by A. O. for "local official Gazette".

[4] The beneficiary who thinks that the executor has been misappropriating money and submitting untrue accounts can apply for revocation of the probate on the ground that the executor has exhibited an account untrue in a material respect, (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 294 (295) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 527 (529) : 48 Cal 1051 (DB).

[5] The petition for revocation on the ground that the accounts were untrue should specifically state as to what items in the accounts were untrue and in what respect the items challenged were untrue — It is not enough to make vague allegations that the accounts are untrue. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 527 (529) : 48 Cal 1051 (DB).

14. Limitation.—[1] There is no period of limitation for alleging a good cause under the section. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 578 (581) (DB).

[2] There is no time limit fixed for an application for revocation of probate by a person in whom no citation had been issued. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 938 (941, 942, 949) (DB). (Will not genuine— Court should not refuse to revoke probate merely on the ground of probate.)

[3] Article 178, Limitation Act, does not apply to an application for revocation of a probate. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 717 (718) (DB).

15. Powers of Court.—[1] The power given to a Court to revoke letters of a dministration is a discretionary one. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 236 (238) (DB). (Where no prejudice is caused to applicant by the bequests letters will not be revoked.)

[2] When a just cause has been made out the Court has no discretion to refuse to revoke the letters of administration. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 385 (386) (DB).

[3] Where revocation is likely to cause very great inconvenience as in a case where administration had gone on for several years and has barely come to an end it would be disastrous to reopen all thathad been meanwhile done under an order. ('10) 37 Cal 387 (396) (DB).

[But see (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 434 (441) : 25 Pat 747 (DB). (Per Das J. — (Obiter) Where the Court finds just cause for revocation, the mere fact that the propounder of will would experience great difficulty in proving the will due to the lapse of many years will not stand in the way of revoking the grant.)]

[4] The Court has power to revoke a grant where it has demanded fresh security and it has not been given. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 259 (261):1941 Rang LR 376 (DB).

[See however (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 354 (355). (Failure to give security as required by order by which letters of administration have been granted is no ground for revoking letters.)]

[5] Because a probate has the effect over all the property comprised in the probate the subject-matter of an application to revoke the probate would extend to the whole of the property covered by the probate. The subject-matter cannot be divided in proportion to the interest acquired by the applicant and there cannot be a limited revocation of the probate especially when it is sought on the ground that the will is forged. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 77 (79) : 57 Bom 143 (DB).

[6] While dealing with an application for revocation of probate or letters of administration the only matter for the consideration of the Court is whether the applicant has shown a just cause for the revocation — The question of genuineness of the will does not arise at all till the probate is revoked and therefore the Court cannot turn down an application on the ground that the applicant has not let in evidence sufficient to cast a doubt upon the genuineness of the will. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 223 (223, 224) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 421 (422) (DB).

[7] When an application is made for revocation of a grant of probate on the ground that the proceedings are defective in substance, the Court on a consideration of all the facts of the case will have to consider whether the proceedings are substantially defective. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 236 (237) (DB).

[8] Irrespective of this section, when the condition on which alone the grant can be made is not satisfied, the Court has inherent power to withdraw the order for grant and thus prevent the abuse of its process. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 352 (352) : 7 Lah 270 (DB).

[See also (Vol 2) 1915 All 172 (174) : 37 All 380 (DB). (Apart from S. 263, Court can reconsider order of grant of letters under S. 114, Civil P. C., and exercise its inherent powers.)]

16. Review.—[1] Right of review under the Civil Procedure Code is an entirely different right from that given to the Courts under this Act for revoking probate and letters of administration and can be exercised by the Court which had been dealing with a contentious matter in proceedings for the grant of letters of administration. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 314 (316, 317) : 3 Rang 261 (DB).

Section 264 — Note 1

"District Judge."

[1] Additional District Judge exercising powers as District Judge can grant probate or letters of administration in all cases whether there was contention or not. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 41 (41).

[2] When function of District Judge is transferred to Additional District Judge, he has the same jurisdiction as the District Judge with respect to the grant and revocation of probate and letters of administration, even as regards revocation of probates granted by District Judge. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 593 (593, 594) : 3 Pat 609 (DB).

Power to appoint Delegate of District Judge to deal with non-contentious cases.

265. (1) The High Court may appoint such judicial officers within any district as it thinks fit to act for the District Judge as Delegates to grant probate and letters of administration in non-contentious cases, within such local limits as it may prescribe :

Provided that, in the case of High Courts not established by Royal Charter, such appointment shall not be without the previous sanction of the [a][Provincial Government].

(2) Persons so appointed shall be called "District Delegates."

[1865 — S. 235A ; Probate and Administrat on Act, 1881—S. 52 ; District Delegates Act, 1881 — S. 2.]

District Judge's powers as to grant of probate and administration.

266. The District Judge shall have the like powers and authority in relation to the granting of probate and letters of administration, and all matters connected therewith, as are by law vested in him in relation to any civil suit or proceeding pending in his Court.

[3] 'District Court' — High Court exercising testamentary and intestate jurisdiction also included. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad. 779 (782) : 53 Mad 237 (DB).

"Jurisdiction."

[4] The jurisdiction to revoke is limited to the Probate Court. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 236 (240) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 14.

[See also (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 159 (161) (DB). (Proper Court to set aside grant of letters of administration is the probate Court and not civil Court.)]

[5] In order to determine the district within which a case for grant of probate is to be instituted, the Court must see whether the deceased, at the time of his death, had his fixed place of abode or had some property, movable or immovable, situate within the jurisdiction of the particular District Judge to whom the application is made. The same test of jurisdiction is to be applied to a case of revocation of probate (1882) 8 Cal 570 (573) (DB).

[6] Normally an application for revocation should be made to the Court from which the grant has been made Assuming that there is power in more than one Court to revoke a grant, the "proper" Court to exercise such jurisdiction is the Court which made the grant; the other Court having such jurisdiction will not exercise it because it is not the "proper" Court, but will refer the applicant to the Court by which the original grant was made. (1941) 45 C W N 757 (758, 759)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Cal 417 (422). (Affirmed in (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (DB))

[7] It is the District Judge that constitutes the probate Court and as such has the jurisdiction in the matter of granting and revoking probate. It is only in non-contentious cases that the power of granting probate and letters of administration can be delegated to the officers appointed under S. 265. An application for revocation of a probate being a contentious matter, the District Delegate cannot decide it. He should return such application for being presented to the Court of the District Judge. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 385 (386) (DB).

[1] There can be no District Delegate except by appointment by the High Court. Where the Additional District Judge was not appointed as such and was exercising powers as a District Judge, he could grant probate or letters of administration in all cases whether there was a contention or not. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 41 (41, 42).

[2] Section 265 contains by implication ample warrant for the delegation (it may be only partial in certain cases) of his functions by the District Judge to his delegate. Where on account of a compromise between the parties, the objectors did not press their objection and the District Judge sent the case to the District Delegate for enquiry and report, it was held that the District Judge did not act irregularly. (1910) 14 C W N 1068 (1070) (DB).

[3] For meaning of contention, see S. 286, Explanation.

[4] The powers of the District Delegates are confined to non-contentious cases. Where respondents appear and file objections against an application for grant of letters of administration with copy of will annexed, the proceedings cease to be non-contentious. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 442 (442) (DB).

[5] District Delegate cannot decide application for revocation of probate, the application being contentious matter. Applicat on should be returned for presentation to Court of District Judge. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 385 (387) (DB).

[6] Where the District Delegate proceeds with the case after it has become contentious, he exceeds his jurisdiction (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 442 (442) (DB).

[7] In a case where one and the same officer is both a Subordinate Judge and a District Delegate, although as District Delegate he cannot dispose of contentious proceeding, nevertheless he can do so as Subordinate Judge if the proceeding is transferred to him by order of the District Judge. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 38 (39) : 10 Luck 316 (DB).

[1] Under S. 23 (2) (d), Bengal North-Western Provinces and Assam Civil Court Act (XII [12] of 1887) the District Judge can transfer an application for probate instituted in his Court to that of the Subordinate Judge and therefore the Subordinate Judge has jurisdiction to try it, whether the case is contentious or non-contentious. (1898) 25 Cal 340 (343) (DB).

[See also (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 415 (416) : 11 Luck 196 (DB).]

[2] The appointment of a receiver in proceedings in relation to grant of probate or letters of administration are to be regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure. (1893) 17 Bom 388 (391). (See also under S. 269.)

[3] A District Court in its capacity as a Court of probate has no jurisdiction to determine any question of title regarding the property which the will purports to dispose of; nor has it jurisdiction to determine whether the testator had or had not a disposing power over the property or to go into the question of the void or valid nature of such bequests. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 173 (176) : I L R (1940) Nag 391 (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 382 (383) (DB).

[4] Words "and all matters connected therewith" in S. 266 do not include proceedings under S. 19-H Court-fees Act. Those words have reference to matters such as, revocation of probate, production of accounts, and similar other matters. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 406 (407): 50 Cal 239 (DB).

District Judge may order person to produce testamentary papers.

267. (1) The District Judge may order any person to produce and bring into Court any paper or writing, being or purporting to be testamentary, which may be shown to be in the possession or under the control of such person.

(2) If it is not shown that any such paper or writing is in the possession or under the control of such person, but there is reason to believe that he has the knowledge of any such paper or writing, the Court may direct such person to attend for the purpose of being examined respecting the same.

(3) Such person shall be bound to answer truly such question as may be put to him by the Court, and, if so ordered, to produce and bring in such paper or writing, and shall be subject to the like punishment under the Indian Penal Code, in case of default in not attending or in not answering such questions or not bringing in such paper or writing, as he would have been subject to in case he had been a party to a suit and had made such default.

(4) The costs of the proceeding shall be in the discretion of the Judge.

Proceedings of District Judge's Court in relation to probate and administration.

268. The proceedings of the Court of the District Judge in relation to the granting of probate and letters of administration shall, save as hereinafter otherwise provided, be regulated, so far as the circumstances of the case permit, by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

[1865 — S. 238 ; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—S. 55.]

[1] Applicant for letters of administration need not produce will from his own possession and with the petition—Having an interest in estate is sufficient. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 130 (133).

[1] The judgment of a probate Court granting or refusing probate is a judgment in rem and, therefore, the judgment of any other Court in a proceeding inter parties cannot be pleaded in bar of an investigation of the probate Court as to the factum of the will propounded in that Court. (1893) 16 Mad 380 (383) (DB).

[2] The action of a probate Court of competent jurisdiction when it admits a will to probate or rejects it as not duly attested and executed, is in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and so long as the order remains in force, it is conclusive as to the due execution and the validity of will, not only upon all the parties who may be before the Court, but also upon all other persons whatever, in all proceedings arising out of the will or claims under or connected therewith. All judgments of this character should be founded upon an investigation of the facts by the Court itself and ought not to be based upon consent of parties. (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 91 (97) (DB).

[3] The dismissal for default of an application for probate would not debar an application, by another person claiming an interest under the will and therefore necessarily also by the executor himself. An executor presenting an application for probate of a will cannot be regarded as a plaintiff who brings a suit in respect of a cause of action. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad. 861 (869, 870) ✠ (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 185 (187) (DB).

[4] Section 295, Succession Act, does not apply to an application for revocation of probate which is governed by S. 268, Succession Act. A proceeding for revocation of a probate is not a suit within the meaning of O. 23, R. 3, Civil P. C. (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 91 (95) (DB).

[5] It is contrary to public policy to introduce into the probate that is granted to the executor terms of a private compromise that might have been arrived at between him and any objector. (Vol 18) 1931 All 745 (746) (DB).

[6] Where the executor was not in and could not get possession of the property of the testator so as to be able to pay the necessary fees, and he himself had no money wherewith he could take the necessary steps, held he could apply for and obtain probate in forma pauperis. (1894) 18 Bom 237 (239).

[7] In matters of probate strictest relevancy in interrogatories may not be necessary but Court should exclude whatever is offensive or improper. Order 11, Civil P. C. applies to proceedings in probate. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 953 (954) : 43 Cal 300 (DB).

[8] Where in a petition for probate the caveator sets up another will of the testator, revoking the will set up by the petitioner it is obligatory on the caveator to file a separate petition to propound the will set up by him. On such petition being filed there would be really two separate proceedings for obtaining grant in respect of two different wills alleged to have been left by the same testator and the parties interested in opposing the grant would have to file respective caveats in each case. The two suits could then be heard together or consolidated. There may be exceptional circumstances where this procedure cannot be followed, e. g., when the later will set up by the caveator is alleged to have been revoked. But save and except such extraordinary circumstances, there is no difficulty in adopting this procedure : (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 40 (42-44) (DB) ((Vol 17) 1930 Bom 29 : 53 Bom 829, Rel. on.) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 29 (32) : 53 Bom 829.

[9] Under provisions of S. 268, probate Court has same power in ordering inventory to be made as ordinary Civil Court has under O. 39, R. 7, Civil P. C. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 496 (496) (DB).

[10] Probate Court can grant injunctions. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 565 (567) (DB).

[11] Probate proceeding is not a suit with respect to property — It involves question of representation of estate — No question of title is to be gone into. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal. 565 (567) (DB).

[12] Petition for revocation of probate on ground of want of citation — Held that the petitioner ought to be given opportunity to satisfy the Court that he had no notice or knowledge of the previous proceedings — If petitioner is able to do so, proper order to make will then be that there be a new trial as to the factum of the will, and upon such new trial, the burden of proving the factum of the will under the ordinary rule, will lie upon the person who propounded it. (1882) 8 Cal 880 (882) (DB).

When and how District Judge to interfere for protection of property.

269. (1) Until probate is granted of the will of a deceased person, or an administrator of his estate is constituted, the District Judge, within whose jurisdiction any part of the property of the deceased person is situate, is authorised and required to interfere for the protection of such property at the instance of any person claiming to be interested therein, and in all other cases where the Judge considers that the property incurs any risk of loss or damage; and for that purpose, if he thinks fit, to appoint an officer to take and keep possession of the property.

(2) This section shall not apply when the deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, nor shall it apply to any part of the property of an Indian Christian who has died intestate.

When probate or administration may be granted by District Judge.

270. Probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of a deceased person may be granted by a District Judge under the seal of his Court, if it appears by a petition, verified as hereinafter provided, of the person applying for the same that the testator or intestate, as the case may be, at the time of his decease had a fixed place of abode, or any property, moveable or immoveable, within the jurisdiction of the Judge.

[13] Neither an executor nor the Probate Court can refer the question of the factum of the will to arbitration. Nor can the Probate Judge refer the execution of a will to arbitration. (1897) 21 Bom 335 (342, 343) (DB).

[14] The refusal by the caveator to answer a question put to him cannot justify the Court in dispensing with proof of the will and making an order for grant of probate. (1885) 9 Bom 241 (244) (DB).

[15] An application for revocation of grant of letters of administration by a person who contested grant is in substance an application for review—Provision of Civil P. C. apply and application is defective and not if it is not accompanied by copy of order appealed from. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 215 (216):1939 Rang L R 601 (DB).

[16] Application for probate cannot be disposed of by compromise. Law imposes on Court the duty of deciding whether 'will' is genuine or not. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 41 (42) : 2 Pat L Jour 535 (DB).

[17] When probate has actually been revoked by a Court of first instance on the ground that the will propounded is a forgery, the parties are not entitled to bring the matter on appeal to the High Court and then by compromise to obtain a reversal of the decision and a revival of the probate without any adjudication on the merits. Such a compromise is not lawful within the meaning of O. 23, R. 3, Civil P. C. (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 91 (97) (DB).

[18] Application for probate dismissed for default—Applicant's heir can plead existence of will as defence to suit for property. (Vol 12), 925 Mad 861 (869).

[1] The power which the District Judge exercises under S. 269 is only protective in order to leave the property of the deceased in exactly the same condition as it was at his death. That section creates a special jurisdiction in the District Judge authorising him to interfere for the protection of the deceased's property for which ultimately an administrator may be constituted. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 173 (175) : 29 Nag L R 238.

[2] The District Judge has under S. 269 powers of interference in respect of property situate outside limits of the province. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 173 (174) : 29 Nag L R 238.

[3] Section 269 gives very wide powers of exceptional nature to District Judge and in exercise of these powers, he could pass any order which he considers most effective in particular circumstances of case. He can appoint person already in possession of property to keep such possession until administrator is duly constituted. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 173 (175) : 29 Nag L R 238.

[4] The power to interfere for protection of property given under S. 269 has to be exercised independently by the District Judge only for the purpose of averting any risk of loss or damage and the dismissal of the application for letters of administration will not result in vacating an order under S. 269. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 173 (175) : 29 Nag L R 238.

[5] The District Judge has no jurisdiction to give directions with reference to the property of a testator after an administrator has been appointed though such directions can be given under S. 269 so long as no person has been appointed administrator of the estate or granted probate of a will (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 19 (19) : 44 Bom 682 (DB).

Receiver, appointment of.

[6] The probate Court has, apart from the Succession Act, general jurisdiction to appoint a receiver in any case in which it may appear just and convenient to do so. Such appointment cannot be claimed as of right merely because the proceedings are contested. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (344).

[See also (1893) 17 Bom 388 (391).]

[7] The Court does not as a rule appoint a receiver as against executors whenever they have obtained probate unless there is gross misconduct or mismanagement or waste on his part. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 342 (346).

[8] It is true that the Court of Chancery will not appoint a receiver against an executor on slight grounds and requires a much stronger case to be made out for a receiver against an executor than against other persons. But there is not same reason why the appointment by a Mahomedan testator of an executor should receive the same consideration as the appointment of an executor by an English testator does in England. (1895) 19 Bom 83 (85).

[1] The District Judge has no jurisdiction to grant letters of administration to the estate of a deceased who had not a fixed place of abode, nor owned property within his jurisdiction. (1893) 17 Bom 689 (690) (D B).

Disposal of application made to Judge of district in which deceased had no fixed abode.

271. When the application is made to the Judge of a district in which the deceased had no fixed abode at the time of his death, it shall be in the discretion of the Judge to refuse the application, if in his judgment it could be disposed of more justly or conveniently in another district, or, where the application is for letters of administration, to grant them absolutely, or limited to the property within his own jurisdiction.

Probate and letters of administration may be granted by Delegate.

272. Probate and letters of administration may, upon application for that purpose to any District Delegate, be granted by him in any case in which there is no contention, if it appears by petition, verified as

[2] Section 270 is general and is quite irrespective of the place where the will was executed or of the nationality of the testator or of the place of his domicil. Thus, a District Judge in British India has jurisdiction to grant probate of a will executed in Baroda by the testator who was a subject of the Baroda state, if the testator had at the time of his death property within the jurisdiction of the District Judge. (1896) 20 Bom 607 (609) (D B).

[3] Main property in Oudh — Only small portion in Agra—District Judge in Agra Province held had jurisdiction to grant letters of administration with the will annexed. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 29 (31) : I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 216 (P C). ((Vol 24) 1937 All 670, Affirmed)

[4] A Court is not competent to refuse to grant probate merely on the ground that a part of the estate of the deceased is situate outside its jurisdiction or outside the province, if some part of the estate is situated or the deceased resided at the time of his death within its jurisdiction. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 72 (73).

[5] "Fixed" cannot possibly mean "permanent" because no one in this world can be said to have a permanent place of abode. Where the deceased, a railway servant, was stationed at a place for 20 years, it was held that he had a fixed place of abode at that place, though he was liable to be transferred from it. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 145 (145) : 19 Nag L R 54.

[6] In the case of an application for probate, it is sufficient for the purpose of giving jurisdiction to the District Judge that the property claimed by the deceased testator as his own should be actually in the possession of the deceased. (1879) 4 Cal L R 498 (500) (D B).

[7] The Court within whose jurisdiction the office of the Chief Accounts Officer dealing with the provident fund due to a deceased railway servant lies can entertain an application for grant of probate for the provident fund money. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 73 (76).

[8] Debts to be paid according to terms of agreement to deceased or his heirs within jurisdiction of Court must be regarded as assets situated within jurisdiction of Court. (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 150 (151) : 30 Sind L R 201 (D B).

[9] Deposit in bank within jurisdiction of Court is movable property. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 282 (283).

[1] In case of concurrent jurisdiction in the probate proceeding, it is very necessary to avoid a conflict. In determining whether the Court should have regard and defer to a jurisdiction with which it may come into conflict or whether the Court can fairly expect the other jurisdiction to defer to it, two points should be considered (i) priority in time and (ii) extent of relief asked for or obtainable in the other jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 (287) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (D B). ((Vol 28) 1941 Cal 417, Affirmed.)

[2] Under S. 271, when between Courts of different districts in British India there is a question as to which of such Courts can most justly or conveniently grant probate, the Judge has a discretion to refer the applicant to the more convenient Court. (1896) 20 Bom 607 (609) (D B).

[3] But when there is no Court of concurrent jurisdiction in British India to which the applicant can apply for probate the Judge is vested with no such discretion. (1896) 20 Bom 607 (610) (D B).

[4] The High Court has at least the discretion given by the Act to the Judge of a District. The discretion under S. 271 is exercisable by the Court whenever the Court is placed in the position of having to decide what order is to be made upon the application for probate of the will. The Court is not precluded from exercising the discretion afresh in the light of new facts though, of course, it will not exercise it to the contrary effect whilst the facts remained the same. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 (287) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (D B).

[5] Section 271 does not go to jurisdiction but to discretion. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 29 (31) : I L R (1944) Kar (PC) 216 (PC). (Appeal from (Vol 24) 1937 All 670.)

[6] Applicant for probate is dominus litis and his choice should be given effect to in absence of special reason to contrary. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 124 (125) (D B).

[7] Application for letters of administration made to District Judge within whose jurisdiction deceased had no fixed place of abode — Only small portion of deceased's property situate in his district — District Judge held has jurisdiction to entertain such application— It should not dismiss it. (Vol 24) 1937 All 670 (671) (D B). (Affirmed in (Vol 31) 1944 P C 29: I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 216 (P C).)

[8] Where the District Judge refused to grant letters of administration as he was led to suspect from the trifling nature of the deceased's property found in his jurisdiction that the applicant had kept those articles for creating evidence, and the deceased had no plea of abode within the District: Held that the District Judge had exercised the discretion properly. (1899) 1 Bom L R 666 (667) (D B).

[9] When District Judge exercises his discretion under S. 271, he cannot be said to be making order under Act. He is merely deciding to proceed with application and therefore, no right of appeal is granted by S. 299 against such order. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 276 (277) : I L R (1942) Bom 712 (D B). ((Vol 19) 1932 All 379 (D B), Foll.)

[10] It is not correct to say that in deciding what relief claimed is, one must not consider property with respect to which letters of administration are sought. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 19 (22) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 194.

[1] District Delegates have no jurisdiction to grant probate in contentious cases. But where an officer is both a Subordinate Judge and a District Delegate, he can dispose of a contentious case as a Subordinate Judge, when it is transferred to him by the District Judge. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 38 (39) : 10 Luck 316 (DB) hereinafter provided, that the testator or intestate, as the case may be, at the time of his death had a fixed place of abode within the jurisdiction of such Delegate.

SECTION 273 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope.
2. "Over all the property."
3. "Province."
4. "Conclusive."
5. "High Court."
6. Miscellaneous.

1. Scope.— [1] This section gives jurisdiction to grant probate having effect beyond the limits of the Province, but it will be necessary for him to certify that the value of the property affected beyond the limits of the Province does not exceed Rs. 10,000. ('13) 1913 Pun L R No. 221 Page 736 (739) : 1913 Pun Re No. 21 (D B).

[2] The whole scheme of Ss. 216, 220 and 273 and other provisions of the Act, is only to provide for representation of the deceased's estate for purposes of administration and is not intended to cut down the rights of the beneficiaries. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 714 (719) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 21 (D B).

[3] Where the Court granting the probate is not a High Court, the grant is not effective with respect to assets beyond the limits of the Province in which the Court is situated; but this only means that with regard to the other assets the grantee must apply to the appropriate Court for a grant of letters of administration with the will annexed. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 (288) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (D B).

2. "Over all the property". — [1] Letters with respect to part of assets of deceased — Although letters of administration are to be taken out in respect of all the properties, movable and immovable of the deceased, so far as the personal assets of the deceased are concerned, the position is not quite the same when the deceased dies in possession of the joint family properties. In the case of a joint family property, both legal and the beneficial interest vest in the whole body of coparceners and on the death of the manager or the father as the case may be, his interest becomes extinct and the property passes by survivorship to the remaining body of coparceners. In such a case, therefore, there is no occasion for taking out letters of administration because the legal title has already passed on the death of the manager or the father to the whole body of coparceners. But where the manager or the father dies leaving shares of joint stock companies standing in his name, the legal title in such property vests in the deceased and the beneficial interest thereof remains in the whole body of coparceners. In such a case, the joint stock companies require that letters of administration must be taken out, for, in the case of shares, the legal title to the shares vests, vis a vis the companies, in the person in whose name the share stand. In such a case, it is competent to take out letters of administration limited only to the shares, the legal title of which vested in the deceased manager or the father. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 163 (164, 165) (D B). ((Vol 29) 1942 Lah 173 : I L R (1942) Lah 717 (F B); (1905) 29 Bom 161 (D B) and (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 228 : 48 Bom 75 (F B), Rel. on.) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 173 (175) : I L R (1942) Lah 717 (F B).

[2] Probate limited to collection of debts cannot be made. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 109 (110) : I L R (1946) Bom 106 (D B).

3. "Province."— [1] Word "province" in S. 273 must be given same meaning given to it in S. 2 (g)— District Judge of Agra Province can grant letters of administration which would be effective only throughout Province of Agra which is under Allahabad High Court and Province of Oudh, which is under Chief Court of Oudh is beyond his jurisdiction. (Vol 24)

1937 All 670 (674) (D B). (Note.—This case went in appeal before the Privy Council, where their Lordships declined to express any opinion on this point: See (Vol 31) 1944 P C 29 : I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 216 (P C).)

[2] Section 273 applies only to property situate in a province in British India and not to property situate in a Native State. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 72 (73).

[3] By clause 29 of the Zanzibar order in council, Zanzibar is for the purposes of probate a district in the Presidency of Bombay and therefore, probate granted by the Zanzibar Court has effect over property and estate of the deceased in Bombay. (1906) 8 Bom L R 725 (733) (D B).

[4] The grant under S. 273 will have effect only within the province and will not affect the property of the deceased which is outside the province. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 72 (73).

[5] There is no law under which a Court is competent to refuse to grant probate merely on the ground that a part of the estate of the deceased is situate outside its jurisdiction or outside the province, if some part of the estate is situated or the deceased resided at the time of his death within its jurisdiction. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 72 (73).

[6] Government securities and shares of over Rs. 10,000 of deceased lying with bankers at Calcutta — Safe custody receipt granted by bankers found in deceased's effects at Bhagalpur—District Judge at Bhagalpur held had no jurisdiction to grant letters of administration in respect of property at Calcutta. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 19 (21) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 194.

[7] If assets left by testator. are situated in more than one province, grant of probate, in respect of all assets which are likely to come to executor's hands, shall have effect only over property situate in province in which probate is granted. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 206 (209): 6 Pat L Jour 411 (D B).

[8] Safe custody receipt of Bankers in respect of securities and shares of deceased cannot bring properties to which safe custody receipt relates within jurisdiction of Court within the meaning of S. 273 because receipt does not represent securities of shares but is merely document to evidence that Bank possessed certain property of constituent in its safe custody. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 19 (21) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 194.

4. "Conclusive." — [1] With the exceptions of a later will and fraud, probate in solemn form cannot be impeached by any person who has been a party to the action whether as plaintiff, defendant or intervener, or party cited or who has been privy thereto. And it is to be observed that a person having an interest need not be a party to a probate action to be bound by its result; if he was cognizant of it and was content to stand aside while others contested the action, he is precluded from re-opening the case. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 (286, 288) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (DB). ((Vol 2) 1915 Cal 393 (DB), Rel. on.)

[2] The action of a Court of competent jurisdiction when it makes a grant of letters of administration is in the nature of proceedings in rem and so long as the order remains in force, it is conclusive not only against all parties who may be before the Court but also against all other persons whatsoever. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 152 (161) : 20 Luck 194 (DB).

[3] The effect of Ss. 213 and 273 is to make the probate the title of the executor to the property and also to make it evidence of the contents of the will itself as against legatees. (1872) 8 Beng L R 208 (220).

[4] Section 273 makes the probate conclusive as to the representative title of the executor against debtors of the deceased and persons holding property of his and gives a complete indemnity to those who pay debts or deliver up property to the executor holding the probate. (1906) 33 Cal 116 (130) : 32 Ind App 244 (PC).

[5] The grant of letters of administration so long as it subsists is conclusive evidence as regards the proper execution of the will and the legal character conferred upon the executor. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 483 (485) (DB).

[6] The grant of probate is the decree of a Court which no other Court can set aside, except for fraud or want of jurisdiction. The grant of probate is conclusive as to the genuineness of the will and it cannot be subsequently questioned in a civil suit in which the will is relied on. Where the probate has been alleged to be wrongly granted, the proper course is to apply to the Court granting the same to revoke it. (1879) 4 Cal 360 (362, 363) (DB).

[7] Where a Bank paid the moneys which a customer had deposited with them to his administrators but it appeared that the Bank had knowledge of the fiduciary capacity of the administrators and of the trust in favour of the plaintiff created by a will and that the administrators were dealing with the trust money in a manner inconsistent with that trust—Held that the Bank were not entitled to the indemnity given by S. 273. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 628 (630) (DB).

[8] A Mahomedan testator can only deal with one-third of his property, the remaining two-thirds pass to his heirs whatever the terms of the will may be. The grant of a probate of the will of the Mahomedan therefore does not create an estoppel against the heirs in a subsequent suit so far as the two-thirds of his property is concerned, although the grant was opposed by the heirs. In such a suit, the heirs are entitled to question the validity of transactions and release confirmed by the will in the subsequent suit. (1906) 33 Cal 116 (131) : 32 Ind App 244 (PC).

[9] There is nothing in the Act to suggest that a grant either of probate or of letters of administration becomes on revocation void ab initio. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 15 (16, 18) : 8 Rang. 463 (DB).

[10] The decision of the Probate Court is conclusive only to the limited extent that the instrument admitted to probate is the will of the testator and so far as the question of animus testandi goes, but not as to what the Court must hold to be its construction as to the rights of the property disposed of by the will. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 193 (200) : 21 Luck 314 (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 114 (114) : 56 Mad 346 (DB).

[11] Grant of probate or letters of administration is decisive only of genuineness of will and of right of grantee to represent estate. It is impossible to say, therefore, that grant of probate or letters of administration with copy of will annexed would be a bar to determination of question of title or to a suit for construction of will. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 595 (601) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 75 (DB).

[12] Probate is conclusive as to representative title of executors, and also as to validity and contents of will. It is not conclusive as to collateral matter, it is not strictly even prima facie evidence of death, and does not prove that testator owned property which he purported to dispose of. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 103 (104) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 475 (478) (DB).

[See also (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 382 (383) (DB). (Title of testator to properties covered by his will or question whether or not person was adopted by testator are not matters which could be decided in probate proceedings.) ✠ (1913) 9 Nag L R 152 (154). (All that the Court of probate can do is to decide such questions as whether the will was validly executed, whether the applicant is the proper person to be granted probate as executor and what are the contents of the will. It has no authority to decide whether the will was void.)]

Transmission to High Courts of certificate of grants under proviso to section 273.

274. (1) Where probate or letters of administration has or have been granted by a High Court or District Judge with the effect referred to in the proviso to section 273, the High Court or District Judge shall send a certificate thereof to the following Courts, namely:

(a) when the grant has been made by a High Court, to each of the other High Courts;

(b) when the grant has been made by a District Judge, to the High Court to which such District Judge is subordinate and to each of the other High Courts.

(2) Every certificate referred to in sub-section (1) shall be made as nearly as circumstances admit in the form set forth in Schedule IV, and such certificate shall be filed by the High Court receiving the same.

(3) Where any portion of the assets has been stated by the petitioner, as hereinafter provided in sections 276 and 278, to be situate within the jurisdiction of a District Judge in another Province, the Court required to send the certificate referred to in sub-section (1) shall send a copy thereof to such District Judge, and such copy shall be filed by the District Judge receiving the same.

Conclusiveness of application for probate or administration if properly made and verified.

275. The application for probate or letters of administration, if made and verified in the manner hereinafter provided, shall be conclusive for the purpose of authorising the grant of probate or administration; and no such grant shall be impeached by reason only that the testator or intestate had no fixed place of abode or no property within the district at the time of his death, unless by a proceeding to revoke the grant if obtained by a fraud upon the Court.

Petition for probate.

276. (1) Application for probate or for letters of administration, with the will annexed, shall be made by a petition distinctly written in English or in the language in ordinary use in proceedings before the Court in which the application is made, with the will or, in the cases mentioned in sections 237, 238, and 239, a copy, draft, or statement of the contents thereof, annexed, and stating—

(a) the time of the testator's death,

(b) that the writing annexed is his last will and testament,

(c) that it was duly executed,

(d) the amount of assets which are likely to come to the petitioner's hands, and

(e) when the application is for probate, that the petitioner is the executor named in the will.

[13] It is not the province of a Court of probate to determine questions of title to property which the testator purports to dispose of by his will. The reason being that the grant of probate does no more than establish the factum of the will and the appointment of executors (if any) named in the will. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 37 (38) : 54 Mad 24 (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 341 (355) (DB). (Probate Court cannot go into question whether deceased's property was joint or separate.) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 84 (85) (DB) ✠(Vol 2) 1915 Cal 289 (289) (DB).

[14] Grant of probate does not confer on executor any title to property which testator had no right to dispose of. It does not decide question of disposing power. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 341 (355) (DB).

[15] In proceedings for letters of administration, the decision on the question of relationship between the applicant and the testator, does not operate as res judicata. (1911) 13 Cal L Jour 547 (556) (DB).

[16] The only judgment that can be put forward in a Court of probate in support of the plea of res judicata is a judgment of a competent Court of probate. Mother's application under Guardians and Wards Act for being appointed as guardian of person and property of minor — Objection by person who claimed to have been appointed guardian by a will of the deceased father of the minor — Will found to be not genuine — Held the decision regarding the will did not operate as res judicata in an application by the objector for grant of probate of the will. (1893) 16 Mad 380 (383, 384) (DB).

[17] See also under Ss. 218, 263 and 283.

5. "High Court." — [1] The Oudh Chief Court is a High Court within the meaning of S. 273 and has jurisdiction to grant probate of will with effect throughout British India. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 (287) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (DB).

6. Miscellaneous. — [1] Where appeal from the decision granting letters of administration was compromised and the effect of the compromise was not the withdrawal of the question of determination of the genuineness of the will, though order was varied and the objector was added as co-administrator, the proceedings are undisturbed by the compromise and the reversioners who were aware of the proceedings are bound by the compromise. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 385 (388) (DB).

Section 276 — Note 1.

Scope.—[1] Section 276 must be read with S. 19-I, Court-fees Act. Where to an application for grant of probate is not attached a schedule or annexure required by S. 19-I, Court-fees Act, application is defective and it is not competent for Court to allow this defect to be made good. (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 150 (151) : 30 Sind L R 201 (DB).

[2] An application for the grant of the probate of an oral will can be entertained under the Succession Act. (Vol 18) 1931 All 489 (490) : 53 All 687 (FB).

[3] An application for probate cannot be converted into one for letters of administration. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 209 (211) (DB).

[4] Where, under S. 276, an application for probate of will is made, copy of the will having been obtained,

(2) In addition to these particulars, the petition shall further state,—

(a) when the application is to the District Judge, that the deceased at the time of his death had a fixed place of abode, or had some property, situate within the jurisdiction of the Judge ; and

(b) when the application is to a District Delegate, that the deceased at the time of his death had a fixed place of abode within the jurisdiction of such Delegate.

(3) Where the application is to the District Judge and any portion of the assets likely to come to the petitioner's hands is situate in another Province the petition shall further state the amount of such assets in each Province and the District Judges within whose jurisdiction such assets are situate.

[1865 — S. 244; Probate and Administration Act, 1881 — S. 62; ibid, 1889 — Ss. 2, 4; ibid, 1903 — Ss. 2 (4), 3 (3).]

In what cases translation of will to be annexed to petition. Verification of translation by person other than Court translator.

277. In cases wherein the will, copy or draft, is written in any language other than English or than that in ordinary use in proceedings before the Court, there shall be a translation thereof annexed to the petition by a translator of the Court, if the language be one for which a translator is appointed; or, if the will, copy or draft, is in any other language, then by any person competent to translate the same, in which case such translation shall be verified by that person in the following manner, namely :—

"I (A. B.) do declare that I read and perfectly understand the language and character of the original, and that the above is a true and accurate translation thereof."

true one being deposited in foreign Court, but it is found that application should have been for letters of administration under S. 228, Court can grant letters of administration with copy of will annexed or at least can allow application to be amended. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 349 (350) : I L R (1938) Lah 562.

[5] A second application for probate of a will is maintainable in spite of the fact that the first was not proceeded with being withdrawn without obtaining leave to file fresh one. Order 23, R. 1, Civil P. C., is not applicable to probate proceedings. (1945) 49 Cal W N 636 (637) (DB).

Requirements for petition.

[6] It is the duty of the person applying for grant of probate to bring to the notice of the Court who are the persons who prima facie have a claim on the estate. If due to the applicant's omission, some of the claimants are not cited the probate proceedings are radically defective in substance and such defect is sufficient to revoke the probate. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 74 (75, 76) (DB)✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 623 (625) (DB).

[7] No doubt, S. 276 which lays down certain legal requirements for a petition for letters of administration, does not refer to the special circumstances which have to be established in order to justify an appointment under S 254. It is, however, desirable that a petition under S. 254 should plead specifically the existence of such circumstances as would make the section operate. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 189 (190) : I L R (1944) Mad 658 (DB).

[8] The petitioner, under this section ought to state all the assets which are likely to come to the petitioner's hands, not merely such part of them as she chooses to name. (1899) 22 Mad 345 (346) (DB).

[9] An application for the grant of letters of administration with the will annexed, relating to one particular item need not contain an inventory of the entire property and can be granted. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 493 (493).

[10] There is no law which provides that the petitioner for letters of administration with the will annexed must produce it from his own custody and with the petition. It is quite sufficient if he has an interest in the administration of the estate and can establish the existence of the will and if necessary can secure the production thereof by the person in whose possession it is : See S. 267. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 130 (133).

Practice.

[11] It is not the business of the Court receiving an application for probate to hold an enquiry as to the property of the deceased or to consider any issue as to the title of the testator or his power to dispose of the property which the will purports to deal with. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 209 (210) (DB).

[12] A testamentary Court dealing with the question of issuing a grant of probate is to see whether the will is duly executed as required by law by a testator of sound and disposing state of mind. It is no part of the testamentary Judge to consider the question of title to the property. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 60 (61) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 272 (273) (DB).

[13] Application for grant of letters of administration with the will annexed — It is not the function of the probate Court to go into the question of the validity of the will with reference to the nature of the property disposed of by it—In such cases only question is whether will is proved to be duly executed. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 130 (131).

[14] See also under Ss. 218, 273 and 283.

Limitation.

[15] The Limitation Act is not applicable to an application for probate. (1881) 6 Cal 707 (708) (DB).

Court-fee.

[16] The necessity for stating the particulars required under sub-s. (1) (d) and sub-s (3) of S. 276, is that without these facts it is impossible to assess the proper court-fee payable on the grant. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 206 (214) : 6 Pat L Jour 411 (DB). ((1897) 21 Bom 139, Dissent from.)

[17] For court-fee see also Notes under Sch. 1, Art. 11 and Ss. 19G and 19J, Court-fees Act.

[18] See also Notes under S. 278.

[1] In the case of a will executed in vernacular the Court is not for the purpose of construing it bound by the English translation officially made at the time of the grant of probate and is entitled to look at the original will itself. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 55 (58) (DB).

Petition for letters of administration.

278. (1) Application for letters of administration shall be made by petition distinctly written as aforesaid and stating—

(a) the time and place of the deceased's death ;

(b) the family or other relatives of the deceased, and their respective residences;

(c) the right in which the petitioner claims;

(d) the amount of assets which are likely to come to the petitioner's hands;

(e) when the application is to the District Judge, that the deceased at the time of his death had a fixed place of abode, or had some property, situate within the jurisdiction of the Judge; and

(f) when the application is to a District Delegate, that the deceased at the time of his death had a fixed place of abode within the jurisdiction of such Delegate.

(2) Where the application is to the District Judge and any portion of the assets likely to come to the petitioner's hands is situate in another Province, the petition shall further state the amount of such assets in each Province and the District Judges within whose jurisdiction such assets are situate.

[1865—S 246; Probate and Administration Act, 1881 — S. 64; ibid, 1903, Ss. 2 (4), 3 (3) ; District Delegates Act, 1881—S 4.]

[1] Contents of petition—Petition not containing all the particulars—Other material before Court acquainting it with details — Section is sufficiently complied with. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 348 (350) : 2 Pat 508 (DB).

[2] The necessity for stating the particulars required under S. 278 (1) (d) and sub-s. (2) is that without these facts it is impossible to assess the proper court-fees payable on the grant. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 206 (214) : 6 Pat L Jour 411 (DB) ((1897) 21 Bom 139, Dissent from.)

[3] For court-fee, see Notes on Sch. 1 Art. 11; Ss. 19G and 19I, Court-fees Act.

[4] A Court of Probate is not only entitled but even bound to enter into questions of title, if it is necessary to decide that question in order to determine which of the two contesting parties is entitled to a grant of letters of administration. Where, however, a caveator does not himself apply for letters of administration but merely sets up a paramount title, e. g, that he being an adopted son is entitled to the whole estate not by inheritance but by survivorship, the probate Court is not entitled to go into the merits of the title set up by the caveator and the nature of the estate left by the deceased. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 343 (345, 347) : 5 Pat L Jour 107 (DB).

[5] In case of grant of letters of administration, the Court has to see that the person properly entitled to represent the estate of the deceased according to the Succession Act has come to Court, and is given the grant. It is no part of the testamentary Judge to consider the question of title to property. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 60 (61).

[6] For jurisdiction of the probate Court to determine question of title see also notes under Ss. 218, 273 and 283.

[7] Where there is no estate which stands in need of administration, no suggestion that any creditors have to be paid or any debts due to the estate have to be collected, and an application for letters of administration is a transparent device to secure from the probate Court a decision upon a contested question of title to the estate, there is no occasion for the grant of letters of administration. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 474 (475, 476) : 17 Luck 78 (DB) ✠ (1921) 64 Ind Cas 61 (62) (DB) (Cal).

[8] It is not necessary for the probate Court to decide, what assets are likely to come to the hands of the petitioner for administration, but it is the duty of the Court in granting letters of administration to consider whether there is any estate whatever to be administered. (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 305 (307) (DB).

[9] As a rule, general letters of administration of a Hindu's estate must be taken out. Limited administration can only be granted under special circumstances. (1881) 6 Cal 483 (484, 485) (SB).

[See (1880) 5 Cal 2 (3). (If Hindus take out letters of administration at all, they must take out general letters. The Court cannot grant limited letters of administration)]

[10] A member of a joint Hindu family with a deceased person is not competent to apply for letters of administration to that person's estate. In such a case, the estate passes by survivorship and there is nothing left to administer. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 235 (236); 1919 Pun Re No. 56.

[11] Where shares in a bank purchased with the funds of the joint Hindu family and belonging to it stand in the name of the karta alone, the legal estate vests in him, while the beneficial interest is in the family. On the death of karta, no change takes place so far as the beneficial interest is concerned. It continues to be, as it has always been in the family. The legal estate, however, does not pass by survivorship to the other coparceners and, therefore, an application for grant of letters of administration by the surviving coparceners limited to the shares in question is competent even though the beneficial interest had, on the death of the karta, vested jointly in the other coparceners and his widow under Hindu Women's Right to Property Act (XVIII of 1937 as amended by Act XI of 1938). (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 173 (175) : I L R (1942) Lah 717 (FB) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 163 (164, 165) (DB). ((Vol 29) 1942 Lah 173 : I L R (1942) Lah 717 (FB) ; (1905) 29 Bom 161 (DB) and (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 228 : 48 Bom 75 (FB), Rel. on.)

[12] Court should not refuse to grant letters unless it finds (1) that will is not executed by deceased or (2) that he was not in sound and disposing state of mind at time of making it or (3) will was not his own voluntary act. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 121 (122).

[13] A finding as to the relationship between the applicant and the deceased in proceedings under the Succession Certificate Act is not a bar to trial of the same question between the same parties in a proceeding under S. 64, Probate and Administration Act, (corresponding to S. 278, Succession Act). (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 670 (670).

[14] As soon as the probate Court is informed of the existence of the minor heir of the deceased in case of intestacy, it is its duty to issue notice upon the minor and to have a guardian ad litem appointed for her.

Addition to statement in petition, etc., for probate or letters of administration in certain cases.

279. (1) Every person applying to any of the Courts mentioned in the proviso to section 273 for probate of a will or letters of administration of an estate intended to have effect throughout British India, shall state in his petition, in addition to the matters respectively required by section 276 and section 278, that to the best of his belief no application has been made to any other Court for a probate of the same will or for letters of administration of the same estate, intended to have such effect as last aforesaid, or, where any such application has been made, the Court to which it was made, the person or persons by whom it was made and the proceedings (if any) had thereon.

(2) The Court to which any such application is made under the proviso to section 273 may, if it thinks fit, reject the same.

Petition for probate, etc., to be signed and verified.

280. The petition for probate or letters of administration shall in all cases be subscribed by the petitioner and his pleader, if any, and shall be verified by the petitioner in the following manner, namely :—

"I (A. B.), the petitioner in the above petition, declare that what is stated therein is true to the best of my information and belief".

Verification of petition for probate by one witness to will.

281. Where the application is for probate, the petition shall also be verified by at least one of the witnesses to the will (when procurable) in the manner or to the effect following, namely : —

"I (C. D.), one of the witnesses to the last will and testament of the testator mentioned in the above petition, declare that I was present and saw the said testator affix his signature (or mark) thereto (or that the said testator acknowledge the writing annexed to the above petition to be his last will and testament in my presence)."

Punishment for false averment in petition or declaration.

282. If any petition or declaration which is hereby required to be verified contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 193 of the Indian Penal Code.

Powers of District Judge.

283. (1) In all cases the District Judge or District Delegate may, if he thinks proper,—

(a) examine the petitioner in person, upon oath:

Section 279 — Note 1

[1] Under S. 279 an applicant for probate, to have effect throughout British India, must mention any previous proceedings for probate and the Court is empowered to reject such an application. This section clearly contemplates that the Court before whom an application is brought, has a discretion in the exercise of its powers. (1941) 45 Cal W N 757 (759, 760).

[2] If the Court has power to reject, the parties cannot waive or deprive the Court of that power. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 417 (423).

[3] With regard to the phrase "same will" in S. 279, the intention is that applicant should disclose all proceedings in respect of any testamentary document of testator in respect of whose testamentary document or documents he is himself taking proceedings. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 417 (423).

[4] Concurrent jurisdiction — In case of concurrent jurisdiction in a probate action it is very necessary to avoid a conflict. In determining whether the Court should have regard and defer to a jurisdiction with which it may come into conflict, two points should be considered, priority in time and extent of relief asked for or obtainable in the other jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 283 (287) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 1 (DB). (Two sets of proceedings for probate going on at the same time in Oudh Chief Court for probate of will and in Calcutta High Court for probate and codicil—On facts held, proceedings in Calcutta High Court should be stayed.)

13. Party to proceedings.

1. Clause (b)— "Due execution" (General). — [1] The term "duly executed" does not mean merely the technical sense of it, the fact of execution by the testator and the subscription of two witnesses as required by the statute but what is meant is the proof of execution which carries with it a conviction that the testator knew and approved of the contents of the instrument. This of course involves in the proposition that he was a free and capable testator, since knowledge implies his possession of the capacity without which he could not know the contents of the will, and approval cannot be real and complete without a free exercise of the will. (1894) 21 Cal 279 (289) (DB). (Mitchell v. Thomas, (1847) 6 Moo P C 150 : 13 E R 641, Foll.)

[2] In unopposed application for probate, prima facie proof of the execution of the will is sufficient to warrant the grant. (1881) 7 Cal L R 387 (392) (DB).

[3] The standard of proof required by the Indian statutes to establish a will propounded is the standard of a prudent man. (1912) 39 Cal 245 (255) (DB).

[4] In a proceeding for the probate of a will, the will must be duly proved either in a common form or per testes : if the proceeding is contentious it must be proved in solemn form. The consent of parties that probate should be granted cannot give validity to a grant of probate, as no grant can be valid unless the will be proved in some form and the Judge be in a position to pronounce that it is proved and registered before him (1904) 31 Cal 357 (362) (DB). ((1897) 21 Bom 335 (DB), Foll.)

[5] When their Lordships of the Privy Council have to deal with the question of whether a document (e. g., a will) is forged it is of first importance that they should have either the document or at any rate a photostatic copy of it, before them. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 11 (13) : I L R (1944) Kar P C 61 : 71 Ind App 1 (P C).

[6] Section 283 and other sections preclude the possibility of the probate Judge referring the question of the execution of a will to arbitration, unless possibly all the beneficiaries appear before him and consent to that course and even then it is doubtful whether the Court can refer it. The probate Court must be itself satisfied by admissible evidence that the will is the will of the testator. (1897) 21 Bom 335 (342) (DB).

[7] In granting probate, the Court is to satisfy itself on all points regarding the will and proceed on evidence on record and contentions of parties. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 74 (75) (DB).

[8] In the absence of any circumstance, to suggest forgery of the will or perjury by the witnesses, the argument against the genuineness of a will based on the fact that the witnesses to the execution of the will were not men of superior social position, is unsound and contrary to law. Something more than mere suspicion is necessary to make convincing an argument based on the social position of the witnesses. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 157 (160) (P C). ✠ (1895) 22 Cal 519 : 22 Ind App 12 (P C) ✠ (1913) 36 All 93 : 41 Ind App 76: 16 Oudh Cas 386.)

[9] A Court of probate is not a Court of probity and the Court has not to ask whether the testator bequeathed his property as they think he ought to have done. If the propounders prove the bona fides of the transaction and there are no circumstances suggesting suspicion, probate can be granted. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 251 (254) (DB).

[10] Secondary evidence of will — Will shown to have been last in proper custody and to have been lost —Will more than 30 years old—Secondary evidence of will held might be admitted without proof of the execution of the original. (1880) 5 Cal 886 (888).

[11] Will giving testator's widow power to adopt and directing his property to be held in a particular way— Adoption made with the knowledge of the members of family — Will acted upon and recognised by testator's family for 27 years — Will held was proved. (1872) 14 Moo Ind App 67 (76, 84) (PC).

[12] Will attested by 12 witnesses — No signature of testator but name written by uncle—Court remarking that all evidence need not be given — Procedure held defective—Will required to be carefully scrutinised and it was necessary to place before Court all available evidence so that Judge could form right conclusion, having free mind. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 186 (187) (DB).

[13] According to English practice, probate may be granted of the will of a person domiciled abroad upon proof that it is a valid will according to the law of domicile and that there are assets within the jurisdiction and it is not necessary that it should be first proved in the Courts of domicile. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 202 (204) : 43 Ind App 113 (PC).

[14] The mere fact that the party objecting to the application for grant of letters of administration does not categorically deny the execution of the will by the alleged testator is no sufficient ground for dispensing with the formal proof of the will as required by law. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 69 (70).

2. Knowledge and approval of deed by testator. —[1] In ordinary cases, execution of a will by a competent testator raises the presumption (sufficient, if nothing appears to the contrary, to establish) that he knew and approved the contents of the will. Also, under ordinary circumstances, the competency of a testator will be presumed, if nothing appears to rebut the ordinary presumption. As the result of these two presumptions in ordinary cases, at least in many cases, proof of execution of the will is enough But where the mental capacity of the testator is challenged the Court ought to find whether upon the evidence the testator was of sound disposing mind and did know and approve of the contents of the will. (1894) 21 Cal 279 (290) (D B).

[2] Before any grant of letters is made, the Judge must require strict proof of the execution of the will. It is not enough for witnesses to say that they saw the testator sign the will and that he was in his senses. It must also be proved that he understood the contents of the paper to which he was putting his signature, and for this purpose it should be shown that the will, if not written by himself, was read over to him. (1899) 22 Mad 345 (347) (D B).

[3] Ability to sign one's name does not necessarily imply the possession of the full mental powers requisite for a complete disposition of property. (1911) 10 Mad L Tim 304 (310) (D B).

[4] In all cases in which the evidence is conflicting it is the duty of a Court of Appeal to have great regard to the opinion formed by the Judge in whose presence the witnesses gave their evidence as to the degree of credit to be given to it, and probably the advantage of hearing the witnesses give their evidence is of special value, where there is conflict between them as to; the mental capacity of a person whose conduct they have observed and whose state of mind they depose to; for the original Court has not merely the better opportunity of judging of the truthfulness of the evidence from the manner in which it is given but also of judging how far the witnesses possess those qualities on which depends much of the value of evidence given in good faith, power of observation, of judgment, accuracy of expression, general intelligence. (1894) 21 Cal 279 (284) (D B).

3. Will executed under suspicious circumstances.—[1] Where the case of petitioners for grant of letters of administration carries certain element of suspicion, the Court should in such circumstances, insist on a very strict standard of proof and ought not to make a grant unless it is satisfied that the suspicion has been removed. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 595 (596) (D B).

[2] Mere grounds of suspicion are not sufficient to refuse probate. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 157 (163) (P C).

[3] Will alleged to be executed in suspicious circumstances—The suspicion must be one inherent in the transaction itself and not the doubt that may arise from a conflict of testimony which becomes apparent on an investigation of the transaction. (1912) 39 Cal 245 (253) (D B).

[4] If a party writes or prepares a will under which he takes a benefit, that is a circumstance that ought generally to excite the suspicion of the Court and call upon it to be vigilant and jealous in examining the evidence in support of the instrument in favour of which it ought not to pronounce unless the suspicion is removed. (1911) 13 Bom L R 38 (46) (DB). (Tyrrell v. Painton (1894) P D 151 and Barry v. Butlin (1838) 2 Moo P C 480 : 12 E R 1089, Rel. on.)

[5] Will one day before death — Spiritual preceptor made residuary legatee — In granting probate Court should see if undue influence was used. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 186 (187) (D B).

[6] Party taking benefit writing will—Such action raises suspicion — But this suspicion is removed if large legacies are left to other persons also. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 262 (266, 267).

[7] Scribe and attesting witnesses proving will— Caveator's case resting on suspicion—Court to listen to caveator with greatest caution. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 363 (364) (D B).

4. Delay in propounding will. — [1] Late presentation of will in public is not by itself material. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 157 (160) (P C).

[2] Long delay in propounding will, will give room to much suspicion and Courts are in such cases bound to scrutinize evidence very carefully. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 161 (162) (D B).

[3] The probate of a will, which appears to be natural and in accord with the tenor of the life of the deceased, should not be refused on the mere ground of delay in the production of the will. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 151 (152) (D B).

[4] Where an unregistered will is sought to be propounded after the lapse of more than 20 years it is required that all manner of doubt and suspicion which are likely to arise should be removed by propounders. No probate can be granted unless such suspicion is removed. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 535 (539) (D B).

5. Testatmentary instrument—Illustrative cases. —[1] Will by Hindu testator — Hindu uncle joint with his nephew executing "Vyavastha patra" before death — Deed declaring testator to be separate from nephew from date of execution of deed in symbolical way —Uncle and nephew declared to be owners of their separate shares — Testator sonless and forbidding his wife to make adoption after his death — Disposition in favour of wife and daughters of part of his separate share — No provision for devolution of his separate share after death of widow — Appointment of vyavasthapaka to manage property—Deed held was will and not family arrangement — Probate could be granted. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 341 (354, 355) (D B).

[2] A taluqdar in Oudh, in reply to a letter from the Government asking him to declare the custom of succession obtaining in his estate, executed the following document: "After my death, U (the eldest son) (sic) my estate should continue in my family undivided in accordance with the custom of raj gaddi and that the younger brothers shall be entitled to get maintenance from the gaddinashin" — Held that the instrument was testamentary disposition by the taluqdar of his estate in favour of his eldest son. (1911) 33 All 344 (355) : 38 Ind App 104 : 14 Oudh Cas 133 (PC).

[3] Sanad executed by taluqdar in Oudh through the mediation of family friends, stated: "For who is my son I fix Rs. 300 annually as maintenance. Besides this, whatever I may give I will give equally to the 3 sons except provisions, which they may take from my godown. The marriage and gauna expenses of the sons and daughters shall be borne by me. After me the three sons are to divide the property"— Held that the document was a non-testamentary instrument It was a family arrangement intended to be operative immediately. It required to be registered to make it effective (1911) 33 All 344 (355) : 38 Ind App 104 : 14 Oudh Cas 133 (P C).

6. Compromise.— [1] A Court exercising probate jurisdiction cannot grant or refuse probate of a will by consent and without taking evidence. This principle has for its basis the fact that a probate or an order refusing probate operates as judgment in rem. (1944) 48 Cal W N 294 (299) (D B) ✠(1904) 31 Cal 357 (362, 363) (D B). (An agreement or compromise as regards the genuineness and due execution of the will, if its effect is to exclude evidence in proof of the will, is not lawful.) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 All 745 (745) : 53 All 1000 (D B).

[2] In a contentious proceeding, probate may be granted in common form in consequence of a compromise between the disputants, resulting in the withdrawal of opposition. It cannot afterwards be revoked except on proof of fraud or circumvention practised either upon the Court or upon the parties. (1910) 14 Cal W N 1068 (1071) (D B).

[3] When a will is put before the probate Court for proof, the parties before the Court can enter into an agreement which changes the terms of the will and say that probate be granted. The effect of such an agreement will be the withdrawal of the objections to the proof of the will in consideration of the division of the estate in the manner agreed upon. In such a case the probate Court will have to take evidence about the will and if it comes to the conclusion that the will is valid it must grant probate of the will as it stands and unmodified by the terms of the agreement but should make the agreement arrived at between the parties an annexture to the decree. The parties agreeing would be bound to regulate their rights inter se according to that agreement. (1944) 48 Cal W N 294 (299, 300).

[4] Where there is a bona fide dispute about the validity of a will, an agreement between the interested parties arrived at by way of compromise that none of them would approach the Court for adjudicating upon the validity of that document and that they would divide the property included in the deed in a certain manner is binding upon the parties to the agreement. (1944) 48 Cal W N 294 (300) (D B).

[5] There can be no dismissal of probate case in accordance with the terms of a petition of compromise. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 82 (83) : 1 Pat L Jour 377 (D B).

7. Registration of will.—[1] Effect of registration of a will — The registration is a solemn act, to be performed in the presence of a competent official appointed to act as Registrar, whose duty it is to attend the parties during the registration and see that the proper persons present are competent to act and are identified to his satisfaction; and all things done before him in his official capacity and verified by his signature will be presumed to be done duly and in. Order of course it may be shown that, a deliberate fraud upon him has been successfully committed. (1906) 33 Cal 537 (544): 33 Ind App 60 (PC).

[2] Absence of registration of will is not by itself material in proving due execution of will. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 157 (160) (P C).

8. Burden of proof.—[1] The burden of proving a will in solemn form is cast upon the propounders. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 535 (539) (D B).

[2] In all cases the onus is imposed on the party propounding a will; it is in general discharged by proof of capacity and the fact of execution from which the knowledge of and assent to the contents of the instrument are assumed. (1894) 21 Cal 279 (290) (D B). (Barry v. Butlin (1838) 2 Moo P C 480 : 12 E R 1089, Foll.)

[See also (1911) 13 Bom L R 38 (46) (D B). (The onus lies in every case upon the party propounding a will and he must satisfy the conscience of the Court that the instrument so propounded is the last will of a capable testator—Barry v. Butlin, (1838) 2 Moo P C 480; 12 E R 1089 and Tyrrel v. Painton, (1894) P D 151, Foll.)]

[3] Onus of proving existence of disposing mind lies on person applying for probate of will. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 682 (683).

[4] Where circumstances are suspicious, it is for those who propound the will to remove such suspicions and to prove affirmatively that the testator knew and approved of the contents of the document, and it is only where this is done that the onus is thrown on those who oppose the will to prove fraud or undue influence. (1911) 10 Mad L Tim 304 (310) (D B).

[5] Will complying with all requisites of formality and also reasonable in its provisions — Burden is on those opposing the grant of its probate to prove that the Court ought to refuse probate either on account of the incapacity of the testator at the time of the alleged execution or on any other ground. (1892) 19 Cal 65 (74) : 18 Ind App 132 (P C).

9. Oral will—Proof of — [1] The Succession Act extends to nuncupative wills. The Courts regard an oral will with suspicion and require it to be established by clear proof. (1900) 24 Bom 8 (12) (D B).

[2] The onus of establishing an oral will is always a very heavy one. It must be proved with the utmost precision, and with every circumstance of time and place. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 285 (287) : 58 Ind App 362 (P C). ((1869) 12 Moo Ind App 1 (P C), Foll.)✠(Vol 29) 1942 All 201 (219) : I L R (1942) All 759 (F B). (Per Division Bench.))

[3] The fact that the substance of the oral will was taken down at the time the will was made could not make any difference in the eye of the law. That fact would only be a strong piece of evidence to prove the contents of the oral will. (Vol 18) 1931 All 489 (490) : 53 All 687 (F B).

[4] An oral declaration made by the deceased of testamentary intentions to which effect was to be given by a written will, held could not be regarded as an oral will. It could not be inferred that there was the necessary animus testandi or intention that an oral declaration should itself operate as a testamentary disposition of the declarant's property. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 285 (287) : 58 Ind App 362 (P C).

10. Clause (c)—Special citation (General)— [1] There is no difference in principle between a special and a general citation issued under S. 283 (1), cl. (c), Succession Act. The object of both is to give notice to persons interested in the estate of the deceased of the proceedings for grant. As a testamentary grant works in rem, it is of the utmost importance to give a wide publication to the proceedings. When the discretion is exercised and a general citation is issued, it is necessary that it should be published as required by sub-ss. (2) and (3) of S. 283. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 (301) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB).

[3] It is obligatory upon the Court when it is brought to its notice that there is a person entitled to special citation, to issue such citation and it is the bounden duty of a propounder to have special citation served upon a person who under the law is entitled thereto. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 497 (498) (DB).

[4] In a probate proceeding as soon as the Judge is informed of the existence of a minor heir of the deceased in case of intestacy, it becomes incumbent upon him to issue notice upon the minor and to have a guardian ad litem appointed for him. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 885 (886) (DB).

[5] There is a broad distinction between cases of wills and cases of intestacy in the matter of citations, for in the former cases the proof of a will in a majority of cases acts prejudicially to the legitimate rights of those who would inherit or be entitled to the properties in the absence of a will, and omission to cite them is likely to affect such rights of theirs in their absence; while in the latter cases such omission only affects their preferential right to administer or prevents them from objecting to the personnel of the administrator or to like matters and it is not until there is any mal-administration that they are really affected. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 207 (209) (DB).

[6] Section 283 vests the District Judge in regard to citations with full discretion which should be exercised with proper care: and when a will is propounded which alters the devolution of property, a special citation should be directed to be served upon the person or persons who is or are immediately affected by the will. (1882) 8 Cal 570 (576) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 623 (625) (DB).

[7] Section 283 allows a discretion and that which the law expressly allows, the Courts ought not, by implication, to take away. Different considerations arise when the testator is a Hindu and when he is a Christian. It is not in every case where a will alters a devolution of property that a special citation need be issued. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 262 (265, 266).

[8] In every case in which probate of a Hindu will is asked, a special citation ought to be served upon those persons whose interests are directly affected by the will. e. g., the next presumptive reversioners. (1882) 8 Cal 570 (575) (DB)✠(1900) 27 Cal 350 (351). (Minor widow of testator entitled to maintenance and residence under the will living—Special citation should issue upon widow and served personally on her and also on her father with whom she occasionally resided.)

Absence of citations — Effect.

[9] Section 283 (1) (c) makes it discretionary for Court to issue citations on all persons claiming to have interest in estate of deceased. Absence of citations which are discretionary does not in itself invalidate grant (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 370 (374)✠(Vol 25) 1938 Rang 261 (262, 263): 1938 Rang L R 360 (FB). ((Vol 23) 1936 Rang 105:14 Rang 146, Overruled.)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Cal 497 (499) (DB)✠(1911) 13 Bom L R 38 (42) (DB).

[10] Absence or non-service of special citation is itself a good ground for revocation in the absence of other circumstances on which the Court may refuse revocation. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 (301) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB).

[11] Citation against minor — Should be issued to the guardian — Issue only discretionary—No issue of citation — Grant of probate not vitiated — Minor can apply for revocation after majority. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 387 (388).

[12] Citations should always issue to parties who are known to the Court to be interested or to claim any interest in the estate of the deceased, but where such persons themselves have not complained for such omission, the omission to cite them does not call for the revocation of the grant. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 207 (210) (DB)

[13] See also under S. 263.

11. "Persons claiming to have any interest in the estate of the deceased."—[1]' It is suggested that it is only those persons who could be cited before the grant of probate who are the persons who could apply to revoke the probate. In their Lordships' view that is putting it on much too narrow a footing." (Vol 31) 1944 PC 11(13): 71 Ind App 1: ILR (1944) Kar (PC).61(PC).

[2] The term "persons claiming to have any interest in the estate of the deceased" used in S. 283 (1) (c), does not necessarily refer to any particular property, but to the claim of any person to succeed by inheritance or otherwise to any portion of the estate of the deceased by reason of an interest, not on an adverse title to the testator to any particular property, but in the estate itself whatever that may consist of. (1890) 17 Cal 46 (52) (DB).

[3] Fazl Ali J.—The interest which entitles a person to object to the grant of probate must be an interest in the estate and not merely an interest in the result of the probate proceedings or "interest" in any remote sense of the term. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 151 (155) : 20 Pat 75 (DB).

[4] Per Waller J.—The words "persons claiming to have any interest in the estate of the deceased" are intended to bear the same meaning as the words in the English Act, "having or pretending interest in the (personal) estate affected by a will." (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1193 (1196) : 49 Mad 960 (DB). ((1901) 28 Cal 441 (DB), Foll.)

[5] Per Devadoss J.—A person who is entitled to any portion of the estate left by the deceased or a right to claim maintenance from the estate of the deceased has an interest within the meaning of S. 283. It is not necessary that he should claim through the testator in order to enable him to oppose the grant. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1193 (1196) : 49 Mad 960 (DB).

[6] Only a real interest, however small, entitles the man to oppose a grant or to apply for revocation of a grant for just cause. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 (299) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB).

[7] Citations should be served upon all persons who have an interest in the estate, in other words all persons who have a locus standi to be heard on the question of grant of probate. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 89 (90): 10 Pat 812 (DB).

[8] Creditor of deceased testator is not entitled to object to grant of letters of administration regarding immovable property unless will is in fraud of creditors. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 43 (44) : 7 Low Bur Rul 293 (DB)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Pat 151 (152, 155):20 Pat 75 (DB). (A simple creditor of the deceased cannot ordinarily object to the grant of probate.)

[9] A creditor of the heir of the testator is entitled to apply for revocation of the probate on the ground that the grant was obtained fraudulently. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 11 (13) : 71 Ind App 1 : ILR (1944) Kar (PC) 61 (PC). ((Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB), Affirmed)

[10] By no stretch of reason it can be said that a debtor of a deceased testator, by merely contracting a loan, becomes interested in the estate of the deceased within the meaning of S. 283 (1) (c). He has, therefore, no locus standi to object to the grant of the letters of administration. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 18 (18) (DB).

[11] A person who is named in the will as executor cannot object to the grant of probate of the testator's will. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 151 (152) : 20 Pat 75 (DB).

[12] A person who has a real interest in the estate which is likely to be prejudicially affected by the will can oppose grant. It is not necessary for the objector to show that he had an interest in the estate at the time of the testator's death. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 734 (735): 59 Cal 1308 (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Cal 296 (299, 300) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 33 (DB). reversioners held had locus standi to enter caveats against grant of probate (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 183 (185) (DB)

[16] Government has no locus standi to oppose grant of probate in presence of heirs. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 804 (805) (DB).

[17] The interest which entitles a person to lodge a caveat must be an interest in the estate of the deceased, that is to say, there must be no dispute as to the title of the deceased to the estate. ((Vol 15) 1928 Mad 803, Affirmed) ✠(1910) 34 Bom 459 (461) (DB) (But the person who wishes to come in as the caveator must show some interest in the estate derived from the deceased by inheritance or otherwise.)

[18] A person who claims outside and independently of a will or claims adversely to the testator and disputes his right to deal with the property, can in no sense be deemed to claim an interest in the estate of the deceased within the meaning of S. 283 (1913) 20 Ind Cas 342 (342) (DB) (Cal) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 475 (477) (DB)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Pat 354 (355). [19] Person claiming by survivorship has no locus standi to object to grant of letters of administration, even where citation has been served on him (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 89 (90) : 10 Pat 812 (DB).

[20] Fact that testator disposed of by will jewels belonging to a person does not amount to interest in deceased's property which would entitle such person to oppose grant of probate (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 37 (38) : 54 Mad 24 (DB). ((Vol 15) 1928 Mad 803, Affirmed.)

[21] Before a person can be permitted to contest a will, the party propounding it has a right to call upon him to show that he has some interest. A bare possibility of filling a character which would give the party concerned an interest is not sufficient. There must be a possibility of having an interest in the result of setting aside the will. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 131 (131) (DB).

[2] Even a possibility of an interest is sufficient to entitle a person to become a party to probate proceedings—Party entitled to intervene in lower Court is also entitled to support the will as a respondent in the Appellate Court. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 525 (525) : 3 Pat L Jour 409 (DB).

1. "Caveat."
2. Locus standi to oppose grant.
3. Sub-section (4).
4. Practice and procedure.
5. Appeal

1. "Caveat." — [1] Caveat which is in the nature of a precautionary measure intended to assure that there shall be no proceeding in respect of estate of deceased without notice to person who files caveat is not necessary if persons interested in estate of deceased appear upon citation. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 311 (311) (DB).

[2] Petitioner should prima facie show that caveator has no interest and then caveator is to be called upon to rebut presumption. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 54 (55) (DB).

[3] A petition filed by a relative of the deceased testator, upon whom citation has been issued, intimating her intention to oppose grant of probate is not a caveat and does not require a stamp under Court fees Act (1870), Sch. 2, Art 12. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 311 (311) (DB). (A stamp of 8 annas is sufficient.)

2. Locus standi to oppose grant.—[1] The provisions of the Succession Act clearly contemplate that the entry of a caveat must be made by a person who wishes to oppose the grant of probate. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 16 (17) : 15 Luck 107.

[2] In dealing with question whether caveator has necessary interest, test is whether grant displaces any right to which caveator would otherwise be entitled. If so, he has such an interest if not, he has not. In every case it must be shown that the caveator, but for the will, would be entitled to a right of which that will deprives him. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad. 803, (805).

[3] Interest of caveator must be interest in estate of deceased—Interest claiming title paramount to testator is not caveatable interest. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad. 37 (38) : 54 Mad. 24 (DB).

[4] Fact that testator disposed of by will jewels belonging to caveator does not amount to interest in deceased's property which would entitle caveator to oppose grant of probate. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad. 37 (38) : 54 Mad. 24 (DB).

[5] Any interest, however slight, and even the bare possibility of an interest, is sufficient to entitle a person to enter caveat in a probate proceeding. (1945) 49 Cal. W N 713 (714) (DB).

[6] Before a person can be permitted to contest a will the party propounding it has a right to call upon him to show that he has some interest. A bare possi-

285. No proceeding shall be taken on a petition for probate or letters of administration after a caveat against the grant thereof has been entered with the Judge or District Delegate to whom the application has been made or notice has been given of its entry with some other Delegate, until after such notice to the person by whom the same has been entered as the Court may think reasonable.

After entry of caveat, no proceeding taken on petition until after notice to caveator.

286. A District Delegate shall not grant probate or letters of administration in any case in which there is contention as to the grant, or in which it otherwise appears to him that probate or letters of administration ought not to be granted in his Court.

District Delegate when not to grant probate or administration.

Explanation.—"Contention" means the appearance of any one in person, or by his recognized agent, or by a pleader duly appointed to act on his behalf, to oppose the proceeding.

bility is sufficient provided it rests on existing facts, but the possibility of filling a character which would give the party concerned an interest is not sufficient. There must be a possibility of having an interest in the result of setting aside the will. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad. 131 (131) (D B).

[8] A creditor can have locus standi to oppose the grant only where will is put forward to defraud a creditor. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal. 680 (680) (DB).

[9] Testamentary suit—Immediate reversioner compromising with propounder of will—Next immediate reversioner gets locus standi to enter caveats. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 183 (185) (DB).

[10] Grant of letters of administration may be opposed by person claiming interest in estate by purchase at sale in execution of decree against sons of deceased who would have taken estate in event of intestacy. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal. 277 (278) (DB).

[11] Where a deceased Hindu's wife's brother's daughter applied for letters of administration and a person who was neither a sapinda, sakulya nor a sumanodaka of the deceased, but who was related to the family of the deceased through a common link, filed a caveat: Held caveator had sufficient interest in circumstances of case, though he was not legal heir, to entitle him to appear and watch and, if necessary, to oppose application. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal. 470 (471, 472) (DB).

[12] A person disclaiming interest in estate is not entitled to citation and has no locus standi in Probate Court. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat. 95 (96) : 10 Pat. 817 (DB).

[13] Caveat cannot be sustained on mere ground that property is joint family estate. Caveator should file suit to establish his title to property, and if adequate grounds are made out, to obtain appointment of Receiver or injunction against administrator. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom. 60 (61). (1913) 40 Cal. 82 (87, 88) (D B).

[17] The mere fact that certain person had applied for letters of administration to the estate of testator and that the Court had issued a citation upon him, would not entitle him to come in and oppose the grant of probate if it is found that he has no interest in the estate of the deceased. (1913) 40 Cal. 82 (88) (DB).

[18] See also under Ss. 263 and 283.

3 Sub-section (4).—[1] Objections to application for grant of letters of administration to be in form of pleadings as also replies to objections. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang. 273 (274) (DB).

4. Practice and procedure.—[1] It is not the practice of a probate Court entertaining an application for grant of probate to consider any issue as to the title of the testator to the property with which the will purports to deal or as to what disposing power the testator may have possessed over such property. (1897) 19 All. 458 (461, 462) (DB) ✠ (Vol 2) 1915 Cal. 565 (567) (DB).

[2] There is no provision in the Succession Act for the discharge of a caveat. The only rule of procedure governing such proceeding is O. 1. R. 10, Civil P. C. A caveat should only be discharged where it is shown that the caveator has no interest in the estate. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat. 54 (55) (D B).

[3] A caveator by way of counter-claim cannot pray for grant of probate of another will of the testator set up by him. He must file a separate petition to propound such a will. The two petitions should then be heard together or be consolidated. But where the petitioner himself has set up a second codicil and the issue of revocation arises on his own petition, no probate can be granted till he satisfies the Court that the codicil has been revoked. (1946) 50 Cal, W N 126 (128) ((Vol 17) 1930 Bom 29 : 53 Bom. 829, Rel. on.)

5. Appeal.—[1] Order that person has locus standi to contest will, is not equivalent to decree and is not appealable. (1913) 17 Cal. L Jour 230 (232) (DB).

[2] Obiter : Order that person has no locus standi to contest the will is equivalent to decree and is appealable. (1913) 17 Cal. L Jour 230 (232) (DB).

[1] Under this section, the District Delegates can dispose of non-contentious cases only and have no jurisdiction to grant probate in any case in which there is contention as to the grant. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 38 (38) : 10 Luck. 316 (D B).

[2] Section 286 does not apply to the District Judge. The fact that the contentious case had been instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge is no bar to the District Judge granting the probate. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah. 48 (49).

Power to transmit statement to District Judge in doubtful cases where no contention.

287. In every case in which there is no contention, but it appears to the District Delegate doubtful whether the probate or letters of administration should or should not be granted, or when any question arises in relation to the grant, or application for the grant, of any probate or letters of administration, the District Delegate may, if he thinks proper, transmit a statement of the matter in question to the District Judge, who may direct the District Delegate to proceed in the matter of the application, according to such instructions as to the Judge may seem necessary, or may forbid any further proceeding by the District Delegate in relation to the matter of such application, leaving the party applying for the grant in question to make application to the Judge.

Procedure where there is contention or District Delegate thinks probate or letters of administration should be refused in his Court.

288. In every case in which there is contention, or the District Delegate is of opinion that the probate or letters of administration should be refused in his Court, the petition, with any documents which may have been filed therewith, shall be returned to the person by whom the application was made, in order that the same may be presented to the District Judge, unless the District Delegate thinks it necessary, for the purposes of justice, to impound the same, which he is hereby authorised to do; and, in that case, the same shall be sent by him to the District Judge.

Grant of probate to be under seal of Court.

289. When it appears to the District Judge or District Delegate that probate of a will should be granted, he shall grant the same under the seal of his Court in the form set forth in Schedule VI.

[1865 — S. 254; Probate and Administration Act, 1881 — S. 76; District Delegates Act, 1881 — Ss. 8, 9]

[3] When a District Delegate proceeds with a case after it has become contentious, he exceeds his jurisdiction. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 442 (442) (DB).

[4] If the nature of the proceeding is such that no contest is involved—as in probate common form business—the proceeding is non-contentious If a contest is involved, it is contentious (06) 29 Mad. 426 (430) (FB). (The word "contentious" is used in S. 52, T.P. Act in the sense in which it is used in the Probate Act Practice.)

[5] The form of caveat shows that the entry of a caveat does not necessarily make the probate proceedings contentious. Nor does the entry necessarily imply any intention to oppose the grant: it is merely a request that nothing be done in the matter of the estate of A B, deceased, without notice to the caveator. The caveator may only want time to make enquiries and obtain information. The petition becomes contentious only on the filing of affidavit in support of the caveat. ('98) 22 Bom 261 (265).

[6] When respondents appear and file objections against an application for grant of letters of administration with copy of will annexed, the proceedings cease to be non-contentious. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 442 (442) (D B).

[7] An application for revocation of a probate is a contentious matter. The District Delegate, therefore, cannot decide it. He should return such application for being presented to the Court of the District Judge. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 385 (387) (DB).

[8] Withdrawal of pleader on opposite side does not make contentious suit non-contentious one, but makes it undefended suit. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 75 (76) (D B).

[9] There is nothing in the Succession Act which renders the Subordinate Judge as such incompetent to dispose of contentious proceedings—Same officer both Subordinate Judge and District Delegate—Contentious probate case transferred to such officer by District Judge— He has jurisdiction to dispose of such proceeding as Subordinate Judge, though he cannot do so as District Delegate. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 38 (39) : 10 Luck 316 (DB).

[1] An application for revocation of a probate is a contentious matter. The District Delegate, therefore, cannot decide it. He should return such application for being presented to the Court of the District Judge. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 385 (387) (DB).

Section 289 — Note 1

[1] In granting probate, Court must satisfy itself on all points regarding the will and in coming to its conclusion must proceed on evidence on record, and also must have due regard to the contentions of the parties. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 74 (75) (D B) ✠ ('37) 41 Cal W N 848 (850) (DB). (Unless will is proved in some form, no grant of probate can be made merely on consent of parties.)

See also under S. 283.

[2] Under the Act, as under other systems of law, probate is granted in the case of domestic wills, of the will itself and not of any translation and the Courts are entitled to look at the original and indeed bound to do so where there is no agreement between the parties as to the correct translation. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 55 (58) (DB).

[3] Probate in common form will be issued on oath of applicant where will is not contested — If contested it is issued in solemn form after hearing evidence and pronouncing validity of will. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 75 (76, 77) (DB).

[4] Where the defendant, at any stage, withdraws his objection, whether under compromise or otherwise, proceedings may become non-contentious, in which case probate will be granted in common form. Court has, however, no power in such case to incorporate terms of compromise in probate or to annex them in form of Schedule. (Vol 18) 1931 All 745 (746): 53 All 1000 (DB).

[5] General grant in terms of S. 289 is operative under S. 216 until probate shall have been recalled or revoked under S. 263. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 292 (293) (DB).

[8] Court-fee on probate or letters of administration — See Notes under Ss. 19-G and 19-I and Sch. I, Art. 11, Court-fees Act.

Section 290 — Note 1

[1] When application for probate does not mention that the petitioner is appointed executor, and he is not also appointed executor by will, Court should grant only letters of administration with will annexed under S. 290. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 41 (42).

[2] Executors or administrators or holders of certificates are all in nature of quasi trustees in fiduciary position, and what the beneficial interest of any of them may be in property or estate ought to form no operative part of order granting them administration. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 456 (458) (DB).

[3] Where there is no estate which stands in need of administration, no suggestion that any creditors have to be paid or any debts due to the estate have to be collected, and an application for letters of administration is a transparent device to secure from the probate Court a decision upon a contested question of title, there is no occasion for the grant of letters of administration. The proper course is to obtain an adjudication of the rights in a regular suit. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 474 (475, 476) : 17 Luck 78 (DB).

[4] The delay in the application should put the Court on an enquiry as to whether there is anything to be administered, but that applies to a case where the application is for letters of administration, not for letters of administration with will annexed. It is of the paramount necessity that the will should be established and the establishment of the will is one of the functions of the probate Court and the probate Court cannot decline to exercise that function because the administration is complete. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (357) (DB).

[5] In other parts of the British Empire, the Colonial Probate Act applies, and the practice is not to make a grant of letters of administration with copy of the will annexed but to send an exemplication of the probate granted in any part of the United Kingdom, and this exemplication is re-sealed by the Court to which it is sent. That practice and Act have not been extended to British India. The practice there is to require administration with will annexed to the estate of a deceased British subject who left property in British India. ('13) 40 Cal 74 (76).

2. Surety, liability and discharge of.
3. Recovery of amount under bond.
4. Sub-section (2).
5. Security from executors : Sub-s. (2), cl. (b).
6. Appeal.

1. Scope.—[1] The security under S. 291 is only required to guard against mal-practices, and the security is enough if it affords a reasonable protection against mal practices which require time to be carried out. ('07) 6 Cal L Jour 453 (460) (DB).

[2] Section 291 requires a bond to be given in every case where letters of administration are granted. But it is open to the Court to make a special order as to the form of the bond. ('99) 26 Cal 408 (408). (Form of bond in the case of special or limited administration stated.)

[3] Under S. 291, the probate Court can take a second bond with fresh sureties if the necessity arises. ('02) 29 Cal 68 (71) (DB) ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 584 (586) : 47 Cal 115 (DB).

2. Surety, liability and discharge of. — [1] A surety to an administration bond cannot discharge himself without an order of the Court. He is not a common law surety and cannot be regarded in the light of surety under the Contract Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 737 (739) : I L R (1939) 2 Cal 1.

[2] Liability of surety to administration bond is immediate and permanent and is only to disappear on the fulfilment of the obligations by administrator. Default by the latter is no ground for discharging the bonds. It may be ground for revoking the grant or taking other steps to control administration. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 737 (739) : I L R (1939) 2 Cal 1.

3. Recovery of amount under bond. — [1] An administration bond does not come within the meaning of the Exception to S. 74, Contract Act. Upon its breach, therefore, only reasonable compensation, not the whole amount of the bond, can be awarded. ('22) 64 Ind Cas 366 (368) (DB) (Cal).

(Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1184 (1186).

4. Sub-section (2).—[1] Where the deceased was a Christian, security cannot be demanded under S. 291. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 151 (151, 152).

5. Security from executors: sub-s. (2), cl. (b).— [1] Taking of bond is compulsory in case of administrator but discretionary in case of executors. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 584 (585) : 47 Cal 115 (DB).

[2] Obiter.—Where the executor is the sole legatee, if the District Judge thinks it necessary to take any bond, the security fixed must be a nominal sum. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 733 (734) (DB).

[3] Where in the will the testator mentions that the executors should obtain probate of the will without security, it is not the function of the Judge to distrust the executor and ask for security quite contrary to testator's desire. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 733 (734) (DB).

[4] Before granting probate, ordering of security to be furnished by executor is discretionary and appellate Court should not interfere with the way in which it is exercised unless very strong reasons are shown to persuade Court that result is incorrect. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 67 (68) (DB).

6. Appeal. — [1] No appeal lies from order for security from the petitioner for probate. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 733 (734) (DB).

[2] Order calling upon executor to furnish fresh security is appealable. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 38 (38): I L R (1939) Lah 424.

[1] Under this section the Court has no authority to direct the Registrar of the Court to assign the administration bond. ('06) 33 Cal 713 (738) (FB).

[2] Per Das and Carr JJ., Cunliffe J. contra: Sureties to administration bond — Cannot be proceeded against under S. 145, C. P. C. — Remedy is to obtain an assignment of bond and sue on same. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 249 (252) : 6 Rang 474 (DB).

[3] Proceedings of assignment of administration bond are not binding on surety unless he is party to those proceedings. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 28 (29) : 4 Rang 358 (DB).

[4] The administration bond does not come within the Exception to S. 74, Contract Act, and therefore, the whole amount mentioned in the bond does not become payable on its breach. Hence an assignee of the bond cannot recover more damage than he has proved to have resulted. ('88) 10 All 29 (34, 35) (DB).

[5] Where there is technical breach of terms of administration bond executed in favour of Court, whole of amount of bond is not recoverable by the assignee and only reasonable compensation can be awarded. ('22) 64 Ind Cas 366 (368) (DB) (Cal).

Limitation.

[8] A suit to enforce the bond by a person to whom it has been assigned under S. 292, is a suit upon a bond within the meaning of Art. 68, Lim. Act. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 6 (9) : 67 Ind App 416 : I L R (1941) Bom 202 : I L R (1941) Kar P C 11 (PC).

Section 294 — Note 1

SECTION 295 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. "In which there is contention."
3. "Form of a regular suit."
4. Applicability of Civil P. C. provisions.
5. Caveator setting up another will — Procedure.
6. "Defendant."
7. Compromise.
8. Costs, pleader's fee, etc.
9. Revocation proceedings.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Section 295 applies only to an application for probate or letters of administration. It cannot apply for an application for revocation of probate. The section applicable to such proceeding is S. 268 (1900) 4 Cal W N 600 (601) (DB).

[2] The fact that a suit as to the validity of the will is instituted in the Court of the subordinate Judge is no bar to the District Judge granting a probate if he is satisfied as to the genuineness of the will. The section applicable to the proceedings before the District Judge is S. 295. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 48 (49).

2. 'In which there is contention."—[1] Not the entry of a caveat, but the filing of an affidavit in support of the caveat is the point on which the petition for probate becomes contentious. ('98) 22 Bom 261 (265).

[2] See also under S. 286.

3. "Form of a regular suit." — [1] A contested application for probate is not a 'suit". (Vol 15) 1928 All 51 (52) : 50 All 238 (DB). (('09) 33 Bom 256 and 41 Cal 637 : (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 523 (DB), Foll.)

[2] Where there is contention, the proceedings must take form of regular suit. It is not permissible for the Court to refuse to make a full enquiry, proceed to decide the matter in a summary fashion, leaving his decision subject to modification in a suit to be filed afterwards. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 502 (503) (DB).

[3] So long as a petition for probate or letters of administration is non-contentious, it is to be dealt with by the Registrar; as soon as it becomes 'contentious' it is to be treated as the plaint in a suit and the suit is governed as far as practicable by the procedure prescribed by the Civil P. C. ('98) 22 Bom 261 (264).

4. Applicability of Civil P. C. provisions.— [1] Where, in consequence of the filing of the affidavit in support of the caveat, the matter becomes a suit, the whole suit must be disposed of by the decree of the Court. It follows that where at the hearing of the suit the defendant does not appear in support of the caveat, it is not a correct procedure for the Court merely to dismiss the caveat, leaving it to the Registrar to dispose of the petition as non-contentious matter. In such a case the proper form of order is that the caveat be dismissed and that probate or letters of administration issue, provided that the Court is satified that the papers are in order and, in the case of probate, of the due execution of the will. ('98) 22 Bom 261 (266).

Applicability of S. 10, Civil P. C.

[2] Until caveat has been entered and supported by an affidavit there is no suit and no defendant within the meaning of S. 10, Civil P. C. Until that is done such person has no locus standi to object to the appointment of receiver and apply for stay of proceedings under S 10, Civil P. C. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 16 (17) : 15 Luck 107.

[3] Direction in S 295 is only that procedure of suit shall be followed and not that proceedings, on becoming contentious, shall "become" regular suits instituted on date of their becoming contentious. Section 10, Civil P. C, is therefore not strictly applicable. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 113 (116) : 15 Luck 290

Res judicata.—[4] Contentious probate proceedings constitute a 'suit' within the meaning of S 11, Civil P. C. Therefore, the finding of fact of a probate Court in such proceedings (e g., that the testator was not of sound disposing mind when the alleged will was made) operates as res judicata between the parties to the proceedings, although such judgment is not judgment as is contemplated in S. 41, Evidence Act. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 8 (15) : 38 Bom 309 (F B).

[5] Application for probate opposed by A, an infant, represented by B — B withdrawing opposition and probate granted by consent —A on attaining majority, applying for revocation on ground that executor not properly administering estate and praying in the alternative for grant of joint probate to the executor and him — Application refused — Subsequent application by A for revocation on ground that will was forged: Held that assuming S. 11, Civil P. C., applied, second application was not barred by constructive res judicata, as it was not obligatory on the petitioner to raise in previous proceedings the plea raised subsequently. ('06) 4 Cal L Jour 492 (495) (D B).

[6] Where an application for probate by a legatee has been dismissed for default, the legatee's heirs can nevertheless plead the existence of the will as a defence to a suit for the property which they claim as belonging to them under the will. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad. 861 (870). (('10) 12 Cal L Jour 185 (D B), Foll.)

Applicability of O. 9, R. 9, Civil P. C.—[7] Order 9, R. 9 applies to probate proceedings. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 712 (713). (('10) 12 Cal L Jour 185 (D B) and (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1057 : 53 Cal 578 (D B), Dissent.)

[See also (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 112 (112) (D B). (O. 9, R. 9 is applicable to dismissal of application for probate.)]

Applicability of O. 16, R. 20, Civil P. C. — [8] Where the caveator refused to answer a question put to him by the Court, held S. 177, Civil P. C. (1882) (corresponding to O. 16, R. 20 of the present Code) could not justify the Court in dispensing with proof of the will and making an order for grant of probate. ('85) 9 Bom 241 (244) (D B).

Applicability of O. 23, R. 3, Civil P. C. — [9] Order 23, R. 3, Civil P. C., read with this section do not say that it is competent to the Court to allow the parties to divide the testator's property without proving the will. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 82 (83) : 1 Pat L Jour 377 (D B).

Powers of remand.—[10] Where the District Judge has given no opportunity to a party to probate proceedings to cross-examine witnesses called by his opponent, and the evidence of the witnesses is to be used against him, the appellate Court must take this fact into consideration and decide whether or not the procedure of the District Judge has been so manifestly in disregard of the first principles of procedure as to make it incumbent upon them to remand the case for further hearing. ('10) 11 Cal L Jour 124 (130) (F B).

Order 41, R. 1, Civil P. C. — [11] An appeal filed against an order passed in a contentious proceeding is an appeal filed under O. 41, R. 1, Civil P.C., and not under S. 104 of the Code. Hence an appeal against an order in a contentious proceeding granting probate or letters of administration with the will annexed is incompetent without the production of a copy of a formal decree prepared in terms of such order. Form of decree should be one adopted by Calcutta High Court. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 36 (37) (F B).

Appeal —[12] The decision in a contentious proceeding under the Succession Act amounts to an appealable order. Hence no decree sheet need be prepared by the Court passing such order, and it is not necessary that appeals from such orders should be decided by the Bench. The court fee payable would also be the court-fee which is due on appeals from orders. (Vol 32) 1945 Pesh 22 (24) (D B) (('13) 35 All 448 (D B) and (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 36 (FB), Dissent.)

5. Caveator setting up another will — Procedure. – [1] Where, in a petition for probate, the caveator sets up another will of the testator, it is obligatory on the latter to file a separate petition to propound the will set up by him, except in exceptional cases such as when the subsequent will set up by the caveator itself is said to have been revoked. Where the caveator is alleged to be an executor under the will set up by him, he can apply for probate, otherwise he can apply for letters of administration under S. 231. On such a petition being filed, there would be really two separate proceedings for obtaining grant in respect of two different wills alleged to have been left by the same testator and the parties interested in opposing the grant will have to file respective caveats in each case. The two suits could then be heard together or consolidated. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 40 (42, 44) (DB). ((Vol 17) 1930 Bom 29 : 53 Bom 829, Rel. on.)(Vol 17) 1930 Bom 29 (30): 53 Bom 829.

6. "Defendant" — [1] Merely citing a person in a probate does not make him defendant. Under S. 295, the case must be contentious and the person cited must appear to oppose the grant before he becomes defendant (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 85 (86): 41 Cal 819 (D B).

7. Compromise. — [1] If a compromise has been made and the objector withdraws from the contest the Court will grant probate in common form, but the Court cannot dismiss the case altogether and embody the terms of the compromise as if the decree was one capable of execution by him. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 82 (83) : 1 Pat L Jour 377 (D B).

[2] Where there is a bona fide dispute about the validity of a will, an agreement between the interested parties arrived at by way of compromise that none of them would approach the Court for adjudicating upon the validity of that document and that they would divide the property included in the deed in a certain manner, is binding upon the parties to the agreement. ('44) 48 C W N 294 (300) (DB).

[3] On a petition for the grant of probate to an additional executor, the Court has no jurisdiction to sanction a compromise between the executors, imposing a heavy burden on the estate. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 720 (722) : 39 Mad 365 (D B).

[4] Objector agreeing to compromise can subsequently resile from it and insist upon the trial of the issue whether the will was duly executed. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 82 (83) : 1 Pat L Jour 377 (D B).

[5] See also under S 283.

8. Costs, pleader's fee, etc. — [1] If application for probate is strongly opposed and petitioner is put to very heavy and needless expense, Court has ample power to award his costs as in a suit. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat (180) (180) (D B).

[2] Contested application for probate — Taxation of costs — Case has to be decided by R. 26, Chap. 21, General Rules (Civil) for subordinate Civil Courts — Rule 22 has no application—Chapter 16, R. 2, Allaha-

[1] There is nothing in the Succession Act to suggest that grant either of probate or of letters of administration becomes on revocation void ab initio. [2] Where a will has been declared to be a forgery and, therefore, void ab initio, any acts done by a person under any title created by that will must be held to be in law void. [5] Appeal under this section is subject to there being a right of appeal against an interlocutory order under Civil P. C. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 180 (180) (D B).

Therefore an appeal under this section admitted without a copy of the decree, on the statement of the appellant made without enquiry that no decree was drawn up in the case while in fact a decree was in existence, is not an appeal which ought to be entertained by the Court. 4. Non-appealable orders — [1] An order by a District Judge holding that the objector to the grant of a probate of a will has no locus standi to object and that the applicant is entitled to probate on proof of the will in common form is not open to appeal (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 459 (460) (D B) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 259 (259) (D B)

[4] Order refusing to add applicants as party defendants to suit on the ground that their rights and interests could not be dealt with in the suit and that if they were made defendants there might be a misjoinder of parties : Held no appeal lay against the order. ('78-80) 2 All 904 (904) (D B).

[5] No appeal lies against an order requiring security from the petitioner for probate. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 733 (734) (D B).

[6] District Judge exercising his discretion under S. 271 merely decides to proceed with the application and makes no order. Therefore no appeal lies against such decision. [7] No appeal lies against an order assigning an administration bond. ('12) 39 Cal 563 (566) (D B).

[But see (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 684 (684). (Order in some respects similar to one under S. 145, Civil P. C. and is appealable.)]

[8] No appeal lies against an order passed by a single Judge of High Court on an application under S. 302. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 54 (55) (D B).

5. Discretionary orders — High Court will not interfere. — [1] High Court will not interfere with discretion exercised by the lower Court in granting letters of administration unless it is satisfied that that discretion was unreasonably exercised. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 356 (357) (DB).

6. Parties. — [1] A person who was not allowed to contest the grant of probate or letters of administration on the ground that he had no locus standi is competent to appeal. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 734 (735) : 59 Cal 1308 (DB).

300. (1) The High Court shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Judge in the exercise of all the powers hereby conferred upon the District Judge.

(2) Except in cases to which section 57 applies, no High Court, in exercise of the concurrent jurisdiction hereby conferred over any local area beyond the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay [a][* * *] shall, where the deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, receive applications for probate or letters of administration until the [b][Provincial Government] has, by a notification in the [c][Official Gazette], authorised it so to do.

Removal of executor or administrator and provision for successor.

301. The High Court may, on application made to it, suspend, remove or discharge any private executor or administrator and provide for the succession of another person to the office of any such executor or administrator who may cease to hold office, and the vesting in such successor of any property belonging to the estate.

included within the meaning of the term High Court and an appeal from his order refusing probate lies to the Privy Council and not to the Rangoon High Court. ('97) 24 Cal 30 (32) (DB).

8. Revision. — [1] An order passed without following the procedure indicated by S. 3 of the Act of 1841 (S. 193 of this Act) is one passed illegally and with material irregularity in the exercise of jurisdiction vested in the Judge and therefore could be interfered with in revision. ('10) 11 Cal L Jour 521 (523) (DB).

[2] Semble — Where a probate is granted to a party no revision lies to the High Court. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 354 (355).

[3] An order refusing right to oppose grant of probate on ground of absence of interest can be revised by the High Court on an application under S. 115, Civil P. C. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 459 (460) (DB) ✠ ('94) 21 Cal 539 (542) (DB). (Application for probate—Widow of deceased colluding with petitioner withdrawing opposition — Daughter applying to be made party defendant — Daughter refused to be added and case heard as unopposed case — Contention that daughter had no such interest in the estate as would entitle her to be heard in the proceedings : Held that there were grounds for interfering in revision and that the Court acted illegally and with material irregularity in refusing to hear the daughter in the circumstances of the case.)

[4] An administration bond enures for the benefit of the District Judge who can assign it on conditions. But he cannot re-assign the bond while the first assignment is in force unless there is a condition that the assignment should be void if the assignee failed to comply with the requirements. Therefore where the Judge re-assigns the bond in the absence of such conditions the order is one without jurisdiction and can be revised by the High Court. ('12) 39 Cal 563 (566, 567) (DB).

[5] Order passed by single Judge of High Court in an application made under S. 302 — No revision lies as such Judge is not subordinate to High Court. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 54 (55).

9. Court-fee payable on appeals. — [1] Order refusing letters of administration with will annexed passed by a single Judge of the High Court — Appeal treated as first appeal from a decree and held that court-fee of Rs. 10 was payable under Art. 17, cl. 6, Sch. 2 of the Court-fees Act. ('13) 35 All 448 (450).

[1] The expression 'High Court' in S. 300 is not confined to the appellate side alone. Therefore the original side of the High Court can exercise jurisdiction under S. 300 (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 264 (265) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 79 (DB).

[2] High Court having no original jurisdiction cannot grant a succession certificate. (Vol 21) 1934 All 958 (958) : 57 All 302 (DB).

[3] High Court to which a guarantee is given by surety has power to exonerate him from future transactions if satisfied that there is ground for it after providing safeguards for the heirs of the deceased. (Vol 19) 1932 All 262 (262) : 54 All 293 (DB).

[1] Will creating trust wrongly describing trustees as executors — Suit to remove such persons does not lie under this section. (Suit lies under S. 92, Civil P. C.) (Vol 25) 1938 All 197 (198).

[2] The power to remove an executor and to provide for a successor is one conferred on the High Court alone and such relief cannot be sought by regular suit. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 406 (408) : 16 Lah 975 (DB). (Such suits will not lie under S. 9 of the Civil P. C.)

[3] If the removal of an executor is sought and not an indirect restraint on him by merely getting Receiver appointed, the only remedy that is open is under this section (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 994(995): 50 Mad 956 (DB).

[4] Where an application is made for removal of executor under this section the dispute relates to a matter of testamentary succession of an original nature and the application should be presented to that department which exercises original testamentary jurisdiction. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 264 (265) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 79.

[5] The High Court has power to discharge an executor on his own application provided that he makes out a case for the discharge. ('05) 29 Bom 188 (190). (Executor applying for discharge old and shattered in health—Disagreement between the executor and co-executrix— Estate not requiring anything to be done : Held that a proper case for discharge was made.)

[6] The use of the word "may" in this section shows merely that a proper case must be made out though the section does not try to exhaust the kinds of charges that may be brought against an executor or other circumstances that ought to be made out before his removal can be obtained. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 994 (995) : 50 Mad 956 (DB).

302. Where probate or letters of administration in respect of any estate has or have been granted under this Act, the High Court may, on application made to it, give to the executor or administrator any general or special directions in regard to the estate or in regard to the administration thereof.

Directions to executor or administrator.

CHAPTER V.

OF EXECUTORS OF THEIR OWN WRONG.

303. A person who intermeddles with the estate of the deceased, or does any other act which belongs to the office of executor, while there is no rightful executor or administrator in existence, thereby makes himself an executor of his own wrong.

Executor of his own wrong.

Exceptions.—(1) Intermeddling with the goods of the deceased for the purpose of preserving them or providing for his funeral or for the immediate necessities of his family or property, does not make an executor of his own wrong.

[7] A Court may not dismiss a petition under this section without any kind of enquiry into the allegations made. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 994 (995) : 50 Mad 956 (DB).

Section 302 — Note 1

[1] Court exercising jurisdiction under this section acts in pursuance of testamentary and intestate jurisdiction with which it is vested under Cl. 34, Letters Patent and not of its ordinary original jurisdiction. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 258 (261).

[2] Cases dealing with S. 43 of Trustees' and Mortgagees' Powers Act have no application to proceedings under this section. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 356 (358) : 51 Mad 849.

[3] Deceased appointing G as executor of his property and guardian of his minor son—G realising large sums of money and paying into his own banking account—G not keeping proper accounts and not filing inventory in Court but giving false explanation—Minor's maintenance and education made difficult—Application by one R under Ss. 301, 302 and 317 — Contention that the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain it as the executor had paid off the debts and expenses and therefore had become functus officio—Held that he continued to be the executor till he handed over the money to the minor and therefore the Court properly entertained the application and passed orders. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 463 (465) (DB).

[4] High Court can, under S. 302, order any monies in hands of administrator to be deposited with Registrar of Court. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 82 (83) (DB).

[5] Application to recover annuity payable under will is maintainable. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 254 (254, 255).

[6] Will making specific bequests and providing that residue should be divided among certain persons in particular proportion — Administrator-General appointed executor — Caveat entered into by a party and the matter treated as contentious suit — Withdrawal of caveat on compromise between parties other than Administrator-General — Application on the death of a legatee by a person entitled to succeed him for direction to executor to pay legatee's share to applicant—Held that Court could entertain the application under this section. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 203 (208) : 63 Ind App 61 : 63 Cal 677 (P C).

[7] Probate granted to executor—Simultaneous agreement recorded between beneficiaries to have properties disposed of by executor not in complete accordance with terms of will—Even though executor agrees to distribute according to the terms of the agreement he holds property as executor and not as trustee—Heir of residuary legatee who has not received share can invoke the aid of S. 104 by an application under this section — Such person need not be relegated to a suit. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 841 (843) : 60 Cal 1135.

[8] When possession of certain properties is claimed by an applicant under S. 302 on the ground that the properties were surrendered to him, the question whether the surrender was valid and should be given effect to cannot be properly dealt with in a proceeding under S. 302 for the application is virtually a suit in ejectment. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 194 (196).

[9] The High Court has power under this section to give the directions which the Court of Chancery in England has. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 356 (358) : 51 Mad 849.

[10] Under this section the High Court has got power to give to the executor or administrator any general or special directions in regard to the estate or its administration. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 356 (358) : 51 Mad 849.

[11] Though the High Court has jurisdiction to give directions it would refrain from doing so in cases where the matter has been properly litigated in civil Court and adjudicated upon. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 356 (359) : 51 Mad 849.

[12] Any directions as regards the administration of the estate means such directions as the executor may seek in order to administer the estate properly. The section gives ample power to settle questions arising between the executor and the legatees themselves and also a power to construe the will whenever the Court is asked to do so. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 356 (358) : 51 Mad 849.

[But see (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 348 (349) : 7 Pat 396. (Probate Court cannot construe will.)]

[13] Power of giving directions for summary disposal of disputes is vested in High Court, but exercise of power is discretionary. If matter is complicated proper remedy for person seeking relief is to bring suit. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 120 (121).

[14] The Court under this section is not competent to determine any disputed question of title, its jurisdiction being confined to the issue of directions to the executor relating to the management of the estate. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 258 (261)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Pat 194 (196). (Assuming it has powers it would act wisely in the exercise of its discretion by refusing to give directions in favour of any party who does not come before it with a clear title and where the title set up may be appropriately dealt with in a civil suit.)

[1] Section 303 applies to Hindus as well. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 19 (22) (DB).

[2] There is nothing repugnant in Hindu law in holding a stranger executor de son tort who takes possession of the assets of a deceased person and who deals with them in such a way as would make him liable as such according to English law. ('06) 10 Cal W N 566 (570)✠('90) 17 Cal 620 (630) (DB). (Obiter.)

(2) Dealing in the ordinary course of business with goods of the deceased received from another does not make an executor of his own wrong.

Illustrations.

(i) A uses or gives away or sells some of the goods of the deceased, or takes them to satisfy his own debt or legacy or receives payment of the debts of the deceased. He is an executor of his own wrong.

(ii) A, having been appointed agent by the deceased in his lifetime to collect his debts and sell his goods, continues to do so after he has become aware of his death. He is an executor of his own wrong in respect of acts done after he has become aware of the death of the deceased.

(iii) A sues as executor of the deceased, not being such. He is an executor of his own wrong.

Liability of executor of his own wrong.

304. When a person has so acted as to become an executor of his own wrong, he is answerable to the rightful executor or administrator, or to any creditor or legatee of the deceased, to the extent of the assets which may have come to his hands after deducting payments made to the rightful executor or administrator, and payments made in due course of administration.

(An administrator pendente lite who intermeddles with the estate after his appointment as such ceases is a quasi executor de son tort.)

[6] Son obtaining probate of will of deceased mother —Money set apart by mother as due to another after obtaining letters of administration to the estate of her mother E—Money invested by son in Bank for interest: Held that the son was not an executor de son tort and that what he did was not wrong. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 511 (512): 62 Cal 120.

[7] A very slight intermeddling with the estate of the deceased will make a person executor de son tort (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1 (50) (DB)✠('08) 32 Bom 364 (369).

[8] A person whose hand is not the first to take the property of the deceased as where he relieved it from an executor or executor de son tort is not an executor de son tort unless he colluded with the executor or executor de son tort with the object of obtaining the property without consideration and defeating or hindering creditors. ('81) 3 Mad 359 (363) (DB).

[9] If a person sets up in himself a colourable title to the goods of the deceased though he may not be able to make out his title completely he shall not be deemed an executor de son tort. But the claim must be bona fide. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 1 (50): 61 Cal 670 (DB).

[10] The English rule of law that where there is a personal representative of right against whom the creditors can bring their actions an other person who intermeddles does not become an executor de son tort does not apply to a case where the estate is represented under the Hindu law by the heir. Therefore where a party intermeddles with the estate of a Hindu the fact that there is a personal representative of the deceased does not make him any the less an executor de son tort. ('05) 28 Mad 351 (353) (DB).

SECTION 304 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Rights and liabilities of executor de son tort.
3. Suit by administrators.
4. Suit by creditors.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Section 304 applies to the case of a Hindu as well. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 19 (22) (DB).

[2] The section is not exhaustive and does not deal with all the rights and liabilities of an executor de son tort. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1 (52) (DB).

[3] The section must be read with the proviso to S. 212 and a suit covered by this section would not be barred by S. 212. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 474 (475, 476): 51 Bom 771 (DB)✠(Vol 27) 1940 Rang 178 (179, 180): 1940 Rang L R 485 (DB). (Suit by mortgagee to establish his right to recover his debt by sale of the mortgaged property in possession of the executor de son tort is covered by S. 304.)

2. Rights and liabilities of executor de son tort. — [1] Under both Hindu law and English law those persons who take the property of the deceased person subject themselves to liability for the debts of the deceased. ('81) 3 Mad 359 (363) (DB).

[2] The mere fact that a person did not profess to act as executor does not relieve him from the liability. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1 (51) (DB).

[3] A person whose hand was not the first to take the property of the deceased as in the case of one who received it from an executor or executor de son tort, is not liable as executor de son tort unless he had colluded with such other persons with the object of obtaining the property without consideration and defeating or hindering creditors. ('81) 3 Mad 359 (363) (DB).

[4] If a person claims a title not derived from the testator but a paramount title, he does not make himself liable as executor de son tort. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1 (51) (DB).

[5] The liabilities of an executor de son tort continue only so long as he continues to intermeddle with the estate of the deceased. ('09) 11 Bom. L R 1187 (1191).

[6] Obiter—Executor intermeddling with the estate of the deceased is liable to account. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 864 (867): 51 Cal 745 (DB).

[7] Executor de son tort is liable to account to administrator for the rents and profits of the estate of the deceased for a period of 12 years before suit. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 753 (756, 758): 11 Lah 325 (DB).

[8] Payments of valid debts of the deceased made proportionately to the assets available are payments "made in due course of administration". But where certain creditors are paid more than the rateable share

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE POWERS OF AN EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR.

In respect of causes of action surviving deceased and debts due at death.

305. An executor or administrator has the same power to sue in respect of all causes of action that survive the deceased, and may exercise the same power for the recovery of debts as the deceased had when living.

Demands and rights of action of or against deceased survive to and against executor or administrator.

306. All demands whatsoever and all rights to prosecute or defend any action or special proceeding existing in favour of or against a person at the time of his decease, survive to and against his executors or administrators; except causes of action for defamation, assault, as defined in the Indian Penal Code, or other personal injuries not causing the death of the party; and except also due to them having regard to the claims of other creditors who are not paid at all, the payments are not in the due course of administration and the executors de son tort are liable to be required to refund the excess after deducting payments made to the rightful executor or administrator and payments made in due course of administration. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 662 (663).

[9] Where the person who has taken possession of the estate under the bona fide belief that he has a right thereto, and paid off a decree debt due by the deceased which therefore is neither a voluntary nor an unnecessary payment, he is entitled to recover it from the person who subsequently deprives him of the estate by establishing her right to it as heir of the deceased. ('84) 7 Mad 586 (587) (DB).

[10] An executor de son tort does not come within the purview of S. 10 of the Limitation Act as that section has no application to such trusts as the law implies merely from the existence of particular facts or fiduciary relations. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 753 (757) : 11 Lah 325 (DB).

3. Suit by administrators.—[1] Suit by administrator for account for mesne profits against the heir of deceased who acted as executor de son tort—Other heirs though not necessary parties are parties — Court can implead them with the consent of parties even while the suit is before it as a result of remand by the High Court. (Vol, 16) 1929 Lah. 753 (759): 11 Lah. 325 (DB).

[2] Suit by an administrator of an intestate person against an executor de son tort is governed by Art. 123 of the Limitation Act. (Vol. 16) 1929 Lah. 753 (758): 11 Lah. 325 (DB).

4. Suit by creditors—[1] The creditors can sue the executor de son tort as representing the estate of the deceased for the debt due and are not compelled to ask for administration only. (1905) 28 Mad. 351 (354) (DB).

[2] Rateable distribution of assets by executor de son tort among creditors of deceased—One of the creditors omitted therefrom—The creditor so omitted is entitled to a rateable share in those assets proportionate to his debt in comparison with the debts of the other creditors. (Vol. 26) 1939 Mad. 662 (663).

[3] Under the Hindu and English law, persons who take the property of the deceased persons subject themselves to the liability for the debts of the deceased debtor and an administrator pendente lite who continues to hold and deal with the property after his appointment had ceased can be sued by creditors of the deceased. (1908) 35 Cal. 276 (279, 280) (SB). [Affirming (1906) 10 Cal. W N. 566].

[4] A creditor of the deceased can expect payment of the debt due to him only from the person who has received the property of the deceased by descent or, where the deceased has left a will, from the executor or from the person who has taken out letters of administration. The only way by which he can recognize such a person is by the fact of such person dealing with the property of the deceased. He may sue such person on the fact of that possession only without going to the root of the authority under which the possession is had. It is then for the person who is sued to prove that he holds no such character of executor and that he has the property by some other title. Otherwise he will be held liable in the same way and to the same extent to discharge the creditor's claim as if he was actually clothed with one of the character of an executor, administrator or a person who received the property by descent. (1906) 10 Cal. W. N. 566 (569).

[5] An executor de son tort sued as such cannot plead plene administravit by having in evidence or by specially pleading a retainer for his own debts. ('05) 28 Mad. 351 (354) (DB). (A paying debt due by B the deceased and removing the goods belonging to B from his shop—Held that A by paying B's debt became a creditor of the estate).

[6] That the heir to the estate assented to the executor de son tort paying himself out of the estate cannot be a valid defence in a suit by creditors of the deceased against the executor de son tort. (1905) 28 Mad. 351 (354) (DB).

[1] Section 305 puts the executor in the same position as the deceased would have been in with regard to any causes of action which survive the deceased. (Vol. 33) 1946 Cal. 299 (302).

[2] A cause of action is every fact which it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove if traversed in order to support his right to the judgment of the Court. It does not comprise every piece of evidence which is necessary to prove each fact but every fact which is necessary to be proved. (1896) 18 All. 131 (137) (DB) (1888) 22 Q. B. D. 128 (131), Read v. Brown.

[3] Cause of action means the whole cause of action and would include every fact essential to the maintenance of the action. Each of these facts separately is but a part of the cause of action. (1866-68) 3 Mad. H. C. R. 384 (390) (DB).

[4] A cause of action has no relation whatever to the defence which may be set up nor does it depend upon the character of the relief prayed for by the plaintiff. It refers entirely to the grounds set forth in the plaint as the cause of action or in other words, the media upon which the plaintiff asks the Court to arrive at a conclusion in his favour. [1865—S 268, Probate and Administration Act, 1881—S. 89.]

[a] Section 102 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 (IV of 1939) is as follows:—"Notwithstanding anything contained in S. 306 of the Indian Succession Act 1925, the death of a person in whose favour a certificate of insurance had been issued, if it occurs after the happening of an event which has given rise to a claim under the provisions of this Chapter, shall not be a bar to the survival of any cause of action arising out of the said event against his estate or against the insurer."

6. Institution of suits by executors and administrators.
7. Death of executor pending appeal.
8. Validity of decree where executor was not a party.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Section 306 has no application to criminal prosecution. (Vol. 28) 1941 Rang. 202 (204): 1941 Rang. L. R. 224: 42 Cr. L. J. 801. ✠(Vol. 11) 1924 Lah. 72 (72): 4 Lah. 7: 24 Cr. L. J. 29 (DB). ✠(Vol. 8) 1921 Mad. 278 (278, 279): 44 Mad. 417: 23 Cr. L. Jour 117 (DB.) (The section has reference to civil actions only. The word "prosecute" in the section implies no connection with criminal proceedings but is used in the same sense as in Ss. 14 and 16 of the Limitation Act.)✠(Vol. 9) 1922 Lah. 227 (228) : 2 Lah. 27 : 22 Cr. L. Jour 166 (DB). (Proceedings once initiated do not abate on the death of the complainant or the person injured).

[2] Section 306 applies not only to actions or suits but also to special proceedings, and the term "special proceeding" in S. 306, is wide enough to cover summary proceeding under S. 235, Companies Act. (Vol. 26) 1939 All. 1 (3): I. L. R. (1939) All. 6.

[3] Section 306 only applies where the law is silent as to whether a right to sue or continue proceedings survives against the legal representative of deceased man. (Vol. 26) 1939 All. 1 (4): I. L. R. (1939) All. 6.

[4] Section 306 is a part of fasciculus of sections dealing with the powers of executors and administrators and is to be construed within the limits of that context. (Vol. 33) 1946 Cal. 299 (302).

[5-6] The object of the section is to protect suits for wrongs done to the property of a deceased person but it does not extend that protection to compensation for personal injury, the right to which dies with the death of the person injured. (Vol. 13) 1926 All. 610 (612): 48 All. 630 (DB) ✠(Vol. 7) 1920 Pat. 841 (842): 4 Pat. L. Jour 676 (DB). (Personal injuries not causing death excluded from operation of the section.)

[7] In India doctrine of actio personalis moritur cum persona does not form part of law. (Vol. 14) 1927 Cal. 277 (278): 53 Cal. 987 (DB).

[8] Section 306 expresses a qualification of the rule actio personalis moritur cum persona to the extent that it indicates that among causes of action which survive are included some actions of a personal nature, that is, personal actions other than those expressly excluded by the section itself. (Vol. 33) 1946 Cal. 299 (302).

[9] The section which governs Englishman as well as various peoples of this country makes a large innovation upon the personal law of Englishmen as expressed in the maxim actio personalis moritur cum persona as well as necessarily upon the personal law of Mahomedans and Hindus. Therefore, its operation must be strictly confined to the persons named in it and cannot be extended to include heirs and representatives who are neither executors nor administrators within the clear definition of those terms contained in the Act. (1912) 36 Bom. 144 (145, 146) (DB).

[10] Cause of action under S. 306 survives against executors and administrators but not against heirs. (Vol. 23) 1936 Rang. 17 (25): 13 Rang. 385. (Heirs are not included in definition of either terms) ✠(Vol. 26) 1939 All 1 (3): I. L. R (1939) All 6. (Words "executor or administrator" in section mean persons who are appointed by Court to administer estate of deceased person in absence of will or persons nominated by testator in his will to administer his estate, and these words are not so wide as to include or embrace heirs representing estate).

[11] The scheme of the section is to divide personal injuries into two classes, those causing death and those not causing death, making a separate provision for each class. The two personal injuries named assault and defamation are given as illustrative examples of injuries that appertain to the body and of those that do not so appertain. (Vol. 5) 1915 Mad. 1100 (1103) (DB).

[12] General rule as laid down in S. 306, is that right to prosecute action survives. It is for person claiming exemption from this rule to show that his case falls within exception. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah. 271 (273)(DB).

2. "Personal injuries".—[1] Words 'personal injuries' mean "physical", "corporal" or "bodily injuries", injuries to "person" as opposed to injuries to property or reputation. (Vol. 23) 1936 Rang. 17 (19): 13 Rang 385 ✠(Vol. 22) 1935 All. 995 (1001): 58 All. 342 (DB). ✠(Vol. 23) 1936 Rang 17 (19): 13 Rang 385 ✠(Vol. 8) 1921 Mad. 1 (7): 44 Mad. 357 (FB). ("Personal injuries" means wrongs to person which do not necessarily cause damage to the estate of the person wronged.)

[2] The word "personal" cannot be restricted merely to physical injuries to the person but mean all personal injuries commonly accepted as such. (Vol. 18) 1931 Nag. 9 (10): 27 Nag. L. R. 237.

[2a] (Vol 22) 1935 Lah. 705 (708) (DB). (The expression "personal injury" in S. 306 does not include injuries of all descriptions caused by tortious act and is restricted to bodily injuries.)

[3] The words "other personal injuries" refer to bodily injuries and also to injuries like defamation or malicious prosecution. (Vol. 5) 1918 Mad. 1100 (1103) (DB).

[4] "Personal injuries not causing death of the party" are not ejusdem generis with defamation. It is hardly reasonable to say that defamation is "personal injury not causing death". Reason why defamation also is specifically mentioned among exceptions is, because defamation has always been regarded as reacting upon injured party in special way, mental distress that is caused by it being akin, if it does not actually amount to physical injury. (Vol. 23) 1936 Rang. 17 (20): 13 Rang, 385.

[5] Malicious prosecution is a personal injury within the meaning of S. 306. (Vol. 18) 1931 Nag. 9 (10): 27 Nag. L. R. 237.

[6] The right of pre-emption is personal in the sense that it cannot form the subject-matter of a voluntary transfer. When described as personal in that sense only, its attribute of heritability by reason of its being attached to or inherent in land is not taken away. (Vol. 33) 1946 Pesh. 9 (11) (DB).

—3. Cases where the rights of the deceased survive.

[1] Although no action for a tort could be revived or commenced against the representatives of the person who committed it, yet the case is different where the act is not a mere tort but is a breach of a quasi contract where the claim is founded on breach of a fiduciary relation or on failure to perform a duty. ('12) 16 Cal L Jour 282 (286, 287) (DB). (Defendant, legal representative of person alleged to have been the agent of plaintiff—Plaintiff's suit for accounts—Contention by defendant that the cause of action did not survive against them—Held, that though the suit was not properly framed yet the claim was maintainable for money misappropriated by the deceased and also for recovery of damages for the loss suffered by reason of the negligence or misconduct of the deceased provided it was proved that the deceased was the agent of the plaintiff.) ✠(Vol 23) 1936 Lah 268 (271) : 17 Lah 262 (DB). (Property belonging to another appropriated and added to his estate by the deceased—Remedy can be pursued against his representatives) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 123 (124, 125) (DB). (Damages for conversion is a chose in action which survives to the legal representative of the deceased.)

[2] The real effect of Ss. 305 and 306 is that whereas S. 305 puts the executor or administrator in the same position as the deceased would have been with regard to any causes of action which survive the deceased S. 306 makes clear what those causes of action are. The two sections read together indicate that causes of action affecting property do survive to persons other than the executor or administrator. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 299 (302) ✠ (Vol 33) 1946 Pesh 9 (11) (DB). (Right of pre-emption accruing to person on basis of ownership of land passes to his heirs on his death along with land.)✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 276 (280) : 41 Bom 636 (DB). (An administrator is entitled to continue a suit for pre-emption launched by the deceased though he would not be entitled to initiate a suit for pre-emption.)

[3] Person promising to settle all his properties upon a boy if his parents would give the boy in adoption dying before he settled the properties on the adopted boy—Held that the equity to compel his heir and legal personal representative to specifically perform the contract survived him. ('78) 2 Bom 67 (71) (DB).

[4] Cause of action in respect of injury to credit and reputation survives to the executors and administrators of the estate of the deceased. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 17 (20) : 13 Rang 385.

[5] Right to sue for damages for negligence survives against the representatives of the wrongdoer. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 277 (278) : 53 Cal 987 (DB)✠(Vol 21) 1934 Mad 507 (508) : 57 Mad 951 (DB). (Suit for damages for negligently causing death — Death of defendant—Cause of action survives against defendant's heirs under S. 306)

[7] Death of the husband does not abate a criminal proceeding under S. 498, Penal Code. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 72 (73) : 4 Lah 7 : 24 Cri L Jour 29 (DB).

[8] Where the deception was the direct cause of pecuniary loss to a company and no mental or physical suffering was directly inflicted on any person the liability for loss survives to the executors and the estate of the person causing loss should pay damages just as he would have to pay had he been alive. (Vol 22) 1935 All 995 (1001) : 58 All 342 (DB).

4. Cases where the rights of the deceased abate. —[1] Suit for personal injury abates on the death of the sufferer. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 9 (10) : 27 Nag L R 237.

[2] Cause of action for malicious prosecution does not survive to the legal representatives of the deceased party. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 841 (842) : 4 Pat L Jour 676 (DB) ✠(Vol 8) 1921 Mad 1 (8) : 44 Mad 357 (FB). (Defendant in suit for malicious prosecution dying pending suit—The suit abates) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1100 (1103) (DB) (Cause of action for damages for wrongful search also will not lie) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 All 610 (611) : 48 All 630 (DB). [4] Proceedings under S. 235, Companies Act, being intended to be brought against director during his lifetime and not against his legal representatives or heirs, the right does not continue against his legal representatives or heirs by reason of S. 306. (Vol 26) 1939 All 1 (4) : I L R (1939) All 6.

[5] Right to sue for the specific performance of a contract does not survive to the representatives where any personal quality of such deceased party to the contract is a material ingredient in the contract. ('03) 30 Cal 265 (275).

[See however ('90) 17 Cal 115 (121) (DB). (Obiter —A contract in favour of a person who has since died whose material elements consist in the considerations connected with the person with whom the contract is made would with all its benefit and the right to sue on it would pass to the executors carrying on the same business.)]

5. Powers of executors and administrators.—[1] Executors acting bona fide have power to settle claims in respect of the estate of their testator and this power cannot be disputed by the legatee. (Vol 1) 1914 All 157 (157) : 36 All 217 (DB).

(a) The deceased has made a specific bequest of part of his property. The executor, not having assented to the bequest, sells the subject of it. The sale is valid.

(b) The executor in the exercise of his discretion mortgages a part of the immoveable estate of the deceased. The mortgage is valid.

(2) If the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, the general power conferred by sub-section (1) shall be subject to the following restrictions and conditions, namely : —

(i) The power of an executor to dispose of immoveable property so vested in him is subject to any restriction which may be imposed in this behalf by the will appointing him, unless probate has been granted to him and the Court which granted the probate permits him by an order in writing, notwithstanding the restriction, to dispose of any immoveable property specified in the order in a manner permitted by the order.

(ii) An administrator may not, without the previous permission of the Court by which the letters of administration were granted,—

(a) mortgage, charge or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise any immoveable property for the time being vested in him under section 211, or

(b) lease any such property for a term exceeding five years.

(4) A probate or letters of administration shall not be rendered invalid by reason of the endorsement or annexure required by sub-section (3) not having been made thereon or attached thereto, nor shall the absence of such an endorsement or annexure authorise an executor or administrator to act otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this section.

16. Appeal.

1. Executor or administrator may dispose of the property of the deceased.— [1] Section 307 gives the executor powers at least as extensive as those of an executor in England before 1926. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 429 (432) : 60 Cal 394.

[2] The powers of an executor under a will are far wider than that of an administrator and he can do whatever is not expressly forbidden by the will. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 22 (23) (D B).

[See however (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 29 (29, 30). (Executor after probate is entitled to mortgage assets even if there is direction in will that he is not to sell or mortgage — He is entitled to renew mortgage created by testator.)]

[3] An executor can act and exercise the powers given to him under the Act without obtaining probate. (1913) 36 Mad 575 (578) (D B)✠ (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 392 (395) : 47 Bom 231 (D B). (Can sell and convey without probate) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 67 (70) (D B). (Can deal with the property and give a perfectly good title though it may be that to complete that title a probate has to be taken out at a later date.)

[4] The section applies to Hindu widows and a Hindu widow who is appointed an executrix is entitled to sell as executrix the property left by her husband if no restriction is imposed on her disposing powers by the will. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 179 (182) : 46 Bom 162.

[5] Where an executor deals with a property of the intestate he is presumed to deal with it as executor. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 817 (819)✠(Vol 9) 1922 Bom 179 (182): 46 Bom 162. (Sale of part of husband's estate by a Hindu widow who was the executrix under the will of her husband—Deed silent as to the capacity in which she made the sale but merely reciting all her capacities—Held that the sale was effected in her capacity as executrix.)

[6] The executor has power to dispose of the property for all purposes binding upon the estate. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 956 (959) (D B).

[7] An executor or an administrator does not have an absolute power to dispose of the property of the deceased if it is not necessary for the purpose of the administration of the estate. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 412 (415) : 55 Cal 892 (D B). (Bona fide purchaser may be protected in certain cases where a transfer is not for that purpose.)

[8] Unsecured debt incurred by administrator accompanied by declaration that he is in possession as administrator — Held that the transaction is not a disposal of property under the section. (1909) 12 Oudh Cas 414 (417) (D B).

[9] Mahomedan heirs entitled to shares only in net assets remaining after payment of debts and funeral expenses—Till net assets are realised executor is prima facie entitled to exercise his powers of disposition. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 392 (395) : 47 Bom 231 (D B).

[10] So long as a person entitled to the estate has not taken it out of the possession of the executors they are entitled to continue in possession of the estate. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 527 (528) : 48 Cal 1051 (D B).

[11] Widow adopting son to testator under his authority—Adoption puts an end to executor's power of disposal —Adopted son dying few days after adoption makes no difference in this respect. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 782 (782, 783).

[12] Section 307 onwards deal with powers of administrators as such and in no way govern the powers of persons with life or absolute estate. Therefore the daughter or the widow of the deceased as an administrator would be limited to the powers granted under the Act, but their powers as having absolute estate would be different. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 301 (303) (D B).

[See however (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 2 (4) (D B). (Powers of Hindu widow as administrator are same as those of any other administrator — Order of District Judge authorising sale by administrator not to be questioned in land acquisition proceedings).]

[13] Administrator appointed to manage estate of deceased Mahomedan is the only person who can charge the estate so as to bind the heirs. But this cannot be done unless he complies with the provision of the section. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 22 (24) (D B).

[14] Any and every testamentary executor, in whom the property of the deceased testator have been legally vested by virtue of his probate, can devolve the property with all powers and duties relating to its management and administration on the Administrator-General under S. 31 of the Administrator-General's Act provided the Administrator-General consents to the transfer. (1895) 22 Cal 788 (796) (D B).

2. Executor or administrator carrying on trade of the deceased.— [1] An executor (unless expressly authorised by will) or an administrator is not entitled to continue the business of the deceased except for the purposes of winding it up. If he does continue it for any other purpose he does so at his own risk. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 54 (56) (D B).

[2] In India business left by deceased is a heritable asset which passes to his heirs, and in the case of a will to the executor. As regards his duties in carrying on that business, whether for winding it up or for handing it over to the heirs as a going concern there is no difference between him and executors in England. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 688 (692) : 45 Cal 538 (D B).

[3] An executor is not entitled to mortgage or charge the general assets of the estate for the purposes of carrying on the testator's business unless he is so authorised by the will. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 922 (923) I L R (1940) Mad 211 (D B).

[But see (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 688 (692) : 45 Cal 538 (D B). (An executor may pledge any portion of his testator's estate in order to raise money for the purpose of administration even when it is necessary to carry on a business left by the testator.)]

[4] An executor carrying on the trade of his testator under a testamentary trust is entitled to use as a trader the trade assets of the testator. He does not violate his trust by carrying on the trade in conjunction with his co-executor who is not named as a trustee. (1910) 34 Bom 209 (217) (D B).

[5] Executor directed to carry on business of testator —Mortgage of immovable property for purpose of business is valid. (1935) 62 Cal 552 (567) (D B).

[6] Testator among other things directing the executors to carry on his business of printing—Property consisting, among other properties, dwelling house and the premises where printing was carried on— Mortgage of these properties for the purpose of fulfilling a contract for printing —Held that the executors in a question as between the estate and the mortgagees had the power to mortgage. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 30 (32) : I L R (1940) Kar (P C) 76 : 67 Ind App 102 (P C).

[7] Where the will gives the executors powers to pledge "the credit" of the business for the purpose of carrying it on, it expressly limits their power of charge, for the purposes of the business, to the trade assets. Similarly, the clause authorising the executors to deal with "the various items" of his estate should not be read as enlarging the powers of the executors. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 922 (925) : I L R (1940) Mad 211 (D B).

3. "In such manner as he may think fit."—[1] An executor although he has the power to dispose of the property of the deceased in such a manner as he thinks fit must be able to give reasons for doing so. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 996 (997) (D B).

4. Mortgage.— [1] An executor in India can bind the estate of the testator by creating a mortgage. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 10 (13) : 3 Rang 443 (D B).

[2] Where under will continuance of executorship is doubtful, bona fide mortgage by executor assented to by legatees binds estate. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 128 (129) (D B).

[3] Power of sale given in a will includes power to mortgage unless will excludes it. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 84 (84) : 45 Mad 867 (D B).

[But see (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 115 (116, 117) : 10 Law Bur Rul 1 (D B) (Will directing sale of property after testator's death to pay debts is a restriction on the power to mortgage it for payment of debts and if mortgaged the mortgage is voidable).]

[4] An administrator cannot by merely incurring an unsecured debt under a pronote accompanied by a declaration that he is in possession as administrator create any charge binding on the estate. (1909) 12 Oudh Cas 414 (417) (D B).

[5] Even if person has executed mortgage as administrator, it would have to be proved that mortgage was executed in due course of administration and also that he was entitled to mortgage general estate as distinct from business. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 54 (55, 56) (D B).

[6] If the beneficiaries were competent to assent and did so assent to a mortgage by the executor which was in contravention of the provision of the will, they would be estopped from questioning the effect of the mortgage to bind their interest in the estate. (1906) 3 Cal L Jour 260 (273) (D B).

5. Sale. — [1] Natural father of legatee who was also executor under will selling certain properties of the deceased — No directions in the will either extending or restricting the scope of the powers of executor — Held, that the only rules applicable to regulate his powers were the rules relating to the powers and duties of executors and administrators and the act of the executor in this case could not be considered as having been in his capacity as the guardian of the legatee and therefore the sale was binding on the legatee. (1913) 36 Mad 575 (576, 577) (DB).

[2] An executor of a Hindu will who has not obtained probate can clothe a vendee with full title. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 434 (446) : 49 Mad 261 (FB).

6. Lease. — [1] An executor cannot grant a lease of the testator's property for a term of ninety-nine years at a fixed rent with a condition in the agreement that the lessee will have the option to purchase the whole or a portion of the property at any time during the period of lease for a sum of money stated therein in consideration of the improvements effected by him. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 604 (606).

7. Compromise. — [1] The executor of a will is competent to compromise a suit by agreeing the creation of a charge on the estate of the deceased for the maintenance of the deceased's widow. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 306 (418) : 12 Pat 359 (DB).

[2] Executors acting bona fide have power to settle claims in respect of the estate of their testator. (Vol 1) 1914 All 157 (157) : 36 All 217 (DB). (Power cannot be disputed by legatees.)

8. Rights of alienees from executors or administrators. — [1] Outsiders who have to deal with the executor on the faith of the property being vested in him must be protected. Therefore while the property is vested in the executor even though it may be found afterwards to have been wrongly so vested, all acts of the executor in respect of the property where bona fide purchasers are concerned must be regarded as valid. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 387 (392).

[2] Mortgage by the residuary legatee of the same property subsequent to the sale of the same property by the executor under orders of Court does not affect the right of the purchaser from the legatee. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 703 (704) (DB).

[3] Sanction obtained by fraud and misrepresentation — Purchasers with knowledge of the fraud get no title even though they were not privies to the fraud. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 730 (739, 740) (DB).

[4] A transferee who deals with a transferor (who happens to be an executor) not as executor but as owner is not entitled to the protection available to transferees from executors acting qua executors. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 429 (432) : 60 Cal 394.

[5] Even where the executor deals with the property for purposes not strictly binding upon the estate the alienation cannot be questioned so as to defeat an alienee who had no notice of the fact that the executor was using his power for purposes not binding upon the estate. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 956 (959) (DB).

[6] Alienee from the executor with notice that the executor was using his powers for his own purposes will not be protected. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 956 (959) (DB).

[7] In the case of a transfer by an executor, there is a presumption that the transfer is valid qua the transferee until and unless it is established that the executor was acting in breach of trust. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 429 (430) : 60 Cal 394. (Failure by mortgagee to scrutinise will—No inference that he had notice that loan was not necessary for the administration can be drawn.)

[8] Property not mentioned in will sold by executor without dividing it among sharers. Vendee knowing will must be deemed to be aware of executor's infirmity of title. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 151 (155) : 54 Ind App 276: 5 Rang 427 (PC).

9. Sub-section (2). — [1] A Hindu executor is entitled to deal with the property of his testator in the same manner as the owner himself would have dealt with it unless his powers are restricted or limited by the terms of the will. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 71 (73) (DB).

[2] A testator can impose restriction upon the powers or discretion of an executor. (1906) 3 Cal L Jour 260 (267) (DB). (Will providing that the executor when it became necessary could alienate property of over certain value with the consent of another person — Held, that it was not a void condition and therefore a mortgage without such consent is one in contravention of the condition.)

[3] The restriction by the terms of the will upon the powers of an executor to deal with immovable property may be either express or implied. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 71 (74) (DB).

[4] A will provided that "my said trustees shall also hold annual Miglas or meeting of the whole of my relations and acquaintances and feast them in Bombay etc., and pay such expenses in connexion therewith as they may think proper and defray the same out of the income of the said trust premises." It was contended that the testatrix could not have intended that the trustees should have unlimited powers of expenditure over the income and therefore the Court should fix the limit. It was held that a discretion was given by the testatrix to the trustees to determine as to how much of the income was to be spent for the purposes in which the Court would not interfere. (1902) 4 Bom L R 199 (202).

[5] Will of Hindu testator devising the residue of his estate to his widow as malik thereof containing the words "she shall during her lifetime apply and spend the same in a good way . . . " — Held, that the word malik imported full proprietary rights to the devisee in the absence of words of restriction and the fact that the devisee was Hindu widow did not alter the position and that in this case the effect of the words "she shall during her life time" etc. was to cut down the estate of the widow to a life-estate with full powers of disposition by acts inter vivos. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 179 (181) : 46 Bom 162.

[6] Two documents constituting a will showing intention on the part of testator that his debts should be paid—Fact that direction for payment of debt appears in one document relating to a particular property does not lead to the inference that the testator intended to restrict the alienation of other properties — Also the fact that testator did not intend the division of property till his sons attained majority gives rise to the inference that the testator intended to restrict the power of the executor to alienate. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 533 (536, 537) (DB).

10. Restrictions in will on powers of executor in respect of immovable property — Sub-s. (2) (i)— [1] Executors under will directed to carry on testator's business of printing — Property consisting of dwelling house and business premises mortgaged for executing a printing contract — Held on a construction of the will that there was no restriction imposed by the will on the statutory power of the trustees. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 30 (32) : I L R (1940) Kar (PC) 76 : 67 Ind App 102 (PC).

[2] Will containing the following clause "The executor shall pay all my debts which are due to moneylenders and to B as shown by his Khatas: if there be any difficulty in paying off the debts from the money due to me, the executor shall either sell the whole or a portion of my estate or make any other settlement such as putni or dur putni etc, and shall pay off my debts from the consideration money thus acquired" was held not to give the executor the power to mortgage any part of the estate. ('99) 3 Cal W N 515 (517) (DB).

[3] Testator leaving directions that a particular legacy was to be paid by mortgaging the property to a particular named person — Mortgage given to one of the co-executors : Held, that the mortgage was invalid as one in contravention of the directions in the will and conveyed no right to the mortgagee. ('77) 1 All 753 (759, 761) (DB).

[4] One R died leaving a will by which he declared that his wife was to have full powers, but that during the lifetime of his son she was not to transfer any portion of the property without legal necessity — Power given to her to mortgage property for the purpose of raising money to pay Government revenues and other debts : Held, that the will gave her no more power to alienate property as manager of it on behalf her minor son than she had as a Hindu widow and that the mortgage which she executed was therefore not valid as the circumstances at the time did not point out any necessity for it. ('99) 26 Cal 707 (710, 711) : 26 Ind App 97 (PC).

11. Court's power to remove restrictions —[1] Where a testator had imposed restrictions on the powers of the executor and such restrictions prove injurious to the actual administration of the estate the executor can apply to the Court for suitable directions. ('06) 3 Cal L Jour 260 (267) (DB).

[2] Where the powers of a Hindu executor are restricted by the terms of the will he cannot dispose of the immovable property without the permission of the Court which the Court can give in a proper and fit case notwithstanding the restrictions imposed by the will. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 71 (74) (DB).

[3] Application for sale of property covered by will made after obtaining probate— Application not specifically headed as one under the section — Court should find out whether it has jurisdiction in the matter of the application or not under any provision of law. (Vol 22) 1935 All 360 (361) (DB).

[4] Order granting permission to executor to sell property after completion of administration is not one without jurisdiction. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 828 (829) (DB).

12. Restriction on administrator — Court has power to direct—Sub-s. (2)(ii).—[1] An administrator cannot alienate without the permission of the Court. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 22 (23) (DB).

[2] Where there is specific direction as regards the investment of the money in the will, the administrators are not entitled to invest the money otherwise than as directed by the testator unless with the sanction of the Court. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 628 (630) (DB).

[3] An administrator by disposing of property of the estate vested in him without permission of the Court cannot thus defeat the claims of the creditors of the deceased. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 16 (17) (DB).

[4] The object of S. 307 (2) (ii) is to enable the District Judge as a Court of testamentary jurisdiction to see that the transfer applied for is necessary in the interest of the administration of the estate. It is not proper for the administrator to apply for sanction under the said section and to sell the properties with such sanction when there is nothing to administer and the property in the hands of the administrator has only to be handed over to the legatee. (Vol 18) 1931 All 212 (214):53 All 422(DB). (Devise of property to a society—Estate without encumbrance—No other legatee to be paid : Held that an application under this section for sale on the ground that the society would find it more convenient to have it sold will not lie.)

[5] Power to sell immovable property is to be granted to administrator only when debts cannot otherwise be discharged. The fact that the estate can be conveniently wound up by distributing the sale proceeds among the heirs is no ground for granting permission to sell. (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 44 (44) (DB).

[6] The previous permission which enables an administrator to mortgage the estate implies that there should be a sanction by Court of all the essential elements of the transaction and therefore a mere bald sanction to the transaction is not sufficient. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 57 (61). (Permission obtained without full disclosure of material and essential elements of the transaction — Court trying suit based on the transaction can go behind the permission and give relief.)

[7] Sale by administrator with sanction of Judge in a case where there is nothing to administer and the property has to be only handed over to the legatee — Successor discovering mistake can set aside the sale. (Vol 18) 1931 All 212 (214) : 53 All 422 (DB).

[8] Preliminary decree for accounts and enquiry passed by Rangoon High Court in administration suit — Administrator of the same estate appointed by another Court can be permitted by that Court to sell the property. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 261 (263) (PC).

13. Sub-section (2) (ii) (a).— [1] Permission to sell properties to which third parties also claim can be given only when other properties are not available and there is urgent necessity for sale. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 237 (239) : 2 Rang 117 (DB).

[2] Power of sale given by the Court does not enable an administrator to mortgage. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 22 (23) (D B) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 49 (50) : 51 Bom 16 (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 5 (6) : 6 Rang 411 (DB). (Does not ipso facto give permission.)

[3] An alienation with permission does not operate as absolute alienation so as to exclude all enquiries into the question whether the permission was obtained through fraud or misrepresentation. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 57 (60).

14. Sub-section (2) (ii) (b).—[1] Lease for a period of over five years without sanction is voidable on equitable terms of reimbursement. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal. 636 (636) (DB).

[2] Administrator compromising suit on the terms that he would alienate the property of deceased on lease and that before such execution would obtain leave from Court for doing so : Held that such an agreement was clearly in contravention of law and if a suit was compromised on those terms by the administrator, admittedly acting in excess of his powers, the Court was entitled to refuse to pass a decree on those terms and that where a decree was by inadvertence made on the basis of an agreement or compromise contrary to law the Court of execution had power to refuse to execute it. ('10) 11 Cal L Jour 346 (350) (DB).

15. Sub-section (2) (iii).—[1] The disposal of property by an administrator in contravention of the directions of the Court is only voidable and not void and until avoided the terms of the contract as entered into by the administrator would be binding. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 23 (26) : 49 Cal 626 (DB) ✠ (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 69 (70) (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 277 (278) : 9 Rang 34 (DB). (Mortgage without leave of Court.) ✠ ('04) 8 Cal W N 54 (55) (D B). (Lease granted by an administrator for a term of more than five years — As between the administrator-lessor and his lessee the lease is valid.)

308. An executor or administrator may, in addition to, and not in derogation of any other powers of expenditure lawfully exercisable by him, incur expenditure—

General powers of administration.

(a) on such acts as may be necessary for the proper care or management of any property belonging to any estate administered by him, and

(b) with the sanction of the High Court, on such religious, charitable and other objects, and on such improvements, as may be reasonable and proper in the case of such property.

[2] Conveyance without sanction of Court is voidable only by person interested in property i.e., heirs of the deceased or beneficiaries. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 130 (134) : 5 Pat 80 (DB).

[3] Where a person who could have sold the property of the deceased by a heritable right chooses to obtain letters of administration, the whole estate vests in that person as administrator and not as heir, and any sale made without leave of Court before the administration was over could be avoided by a person interested in the estate. ('14) 7 Low Bur Rul 93 (94). (Creditor of the deceased, a person who could so avoid provided he acts within a reasonable time.)

[4] Where an executor compromises suit by agreeing to the creation of a charge upon the estate of the deceased for the maintenance of the deceased's widow when he had no such power, the transaction is only voidable at the instance of any other person interested in the property. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 306 (418) : 12 Pat 359 (DB).

[5] Per Mookerjee J.—Where Hindu widow clothed with the character of administratrix made an alienation with the sanction of the District Judge, although the sale may not be operative in the same way as a sale by order of the Court in administration yet the burden would lie very heavily upon the persons who impeach it. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 126 (134) (DB).

[6] Sale by administrator without leave of Court — Purchaser selling it to another : Held that the law made no exceptions in favour of bona fide purchaser for value and that both the title of original purchaser and the purchaser from him was defeasible provided the person interested took steps to avoid the sale within reasonable time. ('14) 7 Low Bur Rul 93 (94).

[7] An alienation with permission of Court obtained by fraud or misrepresentation being voidable only its avoidance could be even by setting up a defence to a suit to enforce it and not necessarily by bringing a suit to have it set aside. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag. 57 (60, 61).

[8] Person who wishes to avoid a disposal of property made by the administrator without leave of Court must in equity reimburse the party who bona fide entered into the transaction with the administrator. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 71 (74, 75) (DB). (Bona fide purchaser deprived of property purchased is entitled to be reimbursed for the value of permanent improvements effected by him.)✠(Vol 18) 1931 Rang. 277 (278); 9 Rang 34 (D B). (Mortgagee entitled to refund of money bona fide advanced.)

[9] Executor mortgaging immovable property in contravention of condition in the will : Held that the mortgage was voidable only and that the person who so wants to avoid that should restore any benefit which the estate received from the mortgagee in the absence of which the mortgagee was to enforce his security against the estate precisely to the same extent. ('06) 3 Cal L Jour 260 (268, 272) (DB).

[10] Natural guardian of legatee who was executor under will selling certain property of deceased — Legatee's suit for recovery of the property that the sale was not binding upon him— Purchaser from executor alleging that the sale was effected for discharging the debt of the testatrix : Held that the legatee must have alleged and proved that the purchaser was aware that the sale was not a proper act of administration and was not required for the purpose of discharging the debts to disentitle the purchasers from executors of the protection to which they are entitled to under the law. ('13) 36 Mad 575 (577) (DB).

[11] Administratrix mortgaging without sanction— Suit by mortgagee—Court has powers to join the beneficiaries who wanted to contend that the mortgage was voidable as one without sanction and ought to do so in spite of mortgagee's unwillingness to join them—Administratrix also can plead want of sanction for mortgage. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 49 (50) : 51 Bom 16 (D B).

[12] Suit to set aside sale by administrator is governed by Art 91, Limitation Act. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 186 (188) : 5 Rang 266 (DB).

16. Appeal.— [1] Per Chatterjee J. — An order of District Judge permitting the administrator to sell property is analogous to a decree and is therefore appealable. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 473 (474) (D B) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 237 (239) : 2 Rang 117 (DB).

[1] An executor is in the same position as the owner but it is all to enable him to do the acts which the will authorises him to do and to exercise those powers and discharge those duties which the law vests in him. There is nothing that entitles him to borrow. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 182 (188) : 59 Cal 216 (DB).

[2] Where an executor or his attorney borrows money for the benefit of an estate without any authority in that behalf contained in the will itself the creditor has no right against the estate. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 66 (67, 68) : 24 Pat 541 (DB).

[See however ('10) 34 Bom 209 (218) (D B). (The creditor has a personal right to sue the executor and get a judgment and to make him a bankrupt. He has also yet an equitable right to follow the trust assets which having been devoted to carry on the trade, it would not be right that the cestui que trust should get the benefit of the trade without paying the liabilities, and that is not affected by the introduction into the business by the trustee executor of co-executor not authorised to carry on the trade.)]

[3] An executor who borrows money for the purposes of the administration of the estate is personally responsible for the payment of the debts, though he can get indemnity out of the estate in respect of the borrowings if he shows that it was reasonably and properly made. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 688 (691) : 45 Cal 538 (DB).

[4] When probate is granted, testator's estate and business vest in executors who can carry on business only to realise debts and assets : executors are personally liable for debts and have no right of indemnity against the estate. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 419 (421).

[5] Suit on promissory note given by one of the four executors of deceased's estate for goods apparently supplied to the estate : Held that the executor who gave the pronote was personally liable and not the estate of the deceased. ('04) 31 Cal 253 (255) (DB).

to him for the benefit of the estate, a decree obtained on the basis of such loan cannot bind the estate in the hands of the executor. ('03) 7 Cal W N 104 (105).

[7] On a claim for money lent to the executors they are liable personally and a judgment cannot be directed against the assets of the testator. ('09) 11 Bom L R 250 (254) (DB).

[8] In a suit for recovery from the estate of money borrowed by executors for administration the executors cannot fully represent the estate, as their personal interests as executors are opposed to those of the estate. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 688 (692) : 45 Cal 538 (DB).

[2] As a general rule an executor cannot be allowed either immediately or by means of a trustee to be a purchaser for himself of any part of the assets, but is considered trustee for the persons interested in the estate and must account to the utmost extent of advantages made by him of the subject so purchased. The position, however, is somewhat different when an executor or administrator purchases the interests of a legatee. The executor stands in the position of a trustee and the legatee in the position of cestui que trust. Such a case has to be tested by principles applicable to cases where a trustee has entered into dealings with the cestui que trust, dealings which may be legitimate but which are open to examination when complained of. ('09) 9 Cal L Jour 383 (394) (DB).

[3] There is no prohibition against a trustee buying trust property from a cestui que trust. But under equity if transaction of that kind is challenged in proper time the Court will examine it and will throw upon the trustee the onus of proving that he gave full value and that all information was laid before the cestui que trust when it was sold. Independently of the statute of limitations acquiescence for a period in a concluded transaction of the kind, a transaction which is not void but at most only voidable and may be a reasonable and proper transaction, will disentile the person who contests the transaction to that relief in a Court of equity which he might have had if he had come when the transaction was recent. (1877) 2 App Cas 215 (236), Henry Thomson v. Eastwood.

[4] A transaction by which trustee acquires trust property from the cestui que trust would be looked at with grave suspicion by the Court and the trustee has to prove affirmatively that he has passed full information and has given an adequate price. It is not for the person who impeaches the transaction to prove negatively that no information was given. (1902) 1902 App Cas 197 (202), John Dougan v. James Macpherson.

[5] A contract of sale by one executor who obtained probate to another who was named under the will as a co-executor but who never acted as such at all and never held any fiduciary position cannot be treated as an unfair bargain merely because the purchaser was named an executor, where the contract was fair in all other respects. (1884) 9 App Cas 733 (738), David Guillan Clark v. John Guillan Clark.

[1] The section should be confined to cases where probate is compulsory before dealing with the property. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 720 (725) : 39 Mad 365 (DB).

[2] The section has no application to a case where a will overrides it and provides that it is only the opinion of the majority of the executors appointed under it that should bind the estate. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1054 (1058) (D B). (Contract by some of the executors without reference to others where the will provided that the majority opinion should prevail will not bind the estate.)✠(Vol 20) 1933 Sind 232 (234). (Trustees directed to act by majority—Minority not entitled to file suit against wish of majority.)

[3] The effect of the section so far as it relates to executors is that where several executors obtain probate none of them can act singly where the will directs them all to act together; but the section is not intended to disqualify, by reason of any such direction in the will, one of several executors who alone has obtained probate, the others having either renounced or refused to accept office. OF THE DUTIES OF AN EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR.

As to deceased's funeral.

316. It is the duty of an executor to provide funds for the performance of the necessary funeral ceremonies of the deceased in a manner suitable to his condition, if he has left property sufficient for the purpose.

Inventory and account.

317. (1) An executor or administrator shall, within six months from the grant of probate or letters of administration, or within such further time as the Court which granted the probate or letters may appoint, exhibit in that Court an inventory containing

[4] Where any one of executors is authorised by will to sell property, mortgage by one of them is valid. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 817 (818).

[5] In the absence of any direction to the contrary in the will a pronote executed by two out of three executors is valid. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 214 (215) (DB).

[6] Very large powers of compromising are given to executors by common law as well as by statute. Co-executors are seised of their office per mie et per tout; each of them represents the estate for all purposes. Therefore one executor can compromise the claim of his co-executor. ('04) 1 Ch 622 (625, 626), Hawley v. Blake

[7] Per Wallis J.— It is doubtful whether an executor can enter into a compromise at all with his co-executor. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 720 (724) : 39 Mad 365 (DB). ([Per Seshagiri Ayyer J.]—It is not competent to an executor to compromise the claim of the co-executors.)

[12] Joint executors advancing money on mortgage —On suit by one payment to the other pleaded : Held that though money formed part of the estate of the deceased it did not vest in the executors as such but vested in them by virtue of the mortgage bonds and therefore the endorsement by one of the executors did not amount to a discharge. Section 312—Note 1

[1] Chapter VI of Part IX of the Act where S. 312 occurs may apply to Muhammadans in so far as they are not expressly exempted from the application of these provisions. (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 200 (214) : I L R (1945) Lah 554 (DB). (Whether section governs the matter of mutawalli is doubted.)

[2] Where a power is vested in executors (though it may not be one reposed in them by the law) if on the true construction of the will it appears that the power was coupled with executorial office, it will survive to the holders of the office for the time being, as though it were a power attached to the office. Section 316—Note 1

[1] Duty of the executor is to administer the estate of the deceased only so far and so long as to enable him to carry out the terms of the will. Section 317 (contd.)

6. Powers of Court.

7. Co-executors.

8. Sub-sections (3) and (4).

1. Scope.—[1] The section is clear and imposes on the grantee of the probate the duty of furnishing the inventory to the Court which issued the probate. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 908 (909) (D B).

[2] The object of the accounts and inventories being exhibited seems to be that the accounts and inventories should be available for inspection by the parties interested in the administration of the estate. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 424 (426).

[3] Where a will gives executors liberty to have their work done through agents and servants it does not relieve them of their duties and liability or empower them to delegate to others the fiduciary character which belonged to them as executors; the executors cannot say that they never kept accounts and that they never called for the same regularly from the gumasthas. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 296 (298) (DB).

[4] The fact that this section gives the administrator certain period for filing inventory and accounts is no bar to a person claiming an interest in the estate to take legal measures to enforce his claim if denied. (Vol 5) 1918 Upp Bur 40 (41) : 3 Upp Bur Rul 23.

[5] The protection afforded to parties interested in the will is that if the inventory and the accounts are intentionally false in any particular, the executor or administrator makes himself liable to punishment under the Indian Penal Code. The other remedy open to the interested parties would be to file an action against the executor or administrator, questioning the correctness of the accounts. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 438 (439).

[6] Though under a will the executors are not liable to render accounts, still accounts of the estate must be exhibited to the Probate Court though the Court is not in such a case concerned with accounts of management of the estate. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 107 (107) (DB).

[7] Accounts rendered by an executor to the probate Court are presumably rendered by him as executor only, and does not exonerate him from the liability to render accounts showing how he has dealt with the property of co-sharers of which he is in possession as trustee. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 113 (114) (DB).

2. 'Inventory'—Essentials of.—[1] It is essential for a document to be an inventory to contain a full and true estimate of all the property in possession. A document which is merely a list of immovable property without a single figure or any estimate does not amount to an inventory. ('14) 41 Cal 556 (566, 567) : 40 Ind App 236 (PC).

3. "Assets".—[1] "Assets" usually mean and include property of deceased person chargeable with and applicable to the payment of his debts and legacies. ('04) 31 Cal 572 (583) (DB).

[2] Acquisition of property for the estate by executor by purchase out of its assets form part of the estate. ('09) 36 Cal 28 (40).

4. Period of account. — [1] Section 98 (Probate and Administration Act) requires one initial inventory and one final account and not yearly accounts. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 11 (11, 12) : 9 Sind L R 134 (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 527 (529) : 48 Cal 1051 (DB). (What the section contemplates is the submission of one inventory and one account.) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 109 (109) (D B). (Order directing executor to furnish accounts annually is not in accordance with section.)

[2] If executor or administrator is not able to exhibit such account within one year from grant, he may obtain extension of time from the Court. But the fact that time has been extended does not enlarge the scope of the accounts. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 527 (529) : 48 Cal 1051 (DB).

5. Duty to render accounts—When discharged. —[1] An administrator must be held to have discharged his duty of rendering account so long as the accounts submitted by him are complete and the account is honest, contains no omissions, false or fraudulent entries. ('11) 15 Cal W N 832 (834)

6. Powers of Court. — [1] Where the executor has neither filed the accounts in time nor asked for extension of time the Probate Court is entitled to call for the accounts up to date on which it is submitted giving the Court an idea of the condition of the testator's estate in his hands up to the date of his filing the account. ('39) 43 Cal W N 754 (756)✠(Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 10 (11) : 8 Low Bur Rul 422 (DB). (Section imposes the duty of rendering account on the executors —It is discretionary and not obligatory on part of Court to call for it.)

[2] Section does not require the Court to enquire into the correctness of the account or to call for vouchers. Sole duty of the Court is to satisfy itself that the accounts filed prima facie satisfy the requirements of the section. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 11 (12) : 9 Sind L R 134 (DB).

[3] The proceedings are summary. The Court should not hold any extensive or minute enquiry as regards the correctness or otherwise of the accounts and inventories. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 424 (426).

[4] The appointment of an auditor for the checking and examination of the accounts and for local inquiries about income and expenditure is beyond the scope of the authority of the Court under S. 317, Succession Act. The Court has, however, the right to see that the accounts and inventories filed prima facie comply with the requirements of the section. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 424 (425, 426) ✠ ('04) 31 Cal 628 (640) (DB). (Court cannot order judicial enquiry at executor's costs or appoint commissioner under Civil P. C. to audit the accounts.

Inventory to include property in any part of British India in certain cases.

318. In all cases where a grant has been made of probate or letters of administration intended to have effect throughout [a][the Provinces of India], the executor or administrator shall include in the inventory of the effects of the deceased all his moveable and immoveable property situate in British India, and the value of such property situate in each Province shall be separately stated in such inventory, and the probate or letters of administration shall be chargeable with a fee corresponding to the entire amount or value of the property affected thereby wheresoever situate within British India.

As to property of, and debts owing to, deceased.

319. The executor or administrator shall collect, with reasonable diligence, the property of the deceased and the debts that were due to him at the time of his death.

[5] The Court has, under this section, liberty to look into the accounts rendered by the executor but has no power to call for revised accounts when they have been already exhibited and accepted as prima facie true. In case they appear materially untrue the Court has to take the action under sub-s. (4). ('04) 31 Cal 628 (638) (DB)✠('11) 15 Cal W N 832 (834).

[6] The inventory and accounts filed should be regarded as final so far as the proceedings on the testamentary side are concerned. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 438 (439). (Practice of Bombay High Court.)

[7] The Court which is seized of the proceeding under Ss. 302 and 303, Succession Act, in relation to administration has every right to take cognizance of and scrutinize the accounts, filed under S. 317, suo motu and particularly so where it has been moved by an application under Ss. 301 and 302 in which it was essentially necessary for it to examine the accounts in order to see whether the executor has so misconducted himself as to make it necessary for him to be removed. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 463 (466) (DB). (Executor realizing large sum and paying into his own banking account — No proper accounts kept — Inventory of property not filed—Explanations given found false : Held, that the executor was still executor of estate—Burden of showing that he had done everything was on him.)

[8] The section contemplates orders merely directing the exhibiting of accounts in Court. Orders purporting to fix the capital of the trusts and giving directions for their administration are entirely outside the scope of this section. (Vol 5) 1918 Sind 37 (38) : 12 Sind L R 27 (DB).

7. Co-executors.—[1] An executor may at any time apply for probate and this interest is sufficient to entitle him to call upon his co-executors who have obtained probate and are managing the estate to exhibit an inventory and account. ('03) 27 Bom 281 (284).

8. Sub-sections (3) and (4). — [1] Court ought not to sanction a prosecution under this section when the party at whose instance the accounts are called for does not think it worth his while to examine them. ('98) 2 Cal W N 597 (600) (DB).

[2] Prosecution of administrator under S. 406, Penal Code, cannot be made without sanction of High Court —Probate Court passing accounts filed by administrator does not absolve him from liability for sums misappropriated. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 431 (431, 432) :22 Cri L Jour 295 (DB).

[3] Executor not having filed accounts during executorship ordered to file them after probate was revoked —Failure to file accounts in given time — Sanction to prosecute executor given—Subsequent filing of account — Sanction made dependent on examination of them and afterwards restored : Held the order making sanction dependent on examination of accounts was wrong and that sanction should not have been given without enquiring whether the omission to file was intentional or whether they were intentionaly false. ('98) 2 Cal W N 597 (600) (DB).

[1] Under this section it is the duty of the executors to collect the estate of the deceased with all reasonable speed even if the probate is not issued to them early. ('07) 31 Bom 418 (428)✠(1857) 6 H L C 217 (234) : 10 E R 1278, Stubbs Wightwick v. Lucy Lord.

[2] An executor may appoint a proper agent for looking after the testator's business. But in the selection and the supervision of the agent it is incumbent on the executor to act with the same degree of care as a man of ordinary prudence would in his own affairs. ('05) 29 Bom 170 (182) (DB). (Executor held liable for loss occasioned by want of due diligence on his part in supervising agent's work.)

[3] The purpose of Ss. 319 to 323 is not the regulation of the rights of creditors against the estate of the testator but the regulation of claims of priorities inter se among various kinds of creditors. The provisions assume that a certain fund is available in the hands of the executor, and then proceed to lay down in what order of priority that fund ought to be disbursed. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 484 (486).

[4] The estate vests in the legatee for enjoyment but it vests in the executor for administration, and enjoyment is postponed to administration; and therefore an executor can sue for recovery of debt due to the family even after the death of the sole legatee. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 313 (314) (DB).

[5] A claiming under a will of deceased and B claiming as his adopted son—A and B compromising their claims—A obtaining letters of administration is entitled to collect debts of testator—Plea of discharge by payment to B set up by debtor not valid. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 32 (33) :16 Nag L R 212.

[6] Whole of self-acquired property bequeathed in favour of widow constituting her residuary legatee — Widow also the executor : Held that in the absence of any restrictions imposed upon her by the will she was entitled to recover the debts due to her husband. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 740 (740) (DB).

[7] Executor de son tort is not entitled to recover debts due to estate of which he has wrongfully taken possession. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 298 (299) : ILR (1939) Nag 526.

[8] Collection of assets does not necessarily mean realisation by sale or by actual receipt or possession yet it implies the doing of some act in connection with the assets whereby the administrator incurred trouble, expenses or responsibility. ('98) 25 Cal 65 (73) ✠ (1863) 1 Mad H C R 171 (175) (DB).

320. Funeral expenses to a reasonable amount, according to the degree and quality of the deceased, and death-bed charges, including fees for medical attendance, and board and lodging for one month previous to his death, shall be paid before all debts.

Expenses to be paid before all debts.

321. The expenses of obtaining probate or letters of administration, including the costs incurred for or in respect of any judicial proceedings that may be necessary for administering the estate, shall be paid next after the funeral expenses and death-bed charges.

Expenses to be paid next after such expenses.

[9] When a debtor accepts to be an executor he must be presumed, in equity, to have at once paid his debt and to hold the amount, whether in fact paid or not, as assets. ('08) 10 Bom L R 346 (349) ✠ ('04) 31 Cal 519 (539) (FB).

[10] Where cause of action has accrued after death of testator but before administration is completed beneficiary will be barred if executor fails to sue within period prescribed by law. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 721 (732, 735) : 3 Pat 880 (DB).

[1] Where under the will of a Muhammadan, executors have been appointed, the debts and funeral expenses etc. have first to be paid before the net assets to which heirs are entitled can be ascertained. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 392 (395) : 47 Bom 231 (DB).

Section 321 — Note 1

[1] The purpose of Ss. 319 and 323 is not the regulation of rights of creditors against the estate but the claims of priorities inter se among various kinds of creditors. The provisions assume the availability of certain funds with the executor and proceed to lay down in what order of priority it ought to be disbursed. S. 321 does not declare a charge on the estate as between the lender and those interested in the estate. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 484 (486, 487).

[2] Creditor lending money to executor to obtain probate is not entitled to a charge on the estate but is only entitled to the indemnity which the executor enjoys. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 817 (818) : I L R (1940) Mad 45 (DB).

[3] It does not follow that a party is entitled to his costs out of the estate because there is justa causa litigandi. The costs are in the discretion of the Court and may be directed to be paid out of the estate of the deceased in a suitable case. ('09) 9 Cal L Jour 383 (391, 392) (DB).

[4] The costs may be properly paid out of the estate, if the course of litigation takes its origin in the faults of the testator or of those interested in the residue ; or if there is sufficient and probable ground to question either the execution of the will or the capacity of the testator or to put forward a charge of undue influence or fraud, the losing party may properly be relieved of the costs of his successful opponent. In cases where neither the testator by his own conduct nor the executors or persons interested under the will by their conduct have brought about the litigation as to its validity, but the opponents, after due enquiry into the facts, believe in the existence of a state of things, which if it did exist, would justify the litigation and the opposition is unsuccessful each party must pay his own costs. ('09) 9 Cal L Jour 383 (392) (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 482 (484, 485) (DB). (Revocation proceedings started by omission of citation to persons interested in the estate—Case containing elements of doubt as to the validity of the will : Held that these circumstances warranted the order for payment of costs out of the estate.)

[5] A shebait has the right to be reimbursed all sums properly expended by him in the preservation of the trust estate, as for instance, moneys paid in respect of Government revenue and the like. Similarly he is entitled to all the moneys properly spent by him in defending his position as shebait against an unsuccessful challenge of it by another. He is also entitled to be reimbursed all moneys properly spent by him in performing the obligations imposed on him by the testator's will. The right of indemnity is incident to the position of a trustee and the liability in respect of it is a first charge upon the estate. ('10) 37 Cal 229 (234) : 37 Ind App 27 (PC).

[6] Where the defence by the trustee was for the benefit of the estate the fact that he had also to incidentally defend his character cannot be a reason for making him bear his own costs. The principle that a trustee while he acts in due discharge of his duty is to be indemnified against all loss ought to be enforced with strictness. (1877-78) 7 Ch D 504 (509, 510), Walters v. Woodbridge.

[7] A direction in a will to pay testamentary expenses and debts, includes the costs of an administration suit. (1875) 20 Eq 471 (473) Harloe v. Harloe.

[8] A creditor's action against a deceased person's estate is an administration suit. (1905) 29 Bom 96 (101) (DB).

[9] A suit to administer the estate on the ground that the executors have been guilty of maladministration is not barred by any of the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. Only such questions should not be gone into in execution proceedings so as to fix liability upon the executor. ('08) 35 Cal 1100 (1103) (DB).

[10] S sued by H on a mortgage dying pending suit—P, son of S obtaining letters of administration resisting H's suit—Suit decreed by first Court— Pending appeal H buying the property under the decree of trial Court—Decree reversed in appeal—Compromise between H and P under which H was allowed to retain the property on payment of Rs. 240 as P's costs in the suit and expenses incurred in taking out letters of administration — Suit by another creditor attacking the compromise on the ground of fraud : Held that P was entitled to deduct expenses of obtaining letters of administration and also the costs incurred in respect of judicial proceedings that might have been necessary for administering the estate. ('93) 17 Bom 637 (644) (DB).

[11] The words "executorship expenses" in a will means the same thing as "testamentary expenses." They are expenses incident to the proper performance of the duty of an executor viz., that of ascertaining the debts and liabilities due to the estate, payments of such debts and liabilities and proper distribution of estate among persons entitled. They not only include costs of all the parties in an administration suit whether instituted by the executor or by a beneficiary for directions of the Court where the executor is unable to decide questions relating to the administration, but also fee paid to solicitor or counsel for advice given outside the suit as to the distribution of the assets. They also include the funeral expenses and the ware-housing charges of the Wages for certain services to be next paid, and then other debts.

322. Wages due for services rendered to the deceased within three months next preceding his death by any labourer, artizan or domestic servant shall next be paid, and then the other debts of the deceased according to their respective priorities (if any).

Save as aforesaid, all debts to be paid equally and rateably.

323. Save as aforesaid, no creditor shall have a right of priority over another; but the executor or administrator shall pay all such debts as he knows of, including his own, equally and rateably as far as the assets of the deceased will extend.

specific legacies. (1878-79) 10 Ch D 468 (470, 471, 472), Sharp v. Lush.

[12] The section does not justify the inference that if one beneficiary sets up a false will and another beneficiary successfully resists his application the latter is as a matter of right entitled to be paid his costs out of the estate. ('09) 9 Cal L Jour 383 (391) (DB).

[13] "Testamentary expenses" includes expenses incurred in cases of intestacy. The existence of a testament is not essential for the proper use of the word and it may equally apply to the case where there is no testament and the estate is being administered according to the law of the land. (1900) 2 Ch 182 (191, 192, 195), Yeo v. Clemow.

[14] The extent or value of the property and the rights of the testator therein are irrelevant in probate proceedings which are entirely confined to the question whether the petitioner is entitled to the probate of the document executed by the testator irrespective entirely of the property and therefore pleader's fee assessed ad valorem cannot be included in the costs ordered to be paid to the opposite party. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 523 (523, 524): 41 Cal 637 (DB). (Held that a fee of Rs. 80 was to be allowed under R. 42 A, Ch. 6 of Calcutta High Court Rules and Orders and R. 36 (a) does not apply.)

[But see ('07) 6 Cal L Jour 453 (456) (DB). (In a contested application for probate or letters of administration the Judge has discretion as to costs on account of pleader's fee and may allow a fee according to the valuation of the estate or according to such a sum, not exceeding the valuation, as may be reasonable or according to the importance of the subject of the dispute. Rule 36 (a) of the General Rules and Circular Orders (Civil) applies to such a case)]

[1] The Crown is not bound by S. 322. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 36 (38): 1939 Rang L R 701 (DB).

[2] The prohibition contained in the section against an executor preferring one creditor to another would apply even where no decree is passed in the administration suit but only an order for taking accounts is passed. ('09) 11 Bom L R 250 (254) (DB). (B and H executor and executrix of D borrowing money from S to pay off a debt due by D — R daughter of D filing suit for administration — Pending administration suit S suing B and H for recovery of her debt—Decree passed against estate and execution stayed till a certain date— S applying for execution of decree — R's suit decreed with directions as to the fund out of which she was to be paid and referring to commission for taking of account —S dying pending her application and before decree in R's suit leaving a will — Executor of S attaching property of the estate : Held that S's executor was entitled to seek remedy only in the administration suit which was pending then.)

[3] The purpose of Ss. 319 to 323 is not the regulation of the rights of creditors against the estate of the deceased but the regulation of priorities inter se among various kinds of creditors. The provisions assume that a certain fund is available with the executor and then proceed to lay down in what order that fund ought to be disbursed. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 484 (486, 487).

[4] In some respects, result under S. 323 is similar to that where trust is created, and representative is considered trustee for persons interested in estate and must account for any advantage made by him. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 385 (388).

[5] Section 323 is so worded as to present the law primarily from former aspect— of creditor's rights, executor's duty being to render to them their rights. In so far as S. 323 places limit on powers of executor to pay one creditor in preference to another, and distinguishes executor's rights from rights of testator, it may be contrasted with S. 220 which generally entitles administrator to all rights belonging to intestate. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 385 (389).

[6] The section deals with the creditor's rights as regards the general assets of their deceased debtor and apart from any question of lien, the object is to prevent any one creditor obtaining an advantage over another in respect of the payment of his debt and to provide for the payment of all claims proportionately out of the assets of the estate. ('98) 25 Cal 54 (61) ✻ (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 385 (389). (Executor cannot mortgage assets for making any payment in excess of the rateable and equal payment to creditors.)

[7] Clause in will that executrices are to be paid money out of property of deceased every month in lieu of services as long as administration continued : Held the payment was a gratuitous bequest and not a debt. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 84 (90) (DB).

[8] Specialty debts have no priority over others. ('71) 8 Bom H C R 20 (25).

[9] An English executor or administrator is not bound to plead the statute of limitations against the demand of one claiming to be a creditor of the estate of the deceased. The effect of the Indian Act of Limitation is not to destroy the debt or demand but only to deny absolutely the remedy by suit and therefore an administrator can pay a barred debt in India also. ('78) 1 Mad 267 (275, 276) (DB). (Administrator-General who derives his authority from the statute and the letters of administration granted to him can pay a barred debt.)

[10] Section 323 deals only with such debts as the executor knows of. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 385 (389).

[11] The knowledge intended under the section must be deemed to be as actual as distinguished from a constructive or imputable knowledge. Actual knowledge of the existence of a debt may be inferred from undue precipitancy in disposing of the assets or fraud or anything unfair in the conduct of the executor or administrator. ('71) 8 Bom H C R 20 (26, 27).

[12] The section merely lays down a rule of procedure that must be followed by an executor or administrator and is not applicable where a creditor who has

Application of moveable property to payment of debts where domicile not in British India.

324. (1) If the domicile of the deceased was not in British India, the application of his moveable property to the payment of his debts is to be regulated by the law of British India.

(2) No creditor who has received payment of a part of his debt by virtue of sub-section (1) shall be entitled to share in the proceeds of the immoveable estate of the deceased unless he brings such payment into account for the benefit of the other creditors.

(3) This section shall not apply where the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person.

Illustration.

A dies, having his domicile in a country where instruments under seal have priority over instruments not under seal leaving moveable property to the value of 5,000 rupees, and immoveable property to the value of 10,000 rupees, debts on instruments under seal to the amount of 10,000 rupees, and debts on instruments not under seal to the same amount. The creditors holding instruments under seal receive half of their debts out of the proceeds of the moveable estate. The proceeds of the immoveable estate are to be applied in payment of the debts on instruments not under seal until one-half of such debts has been discharged. This will leave 5,000 rupees which are to be distributed rateably amongst all the creditors without distinction, in proportion to the amount which may remain due to them.

[14] Decree obtained against administrator in respect of a debt owing from the estate of deceased—Execution of decree and property purchased by the decree-holders under sale deed executed by the administrator with leave of Court—Contention in a suit to set aside the decree and sale by the succeeding administrator that decree-holder could execute the decree only under this section by asking for rateable distribution in due course of administration : Held that the decree obtained and execution had was binding upon the successor whatever might have been the right way of executing such decrees. ('05) 29 Bom 96 (100) (DB).

[15] The rateable payment referred to in the section is rateable payment out of the assets. There is nothing in the Act to show that it shall be made out of the nett income of the estate or any other specific part of the assets. ('98) 25 Cal 54 (61).

[16] Income accruing to an executor under the will of testator is liable for income-tax and no personal exemption exists in that Act of which he can take advantage. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 621 (621) : 42 Cal 151 (DB).

[1] The lex loci of India like the lex loci of all other countries is applicable to the immovable property of foreigners sojourning but not domiciled here but not to their moveable property. This general principle is not disturbed by S. 44 (S. 21 of the Act of 1925) which resolves in a particular way the dispute as to the application of the principle. The Succession Act, where either the husband or the wife has an Indian domicile, submits both their moveables and immoveables to the territorial law of India. S. 283 (S. 324 of the Act of 1925) merely repeats and applies the above rule of law to a particular case. ('76) 1 Cal 412 (420, 421).

[2] Every administrator, principal or ancillary, must apply the assets reduced into possession under his grant in paying all the debts of the deceased whether contracted in the jurisdiction from which the grant issued or out of it and whether owing to creditors domiciled or resident in that jurisdiction or out of it, in that order of priority which according to the nature of the debts or assets is prescribed by the law of the jurisdiction from which the grant issued. (1884) 28 Ch D 175 (177), Kannreuther v. Geiselbrecht.

[3] In a case in which the assets in a different country were distributed so as to give creditors of that country as such a priority the English Courts while distributing the English assets would see that no creditor of that country comes in and receives payment until the English creditors have been paid a proportionate amount so as to equalise payments. (1884) 28 Ch D 175 (177), Kannreuther v. Geiselbrecht.

[2] It is the duty of executor first to ascertain what the position is and unless it is sufficiently clear to him that the estate is solvent not to pay the legacies before the debts have been discharged. If there has been an administration decree the same principle applies. The debts will be ascertained and until the position has been clarified by an account being taken or it having reached such a stage when it becomes apparent that these payments can be made without risk to the creditors, no payment should be made. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 609 (610) (D B).

Executor or administrator not bound to pay legacies without indemnity.

326. If the estate of the deceased is subject to any contingent liabilities, an executor or administrator is not bound to pay any legacy without a sufficient indemnity to meet the liabilities whenever they may become due.

Abatement of general legacies.

327. If the assets, after payment of debts, necessary expenses and specific legacies, are not sufficient to pay all the general legacies in full, the latter shall abate or be diminished in equal proportions, and, in the absence of any direction to the contrary in the will, the executor has no right to pay one legatee in preference to another, or to retain any money on account of a legacy to himself or to any person for whom he is a trustee.

Non-abatement of specific legacy when assets sufficient to pay debts.

328. Where there is a specific legacy, and the assets are sufficient for the payment of debts and necessary expenses, the thing specified must be delivered to the legatee without any abatement.

[3] The debts of the deceased take priority over all the legacies. ('40) 42 Pun L R 379 (382) (D B).

[4] Under Muhammadan law payment of debts of deceased takes precedence over legacies. The decreeholder can proceed against the property in the hands of legatees irrespective of the fact whether the other assets of the deceased are or are not sufficient for the payment of the decretal amount. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 348 (349) (D B).

[5] Under this section it is not the duty of the executor in every case, whether the estate is solvent or insolvent, to pay each creditor before he pays any legatee. The section lays down only the priority. It does not stand in the way of an admittedly solvent estate, of the executor paying a legatee before he has discharged the debts of the deceased. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 609 (609) (D B).

[6] The section merely provides that the debts must be paid before any legacy is paid. It does not say that where the legacy is paid before debts and the legatee deals with the property by way of mortgage or otherwise the transaction must be taken to be invalid. Therefore where a legatee takes the legacy before debts are paid he takes it subject to the debts and a mortgage created by the legatee cannot be said to be invalid. ('05) 2 Cal L Jour 138 (141, 142) (D B).

[7] When the estate of a deceased person is under administration by the Court or out of Court, a purchaser from a residuary legatee or heir buys subject to any disposition which has been or may be made of the deceased's estate in due course of administration. In fact the right of residuary legatee or heir is only to share in the ultimate residue which may remain for final distribution after all the liabilities of the estate including the expenses of the administration have been satisfied. ('05) 32 Cal 198 (218) : 32 Ind App 1 (P C).

[8] The "legal right" of an unsatisfied creditor to proceed against an asset of the testator in the hands of the executor cannot be resisted by the latter on the plea that he holds it as a legatee whose title has been perfected by his own breach of duty in not completing the administration of the estate and discharging the creditors' debt and the creditor can levy execution against the asset in the hands of the executor under the decree obtained by him against the executor as legal representative of the testator. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 209 (213) : I L R (1946) Mad 707 (D B).

[11] Executor can admit and dispose of claims against testator's estate—Executor can acknowledge debt within meaning of Limitation Act, S. 19. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 218 (219) : 53 Mad 480 (D B).

[12] Executor can promise to pay time-barred debts of testator. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 539 (542) (D B).

[2] Testator, a share-holder of a company—Executor paying off legacy without providing for liability attaching to the estate in respect of the shares : Held that executor was liable to pay to the official liquidators. (1870) 10 E Q 477 (478) Taylar v. Taylar.

Section 327 — Note 1

[1] If estate of testator proves insufficient to pay all legacies in will in full, share of each will abate proportionately. ('35) 1935 Mad W N 46 (47) (D B).

Section 328 — Note 1

[1] Where the will indicated that another legacy was to be paid out of the funds included in a specific legacy, that might create a charge thereon. But it is doubtful whether the mere absence of a general fund out of which a general legacy can be paid would be sufficient to infer that legacy is to be paid out of the funds earmarked as a specified legacy to others. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 785 (788) (D B).

[2] Testator bequeathing specific legacy of the net income from house to wife — Testator subsequently selling the house and by a codicil directing a part of sale proceeds to be held in trust for the wife and interest thereon to be paid to her : Held the testator preferred her to all other legatees and that his intention was to benefit her. ('35) 1935 Mad W N 46 (48) (D B).

329. Where there is a demonstrative legacy, and the assets are sufficient for the payment of debts and necessary expenses, the legatee has a preferential claim for payment of his legacy out of the fund from which the legacy is directed to be paid until such fund is exhausted and if, after the fund is exhausted, part of the legacy still remains unpaid, he is entitled to rank for the remainder against the general assets as for a legacy of the amount of such unpaid remainder.

[1] Where the particular sources of income out of which the testator directed that his widow's monthly allowances should be paid, be not sufficient, the rest of the movable property or rather the income derived from it as well as the rents derived from the immovable property must contribute. ('85) 9 Bom 491 (510).

[2] Testatrix giving her servants small annuities — Will containing the following clauses—"Rupees 981 of the Queen's coin out of my allowance from my wasika and notes etc., and shall be paid monthly from Government treasury to my relations, dependents and servants as detailed below. . .and the remainder of my allowance from wasika etc., shall be divided among my grandsons and grand-daughters according to their lawful shares": Held that these annuities or stipends must be regarded as a demonstrative legacy and would be payable out of the testatrix's general estate in the event of the failure of the particular fund pointed out for their payment. ('92) 19 Cal 444 (451, 452) : 19 Ind App 83 (P C).

[3] The rule that the legatee entitled to a demonstrative legacy is entitled to resort to general assets on failure of the source intended is subject to any direction to the contrary by the testator. ('06) 29 Mad 155 (159) (D B). [1] Testator bequeathing rent of specific property to his wife and daughters — Bequest is specific and liable to abatement in proportion to fall of rent of property. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 384 (385).

[1] The section is an amplification of the definition and illustration of specific bequests contained in the Act. ('11) 13 Bom L R 319 (322, 323).

[2] A bequest of rent producing property on trust, the trustees to apply rents and profits for the benefit of a legatee cannot fall within the meaning of specific bequests, for the objects of the testator would not attain a fixed and named annual sum. The rents and profits would fluctuate from year to year and therefore would fall without the definition of specific bequests in the Act. ('11) 13 Bom L R 319 (322).

[1] Essence of the matter is that, as protection to the executor, law ordains that every legatee, whether general or specific, and whether of chattels, real or personal, must obtain the executor's assent to the legacy before his title can be complete. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 21 (23) : 50 Cal 171 (DB).

[2] The executor is not, however, entitled to withhold his assent arbitrarily and if he does so, the legatee can bring a suit to recover the property bequeathed to him by joining the executor with the transferees to whom the property has been transferred by the executor. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 69 (70) ✠ ('13) 37 Bom 211 (214). (Law really did not mean to leave legatees completely at the mercy of perverse or capricious executors.)

[3] Executor has power to give assent to a legacy even before obtaining the probate of the will. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 40 (44) : 18 Pat 828 (D B). ((Vol 19) 1932 P C 92 : 59 Ind App 112 : 55 Mad 443 (P C), Rel. on; (1900) 27 Cal 683 (D B), held overruled.)

[4] Even before such assent is given by an executor the legatee has an inchoate right to the legacy such as is transmissible to his own personal representatives in case of his death before it is paid or delivered. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 21 (23) : 50 Cal 171 (D B) ✠(Vol 16) 1929 Sind 19 (22) (DB).

333. (1) The assent of the executor or administrator to a specific bequest shall be sufficient to divest his interest as executor or administrator therein, and to transfer the subject of the bequest of the legatee, unless the nature or the circumstances of the property require that it shall be transferred in a particular way.

(iii) A bequest is made of a fund to A and after him to B. The executor pays the interest of the fund to A. This is an implied assent to the bequest to B.

[1865—S. 293; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—Ss. 113, 148.]

341. Where a legacy, not being a specific legacy, is given for life, the sum bequeathed shall at the end of the year be invested in such securities as the High Court may by any general rule authorise or direct, and the proceeds thereof shall be paid to the legatee as the same shall accrue due.

Investment of general legacy to be paid at future time: disposal of intermediate interest.

342. (1) Where a general legacy is given to be paid at a future time, the executor or administrator shall invest a sum sufficient to meet it in securities of the kind mentioned in section 341.

[4] Under a will made by the plaintiff's father, the plaintiff was entitled to all the movables and debts due to her father at the time of his death. She instituted a suit on a promissory note. An executor had been appointed under the will and he had taken out probate. The lower Court held that only the executor could sue : Held, that as the executor had given his permission to sue and this assent, under S. 336, referred back to the date of the death of the testator, the plaintiff could sue on the basis of the pro-note though she would not be entitled to realize the money until she obtained the succession certificate. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 805 (806) (D B).

Section 337 — Note 1

[1] One year is given by the law to the executors to liquidate the estate. For one year from the death, no legacy residuary or otherwise can be claimed. ('05) 7 Bom L R 755 (758).

Section 341 — Note 1

[1] An executor is bound to make fund productive and in order to do this, he must invest it in some form of security. If he fails to do so, he will be liable for the consequent loss. (Vol 19) 1932 All 384 (385) : 54 All 605 (D B).

(2) The intermediate interest shall form part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Procedure when no fund charged with, or appropriated to annuity.

343. Where an annuity is given and no fund is charged with its payment or appropriated by the will to answer it, a Government annuity of the specified amount shall be purchased, or, if no such annuity can be obtained, then a sum sufficient to produce the annuity shall be invested for that purpose in securities of the kind mentioned in section 341.

Transfer to residuary legatee of contingent bequest.

344. Where a bequest is contingent, the executor or administrator is not bound to invest the amount of the legacy, but may transfer the whole residue of the estate to the residuary legatee, if any, on his giving sufficient security for the payment of the legacy if it shall become due.

Investment of residue bequeathed for life, without direction to invest in particular securities.

345. (1) Where the testator has bequeathed the residue of his estate to a person for life without any direction to invest it in any particular securities, so much thereof as is not at the time of the testator's decease invested in securities of the kind mentioned in section 341 shall be converted into money and invested in such securities.

(2) This section shall not apply if the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person.

Investment of residue bequeathed for life, with direction to invest in specified securities.

346. Where the testator has bequeathed the residue of his estate to a person for life with a direction that it shall be invested in certain specified securities, so much of the estate as is not at the time of his death invested in securities of the specified kind shall be converted into money and invested in such securities.

Time and manner of conversion and investment.

347. Such conversion and investment as are contemplated by sections 345 and 346 shall be made at such times and in such manner as the executor or administrator thinks fit ; and, until such conversion and investment are completed, the person who would be for the time being entitled to the income of the fund when so invested shall receive interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum upon the market-value (to be computed as at the date of the testator's death) of such part of the fund as has not been so invested :

Provided that the rate of interest prior to completion of investment shall be six per cent. per annum when the testator was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person.

[2] The above rule only means that the Court will assume that by the gift of personal estate to several persons in succession, the testator intended that the whole of his estate should be converted, that being the only means by which in the case of wasting property the several persons would be enabled to enjoy it in succession. (1909) 2 Ch 111 (117, 120), In re Nicholson ; Eade v. Nicholson. (There is no distinction between unauthorised securities of a wasting and those of permanent nature for applying this rule.)

348. (1) Where, by the terms of a bequest, the legatee is entitled to the immediate payment or possession of the money or thing bequeathed, but is a minor, and there is no direction in the will to pay it to any person on his behalf, the executor or administrator shall pay or deliver the same into the Court of the District Judge, by whom or by whose District Delegate the probate was, or letters of administration with the will annexed were, granted, to the account of the legatee, unless the legatee is a ward of the Court of Wards.

(2) If the legatee is a ward of the Court of Wards, the legacy shall be paid to the Court of Wards to his account.

(3) Such payment into the Court of the District Judge, or to the Court of Wards, as the case may be, shall be a sufficient discharge for the money so paid.

(4) Money when paid in under this section shall be invested in the purchase of Government securities, which, with the interest thereon, shall be transferred or paid to the person entitled thereto, or otherwise applied for his benefit, as the Judge or the Court of Wards, as the case may be, may direct.

CHAPTER XI.

OF THE PRODUCE AND INTEREST OF LEGACIES.

Legatee's title to produce of specific legacy.

349. The legatee of a specific legacy is entitled to the clear produce thereof, if any, from the testator's death.

Exception.—A specific bequest, contingent in its terms, does not comprise the produce of the legacy between the death of the testator and the vesting of the legacy. The clear produce of it forms part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths his flock of sheep to B. Between the death of A and delivery by his executor the sheep are shorn or some of the ewes produce lambs. The wool and lambs are the property of B.

(ii) A bequeaths his Government securities to B, but postpones the delivery of them till the death of C. The interest which falls due between the death of A and the death of C belongs to B, and must, unless he is a minor, be paid to him as it is received.

(iii) The testator bequeaths all his four per cent. Government promissory notes to A when he shall complete the age of 18. A, if he completes that age, is entitled to receive the notes, but the interest which accrues in respect of them between the testator's death and A's completing 18, form part of the residue.

Residuary legatee's title to produce of residuary fund.

350. The legatee under a general residuary bequest is entitled to the produce of the residuary fund from the testator's death.

Exception.—A general residuary bequest contingent in its terms does not comprise the income which may accrue upon the fund bequeathed between the death of the testator and the vesting of of the legacy. Such income goes as undisposed of.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator bequeaths the residue of his property to A, a minor, to be paid to him when he shall complete the age of 18. The income from the testator's death belongs to A.

(ii) The testator bequeaths the residue of his property to A when he shall complete the age of 18. A, if he completes that age, is entitled to receive the residue. The income which has accrued in respect of it since the testator's death goes as undisposed of.

Interest when no time fixed for payment of general legacy.

351. Where no time has been fixed for the payment of a general legacy, interest begins to run from expiration of one year from the testator's death.

1. Scope.
2. Demonstrative legacy—Interest on.
3. Exception (1).
4. Exception (2).

1. Scope.—[1] By a rule that has been adopted for the sake of general convenience the Court holds the personal estates to be reduced into possession within a year after the death of the testator. Upon that ground interest is payable upon legacies from that time unless some other period is fixed by the will. (1807) 13 Ves 325 (333, 334) : 33 E R 316.Wood v. Penoyre.

Exception.—(1) Where the legacy is bequeathed in satisfaction of a debt, interest runs from the death of the testator.

(2) Where the testator was a parent or a more remote ancestor of the legatee, or has put himself in the place of a parent of the legatee, the legacy shall bear interest from the death of the testator.

(3) Where a sum is bequeathed to a minor with a direction to pay for his maintenance out of it, interest is payable from the death of the testator.

Interest when time fixed.

352. Where a time has been fixed for the payment of a general legacy, interest begins to run from the time so fixed. The interest up to such time forms part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Exception.—Where the testator was a parent or a more remote ancestor of the legatee, or has put himself in the place of a parent of the legatee and the legatee is a minor, the legacy shall bear interest from the death of the testator, unless a specific sum is given by the will for maintenance, or unless the will contains a direction to the contrary.

No interest on arrears of annuity within first year after testator's death.

Section 355 — Note 1

[1] Section relates to interest on annuities or legacies payable by executor and not to sums payable out of profits of immovable property to which a legatee was entitled as part of properties obtained under the will and devolved upon his heirs. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 232 (236) (DB).

CHAPTER XII.

OF THE REFUNDING OF LEGACIES.

356. When an executor or administrator has paid a legacy under the order of a Court, he is entitled to call upon the legatee to refund in the event of the assets proving insufficient to pay all the legacies.

Refund of legacy paid under Court's orders.

[1865—S. 316; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—Ss. 135, 148.]

357. When an executor or administrator has voluntarily paid a legacy, he cannot call upon a legatee to refund in the event of the assets proving insufficient to pay all the legacies.

No refund if paid voluntarily.

[1865—S. 317; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—Ss. 136, 148.]

358. When the time prescribed by the will for the performance of a condition has elapsed, without the condition having been performed, and the executor or administrator has thereupon, without fraud, distributed the assets; in such case, if further time has been allowed under section 137 for the performance of the condition, and the condition has been performed accordingly, the legacy cannot be claimed from the executor or administrator, but those to whom he has paid it are liable to refund the amount.

Refund when legacy has become due on performance of condition within further time allowed under section 137.

[1865—S. 318; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—Ss. 137, 148.]

359. When the executor or administrator has paid away the assets in legacies, and he is afterwards obliged to discharge a debt of which he had no previous notice, he is entitled to call upon each legatee to refund in proportion.

When each legatee compellable to refund in proportion.

360. Where an executor or administrator has given such notices as the High Court may, by any general rule, prescribe or, if no such rule has been made, as the High Court would give in an administration suit, for creditors and others to send in to him their claims against the estate of the deceased, he shall, at the expiration of the time therein named for sending in claims, be at liberty to distribute the assets, or any part thereof, in discharge of such lawful claims as he knows of, and shall not be liable for the assets so distributed to any person of whose claim he shall not have had notice at the time of such distribution:

Distribution of assets.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall prejudice the right of any creditor or claimant to follow the assets, or any part thereof, in the hands of the persons who may have received the same respectively.

[1865—S. 320; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—S. 139.]

361. A creditor who has not received payment of his debt may call upon a legatee who has received payment of his legacy to refund, whether the assets of the testator's estate were or were not sufficient at the time of his death to pay both debts and legacies: and whether the payment of the legacy by the executor or administrator was voluntary or not.

Creditor may call upon legatee to refund.

[1865—S. 321; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—Ss. 140, 148.]

[1] The expression "distribution" covers payments both to creditors and legatees. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 385 (390).

[2] The proviso to S. 360 restricts the effect of the notices to the liability of the executor alone; it leaves the other rights untouched. (Vol 22)1935 Bom 385(390).

[3] Proviso to this section does not create a right but saves one if the statute has given one. Thus, it saves the right of the creditor when he finds that the estate has been distributed by the executor properly and enables him to proceed against the legatee. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 423 (435, 438). (Position of creditors guilty of latches discussed.)

[1] Mahomedan law — Will— Payments of debts of deceased takes precedence over legacies — Property in the hands of legatee can be proceeded against for payment of debt even if other property of the deceased is sufficient to pay debt. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 348 (349) (DB). (Section 361 also referred to.)

[2] The legal right of an unsatisfied creditor to proceed against an asset of the testator in the hands of executor cannot be resisted by the latter on the plea that he holds it as a legatee whose title has been perfected by his own breach of duty in not having completed the administration of the estate and discharging the creditor's debt. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 209 (213) : I L R (1946) Mad 707 (DB).

[3] General administration action is not the only means of enforcing right under S. 361. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 209 (213, 214) : I L R (1946) Mad 707 (DB). (A dying pending suit by creditor against him—A's son claiming to be executor and legatee under will of A substituted and decree passed — Decree can be executed against property held by A as legatee.)

[But see (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 762 (763, 764) : 58 Cal 170 (DB). (Right has to be exercised by a suit and not merely by levying execution against assets in the hands of legatee.)]

362. If the assets were sufficient to satisfy all the legacies at the time of the testator's death, a legatee who has not received payment of his legacy, or who has been compelled to refund under section 361, cannot oblige one who has received payment in full to refund, whether the legacy were paid to him with or without suit, although the assets have subsequently become deficient by the wasting of the executor.

When legatee, not satisfied or compelled to refund under section 361, cannot oblige one paid in full to refund.

363. If the assets were not sufficient to satisfy all the legacies at the time of the testator's death, a legatee who has not received payment of his legacy must, before he can call on a satisfied legatee to refund, first proceed against the executor or administrator if he is solvent; but if the executor or administrator is insolvent or not liable to pay, the unsatisfied legatee can oblige each satisfied legatee to refund in proportion.

When unsatisfied legatee must first proceed against executor, if solvent.

[1865—S. 323; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—S. 142]

364. The refunding of one legatee to another shall not exceed the sum by which the satisfied legacy ought to have been reduced if the estate had been properly administered.

Limit to refunding of one legatee to another.

Illustration.

A has bequeathed 240 rupees to B, 480 rupees to C, and 720 rupees to D. The assets are only 1,200 rupees and, if properly administered, would give 200 rupees to B, 400 rupees to C, and 600 rupees to D. C and D have been paid their legacies in full, leaving nothing to B. B can oblige C to refund 80 rupees, and D to refund 120 rupees.

Refunding to be without interest.

365. The refunding shall in all cases be without interest.

[1865—S. 325; Probate and Administration Act, 1881—S. 144.]

Where a person not having his domicile in British India[a] has died leaving assets both in British India and in the country in which he had his domicile at the time of his death, and there has been a grant of probate or letters of administration in British India with respect to the assets there and a grant of administration in the country of domicile with respect to the assets in that country, the executor or administrator, as the case may be, in British India, after having given such notices as are mentioned in section 360, and after having discharged, at the expiration of the time therein named, such lawful claims as he knows of, may, instead of himself distributing any surplus or residue of the deceased's property to persons residing out of British India who are entitled thereto, transfer, with the consent of the executor or administrator, as the case may be, in the country of domicile, the surplus or residue to him for distribution to those persons.

OF THE LIABILITY OF AN EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR FOR DEVASTATION.

(i) The executor absolutely releases a debt due to the deceased from a solvent person, or compounds with a debtor who is able to pay in full. The executor is liable to make good the amount.

(ii) The executor neglects to sue for a debt till the debtor is able to plead that the claim is barred by limitation and the debt is thereby lost to the estate. The executor is liable to make good the amount.

SECTION 368 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope.
2. "Misapplies" or "subjects to loss or damage."
3. Liability of co-executors and successive executors.
4. Agent of executor—Liability for.
5. Legal representative of executor—Liability of.

1. Scope.—[1] The liability under this section is confined only to such acts of waste and mismanagement as can be attributed to the executor as an executor as such and not as a legatee. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1184 (1186). (Hindu widow appointed as administratrix —Acts of waste and mismanagement after administration is over and she is in possession as a Hindu widow —She is not liable under administration bond.)

[2] All the property of the deceased is vested in the executor and should the executor abuse his powers in respect of such property while it is vested in him, the remedy can only be a personal remedy against the executor himself. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 387 (392).

[3] Limitation—Time for suit against administrator for misappropriation runs from time of ascertainment of amount misappropriated and not from date of misappropriation. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 28 (29): 4 Rang 358 (DB).

2. "Misapplies" or "subjects to loss or damage." —[1] An executor who is also a residuary legatee is not entitled to help himself before paying debts and specific legacies. His taking money for himself before such payments is a breach of trust. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 286 (290): 60 Cal 30 (DB). (Court has power to pass interlocutory order directing him to bring money in Court or to furnish security.)

[2] An executor or administrator who risks the funds of an estate by mixing them with his own and employs these for his own purposes, even temporarily, is in a great danger of criminal as well as civil liability. (1881) 6 Cal 70 (76).

[3] Sale by administrator of a portion of assets to his brother at a gross under-value during suit for administration—Sale held fraudulent and void against creditors of the estate (1848) 11 Beav 265 (270, 272): 50 E R 818, Rice v. Gordon.

[4] If-next-of-kin with full knowledge of fact but under a mistake as to their legal rights authorises the administrator to pay the amount to a third person who is not in law entitled to it, and the administrator pays accordingly he acts in due course of administration and there is no breach of trust in that act of payment. (1910) 12 Bom L R 53 (62) (DB). (Mistake of fact on the part of next-of-kin does not entitle them to any relief against executor.)

[5] Estate in state of considerable embarrassment — Executor obliged to sell portion to meet liabilities— Failure to raise money on interest does not necessarily amount to dereliction of duty on executor's part unless damage is proved to have resulted from sale. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 110 (116) (DB).

3. Liability of co-executors and successive executors. — [1] A devastavit by one of two executors or administrators will not charge his companion provided he has not intentionally or otherwise contributed to it. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 503 (515) (DB). ((1840) 2 Beav 472, William v. Nixon, Rel. on.)

[2] It is the duty of all executors to watch over and if necessary to correct the conduct of each other and an executor who stands by and sees a breach of trust committed by his co-executor becomes responsible for that breach. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 503 (515) (DB).

[3] Successive executors — Second executor is not liable for accounts of predecessors or his wrongful acts — It is however incumbent on him to call upon representatives of the predecessors to render account and respond in damages for devastavit, mismanagement or breach of duty. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 110 (112) (DB).

4. Agent of executor—Liability for.—[1] Where an executor appoints an agent to carry on business of the trust, it is incumbent on him to act with the same degree of care as a man of ordinary prudence would in his own affairs. But where there is want of diligence on the part of the executor both in the selection and the supervision of the agent and the loss sustained by the estate can be directly connected with such want of diligence there is a clear breach of duty for which executor is liable. (1905) 29 Bom 170 (184, 185) (DB).

5. Legal representative of executor — Liability of.—[1] The legal representative of a deceased executor is not only liable for a devastavit committed by the latter but may also be called upon to render any account which the latter should have, but has not rendered. (1910) 7 Ind Case 805 (806) (Cal). (Plaintiff held failed to establish her claim to an account from the executor.)

SUCCESSION CERTIFICATES.

Restriction on grant of certificates under this Part.

370. (1) A succession certificate (hereinafter in this part referred to as a certificate) shall not be granted under this Part with respect to any debt or security to which a right is required by section 212 or section 213 to be established by letters of administration or probate:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prevent the grant of a certificate to any person claiming to be entitled to the effects of a deceased Indian Christian, or to any part thereof, with respect to any debt or security, by reason that a right thereto can be established by letters of administration under this Act.

[2] No one is bound to become an executor but if he does accept the position he must act with the ordinary care and prudence of a reasonable and diligent business man. He must make the fund productive by investing it in some form of security and if he fails to do it, he will be liable for consequent loss to the estate. SECTION 370 — SYNOPSIS

1. Sub-section (1).
2. Sub-section (2).

1. Sub-section (1).—[1] The Succession Certificate Act (Part 10 of this Act) is partially a fiscal enactment and it is to be administered as far as possible leniently and must be construed in favour of the subject. (Vol 21) 1934 All 296 (297).

[2] The existence of a validly executed will by the testator bars the grant of a succession certificate in respect of any part of his estate. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 47 (48) ✠ (1911) 11 Ind Cas 261 (262) (Sind).

[3] If succession certificate is to be given in respect of the estate of the deceased it must be in respect of an estate which goes to heirs of the deceased person. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 177 (178, 179) : 23 Sind L R 359 (DB). (Gratuity not forming part of the estate—No certificate can be granted.)

[4] The mere fact that the applicant might have applied for a probate is not an adequate ground for refusing to entertain his application for a succession certificate. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 497 (498) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 277 (278).

[5] An heir of a Buddhist need not take out letters of administration in order to sue as representative of a deceased mortgagee and can do so by obtaining succession certificate. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 74 (74) (DB).

2. Sub-section (2).—[1] Security which is defined in S. 370 includes share in company. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 743 (746).

Therefore the entire holding of an individual in a company must be regarded as his security and it makes no difference whether that holding is covered by one share certificate or more than one share certificate. [5] Mortgage is not security within S. 370. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 68 (68) (DB).

[4] Court has sufficient authority to dispose of proceedings where deceased at his death had his ordinary place of residence within its jurisdiction and did his business there. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 277 (278).

If deceased had no fixed place of residence in British India, but had some property in British India, then application should be made to District Judge where property is situated. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 646 (647).

Section 372 — Note 1.

(4) When there are more applicants than one for a certificate, and it appears to the Judge that more than one of such applicants are interested in the estate of the deceased, the Judge may, in deciding to whom the certificate is to be granted, have regard to the extent of interest and the fitness in other respects of the applicants.

SECTION 373 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Judge to be satisfied that the application can be entertained.
3. Notice.
4. Scope and nature of enquiry.
5. Sub-section (2).
6. Sub-section (3).
7. Sub-section (4).

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Civil Procedure Code does not apply to proceeding for the grant of a certificate except in so far as if it is expressly introduced by Ss. 19 and 26 of the Succession Certificate Act (corresponding to Ss. 384 and 388 of this Act). (Vol 11) 1924 All 376 (378) : 46 All 372 (D B). (Held, S. 141 does not apply and the Succession Certificate Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver.)

[2] The object of grant of succession certificate is to facilitate collection of debts and in application by widow, objections by third parties should not be heard. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 700 (700).

[3] Certificate is unnecessary where succession is by survivorship. (Vol 1) 1914 All 68 (68) : 36 All 380.

[4] Where the deceased has left a validly executed will the issue of a succession certificate to any part of the estate is prohibited by S. 370. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 47 (48).

[5] A Court cannot grant a certificate except upon a petition as under the provisions of the Act. It must specify each debt and security in respect of which the certificate is asked for. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 996 (997) (D B) (Low Bur).

[6] No doubt where an application is substantially defective no succession certificate should be granted on such an application. But where the petition is defective in that the name of the person whose estate is claimed is not correctly given but the petitioner takes up the correct position by putting in another petition before hearing, the petition should be allowed to be amended and not dismissed by reason of such defect. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 663 (665) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 311 (DB).

[7] An application for a succession certificate as contemplated by the Succession Act must be an application in respect of some property belonging to a deceased person. The Act does not contemplate the case of a person applying for a certificate in respect of property which he claims as belonging to himself. (Vol 30) 1943 All 303 (304) : I L R (1943) All 680.

2. Judge to be satisfied that the application can be entertained.—[1] The District Judge is entitled to dismiss an application for succession certificate if he is satisfied that there are no grounds for entertaining it. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 709 (709) : I L R (1943) Mad 280 (D B).

[2] District Judge after entertaining an application cannot dismiss it on the ground that complicated questions of law or fact should have to be gone into before rights of parties can be determined but should act under sub-section (2) or (3). (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 709 (709) : I L R (1943) Mad 280 (D B).

[3] A reasonable and sensible claim to proceed against a person as being the debtor of the deceased is sufficient for the purpose of giving jurisdiction under S. 373 and may be regarded as a ground for entertaining the application. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 661 (663); 57 Cal 814 (F B).

3. Notice— [1] There is no legal bar to the Court issuing notice to or impleading debtors of the deceased as parties to the proceedings for grant of succession certificate. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 196 (198).

4. Scope and nature of enquiry.— [1] The enquiry contemplated in Part 10 is an enquiry between rival claimants to the estate of a deceased person. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 478 (479) (D B).

[2] Barring the very exceptional cases in which on facts admitted by both parties, the Court can determine the right to the certificate, some inquiry ought to be held even in cases in which many facts are admitted by both sides. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 669 (669) (D B).

[3] Application by widow of deceased for a certificate — Nephews objecting to the grant on the ground that they and the deceased constituted a joint family— Held, that though the Judge was not bound to sift the question whether the family was joint or not he ought to have held some enquiry so as to base his decision on prima facie evidence before he granted the certificate to the widow. (1905) 27 All 452 (453) (D B).

[4] Proceedings under this part are of a summary nature in which the Court merely decides the right of the applicant to the certificate. (1911) 33 All 327 (332, 333) (D B) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 277 (278). (No elaborate or lengthy enquiry is required for the grant of a succession certificate) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 196 (198)✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 456 (458) (D B). (Apart from that there is jurisdiction to go into the question of heirs.)

[5] The section requires that question arising under this part should be determined by a summary proceeding. By summary proceeding is meant that the Court should decide the question by a short enquiry leading upto and resulting in a rapid decision as contrasted with the lengthy inquiry which may be required for a more tardy determination of a regular suit. The nature of this enquiry must depend on the circumstances of each case. (1901) 25 Bom 523 (525) (D B) ✠ (1911) 14 Oudh Cas 53 (56, 57).

[6] In an enquiry before the grant of a certificate the Court has not to determine definitely and finally as to who has the best right to the estate. All that is required is to hold a summary enquiry into the right to the certificate with a view, on the one hand, to facilitate the collection of debts due to the deceased and prevent their being time-barred and on the other hand to afford protection to the debtors by appointing a representative to the deceased and authorising him to give a valid discharge for the debt. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 196 (198).

[7] In a proceeding for succession certificate, the Courts are not concerned with any question of title. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 384 (384) (D B) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 661 (664) : 57 Cal 814 (F B).

[8] There cannot be an enquiry in one proceeding as to which of a number of deceased persons was entitled to a particular money. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 478 (479) (D B).

[9] Where a will has been left by the deceased the Court before granting a succession certificate must decide whether the will was validly executed. But this will not involve the question whether the deceased was entitled to dispose of the property mentioned in the will. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 47 (48) ✠ (1909) 31 All 236 (237) (D B).

[10] The Court granting a certificate is not required to hold an enquiry into the existence of any debt alleged by the person applying to be due as condition precedent to the grant. The Court has merely to ascertain the representative character of the applicant. (1904) 28 Bom 119 (123) (D B).

[But see (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 478 (479) (D B). (Some sort of enquiry as to the existence of debt is necessary to enable the Court to grant a certificate.)]

[11] In an application for succession certificate the question whether the debt in respect of which the certificate is applied for belonged to the deceased or not is irrelevent and cannot be gone into. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 637 (637) (D B)✠ (1907) 17 Mad L Jour 257 (257) (D B). (Petitioner stating in the petition that a particular debt is due to the estate. The Court before granting the certificate is not required to enquire whether the debt is really due to the estate before granting the certificate.) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 661 (663) : 57 Cal 814 (F B). (The Judge is not required to ascertain whether the debts were due to the deceased within the meaning of S. 214.)

[But see (1898) 25 Cal 320 (321) (D B). (The Court is bound to enquire into the matter and require at least some evidence to show that there is a prima facie case that the property in respect of which the certificate is granted belonged to the deceased person.)✠(Vol 28) 1941 Cal 663 (665) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 311 (D B).]

[12] On an application for a succession certificate by an assignee of a debt, the only question which the Court has to decide is whether the applicant is a representative of the person to whom the debt is alleged to have been due and not whether the assignor had a valid title or not or whether the assignment conveyed any title to the applicant or whether the debt secured was recoverable or not. (Vol 3) 1916 All 16 (16) : 38 All 438 (D B).

5. Sub-section (2).— [1] The only right which entitles a person to a succession certificate is a beneficial interest in the debt or security collected. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 466 (467).

[2] Succession certificate ought not to be refused on the ground that regular suit involving the question of succession is pending. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 457 (458).

[3] If there are grounds for entertaining an application but the right to the certificate is contested the District Judge should issue the certificate to one party or the other which he can do under sub-section (2) after going into the merits of the case. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 709 (709) : I L R (1943) Mad 280 (D B).

[4] Applicant for certificate in possession of will in his favour — Possession of the will is sufficient ground for granting certificate. (Vol 26) 1939 Pesh 30 (33) (D B).

6. Sub-section (3).—[1] While dealing with an application for the certificate, the Courts ought not to enter on the determination of intricate questions of law or fact but should issue the certificate to the person who has prima facie the clearest title and leave the person whose claim to a superior title is under dispute on reasonable grounds to establish his title by regular suit. 7. Sub-section (4). — [1] The main idea of probate or administration is that the grant should be of all the property to one individual or to two or more jointly and so it is not permissible to grant certificate or letters of administration in fraction to two or more persons. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 456 (459) (D B).

[4] Section 373, sub-s. (4) is confined to cases where there are more applicants than one for certificate and it appears to the Judge that more than one of such applicants are interested in the estate of the deceased. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 430 (432) (D B).

[5] H died leaving a widow G who applied for succession certificate to recover debts due to H — Two step-brothers of H opposed the application on the ground that H and they constituted a coparcenary and therefore G had no right to collect the debts due to H. The District Judge disagreeing with the brothers gave the widow the certificate — Held that the case did not fall either under sub-s. (3) or (4). (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 140 (141).

[7] There may be cases when the several applicants have the same degree of interest in the estate of the deceased and there are no circumstances present which would enable the Judge to say that one is better qualified than the other. Under such circumstances the granting of joint certificate is not illegal. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 663 (666) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 311 (D B).

[8] N applying for certificate as adopted son of S — K opposing the grant claiming himself to be the adopted son of A the undivided brother of S — Held that a joint certificate in the name of N and K could be granted as the object of the application was to raise questions as to the validity of the adoption of K (1896) 19 Mad 497 (498).

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Rights of persons to whom succession certificate is granted.
3. Judgment-debtor cannot resist certificate holder's claim.
4. Payment to certificate holder effects valid discharge of debts.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Provisions of S. 381 are not applicable to Crown where the property vests in Crown by escheat and no succession certificate is necessary for Secretary of State for realization of debt due to person dying heirless. (Vol 19) 1932 All 220 (221): 54 All 226.

[2] Section 381 does not apply to the provident fund of a Railway Employee in deposit with the railway company as such fund is neither a debt nor a security payable to the employee as mentioned in the section. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 314 (318) (D B).

[3] A mortgage is not a debt within the meaning of S. 381. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 68 (68) (D B). (Production of succession certificate is not sufficient title to sue on the mortgage.)

[4] The object of a grant of succession certificate is to facilitate the collection of debt due to a deceased creditor. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 700 (700).

[5] The succession certificate is intended to facilitate collection of debts, regulate administration of succession and to protect persons who deal with the alleged representatives of deceased person against the contingency which occurs when disputes arise as to whether a claimant is or is not entitled as such personal representative. (Vol 3) 1916 All 233 (234): 38 All. 474 (D B).

[6] The object in granting a certificate is firstly to enable the debtors to pay the debts due by them with safety to the representatives of deceased Hindus etc.; and secondly to facilitate the collection of such debts by removing all doubts as to the legal title to demand and receive the same. In other words, the object is to enable debtors to get sufficient acquittances when they pay money due to the estate of the deceased; and to preserve that estate from loss by giving some one the right to collect lest the debts should be lost by limitation or otherwise. ('82) 8 Cal 868 (869, 870) (D B).

[7] Certificate obtained by a wrong person is still conclusive against the debtor. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 213 (213).

[8] Until revoked the succession certificate must be deemed to be valid. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 79 (79).

[9] On the death of one of the persons to whom the certificate is granted jointly the certificate becomes wholly inoperative and the rest of them cannot exercise any powers under it. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal. 663 (666): ILR (1941) 2 Cal 311 (D B).

2 Rights of person to whom succession certificate is granted. — [1] Person who has been granted a succession certificate obtains a conclusive title to recover what is due to the estate of the deceased. ('12) 35 Mad. 162 (163) (D B). (Insurance company cannot refuse to pay the certificate holder amount due on the policy of the deceased) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Lah. 79 (79) (Therefore in a suit based on the certificate the question of title to the amount concerned cannot be raised.)

[2] The holder of a succession certificate who has to collect the debt due to the estate of the minor cannot be compared with a certificated guardian. The succession certificate holds good until the minor takes steps on attaining majority to revoke it and does not become void as soon as he attains the age of eighteen. Therefore any payments made to the certificate holder is not an unauthorised payment. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom. 394 (395) (D B).

Revocation of certificate.

383. A certificate granted under this Part may be revoked for any of the following causes, namely :—

(b) that the certificate was obtained fraudulently by the making of a false suggestion, or by the concealment from the Court of something material to the case;

(c) that the certificate was obtained by means of an untrue allegation of a fact essential in point of law to justify the grant thereof, though such allegation was made in ignorance or inadvertently;

(d) that the certificate has become useless and inoperative through circumstances;

(e) that a decree or order made by a competent Court in a suit or other proceeding with respect to effects comprising debts or securities specified in the certificate renders it proper that the certificate should be revoked.

Appeal.

384. (1) Subject to the other provisions of this Part, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from an order of a District Judge granting, refusing or revoking a certificate under this Part, and the High Court may, if it thinks fit, by its order on the appeal, declare the person to whom the certificate should be granted and direct the District Judge, on application being made therefor, to grant it accordingly, in supersession of the certificate, if any, already granted.

Section 383—Note 1.

[1] Ordinarily the revocation of succession certificate must be made by the Court which granted it if it still exercises jurisdiction in that district. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 738 (739) (DB). (Certificate granted—Subordinate Judge invested with powers of District Judge—District Judge cannot revoke it.)

[2] Application for cancellation of certificate on the ground that District Court did not possess jurisdiction in the case to grant it as the deceased at the time of his death was not within its jurisdiction — The Court should insist upon evidence to support allegation and the certificate-holder should be given notice to show cause as to why the certificate should not be recalled. [4] As a general rule the Court must be moved by the parties interested in the revocation of the certificate to exercise its authority though in certain case the Court can do so of its own motion as where a minor obtains a certificate on a fraudulent representation of his age or where an executor obtains probate of the will of a living person. [4] The section refers only to appeals and there is no provision for filing a memorandum of objection. As the memorandum is in the nature of a cross-appeal the probable intention of the Act is that the respondent should also prefer an appeal. ('95) 5 Mad L Jour 36 (38).

[5] An order will not be interfered with merely on the ground that there was some formal defect. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 478 (479) (DB).

[6] No second appeal lies in any case as both Ss. 384 and 388 declare that the orders of the District Court shall be final. ('94) 17 Mad 167 (167) (DB).

2. Orders in applications for extention of certificate [1]— The extension of a certificate to additional debts is not the grant of a certificate so as to give a right of appeal against the extension. ('02) 25 Mad 634 (635) (DB).

4. Orders for furnishing security.—[1] No appeal lies against an order directing security to be taken. ('10) 7 Mad L Tim 246 (246) (DB) ✠ ('95) 5 Mad L Jour 36 (38).

[2] No appeal lies as to the form of the security taken by the Judge in his discretion. ('95) 5 Mad L Jour 36 (38).

[3] The question as to whether the security accepted as sufficient is worth it or not is not a question involving the propriety or otherwise of granting a certificate and therefore is not appealable under this section. ('93) 20 Cal. 245 (246) (DB).

5. Conditional orders for certificate upon the furnishing of security.—[1] Order granting certificate accompanied by condition that security should be given is appealable. (2) Any inferior Court so invested shall, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Judge in the exercise of all the powers conferred by this Part upon the District Judge, and the provisions of this Part relating to the District Judge shall apply to such an inferior Court as if it were a District Judge:

Provided that an appeal from any such order of an inferior Court as is mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 384 shall lie to the District Judge, and not to the High Court, and that the District Judge may, if he thinks fit, by his order on the appeal, make any such declaration and direction as that sub-section authorises the High Court to make by its order on an appeal from an order of a District Judge.

(3) An order of a District Judge on an appeal from an order of an inferior Court under the last foregoing sub-section shall, subject to the provisions as to reference to and revision by the High Court and as to review of judgment of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as applied by section 141 of that Code, be final.

(4) The District Judge may withdraw any proceedings under this Part from an inferior Court, and may either himself dispose of them or transfer them to another such Court established within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the District Judge and having authority to dispose of the proceedings.

(5) A notification under sub-section (1) may specify any inferior Court specially or any class of such Courts in any local area.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"It was announced by the Honourable Finance Member in the course of his speech introducing the budget proposals for 1934-35 that the Government of India would introduce legislation which would enable Provincial Governments to apply schemes for enforcing a minimum price for cane to be paid by the factory to the grower. This decision is consequential upon the imposition of an excise duty on factory sugar. As initiative in the matter of fixing prices for cane must be left to Provincial Governments so as to suit local conditions, it is proposed that the Act should come into force in any Province on such date as the Local Government may direct. The scheme of the Bill is that after prior publication of its proposals and due consideration of the objections received, a Local Government should declare controlled areas within which purchase of cane by factories shall be limited to growers of cane or licensed persons and societies at fixed prices. In order to provide for elasticity of procedure in the administration of the scheme, it is also proposed to give wide rule-making powers to Local Governments."

12. Proceedings pending at commencement of Part I or Part II.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"The principal object of this Bill is to prescribe a simple mode of valuing suits relating to land for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of the Courts with respect to them. Most of those suits are of course cognizable exclusively by Civil Courts, but some of them, as for instance, suits in the Punjab under S. 9 of the Specific Relief Act, may be tried by Revenue Courts.

It has been brought to the notice of the Government that, while the Civil Courts Acts of the several Provinces, with the exception of that in force in the Presidency of Madras, prescribe no special rules for fixing the value for jurisdiction of the subject-matter of land-suits, but simply define the limit of the jurisdiction of each grade of Court by the money value of the subject matter in suit, thus leaving the market-value to be the strictly legal criterion, a practice has sprung up, generally in the inferior Courts, of accepting, in the absence of any express provision of law to the contrary, the court-fee valuation as laid down in S. 7, para. (v), of Act VII of 1870, for purposes of jurisdiction also.

The generally admitted result is that land-suits are undervalued and disposed of by Courts not strictly competent to try them. In order to remedy this state of things the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers (S 2) the Local Government to frame rules, subject to the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, for determining the value of land in the territories under its administration for purposes of jurisdiction in the suits mentioned in S. 7, paras (v) and (vi), and para. (x), cl. (d) of the Court fees Act, 1870, namely, suits for possession of land, to enforce a right of pre emption, and for specific performance of an award relating to land. These rules are to be made after consultation with the High Court; and the Bill provides (S. 7) a procedure for the publication of proposed rules, so that the Courts and the public may have an opportunity of preferring any objections which they may have to them before the rules are made. The Bill further declares (S. 3) that where a suit mentioned in para. (iv) of S. 7, or Art. 17 of Sch. II of the Court-fees Act, relates to land, the amount at which for purposes of jurisdiction the relief sought in the suit is valued shall not exceed the value of the land to which the suit relates as determined by the rules under the Act.

In addition to the foregoing provisions, which relate exclusively to land-suits, S. 4 provides that in other suits in which court-fees are payable ad valorem, the value for purposes of jurisdiction shall be estimated in accordance with the rules which regulate the value for court-fee purposes.

Section 5 of the Bill is taken from Ss. 206-208 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, and has been inserted at the suggestion of Sir Charles Turner, late Chief Justice of Madras. It lays down a special procedure for cases in which the objection that a suit was not properly valued for purposes of jurisdiction is taken in an appellate Court, an objection which the Bill declares may not be entertained unless it was taken in the Court of first instance.

Lastly, the Bill (S. 6) repeals S. 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, which enacts the rule of valuation which it is the object of this Bill to abolish, namely, the valuation for jurisdiction in the case of land suits shall be in accordance with the court-fee valuation prescribed by S. 7, para. (v) of the Court-fees Act, 1870. In order, however, to prevent hardship or inconvenience to suitors, it is provided that this repeal shall not affect any suit instituted before the rules under the proposed Act take effect."

[1] This Act does not deal with the question as to what are the limits of the pecuniary jurisdiction of different classes of Courts. (Vol 19) 1932 All 413 (414) (DB).

[2] It is doubtful if the Act applies to Sonthal Parganas but the spirit of the Act should nevertheless be applied. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 184 (185) : 13 Pat 329 (SB).

Section 3 — Note 1

[1] The power of making rules under this section exists only in those Provinces to which the provisions of Part I of this Act have been extended by the Provincial Government by notification.

[4] In a suit for possession of certain land after removing the building illegally erected thereon by the defendant, the value of the land alone is to be taken into consideration, and not of the building sought to be removed. ('97) 7 Mad L Jour 49 (50) (DB).

[5] In the case of a suit for pre-emption, the value of the land is to be determined in accordance with the rules framed by the Provincial Government: See the following cases: (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 346 (347) (DB) ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 380 (381) ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1062 (1063) : 41 Mad 721 (DB).

[6] The subject-matter of a suit for pre-emption is the property sought to be pre-empted and not the amount which has to be paid by the pre-emptor. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 380 (381) ✠ ('12) 1912 Pun Re No. 93 : 15 Ind Cas 348 (DB).

[7] This section does not apply to a suit for redemption of a mortgage where the property is in the possession of the mortgagee. ('10) 8 Ind Cas 464 (466) : 1 Upp Bur Rul 10.

[8] Section 4, and not S. 3, applies to a suit for declaration relating to land. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 563 (563, 564) : 50 Mad 646 (DB).

[9] The value for purposes of jurisdiction will be the same as the value for purposes of court-fees (subject to

Valuation of relief in certain suits relating to land not to exceed the value of the land.

4. Where a suit mentioned in the Court-fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraph iv, or Schedule II, article 17, relates to land or an interest in land of which the value has been determined by rules under the last foregoing section, the amount at which for purposes of jurisdiction the relief sought in the suit is valued shall not exceed the value of the land or interest as determined by those rules.

[10] Where the suit is for a bare declaration and comes under Sch. Section 4 — Note 1

[1] The plaintiff is not entitled to value the suit in any manner he pleases subject to the maximum limit mentioned in this section. (Vol 20) 1933 All 903 (904) : 56 All 198 (DB).

[2] A suit by an occupancy tenant for a declaration that the landlord (defendant) is not entitled to recover from the plaintiff by way of rent more than a sixteenth share of the produce, falls under this section. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 95 (95) : 1914 Pun Re No. 54 (DB).

[3] Where a suit coming under Sch. II, Art. 17 of the Court-fees Act relates to land but no rules have been made as to the valuation of such land, the market-value of the land will be the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction. ('07) 31 Bom 73 (79, 80) (DB).

[4] Section 4 gives no room for the idea of a notional value. Where the sole question for decision is whether the title as trustees of certain villages vests in the public or in private person, the title to these villages is affected by the relief sought and therefore the valuation for the purposes of jurisdiction is the market-value of the property itself. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 405 (406, 407) : 17 Luck 116 (DB). (Case under the section as amended in U. P.)

[5] Suit for declaration against alienation of ancestral land, falling under Court-fees Act, Sch. II, Art. 22, Punjab — Lahore High Court, Rules and Orders Vol. 1, Chap. 3-C. (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 80 (82) (DB).

Section 6 — Note 1

[1] Section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act (III of 1873), seems to cover the suits mentioned in Ss. 3 and 4 of this Act. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 439 (441) : 56 Mad 716 ✠ (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1062 (1063) : 41 Mad 721 (DB).

[See however (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 563 (563, 564) : 50 Mad 646 (DB) (Section 14 only applies to suits coming under S. 3, Suits Valuation Act, and hence does not apply to suit for declaration.)]

[2] Section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act must be read as subject to the provisions of S. 8 of this Act. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 98 (99) : 38 Mad 795.

8. Where in suits other than those referred to in the Court fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraphs V, VI and IX, and paragraph X, clause (d), court-fees are payable ad valorem under the Court-fees Act, 1870, the value as determinable for the computation of court-fees and the value for purposes of jurisdiction shall be the same.

Court-fee value and jurisdictional value to be the same in certain suits.

Objects and Reasons.

"We have excepted from the operation of section 8 (section 4 of the Bill as introduced) the suits to which para. IX of section 7 of the Court-fees Act relates. In a suit for foreclosure or sale the principal and interest due under the mortgage-deed represent the value of the suit for the purposes of jurisdiction, while the value for the computation of court-fees is the principal only." — S. C. R.

29. Jurisdiction with regard to plea of set-off.
30. Forum of appeal.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] The value of the suit for court-fees is to be applied for jurisdiction and not vice versa. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 268 (269) : 12 Rang 335 ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 686 (688) : 58 Cal 281 ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 890 (891) : 9 Lah 366 (DB)

[2] The proper procedure under the section is to determine the value for court-fees and then adopt the same valuation for jurisdiction. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 155 (156) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 411 (DB) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 84 (85).

[But see (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 922 (925) (DB).]

[3] In cases not coming under this section, it is the real value of the subject-matter that will determine jurisdiction. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 375 (375) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 655 (656) : 59 Mad 159. (Suit for getting rate of maintenance under decree reduced — Mode of valuation shown.) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 563 (564) : 50 Mad 646 (DB).

[4] Where a fixed court-fee is payable under the Court-fees Act it is the real value of the subject-matter that must be considered for the purpose of jurisdiction. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 188 (191): 43 Bom 507: 46 Ind App 24 (PC).

[5] Section 9 is more than an exception to S. 8. Section 8 does not apply to cases falling under S. 9 or rules framed thereunder. Section 8 applies to ad valorem cases where the value is satisfactorily ascertainable while S. 9 applies to all cases, whether ad valorem or not, in which the value of the subject-matter cannot be satisfactorily ascertained. (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 94 (96, 97) (FB).

[6] Where a suit falls both under this section and S. 14, Madras Civil Courts Act, the former section will apply. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 721 (721) : 57 Mad 186 (DB). (Suit for injunction relating to land.) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 942 (943) : 39 Mad 873 (DB). (Suit by landlord for possession against tenant — S. 8, Suits Valuation Act, and not S. 14, Madras Civil Courts Act applies.)

[7] It is doubtful (in view of the proviso to S. 2, Sonthal Parganas Act) if the Suits Valuation Act applies to Sonthal Parganas in case of suits in which the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed Rs. 1000, but the principle of the Act should nevertheless be applied. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 184 (185) : 13 Pat 329 (SB).

2. "Ad valorem." — [1] Court-fee for suits for setting aside a decree falling under Sch. II, Art. 17 (v) as amended in Bombay, is ten rupees if the value of the property involved does not exceed five-hundred rupees and the fee is fifteen rupees in other cases. This has been held not to be "ad valorem" fee and hence this section does not apply. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 474 (475) : I L R (1945) Bom 1033 (DB) ((Vol 31) 1944 Bom 316 : I L R (1944) Bom 352 Dissent.)

3. Valuation for jurisdiction — General. — [1] The term "value" denotes market-value. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 563 (564) : 50 Mad 646 (DB).

[2] Where the subject-matter of a suit is wholly unrelated to anything which can be readily stated in definite money terms, the plaintiff must put a more or less arbitrary value and the Court will accept that valuation. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 563 (565) : 50 Mad 646 (DB).

[3] Even where the subject-matter is not incapable of valuation, prima facie the valuation by the plaintiff would determine jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1942 Rang 10 (10) (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 71 (72) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 278 (278) (DB) ✠ ('99) 2 Oudh Cas 103 (108) ✠ ('76) 25 Suth W R 76 (76) (DB).

[See however (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 249 (250) : 25 Oudh Cas 184. (Not so if challenged by defendant.) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 32 (32): 5 Pat L Jour 397 (DB). (Do.)]

[4] Where through gross negligence or deliberate design the suit is over-valued or under-valued, the true value as determined by the Court will determine jurisdiction. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 444 (445) ✠ ('12) 6 Sind L R 256 (258) (DB) ✠ ('84) 8 Bom 31 (33, 34) (DB).

[5] The value of the suit depends on the value of the subject-matter at the time of the institution of the suit. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 160 (162, 163) : 14 Pat 414 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 71 (72) (DB) ✠ ('84) 8 Bom 31 (33) (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 998 (1002) : 40 Mad 1 (FB). (Subsequent change in value.)

[6] The aggregate value of all the subjects will be the value for jurisdiction. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 998 (1001): 40 Mad 1 (FB) ✠ ('12) 36 Bom 628 (637) (DB).

[See however (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 969 (969) (DB). (If in future, circumstances come to light as the case progresses the Court is at liberty to revise the order regarding the valuation.)]

[8] In determining the nature of a suit, its maintainability is immaterial. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 160 (161) : 14 Pat 414 (DB).

[9] The relief asked for and not the relief ultimately awarded will determine jurisdiction. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 683 (684) (DB).

[10] A question of valuation should be tried as a preliminary issue. ('07) 31 Bom 73 (77) (DB) ✠ ('82) 8 Cal 975 (977) (DB).

[But see (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 320 (320, 321) : 52 Cal 128 (DB) ✠ ('06) 3 Cal L Jour 137 (198) (DB).]

[2] Where the plaintiff is in joint possession and there is no dispute as to his title, the value of the entire property will determine jurisdiction and those in which his title is denied and he is not in joint possession, the value of the plaintiff's share will determine the jurisdiction. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 342 (343): 2 Pat 432 (DB).

[3] It is the market value that is to be considered, in determining its value for jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 103 (103) ✠ ('09) 33 Bom 658 (661, 663) (DB).

[4] Where a suit is for avoiding a prior partition deed or decree and for a fresh partition, this section will apply and the value for jurisdiction will be the same as the value for court-fees. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 78 (80) : 5 Pat L Jour 540 (DB).

5. Suit for declaration and consequential relief. —[1] The value for purposes of jurisdiction of suit for a declaration and consequential relief, will be the amount at which the relief is valued in the plaint for purposes of court-fees (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 167 (169) : I L R (1937) Bom 623. (This Act affects the construction of S. 24, Bombay Civil Courts Act, 1869.) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 316 (317) : I L R (1938) Nag 302 ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 P C 135 (136) : 46 Ind App 15 : 43 Bom 376 (P C) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 214 (220) : 1913 Pun Re No. 111 (FB).

[2] In a case coming under S. 7 (iv) (c), Court-fees Act, the plaintiff merely states the value for jurisdiction but not for court-fee. The plaintiff must be required to pay court-fees on the value stated. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 132 (133) : 13 Lah 311 (DB) ✠ (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 591 (592) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 649 (649) (DB).

[3] The plaintiff sues for a declaratory decree and some other relief. He treats the two reliefs as separate and pays separate fees. He values the suit for jurisdiction at a high figure. The Court holds that the suit falls under S. 7 (iv) (c). The Court can treat the value given for jurisdiction as the value for court-fees also. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 24 (26) : I L R (1942) Kar 354 (DB) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 97 (108, 109) : I L R (1941) Lah 451 (FB) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 152 (153) (DB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 All 602 (604) : 47 All 501 ✠ (Vol 11) 1924 All 597 (599) : 46 All 419 ✠ (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 105 (107) : 44 Bom 331 (DB) ✠ ('13) 40 Cal 245 (249) (DB).

[4] When a plaint contains a valuation for purposes of only jurisdiction it would apply to court-fees also. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 591 (591, 592).

[5] Where rules have been made under S. 9 for the valuation of suits for declaration and consequential relief, the value of the suit for purposes of court fee as well as jurisdiction will be the value as fixed in accordance with such rules. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 214 (220) : 1913 Pun Re No. 111 (FB).

[6] Where the suit relates to land in respect of which the Provincial Government has made rules under S. 3, the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction cannot exceed under S. 4, the value of the land as fixed under such rules. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 214 (220) : 1913 Pun Re No. 111 (FB).

6. Suit for declaration where consequential relief is not prayed.— [1] Under S. 9, the High Court can make rules as to the mode of valuing such suits. In the absence of any such rules, the value of the suit for jurisdiction will have to be decided by Court. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 246 (246) : 1918 Pun Re No. 81 (DB).

[2] The plaintiff cannot value such suits in any way he likes, and thereby virtually choose his own forum. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 249 (250) : 25 Oudh Cas 184.

[3] The value of the right in respect of which the declaration is sought should be regarded as the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 317 (319) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 874 (874) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 18 (19) (DB) ✠ ('96) 20 Bom 736 (742) (DB) ✠ ('75) 1 Bom 538 (541) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 568 (569) ✠ (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 32 (32, 33) : 5 Pat L Jour 397 (DB).

[5] A suit to obtain a declaration that a decree passed by a Court was obtained by fraud and is not binding on the plaintiff can be laid in a Court of inferior jurisdiction to the Court which passed the decree provided the subject-matter is otherwise within the jurisdiction of the Court. 7. Suit for injunction. — [1] This section applies to suits for injunctions. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 242 (243) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 247 (248) (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 566 (568) (DB) ✠ (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 879 (880) (DB) ✠ ('12) 6 Sind L R 114 (115) (DB).

8. Suit for accounts. — [1] This section applies to a suit for accounts and its value for jurisdiction will be the amount at which the relief is valued in the plaint for court-fee. 9. Suit for administration. — [1] A suit for administration is treated as a suit for accounts and hence it falls under this section and the value for jurisdiction is that given by the plaintiff for court-fee. [3] Even for purposes of court-fees, there are some cases in which under S. 7 (v) of the Court fees Act, the suit is required to be valued according to the market-value and the Court is given power to enquire into the market value and require payment of court fees accordingly. In such cases the value found by the Court would also be the value for purposes of jurisdiction. ('14) 25 Ind Cas 24 (24) (DB) (Lah)✠ ('08) 1908 Pun Re No. 19, p. 124 (127) (FB).

[6] Where alternative reliefs based on different causes of action are prayed for in respect of the same property, although the court-fees are assessable separately, the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction is determined by the value of the property. SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Procedure where objection is taken on appeal or revision that a suit or appeal was not properly valued for jurisdictional purposes.

11. (1) Notwithstanding anything in section 578 of the Code of Civil Procedure,[a] an objection that by reason of the over-valuation or under-valuation of a suit or appeal a Court of first instance of lower appellate Court which had not jurisdiction with respect to the suit or appeal exercised jurisdiction with respect thereto shall not be entertained by an appellate Court unless—

(a) the objection was taken in the Court of first instance at or before the hearing at which issues were first framed and recorded, or in the lower appellate Court in the memorandum of appeal to that Court, or

(b) the appellate Court is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, that the suit or appeal was over-valued or under-valued and that the over-valuation or under-valuation thereof has prejudicially affected the disposal of the suit or appeal on its merits.

(2) If the objection was taken in the manner mentioned in clause (a) of sub-section (1), but the appellate Court is not satisfied as to both the matters mentioned in clause (b) of that sub-section and has before it the materials necessary for the determination of the other grounds of appeal to itself, it shall dispose of the appeal as if there had been no defect of jurisdiction in the Court of first instance or lower appellate Court.

(3) If the objection was taken in that manner and the appellate Court is satisfied as to both those matters and has not those materials before it, it shall proceed to deal with the appeal under the rules applicable to the Court with respect to the hearing of appeals; but if it remands the suit or appeal, or frames and refers issues for trial, or requires additional evidence to be taken, it shall direct its order to a Court competent to entertain the suit or appeal.

(4) The provisions of this section with respect to an appellate Court shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to a Court exercising revisional jurisdiction under section 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure[b] or other enactment for the time being in force.

(5) This section extends to the whole of British India, and shall come into force on the first day of July, 1887.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.—Import Tariff.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.—Export Tariff.

THE THIRD SCHEDULE.—[Repealed.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Schedule of import duties contained in the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, has, under the influence of a long succession of amending Acts, become amorphous and the numbering of the items has lost its serial character. The classification of articles is far from scientific, and, in order to ascertain the amount of the duty imposed on many of the items contained in the Schedule and the duration of the duty, it is necessary to collate the Act with other Acts such as the Indian Finance Act, 1931, the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931, and the various protection Acts. In practice commercial bodies and importing merchants have recourse, for the vital information required by them regarding customs duties, to a compilation known as the Indian Customs Tariff drawn up by the Department of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics, which goes some way towards supplying an intelligible statement of the Indian Tariff. This compilation, while reproducing the items contained in the Second Schedule to the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, has recognised the necessity for an extensive rearrangement of the order of those items and for stating the rate of duty on each article not as it appears in the Schedule to the Indian Tariff Act but as it stands when the effect of the surcharges imposed by the two Finance Acts of 1931 and the modifications of duty made by subsidiary Acts has been allowed for. Despite these readjustments, the arrangements of items in this compilation also leaves much to be desired, and its variation from the Schedule to the Tariff Act, with which it can be co ordinated only by the use of a complicated index is a source of continual trouble.

The object of the present Bill is to consolidate the existing provisions of law now to be sought in a multiplicity of enactments as far as possible into one measure, thereby enabling the whole or parts of some fifty Acts to be repealed. The Schedule of import tariffs will thus exhibit as far as possible the actual rate duty payable on each article under the tariff law for the time being, the only duties not included being those imposed by the Salt (Additional Import Duty) Act, 1931, an Act which contains matter which it would be unsuitable to include in the present Bill. At the same time, the items subject to duty have been rearranged upon a scientific plan enabling any particular item to be found without the use of an index, and affording a suitable basis for future modification or supplement by legislation.

The Economic Committee of the League of Nations has recently devised the framework of a customs nomenclature designed for general international use by countries imposing tariffs on imports. While this frame work is still merely a draft scheme not yet adopted by any nation, it offers a scientific classification made by experts of all articles commonly liable to import duties in accordance with which it is possible to rearrange the items contained in our present Tariff Schedule.

The framework arranges the whole body of imports under 21 main classes which form the headings of 21 sections. These sections are sub-divided into 86 chapters, which are again sub-divided into 991 basic items capable themselves of further sub-division into sub-items.

It has not been possible in this Bill to assimilate the items in our Tariff Schedule to the 991 items in this frame work. To do so would necessitate changes of substance which would be unjustified in what is intended to be a purely consolidating measure, which makes no change in the existing law. But it has been possible without making any change of substance to adopt the 21 sectional headings with one subsidiary section for "Articles not otherwise specified," and to group the existing items in our Tariff Schedule under the 86 chapters of the frame work, adopting the numbering of these chapters but not their headings.

We are thus enabled to take advantage of the logical scheme of classification of commodities evolved by a body of experts. There are obvious advantages in framing our tariff on a model which is likely to be universally adopted, not the least being the fact that familiarity with the British Indian Tariff Schedule will enable Indian Commercial interests to understand the tariffs of other countries. Subsequent changes in our tariff Schedule will not have the effect of producing increased divergence. On the contrary, it will be possible, by using the frame work as a guide when alterations are being made, to approximate more and more to the League of Nations Scheme."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"It is notorious that recently businesses and properties have changed hands for very large sums of money. Government are anxious to know how in spite of very high rates of taxation –Income tax, super-tax and excess profits tax – the large fortunes which these transactions imply have been accumulated. The Bill therefore proposes to appoint and empower a Special Commission to investigate both the actual incidence of taxation with particular reference to individual cases and the extent to which the existing law is adequate to prevent evasion . . ."

(ACT XXX OF 1947)[a]

[18th April, 1947.]

An Act to provide for an investigation into matters relating to taxation on income.

WHEREAS it is expedient, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the actual incidence of taxation on income is and has been in recent years in accordance with the provisions of law, and the extent to which the existing law and procedure for the assessment and recovery of such taxation is adequate to prevent the evasion thereof, to make provision for an investigation to be made into such matters;

It is hereby enacted as follows :

[a] For Statement of Objects and Reasons, see Gazette of India, 1947, Part V, page 215; and for Report of the Select Committee, see ibid, page 373.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.[a]

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint.[b]

[a] The expression "the whole of British India" in its application to the Dominion of India, means "all the Provinces of India"—see I. O, Art. 4 (2); and, in its application to the Dominion of Pakistan, means "all the Provinces of Pakistan" — see P. O, Art. 4 (2); [15-8-1947]. [b] The Act came into force on 1st May 1947—see Gazette of India, 1947, Part I, page 578.

Constitution and functions of Commission.

3. The Central Government may constitute a Commission to be called the Income-tax Investigation Commission (hereinafter referred to as the Commission) whose duties it shall be—

[a][(3) The Commission shall be appointed to act, in the first instance, up to the 31st day of March, 1950, but the Central Government may extend its term of appointment for any period up to the 31st day of March, 1951.

Power of Central Government to refer cases for investigation.

[a][5. (1) The Central Government may, at any time before the [b][1st day of September, 1948] refer to the Commission for investigation and report any case or points in a case which the Central Government has prima facie reasons for believing that a person has to a substantial extent evaded payment of taxation on income, together with such material as may be available in support of such belief, and may at any time before the [b][1st day of September, 1948] apply to the Commission for the withdrawal of any case or points in a case thus referred, and if the Commission approves of the withdrawal, no further proceedings shall thereafter be taken by or before the Commission in respect of the case or points so withdrawn.

(2) The Commission may, after examining the material submitted by the Central Government with reference to any case or points in a case and making such investigation as it considers necessary, report to the Central Government that in its opinion further investigation is not likely to reveal any substantial evasion of taxation on income and on such report being made the investigation shall be deemed to be closed.

(3) No reference made by the Central Government under sub-section (1), at any time before the [b][1st day of September, 1948] shall be called in question, nor shall the sufficiency of the material on which such a reference has been made be investigated in any manner by any Court.

(4) If in the course of investigation into any case or points in a case referred to it under sub-section (1), the Commission has reason to believe—

(a) that some person other than the person whose case is being investigated has evaded payment of taxation on income, or

(b) that some points other than those referred to it by the Central Government in respect of any case also require investigation, it may make a report to the Central Government stating its reasons for such belief and, on receipt of such report, the Central Government shall, notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), forthwith refer to the Commission for investigation the case of such other person or such additional points as may be indicated in that report.]

(6) If in any proceedings before an authorised official any person whose case or the points in whose case is or are being investigated refuses or fails to attend in person or to produce or cause to be produced accounts or documents or to answer questions or to prepare statements or to furnish information when called upon to do so, the authorised official shall report such refusal or failure to the Commission, and thereupon the provisions of sub-section (5) shall apply as if the refusal or failure took place in the course of the investigation by the Commission itself.

(7) The Commission and, subject to the direction of the Commission, any authorised official may make such enquiries in such manner as it or he may deem fit and obtain statements on oath from any person who is considered likely to be in possession of any information or document relevant to the case or points in the case referred to the Commission or is in the opinion of the Commission likely to be reported by it to the Central Government for reference under the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 5; and for the purposes of these enquiries, the Commission and the authorised official shall have all the powers conferred on them by sub-sections (1), (2), (3) and (4).

THE SCHEDULE—[Repealed.]

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"The Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1901, which regulates emigration to the tea districts of Assam, was designed, like its predecessors, mainly to regulate the recruitment and engagement of indentured labour. It has not been possible for some years for any worker in Assam to be subjected to a penal contract and, in consequence of this and other changes, the law is entirely unsuited to present conditions. Attempts were made by amending Acts in 1908, 1915 and 1927 to adapt the Act to meet altering conditions; substantial parts of it have been repealed and large numbers of rules have been framed in the endeavour to use the Act to regulate the recruitment of emigrants who are subject to no indenture. These changes have proved inadequate and they have made the law extremely confused. Large parts of the surviving provisions of the Act have become completely ineffective and those provisions which are operative are open to weighty criticisms.

In 1926, the Government of India addressed the Local Governments mainly concerned suggesting that the time might have come for the abolition of all control over recruitment and that, if this was inadvisable considerable changes should be made in the law. The replies received agreed in regarding some restrictions on recruiting as still essential and the existing restrictions as unsatisfactory. The Government of India accordingly drafted an Assam Recruitment Bill, which was sent to the Local Governments in December 1928. By the time criticisms of it had been received, the Royal Commission of Labour had been appointed and a decision was deferred until they had reported. They collected a large amount of evidence on the subject and devoted Chapter XX of their Report to a discussion of it. As a result, they recommended the replacement of the existing legislation by a new enactment. The Bill follows the scheme prepared by the Commission, whose recommendations have been varied in respect of minor details and supplemented where necessary.

The first object of the Bill is to make it possible, on the one hand, to exercise all the control over the recruitment and forwarding of assisted emigrants to the Assam tea gardens as may be justified and required by the interests of emigrants and potential emigrants and, on the other hand, to ensure that no restrictions are imposed which are not so justified. The ideal, now as in the past, is the reduction of restrictions to a minimum and the establishment of such conditions as will make it possible to dispense with all control. This ideal has recently been endorsed by both the Royal Commission on Agriculture and the Royal Commission on Labour. It is desirable, therefore, that the provisions relating to control should be sufficiently elastic to allow of their complete or partial relaxation as and where this is required, and sufficiently wide to deal with any possible recrudescence of recruiting abuses.

The Bill proposes that Local Governments should be able, subject to the control of the Government of India, to impose control over the forwarding of assisted emigrants (cl. 16 and Chap. III generally) or over both their recruitment and their forwarding (cls. 16 and 26 and Chaps III and IV generally) as occasion may dictate. Under the former system, assisted emigrants will ordinarily be forwarded through licensed local agents in the recruiting districts (cls. 17, 18) by prescribed routes (cl. 19) on which provision for food, shelter, etc., must be made by employers and medical supervision can be exercised [Ss. 20, 33, 35 and 36 (4).] Only employers who make satisfactory provision will be able to secure and retain licenses for local agents [cl. 17 (3)], and the operations of local agents and others engaged in forwarding will be subject to inspection and scrutiny (cls. 4 and 22). Under the latter system, employers will, in addition, be prevented from recruiting otherwise than by means of certificated persons employed in the gardens (garden sardars), or recruiters licensed in the recruiting provinces (cls. 27 and 28). But the ordinary provisions relating to either system may be relaxed to such extent as seems desirable in any area to which the system is applicable [proviso to cls. 16 (1) and 26 (1)]

In addition, the Bill seeks to secure for all those who are to emigrate under it the right to be repatriated from Assam (Chap II) with their dependants (cl. 9) at the employer's expense (cl. 12). Ordinarily this right will accrue after three years from the date of entry into Assam (cl. (7). It will also be possible to claim repatriation within three years in the event of the emigrant (a) being dismissed otherwise than for wilful misconduct (cl. 8), (b) failing in health, (c) not being provided with suitable work, or (d) having his wages unjustly withheld (cl. 10) Repatriation within one year of entry to Assam will also be possible where there has been fraud or misrepresentation or other irregularities in recruiting (cls. 10 and 35). Further, repatriation can be ordered at any time by a criminal Court in the case of a labourer who has been assaulted by the employer or his agent (cl. 11). It is believed that the offer of these rights of repatriation to emigrants will benefit not merely emigrants but the industry as a whole by removing a serious obstacle to the flow of suitable labour, and that the existence of an adequate supply of such labour will go far to remove the conditions which make it undesirable at present to dispense with control over emigration.

For the general administration of the system which the Bill seeks to establish, it is proposed to appoint a Controller of Emigrant Labour with some staff and possibly a Deputy Controller (cl. 3) The charges will be met by the tea industry through a cess of somewhat similar character to that raised under the present Act for the Assam Labour Board (cl. 5). The Controller is intended to be an officer subject to the Government of India and responsible for

(a) enforcing the law relating to repatriation in Assam (cls. 4, 8—10, 12—15), collateral powers being given to District Magistrates. [S. 36];

(b) supervising the forwarding routes (cls. 4, 33—35);

(c) supervising conditions in the recruiting provinces, where his powers will be limited to inspection and advice [cls. 4, 17 (3)], executive action being entrusted to the local authorities (Chaps. III and IV).

He should thus be able to secure the proper co-ordination of the whole system, and to advise regarding possible relaxations of control or the imposition of further restrictions under the Act, if required. It is intended that, with the appointment of the Controller, the Assam Labour Board, which has since 1915 exercised some supervision, without executive authority, in the recruiting provinces, should be abolished.

Apart from the main changes proposed in the law and explained above, the Bill involves a number of minor alterations in the present position.

(a) The Bill is not limited in its initial application to certain provinces [cl. 1 (2)]. So to limit it would involve the limitation of repatriation rights to emigrants from these provinces, while its general extension does not render obligatory the extension of control to areas at present uncontrolled.

(b) It will no longer be possible to restrict the recruitment of labour within Assam itself, cf. Report of the Royal Commission on Labour, page 373 [cl. 2 (c).]

(c) Unassisted emigration will be entirely free; control can only be exercised where material assistance is given [clause 2 (f).]

(d) The engagement and forwarding of emigrants who are merely returning to Assam after leaving it as adults will be uncontrolled [clauses 2 (f) and 2 (g).]

(e) It will no longer be possible to prohibit recruitment for Assam; with the complete abolition of penal contracts, the prohibition of recruitment for certain districts of India cannot be justified in the interests of labour, cf. Reports of the Royal Commission on Agriculture, page 581, and of the Royal Commission on Labour, page 363.

(f) Managers and other supervising officers on tea estates will be able to receive certificates to conduct recruiting in restricted recruiting areas (clause 29).

(g) It is proposed that in all areas, controlled or uncontrolled, it should be unlawful to assist persons under 16 to emigrate unless they are accompanied by their parent or guardian: [S. 32].

(h) It is proposed that it should be possible to detain and return at the employer's expense sick persons emigrating from any province. [S 33].

(i) The provisions of the Bill are intended to apply only to emigration for work on tea plantations in the first instance; but power is retained to extend its application to other industries in Assam and to other districts than the eight tea districts. This power could be used if labourers are imported to other forms of industry with a view to their transference to tea estates, or if the tea industry develops in other parts of Assam [S. 38]."—Gazette of India, 1932, Part V, page 133.

CHAPTER II.

REPATRIATION.

General right of repatriation after three years in Assam.

7. Every emigrant labourer, on the expiry of three years from the date of his entry into Assam, shall have the right of repatriation as against the employer employing him at such expiry.

Right to repatriation on dismissal.

8. (1) Any emigrant labourer who, before the expiry of three years from his entry into Assam, is dismissed by his employer, otherwise than for wilful and serious misconduct, shall have the right of repatriation against such employer.

(2) Where any emigrant labourer is dismissed by his employer before the expiry of three years from his entry into Assam, and his employer refuses or fails to repatriate him, the labourer may apply to the Controller, and the Controller, after such inquiry as he may think fit and after giving the employer an opportunity to be heard, may declare that the labourer has the right of repatriation against such employer

Rights of repatriation of family of deceased emigrant labourer.

9. (1) Where an emigrant labourer other than a married woman living with her husband and having no child living with her dies within three years of his entry into Assam, the family of such labourer shall be entitled to be repatriated by the employer last employing him.

(2) Where such deceased labourer leaves a widow, she shall be deemed to be an emigrant labourer in whom a right of repatriation has arisen.

(3) Where there is no such widow, the Controller shall have all powers necessary to enforce the rights of the family under this section, and may take such action as he may deem to be expedient in their interests.

Right to apply for repatriation in certain circumstances.

10. (1) An emigrant labourer may, before the expiry of three years from his entry into Assam, apply to the Controller for a declaration of his right to repatriation on any of the following grounds, namely,—

(a) that his state of health makes it imperative that he should leave Assam, or

(b) that his employer has failed to provide him with work suited to his capacity, at the normal rate of wages for that class of work, or

(c) that his employer has unjustly withheld any portion of any wages due to him, or

(d) any other sufficient cause.

(2) An emigrant labourer may, before the expiry of one year from his entry into Assam, apply to the Controller for a declaration of his right to repatriation on any of the following grounds namely,—

(a) that he was recruited by coercion, undue influence, fraud or misrepresentation, or

(b) that he was recruited otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder.

(3) The Controller, after such inquiry as he may think fit and after giving the employer an opportunity to be heard, may declare that an emigrant labourer applying under this section has a right of repatriation against his employer :

Provided that a declaration in pursuance of clause (d) of sub-section (1) may be made by the Controller only and not by any other officer exercising the powers of the Controller by or under this Act.

Objects and Reasons.

Section 10 (1) (d). — "We consider that it is not possible to provide specifically for all the grounds which might warrant repatriation and that cases of serious hardship may arise which do not satisfy the criteria given in the original Bill. We have therefore provided that the Controller should have power to order repatriation for a cause not specifically provided for in sub-clauses (a), (b) and (c), if in his opinion it is sufficient cause. As a safeguard in the exercise of this very wide power we have provided that it shall only be exercised by the Controller himself and not by another officer exercising the powers of a Controller by or under the Act."—S. C. R.

Power of criminal Courts to order repatriation.

11. Where any employer of an emigrant labourer, or any agent of such employer in authority over such labourer, is convicted of any offence committed against such labourer and punishable under Chapter XVI of the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for one year or upwards, the convicting Court or the appellate Court or the High Court when exercising its powers of revision may declare that such labourer has a right of repatriation against such employer.

Incidents of the right of repatriation.

12. (1) When an emigrant labourer has a right of repatriation against any employer, the employer or his agent shall defray the cost of the return journey of the emigrant labourer and his family from the station nearest the employer's tea estate to the home of the labourer and shall provide subsistence allowances on the prescribed scale for such labourer and his family for the time requisite for him and his family to travel from such estate to his home :

Provided that where the emigrant labourer is a married woman living with her husband who is also an emigrant labourer, her right of repatriation arising under section 7 shall extend only to herself and any children dependent on her :

Provided further that a married woman living with her husband is entitled to be treated as a member of his family notwithstanding that she is herself an emigrant labourer.

(2) In the event of any dispute regarding the cost of the return journey or subsistence allowances, the question shall be referred for decision to the Controller.

The discharge of an employer's duty to repatriate.

13. (1) Within fifteen days from the date on which a right of repatriation arises to an emigrant labourer, or within such shorter period as the authority declaring such right may determine, the employer concerned shall, subject to any agreement under section 14, make all necessary arrangements for the homeward journey of the labourer and his family, and shall despatch them on their journey :

Provided that an employer shall not be required to make such arrangements for or any payment in respect of any adult person who does not wish to leave Assam.

(2) Where an employer fails to comply with the provisions of sub-section (1), the right of repatriation of the emigrant labourer concerned shall not be affected, but the employer shall be liable to pay to the labourer one rupee for each day on which he is in default:

Provided that on application made to him by either party the Controller may direct that the labourer shall be paid at a lower rate than one rupee a day or at a higher rate not exceeding two rupees a day, and may also determine the number of days, being a reasonable number regard being had to all the circumstances of the case, for which the payment shall be made.

Postponement, waiver and forfeiture of the right.

14. (1) An emigrant labourer may, by agreement with his employer, postpone his exercise of the right of repatriation, or may waive it conditionally or unconditionally, but no such agreement shall be valid unless it is in writing and in the prescribed form and has been made not more than one month before the right of repatriation arises :

Provided that the [a][Central Government] may, by notification in the [b][Official Gazette], make rules requiring that in any area such agreement shall be made in the prescribed manner before a prescribed authority and that the prescribed authority, if satisfied that the labourer understands the terms of his agreement, and his rights in regard to repatriation, shall ratify the agreement :

Provided further that after such rules come into force no such agreement shall be valid unless it is so made and ratified.

(2) Where an emigrant labourer having a right to repatriation fails without reasonable cause to proceed on his homeward journey at the time arranged by his employer, the employer may notify the Controller of such failure, and the Controller, after such inquiry as he may think fit and after giving the labourer an opportunity to be heard, may declare that the labourer has forfeited his right of repatriation, and such labourer shall not be entitled to repatriation again as against any employer, save by an order of the Court under section 11.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Governor-General in Council". [b] Substituted by A. O. for "Gazette of India".

Objects and Reasons

"We consider it desirable to restrict the power of contracting out of the right of repatriation to avoid the possibility of an emigrant labourer so contracting at the time of his first arrival in Assam or long before the right arises. We have also expanded the proviso in the interests of the labourer who should, we consider, be in a position to understand exactly what he is foregoing when waiving his right of repatriation."—S. C. R.

Power of the Controller to enforce the provisions of this Chapter.

15. (1) Where the Controller, on information obtained from any source and after such inquiry as he may think fit and after giving the employer concerned an opportunity to be heard, is of opinion that an emigrant labourer is entitled to repatriation under any of the provisions of this Chapter, or is entitled to the payment of any sum of money under the provisions of sub section (2) of section 13, the Controller may direct the employer concerned to despatch such labourer and his family or to pay him the sum of money within such period as the Controller may fix.

(2) If the employer fails to comply with such direction, the Controller may repatriate the labourer and his family or pay him the sum of money out of any funds at the Controller's disposal and shall recover the costs incurred from the employer.

(3) For the purposes of such recovery the Controller may certify the costs to be recovered to the Collector, who shall recover the amount and may recover it as an arrear of land-revenue.

(4) The Controller shall have similar powers in regard to any person in Assam who he knows or has reason to believe is a member of the family of a repatriated emigrant labourer who should have been repatriated along with such labourer.

CHAPTER III.

(2) A notification under sub-section (1) shall be expressed to take effect from a date not earlier than two months from the date of its publication, and during the said two months licences

(Vol 22) 1935 Pat 411 (413).

[1] Rule making power is expressed very widely in S. 21 (1) and under it, R. 30 is validly made so far as a woman unaccompanied by her husband is concerned. It makes no difference that the local forwarding agent also incurs liabilities under Rr. 19 and 20 read with R. 32 in respect of "women unaccompanied by their husbands." (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 411 (414).

[2] Case under R. 33 for contravening provisions of R. 30 of the Rules framed by the Local Government under the powers conferred by S. 21 of the Act—Magistrate ought not to proceed upon the minimum number of witnesses with the result that the superior Court may find it necessary to remand the case for further evidence. Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"The main object of this Bill is to give power to the Government, and to any company or person licensed under section 4 of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, and specially empowered in this behalf, to place telegraph lines under or over property belonging whether to private persons or to public bodies.

The attention of the Government has recently been directed to the fact that, as the law now stands, the Governor-General in Council and his licensees have no power to place telegraph lines upon the land of municipal or other similar bodies or of private persons. In England the requisite powers are conferred on the Postmaster-General, who works and maintains the telegraphs in that country, by 26 and 27 Vic., cap. 112, as amended by 41 and 42 Vic., cap. 76; and as it seems desirable that the Government in which the exclusive privilege of establishing telegraphs in this country is vested should possess somewhat similar powers, the present Bill has been prepared.

Section 3 empowers the Government or any company or person licensed under section 4 of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, and specially authorized by a Government officer to place and maintain telegraph lines and posts under, over, along, across, in or upon the property of any "person", which term includes a body corporate. It is considered that licensees should have these powers, because the licenses granted always strictly limit the area of the operations of the licensees, and it would be somewhat anomalous for local bodies and private persons to have the power to neutralize the licenses granted by the Governor General in Council by objecting to the licensees' operations, or by hampering them by the exaction of fees for permission to work under their licenses. The powers thus given are, however, to be exercised so as to do as little damage as possible, and their exercise is moreover made subject to important restrictions and conditions.

When the property belongs to a municipal board or other local authority, the powers conferred by the Act cannot be exercised over it without the consent of that authority; and that consent may be given subject to conditions. Among other conditions which can be imposed is one requiring that any expenses to which the local authority may be put by the exercise of the power shall be made good ; but it will be observed that no provision is made for the payment of compensation on any other account to a local authority whose property is made use of for this purpose, it being considered that, as the construction of telegraphs is a matter in which the public are interested, no charge should be made for accommodation of this sort when it can be granted without inconvenience to the public or expense to the local authority concerned.

It may sometimes happen that, though at the time when a telegraph authority desires to exercise its powers over some property of a local authority there may be no reasonable ground for objecting, and the local authority may thus find itself compelled to consent, a state of things may subsequently arise under which the continued exercise of the powers would be felt as a grave public inconvenience or a cause of serious loss. Land, e. g., which was waste at the time the telegraph line was constructed over it might afterwards be required for some important public object or might acquire great value for building purposes, and, as no compensation (except for actual expenses out of pocket) would have been paid to the local authority at the time the line was constructed, it is but just that provision should be made for the removal or alteration of the line in such an event. This accordingly is done by section 5 of the Bill, which empowers the local authority to call upon the telegraph authority to remove or alter its telegraph or post, and, in the event of the telegraph authority refusing or neglecting to do so, gives an appeal to the Local Government.

In the event, which it is believed will be rare, of a local authority arbitrarily refusing its consent to the exercise by a telegraph authority of the powers conferred by the Bill or clogging its consent with unreasonable conditions, it will (section 7) be open to the telegraph authority to appeal to the Local Government, whose decision will be final.

Turning now to the case in which it may be desired to exercise the powers given by the Bill over the property of private persons, it will be seen that here provision is made for the payment of full compensation, the amount of which in the event of dispute will (section 9) be determined by the Civil Court, and that, in the event of a person upon whose property a telegraph line or post has been placed desiring subsequently to deal with the property in such a way as would make it necessary or convenient that the line or post should be removed to another part of it or to a higher or lower level or altered in form, he can (section 10) tender the cost of the work and call upon the telegraph authority to remove or alter the line or post, and, if that authority refuses to do so, can appeal to the Civil Court.

It may be observed, however, that in practice in this country the power of taking telegraph lines through private property is not likely to be exercised either by the Government or by its licensees except on rare occasions, and then as a rule only to the extent of crossing with the wire, a post being scarcely ever erected on private land. Private property has hitherto been always avoided as much as possible, and it is likely to be still more carefully avoided in future if it is made clear, as it is proposed to do by this Bill, that full compensation will have to be paid for exercising the power over private and not for exercising it over public property.

The present opportunity has been taken to make three amendments of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, which experience has shown to be desirable. The first has for its object the emendation of the definition of "telegraph" so as to bring it into more exact conformity with the construction put upon the definitions in the English Acts by a recent decision of the High Court of Justice in England.

The second is intended to provide for the regulation of telegraph lines constructed by the Government but leased to companies or individuals by whom they are worked. The position of such lines under the Act as it at present stands is far from clear, and the object of the amendment proposed in section 12 of the Bill is to put them on much the same footing as licensed lines.

The object of the third amendment, which is made by section 13 of the Bill, is to prescribe penalties for the breach of the rules made under section 8 of the Act for the conduct of telegraphs worked under license or lease. In such cases, as the Act now stands, the only remedy is to revoke the license or lease, but this course would in most cases cause such great public inconvenience that it is impracticable. The result is that at present there is virtually no penalty for the infringement of the rules made under section 8 of the Act. To remedy this state of things, the Bill adds a clause to that section empowering the Governor-General in Council to prescribe by the rules moderate fines for the breach of them."

"We are of opinion that it would be for the convenience of the Telegraph Department and the public that Act I of 1876 should be repealed and re-enacted with most of the modifications and additions proposed by the Bill as introduced. We have accordingly re-drawn the Bill as a consolidating measure."

[1] A claim for compensation should be promptly settled. If the owner of land chooses to sleep over his rights so as to make it difficult for the Court to decide as to what amount of compensation should have been offered in the first instance, the application may become liable to dismissal on this ground. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 186 (190): I L R (1943) Lah 677 (DB).

[2] Hydro-Electric Department erecting aerial line span over petitioner's land and refusing compensation — Application under S. 16 to the District Judge — Refusal of application on the ground that the petitioner should have applied to the District Magistrate for the removal of line first before approaching Court on the question of compensation : Held that S. 17 referred only to re-payment of compensation already paid and not to payment of compensation to the owner and that it was not necessary for the owner to apply for removal of line before asking Court for compensation. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 982 (983) : 17 Lah 391.

[3] Article 181 of the Limitation Act, does not apply to applications under S. 16 of this Act. They cannot therefore be rejected as time-barred under any of the provisions of the Limitation Act. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 186 (189) : ILR (1943) Lah 677 (DB).

[4] The District Judge acts as a civil Court in dealing with applications for compensation under S. 16 (3) (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 186 (187):ILR (1943) Lah 677 (DB).

[5] Section 16 does not refer to the sufficiency of the compensation actually paid but to the sufficiency of the compensation to be paid under S 10. If damage is actually caused and Government proposes to pay nothing, while the other party insists that substantial damage has been done, then there is clearly a dispute with regard to the sufficiency of the compensation to be paid under S. 10, and the District Judge has jurisdiction to entertain an application for compensation by the party aggrieved. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 186 (188) : ILR (1943) Lah 677 (DB).

[6] The Act does not refer to damage to property. It refers to damage sustained by any person interested through exercise of special powers vested in Department, and a depreciation in the value of land would be damage sustained by the owner. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 982 (983) : 17 Lah 391.

[7] High Court has power to entertain petition for revision of order passed by District Judge under S. 16. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 186 (187) : I L R (1943) Lah 677 (DB).

(2) If, after the making of an order under sub-section (1), any person resists the exercise of those powers, or, having control over the property, does not give all facilities for their being exercised, he shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

(3) If any dispute arises concerning the sufficiency of the compensation to be paid under section 10, clause (d), it shall on application for that purpose be either of the disputing parties to the District Judge within whose jurisdiction the property is situate, be determined by him.

(4) If any dispute arises as to the persons entitled to receive compensation or as to the proportions in which the persons interested are entitled to share in it, the telegraph authority may pay into the Court of the District Judge such amount as he deems sufficient, or, where all the disputing parties have in writing admitted the amount tendered to be sufficient or the amount has been determined under sub-section (3), that amount; and the District Judge, after giving notice to the parties and hearing such of them as desire to be heard, shall determine the persons entitled to receive the compensation or, as the case may be, the proportions in which the persons interested are entitled to share in it.

(5) Every determination of a dispute by a District Judge under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) shall be final :

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall affect the right of any person to recover by suit the whole or any part of any compensation paid by the telegraph authority from the person who has received the same.

Removal or alteration of telegraph line or post on property other than that of a local authority.

17. (1) When, under the foregoing provisions of this Act, a telegraph line or post has been placed by the telegraph authority under, over, along, across, in or upon any property, not being property vested in or under the control or management of a local authority, and any person entitled to do so desires to deal with that property in such a manner as to render it necessary or convenient that the telegraph line or post should be removed to another part thereof or to a higher or lower level or altered in form, he may require the telegraph authority to remove or alter the line or post accordingly :

Provided that, if compensation has been paid under section 10, clause (d), he shall, when making the requisition, tender to the telegraph authority the amount requisite to defray the expense of the removal or alteration, or half of the amount paid as compensation, whichever may be the smaller sum.

(2) If the telegraph authority omits to comply with the requisition, the person making it may apply to the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the property is situate to order the removal or alteration.

(3) A District Magistrate receiving an application under sub-section (2) may, in his discretion, reject the same or make an order absolutely or subject to conditions, for the removal of the telegraph line or post to any other part of the property or to a higher or lower level, or for the alteration of its form; and the order so made shall be final.

Provisions applicable to all Property.

Removal of trees interrupting telegraphic communication.

18. (1) If any tree standing or lying near a telegraph line interrupts, or is likely to interrupt telegraphic communication, a Magistrate of the first or second class may on the application of the telegraph authority, cause the tree to be removed or dealt with in such other way as he deems fit.

(2) When disposing of an application under sub-section (1), the Magistrate shall, in the case of any tree in existence before the telegraph line was placed, award to the persons interested in the tree such compensation as he thinks reasonable, and the award shall be final.

[1] The proceedings under S. 17 are governed by Art. 181, Limitation Act. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 982 (983): 17 Lah 391.

Section 18 — Note 1

[1] Section 18 does not authorise direct action on the part of the telegraph authorities. Where a line is laid across a tope it may be necessary first of all to cut down certain trees in order that the line might be laid. Then it may be desirable to cut down certain more trees because of their proximity to the line so as to constitute potential danger to it. In such cake the engineer should apply to the Magistrate who would have to use his discretion as to what trees the owner is bound to clear away. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 900 (900). (Where engineer directly acts he must award compensation.)

Telegraph lines and posts placed before the passing of this Act.

19. Every telegraph line or post placed before the passing of this Act under, over, along across, in or upon any property, for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the [a][Central Government], shall be deemed to have been placed in exercise of the powers conferred by, and after observance of all the requirements of, this Act.

Person exercising legal right likely to damage telegraph or interfere with telegraphic communication to give notice.

[a][19A. (1) Any person desiring to deal in the legal exercise of a right with any property in such a manner as is likely to cause damage to a telegraph line or post which has been duly placed in accordance with the provisions of this Act, or to interrupt or interfere with telegraphic communication, shall give not less than one month's notice in writing of the intended exercise of such right to the telegraph authority, or any telegraph officer whom the telegraph authority may empower in this behalf.

(2) If any such person without having complied with the provisions of sub-section (1) deals with any property in such a manner as is likely to cause damage to any telegraph line or post, or to interrupt or interfere with telegraphic communication, a Magistrate of the first or second class may, on the application of the telegraph authority, order such person to abstain from dealing with such property in such manner for a period not exceeding one month from the date of his order and forthwith to take such action with regard to such property as may be in the opinion of the Magistrate necessary to remedy or prevent such damage, interruption or interference during such period.

(3) A person dealing with any property in the manner referred to in sub-section (1) with the bona fide intention of averting imminent danger of personal injury to himself or any other human being shall be deemed to have complied with the provisions of the said sub section if he gives such notice of the intended exercise of the right as is in the circumstances possible, or where no such previous notice can be given without incurring the imminent danger referred to above, if he forthwith gives notice of the actual exercise of such right to the authority or officer specified in the said sub-section.]

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords Spiritual and Temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

[THE INDIAN] TOLLS ACT, 1864.

(Act XV of 1864)

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"The object of this Bill is to amend the Schedule annexed to Act VIII of 1851, which regulates the rates of Toll to be levied on Public Roads and Bridges throughout India.

The Schedule in question has been found to be defective in some respects. The maximum rates are many of them too low, and certain provisions, — such as one which enacts that Toll is to be levied on carts and hackeries according to the diameter of the wheels—are oppressive, and open a door to extortion on the part of the Toll Collectors. Altogether it is desirable that the Schedule should be revised and modified.

In the Schedule which is annexed to the present Bill, the maximum rates which may be levied have been on the average somewhat increased; and such other modifications as experience has proved to be necessary have been introduced."

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"The object of this Bill is to remove doubts as to the operation of Acts VIII of 1851 and XV of 1864 in the Punjab, and to validate the levy of tolls in that Province under those Acts. Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"Section 143 of the Army Act (44 & 45 Vict, C. 58) exempts certain officers, soldiers and other persons, and certain animals, baggage and carriages belonging or attached to the Army, from the payment of certain tolls, and the provision is applicable to India in common with the rest of Her Majesty's dominions. In the Indian Statute-book, however, there are several enactments on the same subject; and these, while they provide for exemption from the payment of tolls of the classes referred to in the Army Act, do so in favour of persons more or less different from those indicated in that Act. Moreover, there are some Acts of the Indian legislatures which authorize the levy of tolls of the same classes as those described in the English Statute, but which either contain no exempting clauses at all or merely contain clauses empowering the Executive to allow exemptions.

In these circumstances, it has been decided to legislate. In the case of those Indian enactments which contain lists of exempted persons and property, legislation is necessary in order to remove the conflict which at present exists between them and the Army Act. The latter would of course prevail if the conflict were brought to the notice of the Courts but, so long as the Indian enactments remain as they now are, it is probable that full effect may not always in practice be given to the Army Act. In the case, too, of the remaining enactments of the Indian Legislatures above mentioned, it is not unlikely that the provisions of S. 143, Army Act, may be overlooked, tolls being levied under the local law in cases in which their levy is in reality prohibited by Parliament.

The present Bill reproduces S. 143, Army Act, except sub-section (2), which does not apply to India and amplifies its provisions so as to cover certain additional exemptions, all inconsistent provisions to be found in the Indian Statute book being at the same time repealed. Section 22, Indian Councils Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict., C. 67), prevents the repeal of S. 113, Army Act by the Governor General's Legislative Council, but it is believed that there is nothing to prevent that Council from re-enacting the section, and, in doing so, extending the list of persons and property to be exempted from payment of tolls. The list now given in the Bills is a provisional one only. It requires careful consideration, and attention is, therefore, specially invited to its details. . .."—Gazette of India, 1899, Part V, p. 175.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"In May 1879 the Government of India introduced a Bill in The Imperial Legislative Council for the registration of trade marks in India, but legislation was not proceeded with owing to lack of support from commercial bodies. Since then the question of undertaking legislation has been considered by the Government of India on several occasions. Until 1928 commercial opinion in India was found, either unanimously or on the balance, to be against the proposal. The demand for legislation has, however, strengthened during the last 10 years with growth of industry and trade in India and the increasing realisation that without a system of statutory registration trade marks cannot enjoy adequate protection either at home or abroad.

The proposals in the Bill are generally based on the United Kingdom Trade Marks Act, 1938 (1 & 2 Geo. VI Ch. 22) . . . ."

1. Applicability of English law. — [1] In India prior to passing of this Act, rights and liabilities in connection with trade marks were determined by reference to principles of Common law of England. Definitions. 2. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "associated trade marks" means trade marks deemed to be, or required to be registered as, associated trade marks under this Act;

(b) "certification trade mark" means a mark adapted in relation to any goods to distinguish in the course of trade goods certified by any person in respect of origin, material, mode of manufacture, quality, accuracy or other characteristic, from goods not so certified and registrable as such under the provisions of chapter VIII in respect of those goods in the name, as proprietor of the certification trade mark, of that person;

[2] Decision of High Court in India not conflicting with ordinary principles of jurisprudence and those forbidding passing off of goods will not be disturbed by Privy Council. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 187 (191) : 51 Ind App 269 : 51 Cal 892 (PC).

2. Protection of trade marks.—[1] A registered trade mark as such is not protected. The owner has to prove by evidence that the trade mark or name is associated in the mind of the public with the goods manufactured by him. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 600 (601).

[2] Protection cannot be granted unless it is established that the particular mark indicates not merely a certain quality of goods but also that they are the goods of a particular manufacture. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 101 (106) : 59 Bom 373 ✠(Vol 29) 1942 Mad 179 (179, 180). (Fact that plaintiff did not deal in article which defendant put upon market in plaintiff's name is no defence)

[3] Where a name has acquired a secondary significance as exclusively denoting goods of a particular trader, mere dissimilarity in get up is immaterial and affords no protection. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 145 (148).

[4] Importer, who by advertising and pushing the sale of goods under a particular mark secures a wide popularity for mark in relation to goods sold by him, is entitled to protection of Court for that mark in the country of importation even against producer of goods. ('11) 35 Bom 425 (432). (('85) 8 Mad 149 (154) (DB), Relied on.)✠(Vol 26) 1939 Rang 381 (383).

[See (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 216 (221) : 50 Cal 762 (DB). (Trade mark—Plaintiff selling goods as belonging to a certain manufacturer—Defendant also selling them as of the same manufacturer — Plaintiff's reputation as importers not established — Defendant not liable in damages.)]

[See also ('37) 1937 Mad W N 271 (275, 276). (Goods imported—Importer can acquire proprietary rights in trade mark by user—Manufacturer abroad when can acquire trade mark in goods imported stated.)]

[5] There must be something beyond a mere adjective describing quality of article for a trade mark to gain protection of public. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 999 (1001, 1003) : 12 Lah 224 (DB). (If a foreign word or a word in dead language not known to people in general is used, that word itself may become a trade mark)✠ (1874) 17 E Q 29 (36, 45), Ragget v. Findlater.

[6] Trade-mark — Descriptive name and fancy name—No one is allowed to appropriate the fancy name of article. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 837 (840).

[7] There is no monopoly in use of trade mark. Hence a manufacturer of cigarettes under a particular trade-mark cannot object to use of identical mark on, say, hats or soaps. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 86 (87, 88) : 67 Ind App 212 : ILR (1940) Kar (PC) 171 : ILR (1940) All 446 (PC) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 All 7 (23) : 57 All 510 (DB). (No trader has a right to use a trade mark so nearly resembling that of another trader as to be calculated to mislead unconscious purchasers and the use of such trade-mark may be restrained by injunction)

[See also ('07) 34 Cal 495 (508) (FB).]

[8] If the mark or design is a distinctive one, trader who adopts it is entitled to protection directly. When the article, having assumed a vendible character, is launched on the market, all that is necessary for plaintiff to prove is that mark used by defendant is likely to deceive purchasers of the class who buy goods bearing plaintiff's mark; it is not necessary to prove actual deception. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 343 (345) : 1939 Rang L R 488 (FB). ((Vol 22) 1935 All 7 : 57 All 510 (DB), Relied on.)

[9] For purpose of trade-marks, cigarettes and biris are of the same class. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 158 (159) : ILR (1939) Nag 569.

SECTION 2 — SYNOPSIS

1. Clause (f).
2. Clause (l).

1. Clause (f). — [1] Definitions of "mark" and "trade mark" in cls. (f) and (l) respectively in S. 2 do no more than recognise statutorily what is understood by 'mark' and 'trade mark' at Common law. It is not necessary for consumer to know identity of person who claims trade mark in particular mark. (Vol 33) 1946 Sind 70 (72).

2. Clause (l). — A trade mark must be some visible concrete device or design affixed to goods to indicate that they are the manufacture of the person whose property the trade mark is; it might consist of name impressed in some distinctive way. When manufacturer has no exclusive right to manufacture a certain article or even articles of a particular kind, all he could claim is that no other manufacturer should so mark articles, as to pass them off as former's when they are not. ('13) 14 Cri L Jour 68 (69) : 40 Cal 281 (DB). (Distinction between trade mark and name pointed out.)

[2] Whatever be the particular mode adopted by him if the trade mark is a work or device never in use before and meaningless, except as indicating by whom the goods in connection with which it is used were made, there could be no conceivable legitimate use of it by another. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 678 (679, 680). (In such cases mere proof that trade mark of one manufacturer had been appropriated by another would be enough to entitle person aggrieved to an injunction to restrain its use.)

[3] Combination of numerals can form a trade mark if distinctive. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 101 (105):59 Bom 373.

[4] The sole right to restrain anybody from using any name that he likes in the course of any business he chooses to carry on, is a right in the nature of a trade mark. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 119 (124). ((1879) 10 Ch D 436, Levy v. Walker, Foll.)

(c) "District Court" has the meaning assigned to it in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908;

(d) "High Court" means a High Court as defined in sub-section (1) of section 219 of the Government of India Act, 1935;

(e) "limitations" (with its grammatical variations) means any limitations of the exclusive right to the use of a trade mark given by the registration of a person as proprietor thereof, including limitations of that right as to mode of use, as to use in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in within British India, or as to use in relation to goods to be exported to any market outside British India:

(f) "mark" includes a device, brand, heading, label, ticket, name, signature, word, letter or numeral or any combination thereof;

(g) "permitted use" means the use of a trade mark by a registered user thereof in relation to goods with which he is connected in the course of trade and in respect of which for the time being the trade mark remains registered and he is registered as a registered user, being use such as to comply with any conditions or restrictions to which his registration is subject;

(h) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made, in relation to proceedings before a High Court, by such High Court, and in other cases, by the Central Government;

(i) "registered" (with its grammatical variations) means registered under this Act;

(j) "registered trade mark" means a trade mark which is actually on the register;

(k) "registered user" means a person who is for the time being registered as such under section 41;

(l) "trade mark" means a mark used or proposed to be used in relation to goods for the purpose of indicating or so as to indicate a connection in the course of trade between the goods and some person having the right, either as proprietor or as registered user, to use the mark whether with or without any indication of the identity of that person;

(m) "transmission" means transmission by operation of law, devolution on the personal representative of a deceased person and any other mode of transfer, not being assignment;

(n) "tribunal" means the Registrar or, as the case may be, the Court before which the proceeding concerned is pending.

(2) References in this Act to the use of a mark shall be construed as references to the use of a printed or other visual representation of the mark, and references herein to the use of a mark in relation to goods shall be construed as references to the use thereof upon, or in any other relation whatsoever to, such goods.

Application of other laws not barred.

3. The provisions of this Act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of the provisions of any other law for the time being in force.

CHAPTER II.

6. (1) A trade mark shall not be registered unless it contains or consists of at least one of the following essential particulars, namely :—

(a) the name of a company, individual, or firm, represented in a special or particular manner ;

(b) the signature of the applicant for registration or some predecessor in his business ;

(c) one or more invented words ;

(d) one or more words having no direct reference to the character or quality of the goods, and not being, according to its ordinary signification, a geographical name or surname or the name of a sect, caste or tribe in India ;

(e) any other distinctive mark, provided that a name, signature, or any word, other than such as fall within the descriptions in the above clauses, shall not be registrable except upon evidence of its distinctiveness.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression "distinctive" means adapted, in relation to the goods in respect of which a trade mark is proposed to be registered, to distinguish goods with which the proprietor of the trade mark is or may be connected in the course of trade from goods in the case of which no such connection subsists, either generally or, where the trade mark is proposed to be registered subject to limitations, in relation to use within the extent of the registration.

SECTION 6 — SYNOPSIS

1. Distinctiveness.
2. Section 6 (3), Proviso.

1. Distinctiveness. — [1] Registrable trade mark — Essentials stated. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 344 (346) : 30 Nag L R 45 : 35 Cri L Jour 373.

[2] Words merely descriptive of patented product cannot be registered as trade mark. Descriptive words may have acquired secondary meaning. In order to ascertain whether words have acquired secondary meaning, it should be seen how the manufacturer used them, whether as a trade name or common law trade mark for indicating the origin of the goods, or merely descriptively. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 143 (146) (PC).

[3] The mark must be distinctive in the sense of being adapted to distinguish goods of proprietor of trade mark from those of other persons — Mark commonly used in market to denote goods of a particular kind is not distinctive mark ; surname is not suitable for trade mark. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 216 (217) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 665 : 39 Cri L Jour 537. (Cadbury Brothers' Application, (1915) 1 Ch 331, Rel. on.)

[4] Where a mark or phrase merely describes the quality or origin of an article as "Custard powder," "Malted Milk" or "Gripe Water," it is not capable of distinguishing goods of one from other ; but a mark is distinctive where it points to the goods of a particular person as "Lifebuoy" soap, "Wincarnis" or "Three Nuns" tobacco. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 343 (344, 345) : 1939 Rang L R 488 (FB).

[5] Trade mark — Registration—Words merely descriptive of patented product cannot be registered as trade mark — Descriptive words may however have acquired secondary meaning indicative of origin—Where words in addition to their being descriptive of goods are also the name of product of which those goods are composed and are also in common use, it is difficult to conceive that they could acquire a secondary meaning. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 143 (146, 147) (PC).

2. Section 6 (3), Proviso. — [1] The proviso to S. 6 (3) does not mean that evidence of mere user of an old trade mark would entitle it to be registered. The words "acquired distinctiveness" in the proviso cannot be interpreted as though they were equivalent to "user." ('45) 49 Cal W N 425 (430).

[2] Section 6 (3) proviso is confined to user, and empowers Registrar to take evidence to find out if the mark has acquired distinctiveness so as to entitle it to registration and forbids refusal of registration on sole ground that mark is not distinctive. ('45) 49 Cal W N 425 (429, 430) (Registrar of trade mark has discretion to refuse registration if it is not adapted to distinguish even though mark may have been used from date prior to 25-2-37 and his discretion should not be lightly interfered with.)

[3] Mark "India" can never acquire distinctiveness and proviso to S. 6 does not deprive Registrar of his discretion. ('45) 49 Cal W N 425 (429).

Provided that in the case of a trade mark which has been continuously used (either by the applicant for registration or by some predecessor in his business, and either in its original form or with additions or alterations not substantially affecting its identity) in relation to the same goods as those in relation to which registration is applied for, during a period from a date prior to the 25th day of February, 1937, to the date of application for registration, the Registrar shall not refuse registration by reason only of the fact that the trade mark is not adapted to distinguish as aforesaid, and may accept evidence of acquired distinctiveness as entitling the trade mark to registration.

Limitation as to colour.

7. (1) A trade mark may be limited wholly or in part to one or more specified colours, and any such limitation shall be taken into consideration by any tribunal having to decide on the distinctive character of the trade mark.

(2) So far as a trade mark is registered without limitation of colour it shall be deemed to be registered for all colours.

Prohibition of registration of certain matter.

8. No trade mark nor part of a trade mark shall be registered which consists of, or contains, any scandalous design, or any matter the use of which would—

(a) by reason of its being likely to deceive or to cause confusion or otherwise, be disentitled to protection in a Court of justice ; or

(b) be likely to hurt the religious susceptibilities of any class of His Majesty's subjects ; or

(c) be contrary to any law for the time being in force or to morality.

[Cf. 1 & 2 Geo. VI., C. 22—S. 11.]

Use of names of chemical elements barred.

9. No word which is the commonly used and accepted name of any single chemical element or single chemical compound (as distinguished from a mixture) shall be registered as a trade mark in respect of a chemical substance or preparation, and any such registration shall, notwithstanding anything in section 24, be deemed for the purposes of section 46 to be an entry made in the register without sufficient cause or an entry wrongly remaining on the register, as the circumstances may require :

Provided that this section shall not apply to a word which is used to denote only a brand or make of the element or compound as made by the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark, as distinguished from the element or compound as made by others, and in association with a suitable name or description open to the public use.

Prohibition of registration of identical or similar trade mark.

10. (1) Save as provided in sub section (2), no trade mark shall be registered in respect of any goods or description of goods which is identical with a trade mark belonging to a different proprietor and [a][either already on the register or already registered in any Indian State to which section 82A for the time being applies] in respect of the same goods or description of goods, or which so nearly resembles such trade mark as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion.

(2) In case of honest concurrent use or of other special circumstances which, in the opinion of the Registrar, make it proper so to do he may permit the registration by more than one proprietor of trade marks which are identical or nearly resemble each other in respect of the same goods or description of goods, subject to such conditions and limitations, if any, as the Registrar may think fit to impose.

(3) Where separate applications are made by different persons to be registered as proprietors respectively of trade marks which are identical or nearly resemble each other, in respect of the same goods or description of goods, the Registrar may refuse to register any of them until their rights have been determined by a competent Court.

[a] Substituted by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act, 1946 (12 [XII] of 1946), S. 3, for "already on the register." [18-4-1946.]

Objects and Reasons.

This section prohibits the registration of identical or similar trade marks under certain conditions. This restriction will not only protect owners of registered trade marks but will also safeguard the interest of the public.

—S. O. R.

Registration of parts of trade marks and of trade marks as a series.

11. (1) Where the proprietor of a trade mark claims to be entitled to the exclusive use of any part thereof separately, he may apply to register the whole and the part as separate trade marks.

Section 9 — Note 1

[1] Where article can be denoted by a proper descriptive name, but person inventing or discovering it chooses to describe the article by a fancy name, and manufactures and sells the same under that fancy name, no one is allowed to appropriate that name, and manufacture and sell the article under that fancy name. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 837 (840). ("Urea Stibamine" is not descriptive name of article at all and has no chemical meaning, but it is a fancy name.)

(2) Each such separate trade mark shall satisfy all the conditions applying to, and have all the incidents of, an independent trade mark.

(3) Where a person claiming to be the proprietor of several trade marks in respect of the same goods or description of goods which, while resembling each other in the material particulars thereof, yet differ in respect of—

(a) statements of the goods in relation to which they are respectively used or proposed to be used ; or

(b) statements of number, price, quality, or names of places ; or

(c) other matter of a non-distinctive character which does not substantially affect the identity of the trade mark ; or seeks to register those trade marks, they may be registered as a series in one registration.

(d) colour ;

Objects and Reasons.

The registration as a series in one registration of marks which resemble each other in material respects is designed to secure that in the event of the assignment or transmission of such marks there will be no deception or confusion resulting from separate ownership. Such marks are deemed to be associated marks and are assignable or transmissible only as a whole and separately—S. O. R.

Associated trade marks.

12. (1) Where a trade mark which is registered, or is the subject of an application for registration, in respect of any goods is identical with another trade mark which is registered, or is the subject of an application for registration, in the name of the same proprietor in respect of the same goods or description of goods, or so nearly resembles it as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion if used by a person other than the proprietor, the Registrar may at any time require that the trade marks shall be entered on the register as associated trade marks.

(2) Where a trade mark and any part thereof are, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 11, registered as separate trade marks in the name of the same proprietor, they shall be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(3) All trade marks registered in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 11 as a series in one registration shall be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(4) On application made in the prescribed manner by the registered proprietor of two or more trade marks registered as associated trade marks, the Registrar may dissolve the association as respects any of them if he is satisfied that there would be no likelihood of deception or confusion being caused if that trade mark were used by any other person in relation to any of the goods in respect of which it is registered, and may amend the register accordingly.

Registration subject to disclaimer.

13. If a trade mark contains —

(a) any part not separately registered as a trade mark in the name of the proprietor, or for the separate registration of which no application has been made, or

(b) any matter common to the trade, or otherwise of a non-distinctive character, the tribunal, in deciding whether the trade mark shall be entered or shall remain on the register, may require, as a condition of its being on the register, that the proprietor shall either disclaim any right to the exclusive use of such part or of all or any portion of such matter, as the case may be, to the exclusive use of which the tribunal holds him not to be entitled, or make such other disclaimer as the tribunal may consider necessary for the purpose of defining the rights of the proprietor under the registration :

Provided that no disclaimer shall affect any rights of the proprietor of a trade mark except such as arise out of the registration of the trade mark in respect of which the disclaimer is made.

Objects and Reasons.

The object of this section is to prevent the creation of a monopoly in non-distinctive parts of a registered trade mark—S. O. R.

CHAPTER III.

PROCEDURE FOR, AND DURATION OF, REGISTRATION.

Application for registration.

14. (1) Any person claiming to be the proprietor of a trade mark used or proposed to be used by him who is desirous of registering it shall apply in writing to the Registrar in the prescribed manner, and subject to the provisions of this Act, the Registrar may refuse the application or may accept it absolutely or subject to such amendments, modifications, conditions or limitations, if any, as he may think fit.

(2) In the case of a refusal or conditional acceptance the Registrar shall, if required by the applicant, state in writing the grounds of his decision and the materials used by him in arriving thereat.

(3) The tribunal may at any time, whether before or after acceptance, correct any error in or in connection with the application, or may permit the applicant to amend his application upon such terms as it may think fit."

Opposition to registration.

15. (1) When an application for registration of a trade mark has been accepted, whether absolutely or subject to conditions or limitations, the Registrar shall, as soon as may be after acceptance, cause the application as accepted, together with the conditions and limitations, if any, subject to which it has been accepted, to be advertised in the prescribed manner :

Provided that the Registrar may cause an application to be advertised before acceptance if it relates to a trade mark to which clause (e) of sub-section (1) of section 6 applies, or in any other case where it appears to him that it is expedient by reason of any exceptional circumstances so to do, and where an application has been so advertised the Registrar may, if he thinks fit, advertise it again when it has been accepted, but shall not be bound so to do.

(2) Any person may, within the prescribed time from the date of the advertisement of an application, give notice in writing in the prescribed manner to the Registrar of opposition to the registration.

(3) The Registrar shall serve in the prescribed manner a copy of the notice on the applicant, and within the prescribed time the applicant shall send to the Registrar, in the prescribed manner, a counter-statement of the grounds on which he relies for his application, and, if he does not do so, he shall be deemed to have abandoned his application.

(4) If the applicant sends such counter-statement, the Registrar shall serve in the prescribed manner a copy thereof on the persons giving notice of opposition, and shall, after hearing the parties, if so required, and considering the evidence, decide whether, and subject to what conditions or limitations, if any, registration is to be permitted.

(5) If a person giving notice of opposition or an applicant sending a counter-statement after receipt of a copy of such notice, or an appellant against any order of the Registrar under section 14 or this section, neither resides nor carries on business in British India, the tribunal may require him to give security for costs of the proceedings before it, and in default of such security being duly given may treat the opposition or application or appeal, as the case may be, as abandoned.

Registration.

16. (1) When an application for registration of a trade mark has been accepted and either has not been opposed and the time for notice of opposition has expired, or having been opposed, has been decided in favour of the applicant, the Registrar shall, unless the application has been accepted in error, or unless the Central Government otherwise directs, register the said trade mark, and the trade mark, when registered, shall be registered, as of the date of the making of the said application, and that date shall, subject to any directions made under section 82 applicable to such trade mark, be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the date of registration.

(2) On the registration of a trade mark the Registrar shall issue to the applicant a certificate in the prescribed form of the registration thereof sealed with the seal of the [a][Trade Marks Registry].

(3) Where registration of a trade mark is not completed within twelve months from the date of the application by reason of default on the part of the applicant, the Registrar may, after giving notice to the applicant in the prescribed manner, treat the application as abandoned unless it is completed within the time specified in that behalf in the notice.

[a] Substituted by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act, 1943 (XV [15] of 1943), S. 3, for "Patent Office". [5-6-1943.]

Jointly owned trade marks.

17. (1) Save as provided in sub-section (2), nothing in this Act shall authorise the registration of two or more persons who use a trade mark independently, or propose so to use it, as joint proprietors thereof.

(2) Where the relations between two or more persons interested in a trade mark are such that no one of them is entitled as between himself and the other or others of them to use it except—

(a) on behalf of both or all of them, or

(b) in relation to an article with which both or all of them are connected in the course of trade, those persons may be registered as joint proprietors of the trade mark, and this Act shall have effect in relation to any rights to the use of the trade mark vested in those persons as if those rights had been vested in a single person.

Duration and renewal of registration.

18. (1) The registration of a trade mark shall be for a period of seven years, but may be renewed from time to time in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) The Registrar shall, on application made by the registered proprietor of a trade mark in the prescribed manner and within the prescribed period, renew the registration of the trade mark for a period of fifteen years from the date of expiration of the original registration or of the last renewal of registration, as the case may be (which date is in this section referred to as "the expiration of the last registration.")

(3) At the prescribed time before the expiration of the last registration of a trade mark, the Registrar shall send notice in the prescribed manner to the registered proprietor of the date of expiration and the conditions as to payment of fees and otherwise upon which a renewal of registration may be obtained, and if at the expiration of the time prescribed in that behalf those conditions have not been duly complied with the Registrar may remove the trade mark from the register, subject to such conditions (if any) as to its restoration to the register as may be prescribed.

Effect of removal from register for failure to pay fee for renewal.

19. Where a trade mark has been removed from the register [a][under this Act, or from the register of trade marks in any Indian State to which section 82A for the time being applies,] for failure to pay the fee for renewal, it shall nevertheless, for the purpose of any application for the registration of another trade mark during one year next after the date of the removal, be deemed to be a trade mark already on the register, unless the tribunal is satisfied either—

(a) that there has been no bona fide trade use of the trade mark which has been removed during the two years immediately preceding its removal; or

(b) that no deception or confusion would be likely to arise from the use of the trade mark which is the subject of the application for registration by reason of any previous use of the trade mark which has been removed.

[a] Inserted by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act, 1946 (12 [XII] of 1946), S. 4. [18-4-1946.]

CHAPTER IV.

EFFECT OF REGISTRATION.

No action for infringement of unregistered trade mark.

20. (1) No person shall be entitled to institute any proceeding to prevent, or to recover damages for, the infringement of an unregistered trade mark unless such trade mark has been continuously in use since before the 25th day of February 1937, by such person or by a predecessor in title of his and unless an application for its registration, made within five years from the commencement of this Act, has been refused; and the Registrar shall, on application in the prescribed manner, grant a certificate that such application has been refused.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect rights of action against any person for passing off goods as the goods of another person or the remedies in respect thereof.

[2] In India before the passing of this Act, only right of action a trader or manufacturer had was common law right of action entitling him to an injunction restraining use of trade mark belonging to him if such use was calculated to pass off the defendant's goods as goods of plaintiff. 2 Para 2.—Passing off action.—[1] The gist of a passing off action is deceit, for passing off is one of the ways by which the purchaser may be deceived into thinking that the goods of one trader are the goods of another. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 101 (110): 59 Bom 373.

[2] Condition precedent to action for infringement is registration. But in a 'passing off' action, it is not a question of title, but false representation. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 297 (299): 12 Rang 534 ✠(Vol 30) 1943 Lah 196 (206): I L R (1943) Lah 427 (DB) (Evidence of actual deception — Absence of is a material consideration though not conclusive.) ✠(Vol 29) 1942 Bom 241 (247) (DB). (Foundation of action is deception or possibility of deception but it is not action of deceit; difference in nature, essentials, and burden of proof in action of deceit and passing off action stated and explained). ✠(Vol 27) 1940 Mad 145 (145).

[3] Fundamental rule is that one man has no right to put off his goods for sale as goods of a rival trader, and he cannot be allowed to use names, marks, letters or other indicia by which he may induce purchasers to believe that goods which he is selling are the manufacture of another person. [4] Passing off suit is in essence a suit in defence of plaintiff's right of property in particular name, make or get-up he claims and in the good-will he attributes thereto ('35) 157 Ind Cas 902 (906) (Rang.)

[5] In a "passing off" action, fraud is not a necessary element of the right of action. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 759 (759) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 418 (419): I L R (1937) Bom 85. (In a passing off action, likelihood of public being deceived is sufficient. The presumption that man intends the natural and ordinary consequences of his act is applicable to passing off action).

[6] Plaintiff must establish that he has acquired for himself or his goods a sufficient reputation under the mark or name by which in consequence of use of that mark, his goods have come to be known to entitle him to treat it as his own and to be protected. 3. Remedies.—[1] A trader having acquired in any language the exclusive right to the use of certain particular marks not merely as descriptive of but as distinctive of the goods, has the right to restrain another trader from copying those words for a similar class of goods in any other language in India. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 3 (7).

[2] Where B encased a medicine in such a way that it could be readily passed off so as to deceive the ordinary village customer into the belief that it is A's, A is entitled to an injunction restraining B from selling it in that way. (Vol 9) 1922 All 178 (180): 44 All 608 (DB).

[3] Trade name—Passing off—Rights in respect of name of business are different from those of trade mark. Name common to trade likely to deceive public—Injunction should be granted restraining defendant from using name likely to deceive public. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 109 (113): 61 Cal 571.

[4] Plaintiff in a passing off action can make his choice of either an account and payment to him of the profits which the defendant has wrongfully gained or an enquiry as to, and payment of, damages occasioned to him. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 3 (10) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 293 (296) (DB). (But in the latter case, the ordinary rule is to ascertain the actual losses).

[5] Where in a passing off action a plea of acquiescence or abandonment succeeds, especially where the rival trader has taken the trade mark of another in ignorance and has used it in the mistaken belief, but sincerely entertained, that he is acting within law, it will be wrong to deprive him of his costs. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 31 (36): I L R (1941) Mad 300 (DB).

[6] If there is prima facie case of deliberate intent to pass off, interlocutory injunction should be granted, even though on critical examination of the two goods side by side, purchasar is not likely to be deceived. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 226 (226) (DB).

[7] Where there is no evidence that B's goods were sold to persons desiring to purchase A's goods or that illiterate persons were misled by B's design into thinking that they were buying A's goods, A is not entitled to interlocutory injunction. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 458 (458).

[8] Similarity in the sound between the words 'Ideal' and 'cordial' and similarity of labels are sufficient grounds for granting interim injunction, for they may be intended for the purpose of getting the customers to mistake one brand for the other. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 466 (467).

SECTION 21 — SYNOPSIS

1. Exclusive right to use trade-mark—Cases before the Act.
2. Infringement of trade mark.
3. Action for infringement.
4. Similarity and deception—Criterion and Rules.
5. Function of Court.
6. Injunction and damages.
7. Onus of proof.
8. Acquiescence and delay.
9. Criminal remedy.

1. Exclusive right to use trade-mark — Cases before the Act.— [1] A registered trade-mark as such is not protected and the owner has to prove by evidence that he has acquired a right thereto in the sense that the trade-mark or the trade name is associated in the mind of the public with his goods. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 600 (601).

[2] To show that a particular trade-mark has a reputation in market is not sufficient to establish right of exclusive user of the mark. There must be such an association between the mark and firm's name as to indicate in the understanding of public that goods bearing that mark come from that particular firm. ('10) 33 Mad 402 (404) (DB) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 84 (85) : 26 Sind L R 51. (Trade-mark in respect of words "Gaoo" (cow) can be claimed if Court is satisfied that goods are identified with that device.) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 999 (1003) : 12 Lah 224 (DB). (Common words may on their association with particular goods, acquire secondary meaning and right to their exclusive user established).

[3] Number stamped on one trader's goods becoming symbol of goods of plaintiff's manufacture—Goods even of a different and inferior class may benefit from goodwill and reputation of plaintiff. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 118 (120) (DB).

[4] Fraudulent user cannot give right in trade-mark — Persons imitating trade-mark of others and causing his goods to be passed off as those of others cannot prevent another person equally guilty like himself from so doing, even if he was first in market with imitation. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 38 (41, 42).

[5] Where goods have acquired by a particular fancy description, combination or device, a reputation in the market, it is immaterial that the customers do not know who the maker is. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 183 (187) : 41 Bom 49 (DB) ✠ (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 1 (3) : I L R (1938) Mad 466 (DB). (It is immaterial whether goods are made for him in his country or abroad. Supplier's acquiring reputation in other country does not affect such merchant).

[6] A trade-mark or name may become publici juris but Court will require very strong evidence to show conclusively that the mark had become so public that nobody could be deceived and induced from the use of it to believe that he was buying the goods of the original trader. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 200 (202, 203) : 50 Bom 402.

2. Infringement of trade-mark.—[1] If goods of a manufacturer, from the mark or device he has used, have become known in the market by a particular name the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which will cause his goods to bear the same name in the market may be as much an invasion of right of that rival as the actual copy of his device. (Vol 14) 1927 All 81 (88) : 49 All 92 (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 322 (325) ✠ (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 227 (229) : 52 Bom 228 (DB). (The use of such a trade- mark may be restricted by injunction although no purchaser has actually been misled) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 149 (150, 151) : 9 Low Bur Rule 31 : 17 Cr L Jour 488. (In such cases the dissimilarity of the rival marks cannot be relied upon as a complete defence.) ✠ ('33) 6 Mad 108 (111). (No trader importing goods can lawfully adopt trade-mark calculated to cause his goods to bear in the market the same name as those of a rival trader.) ✠ ('35) 157 I C 902 (905) (Rang) (Do.).

[2] Where the number stamped on trader's dhoties has acquired reputation as goods of his manufacture, another trader cannot stamp the number on his dhoties although differing in quality and size. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 118 (120) (DB) ✠ (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 183 (187): 41 Bom 49 (DB). (The adoption of a different drawing or picture by the infringer along with the number makes no difference).

[3] Where article can be denoted by a proper descriptive name, but the inventor or discoverer chooses to describe it by a fancy name, no one is allowed to appropriate that name and sell the article under that fancy name. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 837 (840).

[4] Trade-mark applied to his shirts by a shirt maker may constitute an infringement of a trade-mark applied by another trader to his twill. (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 149 (151) : 9 Low Bur Rul 31 : 17 Cr L Jour 342.

[5] Trade-mark can be infringed by means of advertisement. (Vol 2) 1915 All 262 (262) : 37 All 446 (DB).

[6] Even though the device may not be actually copied, still it is infringement, if name adopted is such as to be capable of being passed off as the goods of the rival. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 49 (52) : 4 Rang 381.

[7] It is not infringement where a trader competes with manufacturer in selling same goods even in a place where hitherto manufacturer or his agent has been the sole importer, unless the trader has covenanted not to sell them in the particular place. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 187 (191) : 51 I A 269 : 51 Cal 892 (P C).

3. Action for infringement. — [1] Plaintiff must prove property in trade mark either as originator of it or as purchaser or by showing that even though he has copied it from another that other has abandoned it and that he has independently built up a trade and reputation on the merits of his goods. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 83 (83, 84) : ILR (1940) Kar 380 (DB).

[2] Plaintiff has to prove that his goods are known to public by some distinct name, mark, badge and that defendant's use or imitation is likely to mislead public. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 101 (104, 106) : 59 Bom 373 ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 114 (115) : 10 Rang 134 (D B) ✠ (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 705 (707) : 55 Mad 966 (DB). (The mere fact that A's goods of that name had acquired a considerable reputation is not enough).

[3] A suing for infringement need not in all cases affirmatively establish that he has not copied his trade mark (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 98 (106) : 1939 Rang L R 18 (DB).

[4] In an action for infringement of trade mark which is in substance a quia timet action, in the absence of evidence of actual confusion, a strong case must be made to justify a conclusion that confusion will result by the act sought to be restrained. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 167 (170) (PC) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 158 (159, 160) : ILR (1939) Nag 569.

[5] The questions for determination in a case of alleged infringement are (1) whether the rival has pirated the dominant device of the trader and (2) whether the rival's conduct is such as to deceive ultimate purchasers. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 183 (187) : 41 Bom 49 (DB).

[6] It is sufficient to justify the grant of relief if Court is satisfied that defendant is putting into the hands of middlemen a means whereby ultimate purchasers are likely to be defrauded. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 183 (187) : 41 Bom 49 (DB) ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 118 (120) (DB).

[7] In considering whether similarity in sound of name used by defendant with that of name used by plaintiff constitutes infringement of plaintiff's trade mark, it is not possibility of confusion but that the resemblance is such that there is a reasonable probability of deception is to be considered; evidence of apprehended confusion is of no use. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 196 (202) : ILR (1943) Lah 427 (DB).

[8] The question does not turn on honesty of defendant, if use of plaintiff's name by defendant is calculated to deceive; plaintiff is entitled to protection. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 600 (602).

[9] Item 29 of Schedules to Rules framed under the Act includes, besides edible oils and fats various other articles of food and therefore, the inclusion of edible oils, whether liquid or hydrogenated in item 29 is not a safe guide for regarding them as of the same description for purposes of infringement of trade marks. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 196 (202) : ILR (1943) Lah 427 (DB).

[10] That labels or containers of rival trade are very different from those of trade mark owner is no answer to claim of trade mark owner; difference in get up forms only an element in considering question of probability of deception (Vol 27) 1940 P C 86 (88) : I L R (1940) Kar (PC) 171 : ILR (1940) All 446 : 67 Ind App 212 (PC).

[11] Mere damage is insufficient to support an action; damage must be attributable to the passing off of other goods as plaintiff's goods. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 38 (43).

[12] When the only question to decide is whether the mark used by B infringes A's registered mark, the questions as to whether B had acquired the goodwill of any business, and whether he was properly on the register of a mark slightly different from the mark in actual use are irrelevant. (Vol 29) 1942 PC 40 (41) (PC).

[13] Rival traders, who have brought goods into the market with the same mark are not entitled to set up a defence that in some quarter of the globe some other trader had been using the mark for a period longer than the infringed trader. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 333 (335, 336) : 2 Rang 275.

[14] There is no distinction between a case in which the name, of the use of which the complaint is made, is the name of the person carrying on the business and a case in which it is not. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 461 (464) (DB).

[15] Where the labels used by B are distinct from and incapable of being mistaken for or confused with the labels of A, A will, in an action for infringement of trade marks, succeed only when he establishes by evidence that his goods are known by some name or description of such a nature that the use of B's labels will mislead people into thinking that the goods are A's. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 272 (276) (PC).

[16] A having reputation for his goods through certain trade mark can restrain B from using it not only for the same goods as A's, but also to cognate classes of goods. Similarity of marks, commercial connection between A's and B's goods and surrounding circumstances must be taken into consideration. Inference from above should not be speculative but must be probable. (Vol 22) 1935 All 7 (24, 25) : 57 All 510 (DB).

4. Similarity and deception — Criterion and Rules.—[1] True test to see whether two goods are of same species is whether the two sets of goods are so commonly dealt in by same trader that his customers knowing his mark in connection with one set and seeing it upon the other would be likely to suppose that it was used upon them also to indicate that they were his goods. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 186 (192) (DB).

[2] Actual physical resemblance not sole consideration : (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 322 (324) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 213 (215) (DB). (Absolute identity of article imitated is not necessary. Unwary purchasers should be misled).

[3] No general rule can be laid down as to what is or is not a mere colourable imitation—Standards differ and education is one of the factors — Resemblance deceiving an ordinary purchaser is to be ascertained. (Vol 14) 1927 All 81 (84, 85) : 49 All 92 (DB).

[4] The question for decision as to whether an alleged colourable imitation has or has not deceived anybody is to be decided with reference to ultimate purchaser and not evidence of experts. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 38 (44) (DB).

[5] It is a question of fact in every case whether defendant's mark is or is not a colourable imitation of plaintiff's mark ; surrounding circumstances of each case will have to be considered it is necessary to compare two marks as a whole and come to a decision. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 38 (43) (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 P C 86 (87, 88) : 67 Ind App 212 : I L R (1940) Kar (P C) 171 : I L R (1940) All 446 (PC). (Manufacturer of smoking tobacco selling his goods under certain trade mark—Manufacturer of chewing tobacco using similar mark whether is likely to deceive public that they are purchasing chewing tobacco manufactured by former is a question of fact.)

[6] In deciding whether one get up is similar to another or is calculated to deceive purchasers into believing that they are purchasing that article of the other, one must remember the class of persons who are purchasers of the article in question. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 837 (841) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 678 (680).

[8] Whether B's goods are imitations of A's goods should be decided from the points of similarity and not from the points of difference between the two. (Vol 9) 1922 All 178 (180) : 44 All 608 (DB).

[9] Slight similarity is of no consequence — Label alleged to have infringed plaintiff's trade mark has to be taken as a whole (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 196 (200) : ILR (1943) Lah. 427 (DB) ✠ (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 174 (176) : 8 Low Bur Rul 561 (DB).

[10] Fraud is presumed where the similarity is close and remains unexplained ; an intention to deceive may be inferred from circumstances of case and though no actual deception is proved. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 38 (43) (DB).

[11] The persons who have to be considered in this connection are the persons, sometimes called the unwary or the ignorant ultimate buyers, who belong to lower classes of people and nearly all of whom are illiterate. Where both parties deal in the same manufacture, mere fact that dealers in those manufactures are not deceived does not conclude case. 8. Acquiescence and delay. — [1] No hard and fast rule can be laid down for deciding when a person has, as the result of inaction, lost the right of stopping another using his mark. In all legal proceedings relating to a [a][trade mark registered under this Act or in any Indian State to which section 82A for the time being applies] the fact that a person is registered as proprietor thereof shall be prima facie evidence of the validity of the original registration of the trade mark and of all subsequent assignments and transmissions thereof.

Saving for vested rights.

25. Nothing in this Act shall entitle the proprietor or a registered user of a registered trade mark to interfere with or restrain the use by any person of a trade mark identical with or nearly resembling it in relation to goods in relation to which that person or a predecessor in title of his has continuously used that trade mark from a date prior—

(a) to the use of the first mentioned trade mark in relation to those goods by the proprietor or a predecessor in title of his, or whichever is the earlier, or to object (on such use being proved) to registration of that identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of those goods under sub-section (2) of section 10.

(b) to the registration of the first mentioned trade mark in respect of those goods in the name of the proprietor or a predecessor in title of his.

Saving for use of name, address, or description of goods.

26. No registration of a trade mark shall interfere with any bona fide use by a person of his own name or that of his place of business, or of the name, or of the name of the place of business, of any of his predecessors in business, or the use by any person of any bona fide description of the character or quality of his goods, not being a description that would be likely to be taken as importing any such reference as is mentioned in clause (b) of section 21 or in clause (b) of section 57.

Words used as name or description of an article or substance.

27. (1) The registration of a trade mark shall not be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of any use after the date of the registration of any words which the trade mark contains or of which it consists as the name or description of an article or substance :

Provided that, if it is proved either—

(a) that there is a well-known and established use of the said words as the name or description of the article or substance by a person or persons carrying on a trade therein, not being use in relation to goods connected in the course of trade with the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark or (in the case of a certification trade mark) goods certified by the proprietor; or

(b) that the article or substance has been manufactured under a patent in force at or granted after the commencement of this section, that a period of two years or more after the cesser of the patent has elapsed, and that the said words are the only practicable name or description of the article or substance,— the provisions of sub section (2) shall apply.

(a) for the purposes of any proceedings under section 46—

(i) if the trade mark consists solely of such words, the registration of the trade mark, so far as regards registration in respect of the article or substance in question or of any goods of the same description, shall be deemed to be an entry wrongly remaining on the register;

(ii) if the trade mark contains such words and other matter, the tribunal, in deciding whether the trade mark shall remain on the register, so far as regards registration in respect of the article or substance in question and of any goods of the same description, may, in case of a decision in favour of its remaining on the register, require as a condition thereof that the proprietor shall disclaim any right to the exclusive use in relation to that article or substance and any goods of the same description, of such words, provided that no disclaimer shall affect any rights of the proprietor of a trade mark except such as arise out of the registration of the trade mark in respect of which the disclaimer is made;

(b) for the purposes of any other legal proceedings relating to the trade mark,—

(i) if the trade mark consists solely of such words, all rights of the proprietor under this Act or any other law to the exclusive use of the trade mark in relation to the article or substance in question or to any goods of the same description; or

(ii) if the trade mark contains such words and other matter, all such rights of the proprietor to the exclusive use of such words in such relation as aforesaid, shall be deemed to have ceased on the date at which the use mentioned in clause (a) of the proviso to sub-section (1) first became well-known and established, or at the expiration of the period of two years mentioned in clause (b) of the said proviso.

Objects and Reasons.

The provisions of this section are designed to safeguard the legitimate interests of ex-patentees and others without permitting the creation of an exclusive monopoly in words which the trade mark contains or of which it consists as the name or description of an article or substance.—S. O. R.

CHAPTER V.

ASSIGNMENT AND TRANSMISSION.

Power of registered proprietor to assign and give receipts.

28. The person for the time being entered in the register as proprietor of a trade mark shall, subject to the provisions of this Act and to any rights appearing from the register to be vested in any other person, have power to assign the trade mark, and to give effectual receipts for any consideration for such assignment.

Assignability of registered trade marks.

29. Notwithstanding anything in any other law to the contrary, a registered trade mark shall, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, be assignable and transmissible whether in connection with the goodwill of a business or not, and in respect either of all of the goods in respect of which it is registered or of some only of those goods.

Section 28 — Note 1

[1] An originator of a trade mark of a natural product, who certifies to their good quality is entitled to it and has a right to alienate it. And successors in business have been allowed to use their predecessors' trade marks, where representation still continues to be substantially true. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 520 (522) : 42 Cal 262 (DB).

[2] Trade mark is generally transmitted in connection with goodwill of a business and can only be assigned in writing. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 101 (103) : 59 Bom 373

[3] Transferee of goodwill can use the name in which business was carried on and to represent himself as carrying on that business. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 520 (523) : 42 Cal 262 (DB).

[4] Business taken possession of by state custodian and sold out—Purchaser can use trade mark or name of original business but he cannot represent that his goods are those of original business itself. (Vol 15) 1928 P. C. 83 (85, 86) (PC).

Section 29 — Note 1

[1] A trade mark cannot be transferred in gross; no trade mark can be assigned except in connection with goodwill of business in which it has been used which business must be co-extensive with the goods or classes of goods in respect of which trade mark is registered. Assignability of unregistered trade marks.

30 An unregistered trade mark shall be assignable and transmissible whether in connection with the goodwill of a business or not :

Provided that, except in connection with the goodwill of a business, assignment or transmission shall be permissible only if—

(a) at the time of assignment or transmission of the unregistered trade mark it is used in the same business as a registered trade mark, and

(b) the registered trade mark is assigned or transmitted at the same time and to the same person as the unregistered trade mark, and

(c) the unregistered trade mark relates to goods in respect of which the registered trade mark is assigned or transmitted.

Restrictions on assignment or transmission where multiple exclusive rights would be created.

31. (1) Notwithstanding anything in sections 29 and 30, a trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible in a case in which as a result of the assignment or transmission there would in the circumstances subsist, whether under this Act or any other law, exclusive rights in more than one of the persons concerned to the use, in relation to the same goods or description of goods, of trade marks nearly resembling each other or of identical trade marks, if, having regard to the similarity of the goods and of the trade marks, the use of the trade marks in exercise of those rights would be likely to deceive or cause confusion :

Provided that an assignment or transmission shall not be deemed to be invalid under this sub-section if the exclusive rights subsisting as a result thereof in the persons concerned respectively are, having regard to limitations imposed thereon, such as not to be exercisable by two or more of those persons in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, within British India (otherwise than for export therefrom), or in relation to goods to be exported to the same market outside British India.

(2) The proprietor of a registered trade mark who proposes to assign it may submit to the Registrar in the prescribed manner a statement of case setting out the circumstances and the Registrar may issue to him a certificate stating whether, having regard to the similarity of the goods and of the trade marks referred to in the case, the proposed assignment would or would not be invalid under sub-section (1), and a certificate so issued shall, subject to appeal and unless it is shown that the certificate was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be conclusive as to the validity or invalidity under sub-section (1) of the assignment in so far as such validity or invalidity depends upon the facts set out in the case, but, as regards a certificate in favour of validity, only if application for the registration under section 35 of the title of the person becoming entitled is made within six months from the date on which the certificate is issued.

Restrictions on assignment or transmission when exclusive rights would be created in different parts of British India.

32 Notwithstanding anything in sections 29 and 30, a trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible in a case in which as a result of the assignment or transmission there would in the circumstances subsist whether under this Act or any other law an exclusive right in one of the persons concerned to the use of the trade mark limited to use in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, in any place in British India and an exclusive right in another of these persons to the use of a trade mark nearly resembling the first-mentioned trade mark or of an identical trade mark in relation to the same goods or description of goods limited to use in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, in any other place in British India :

Provided that in any such case, on application in the prescribed manner by the proprietor of a trade mark who proposes to assign it, or by a person who claims that a registered trade mark has been transmitted to him or to a predecessor in title of his since the commencement of this Act, the Registrar, if he is satisfied that in all the circumstances the use of the trade mark in exercise of the said rights would not be contrary to the public interest, may approve the assignment or transmission, and an assignment or transmission so approved shall not, unless it is shown that the approval was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be deemed to be invalid under this section or section 31 if application for the registration under section 35 of the title of the person becoming entitled is made within six months from the date on which the approval is given or, in the case of a transmission, was made before that date.

Conditions for assignment otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of a business.

33. Where an assignment in respect of any goods of a trade mark which is at the time of the assignment used in a business in those goods, is made after the commencement of this Act otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of that business, the assignment shall not take effect unless the assignee, not later than the expiration of six months from the date on which the assignment is made or within such extended period, if any, as the Registrar may allow, applies to the Registrar for directions with respect to the advertisement of the assignment, and advertises it in such form and manner and within such period as the Registrar may direct.

Conditions for assignment and transmission of certification trade marks and associated trade marks.

34. (1) A certification trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible otherwise than with the consent of the Central Government, for which application shall be made in writing in the prescribed manner through the Registrar.

(2) Associated trade marks shall be assignable and transmissible only as a whole and not separately.

Registration of assignments and transmissions.

35. (1) Where a person becomes entitled by assignment or transmission to a registered trade mark, he shall apply in the prescribed manner to the Registrar to register his title, and the Registrar shall on receipt of the application and on proof of title to his satisfaction, register him as the proprietor of the trade mark in respect of the goods in respect of which the assignment or transmission has effect, and shall cause particulars of the assignment or transmission to be entered on the register.

(2) Except for the purposes of an appeal against a decision of the Registrar under sub-section (1) or of an application under section 46, a document or instrument in respect of which no entry has been made in the register in accordance with sub-section (1) shall not be admitted in evidence before any tribunal in proof of the title to a trade mark unless the tribunal otherwise directs.

CHAPTER VI.

USE OF TRADE MARKS AND REGISTERED USERS.

Proposed use of trade mark by company to be formed.

36. (1) No application for the registration of a trade mark in respect of any goods shall be refused, nor shall permission for such registration be withheld, on the ground only that it appears that the applicant does not use or propose to use the trade mark, if the Registrar is satisfied that a company is about to be formed and registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, and that the applicant intends to assign the trade mark to that company with a view to the use thereof in relation to those goods by the company.

(2) The tribunal may, in a case to which sub-section (1) applies, require the applicant to give security for the costs of any proceedings relative to any opposition or appeal, and in default of such security being duly given may treat the application as abandoned.

(3) Where in a case to which sub-section (1) applies a trade mark in respect of any goods is registered in the name of an applicant who relies on intention to assign to a company, then, unless within such period as may be prescribed, or within such further period not exceeding six months as the Registrar may, on application being made to him in the prescribed manner, allow, the company has been registered as the proprietor of the trade mark in respect of those goods, the registration shall cease to have effect in respect thereof at the expiration of that period, and the Registrar shall amend the register accordingly.

Removal from register and imposition of limitations on ground of non-use.

37. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 38, a registered trade mark may be taken off the register in respect of any of the goods in respect of which it is registered on application in the prescribed manner by any person aggrieved to a High Court or to the Registrar, on the ground either—

(a) that the trade mark was registered without any bona fide intention on the part of the applicant for registration that it should be used in relation to those goods by him or, in

[3] If a trader drops out and another gains reputation in trade for goods made under particular name and his name is associated with his mark and his mark with his name, original position of competitor using same mark practically disappears. a case to which the provisions of section 36 apply, by the company concerned, and that there has in fact been no bona fide use of the trade mark in relation to those goods by any proprietor thereof for the time being up to a date one month before the date of the application; or

(b) that up to a date one month before the date of the application, a continuous period of five years or longer elapsed during which the trade mark was registered and during which there was no bona fide use thereof in relation to those goods by any proprietor thereof for the time being:

Provided that, except where the applicant has been permitted under sub section (2) of section 10 to register an identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of the goods in question or where the tribunal is of opinion that he might properly be permitted so to register such a trade mark, the tribunal may refuse an application made under clause (a) or clause (b) in relation to any goods, if it is shown that there has been, before the relevant date or during the relevant period, as the case may be, bona fide use of the trade mark by any proprietor thereof for the time being in relation to goods of the same description, being goods in respect of which the trade mark is registered.

(2) Where in relation to any goods in respect of which a trade mark is registered—

(a) the circumstances referred to in clause (b) of sub section (1) are shown to exist so far as regards non-use of the trade mark in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in, in a particular place in British India (otherwise than for export from British India), or in relation to goods to be exported to a particular market outside British India, and

(b) a person has been permitted under sub-section (2) of section 10 to register an identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of those goods under a registration extending to use in relation to goods to be so sold, or otherwise traded in, or in relation to goods to be so exported, or the tribunal is of opinion that he might properly be permitted so to register such a trade mark, on application by that person in the prescribed manner to a High Court or to the Registrar, the tribunal may impose on the registration of the first-mentioned trade mark such limitations as it thinks proper for securing that that registration shall cease to extend to such use.

(3) An applicant shall not be entitled to rely for the purpose of clause (b) of sub-section (1) or of sub-section (2) on any non-use of a trade mark which is shown to have been due to special circumstances in the trade and not to any intention to abandon or not to use the trade mark in relation to the goods to which the application relates.

Defensive registration of well-known trade marks.

38. (1) Where a trade mark consisting of any invented word has become so well known as respects any goods in relation to which it is registered and has been used, that the use thereof in relation to other goods would be likely to be taken as indicating a connection in the course of trade between those goods and a person entitled to use the trade mark in relation to the first mentioned goods, then, notwithstanding that the proprietor registered in respect of the first-mentioned goods does not use or propose to use the trade mark in relation to those other goods and notwithstanding anything in section 37, the trade mark may on application in the prescribed manner by such proprietor be registered in his name in respect of those other goods as a defensive trade mark and, while so registered, shall not be liable to be taken off the register in respect of those goods under the said section.

(2) The registered proprietor of a trade mark may apply for the registration thereof in respect of any goods as a defensive trade mark notwithstanding that it is already registered in his name in respect of those goods otherwise than as a defensive trade mark, or may apply for the registration thereof in respect of any goods otherwise than as a defensive trade mark notwithstanding that it is already registered in his name in respect of those goods as a defensive trade mark, in lieu in each case of the existing registration.

(3) A trade mark registered as a defensive trade mark and that trade mark as otherwise registered in the name of the same proprietor shall, notwithstanding that the respective registrations are in respect of different goods, be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(4) On application in the prescribed manner by any person aggrieved to a High Court or to the Registrar, the registration of a trade mark as a defensive trade mark may be cancelled on the ground that the requirements of sub-section (1) are no longer satisfied in respect of any goods in relation to which the trade mark is registered in the name of the same proprietor otherwise than as a defensive trade mark, or may be cancelled as respects any goods in relation to which it is registered as a defensive trade mark on the ground that there is no longer any likelihood that the use of the trade mark in relation to those goods would be taken as giving the indication mentioned in sub-section (1).

(5) The Registrar may at any time cancel the registration as a defensive trade mark of a trade mark of which there is no longer any registration in the name of the same proprietor otherwise than as a defensive trade mark.

(6) Except as otherwise expressly provided in this section, the provisions of this Act shall apply in respect of the registration of trade marks as defensive trade marks and of trade marks so registered as they apply in other cases.

Registered users.

39. (1) A person other than the proprietor of a trade mark may be registered as a registered user thereof in respect of all or any of the goods in respect of which it is registered (otherwise than as a defensive trade mark) and either with or without conditions or restrictions.

(2) The permitted use of a trade mark shall be deemed to be use by the proprietor thereof, and shall be deemed not to be use by a person other than the proprietor, for any purpose for which such use is material under this Act or any other law.

Power of registered user to take proceedings against infringement.

40 (1) Subject to any agreement subsisting between the parties, a registered user of a trade mark shall be entitled to call upon the proprietor thereof to take proceedings to prevent infringement thereof, and if the proprietor refuses or neglects to do so within three months after being so called upon, the registered user may institute proceedings for infringement in his own name as if he were the proprietor, making the proprietor a defendant.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law, a proprietor so added as defendant shall not be liable for any costs unless he enters an appearance and takes part in the proceedings.

Application for registration as registered user.

41. (1) Where it is proposed that a person should be registered as a registered user of a trade mark, the proprietor and the proposed registered user shall make application in writing to the Registrar in the prescribed manner accompanied by an affidavit made by the proprietor, or by some person authorised to the satisfaction of the Registrar to act on his behalf, —

(a) giving particulars of the relationship, existing or proposed, between the proprietor and the proposed registered user, including particulars showing the degree of control by the proprietor over the permitted use which their relationship will confer and whether it is a term of their relationship that the proposed registered user shall be the sole registered user or that there shall be any other restriction as to persons for whose registration as registered users application may be made;

(b) stating the goods in respect of which registration is proposed;

(c) stating any conditions or restrictions proposed with respect to the characteristics of the goods, to the mode or place of permitted use, or to any other matter;

(d) stating whether the permitted use is to be for a period or without limit of period, and, if for a period, the duration thereof; and by such further documents, information or evidence as may be required by the Registrar or as may be prescribed.

(2) When the requirements of sub-section (1) have been complied with, if the Registrar is satisfied that in all the circumstances the use of the trade mark in respect of the proposed goods or any of them by the proposed registered user subject to any conditions or restrictions which the Registrar may think proper, would not be contrary to the public interest, the Registrar may register, subject as aforesaid the proposed registered user as a registered user in respect of the goods as to which he is so satisfied.

(3) The Registrar shall refuse an application under this section if it appears to him that the grant thereof would tend to facilitate trafficking in a trade mark.

(4) The Registrar shall, if so requested by an applicant, take steps for securing that information given for the purposes of an application under this section (other than matter entered in the register) is not disclosed to rivals in trade.

(5) The Registrar shall issue notice in the prescribed manner —

(a) of the registration of a person as a registered user, to any other registered user of the trade mark;

(b) of an application under section 42, to the registered proprietor, and each registered user (not being the applicant) of the trade mark.

Power to Registrar to vary or cancel registration as registered user.

42. Without prejudice to the provisions of section 46, the registration of a person as a registered user —

(a) may be varied by the Registrar as regards the goods in respect of which, or any conditions or restrictions subject to which, it has effect, on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of the registered proprietor of the trade mark.

(b) may be cancelled by the Registrar on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of the registered proprietor or of the registered user or of any other registered user of the trade mark;

(c) may be cancelled by the Registrar on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of any person on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(i) that the registered user has used the trade mark otherwise than by way of the permitted use, or in such a way as to cause or to be likely to cause, deception or confusion;

(ii) that the proprietor or the registered user misrepresented, or failed to disclose, some fact material to the application for the registration, or that the circumstances have materially changed since the date of the registration;

(iii) that the registration ought not to have been effected having regard to rights vested in the applicant by virtue of a contract in the performance of which he is interested;

(d) may be cancelled by the Registrar in respect of any goods in relation to which the trade mark is no longer registered.

Registered user not to have right of assignment or transmission.

43. Nothing in this Act shall confer on a registered user of a trade mark any assignable or transmissible right to the use thereof.

Use of one of associated or substantially identical trade marks equivalent to use of another.

44. (1) Where under the provisions of this Act use of a registered trade mark is required to be proved for any purpose, the tribunal may, if and so far as it shall think right, accept use of a registered associated trade mark, or of the trade mark with additions or alterations not substantially affecting its identity, as an equivalent for the use required to be proved.

(2) The use of the whole of a registered trade mark shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be also a use of any trade mark being a part thereof and registered in accordance with sub-section (1) of section 11 in the name of the same proprietor.

Use of trade mark for export trade, and use when form of trade connection changes.

45. (1) The application in British India of a trade mark to goods to be exported from British India, and any other act done in British India in relation to goods to be so exported which, if done in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in within British India would constitute use of a trade mark therein, shall be deemed to constitute use of the trade mark in relation to those goods for any purpose for which such use is material under this Act or any other law.

(2) The use of a registered trade mark in relation to goods between which and the person using the mark any form of connection in the course of trade subsists shall not be deemed to be likely to cause deception or confusion on the ground only that the mark has been or is used in relation to goods between which and the person using the mark or any predecessor in his business different form of connection in the course of trade subsisted or subsists.

CHAPTER VII.

RECTIFICATION AND CORRECTION OF THE REGISTER.

Power to cancel or vary registration and to rectify the register.

46. (1) On application in the prescribed manner by any person aggrieved to a High Court or to the Registrar, the tribunal may make such order as it may think fit for cancelling or varying the registration of a trade mark on the ground of any contravention of, or failure to observe a condition entered on the register in relation thereto.

(2) Any person aggrieved by the absence or omission from the register of any entry, or by any entry made in the register without sufficient cause, or by any entry wrongly remaining on the register, or by any error or defect in any entry in the register, may apply in the prescribed manner to a High Court or to the Registrar, and the tribunal may make such order for making, expunging or varying the entry as it may think fit.

[a][Explanation.—For the purposes of sub-section (1) and this sub-section, a person who has registered a trade mark in any Indian State to which section 82A for the time being applies, may be a 'person aggrieved.']

(3) The tribunal may in any proceeding under this section decide any question that it may be necessary or expedient to decide in connection with the rectification of the register.

(4) A High Court or the Registrar, of its or his own motion, may, after giving notice in the prescribed manner to the parties concerned and after giving them an opportunity of being heard, make any order referred to in sub-section (1) or sub section (2).

(5) Any order of the Court rectifying the register shall direct that notice of the rectification shall be served upon the Registrar in the prescribed manner who shall upon receipt of such notice rectify the register accordingly.

[a] Added by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act, 1946 (12 [XII] of 1946), S. 8. [18-4-1946]

Correction of register.

47. (1) The Registrar may, on application made in the prescribed manner by the registered proprietor,—

(a) correct any error in the name, address or description of the registered proprietor of a trade mark ;

(b) enter any change in the name, address or description of the person who is registered as proprietor of a trade mark ;

(c) cancel the entry of a trade mark on the register ;

(d) strike out any goods or classes of goods from those in respect of which a trade mark is registered ;

(e) enter a disclaimer or memorandum relating to a trade mark which does not in any way extend the rights given by the existing registration of the trade mark.

(2) The Registrar may, on application made in the prescribed manner by a registered user of a trade mark, correct any error, or enter any change, in the name, address or description of the registered user.

Alteration of registered trade mark.

48. (1) The registered proprietor of a trade mark may apply in the prescribed manner to the Registrar for leave to add to or after the trade mark in any manner not substantially affecting the identity thereof, and the Registrar may refuse leave or may grant it on such terms and subject to such limitations as he may think fit.

(2) The Registrar may cause an application under this section to be advertised in the prescribed manner in any case where it appears to him that it is expedient so to do, and where he does so, if within the prescribed time from the date of the advertisement any person gives notice to the Registrar in the prescribed manner of opposition to the application, the Registrar shall, after hearing the parties if so required, decide the matter.

(3) Where leave is granted under this section, the trade mark as altered shall be advertised in the prescribed manner, unless the application has already been advertised under sub-section (2).

Adaptation of entries in register to amended or substituted classification of goods.

49. (1) The Registrar shall not, in exercise of any power conferred on him under clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 84, make any amendment of the register which would have the effect of adding any goods or classes of goods to those in respect of which a trade mark is registered (whether in one or more classes) immediately before the amendment is to be made or of antedating the registration of a trade mark in respect of any goods :

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply when the Registrar is satisfied that compliance therewith would involve undue complexity and that the addition or antedating, as the case may be, would not affect any substantial quantity of goods and would not substantially prejudice the rights of any person.

(2) A proposal so to amend the register shall be notified to the registered proprietor of the trade mark affected and advertised in the prescribed manner and may be opposed before the Registrar by any person aggrieved on the ground that the proposed amendment contravenes the provisions of sub-section (1).

CHAPTER VIII.

CERTIFICATION TRADE MARKS.

Provisions of this Act applicable to certification trade marks.

50. Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, the other provisions of this Act except sections 6, 21, 22, 31, 32, 33, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42 and 43 and sub-section (2) of section 45 shall apply to certification trade marks as they apply to trade marks.

Certification trade mark not to be registered in name of person trading in goods certified thereby.

51. A mark shall not be registrable as a certification trade mark in the name of a person who carries on a trade in goods of the kind certified.

Determination whether a mark is a certification trade mark.

52. In determining whether a mark is adapted to distinguish in accordance with the provisions of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 2, the tribunal may have regard to the extent to which—

(a) the mark is inherently so adapted to distinguish in relation to the goods in question ; and

(b) by reason of the use of the mark or of any other circumstances, the mark is in fact so adapted to distinguish in relation to the goods in question.

Application for registration.

53. (1) An application for the registration of a mark as a certification trade mark shall be made to the Registrar [a][* * * *] in writing in the prescribed manner by the person proposed to be registered as the proprietor thereof, and accompanied by a draft of the regulations to be deposited under section 56.

(2) The provisions of section 14 shall have effect in relation to an application under this section as they have effect in relation to an application under the said section, except that for references therein to acceptance of an application there shall be substituted references to authorisation to proceed with the application.

(3) In dealing under the said provisions with an application under this section, the tribunal shall have regard to the like considerations, so far as relevant, as if the application were an application under section 14 and to any other considerations (not being matters within the competence of the Central Government under section 54) relevant to applications under this section, including the desirability of securing that a certification trade mark shall comprise some indication that it is a certification trade mark.

[a] The words "or the Bombay Registrar, as the case may be" were omitted by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act 1943 (15 [XV] of 1943), S. 4. [5-6-1943].

These words had been inserted by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act, 1941 (27 [XXVII] of 1941), S. 3. [26-11-1941].

Consideration of application for registration by Central Government.

54. When authorisation to proceed with an application under section 53 has been given, the Registrar shall forward the application to the Central Government who shall consider the application with regard to the following matters namely :—

(a) whether the applicant is competent to certify the goods in respect of which the mark is to be registered ;

(b) whether the draft of the regulations to be deposited under section 56 is satisfactory ;

(c) whether in all the circumstances the registration applied for would be to the public advantage ; and may either—

(i) direct that the application shall not be accepted ; or

(ii) direct the Registrar to accept the application and approve the said draft of the regulations either without modification and unconditionally or subject to any conditions or limitations, or to any amendments or modification of the application or of the regulations which it thinks requisite having regard to any of the said matters ;

but, except in the case of a direction for acceptance and approval without modification and unconditionally, the Central Government shall not decide the matter without giving to the applicant an opportunity of being heard :

Provided that the Central Government may, at the request of the applicant made with the concurrence of the Registrar, consider the application with regard to any of the said matters before authorisation to proceed with the application has been given, so however that the Central Government shall be at liberty to reconsider any matter on which it has given, a decision under this proviso if any amendment or modification is thereafter made in the application or in the draft of the regulations.

Opposition to registration.

55. (1) When an application has been accepted, the Registrar shall, as soon as may be thereafter, cause the application as accepted to be advertised in the prescribed manner, and the provisions of section 15 shall have effect in relation to the registration of the mark as if the application had been an application under section 14 :

Provided that, in deciding under the said provisions the tribunal shall have regard only to the considerations referred to in sub section (3) of section 53, and a decision under the said provisions in favour of the applicant shall be conditional on the determination in his favour by the Central Government under sub-section (2) of this section of any opposition relating to any of the matters referred to in section 54.

(2) When notice of opposition is given relating to any of the matters referred to in section 54, the Central Government shall, after hearing the parties, if so required, and considering any evidence, decide whether, and subject to what conditions or limitations or amendments or modifications, if any, of the application or of the regulations to be deposited under section 56, registration is, having regard to those matters, to be permitted.

Deposit of regulations governing the use of a certification trade mark.

56. (1) There shall be deposited at the [a][Trade Marks Registry] in respect of every mark registered as a certification trade mark regulations approved by the Central Government for governing the use thereof, which shall include provisions as to the cases in which the proprietor is to certify goods and to authorise the use of the certification trade mark, and may contain any other provisions which the Central Government may by general or special order require or permit to be inserted therein (including provisions conferring a right of appeal to the Registrar against any refusal of the proprietor to certify goods or to authorise the use of the certification trade mark in accordance with the regulations); and regulations so deposited shall be open to inspection in like manner as the register.

(2) The regulations so deposited may on the application of the registered proprietor be altered by the Registrar with the consent of the Central Government.

(3) The Central Government may cause such application to be advertised in any case where it appears to it expedient so to do, and where it does so, if within the time specified in the advertisement any person gives notice of opposition to the application, the Central Government shall not decide the matter without giving the parties an opportunity of being heard.

Right conferred by registration.

57. [a][(1)] Subject to the provisions of sections 25, 26 and 58, the registration of a person as proprietor of a certification trade mark in respect of any goods shall, [b][* *] give to that person the exclusive right to the use of the certification trade mark in relation to those goods, and, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, that right shall be deemed to be infringed by any person who, not being the proprietor of the mark or a person authorised by him in that behalf under the regulations deposited under section 56, using it in accordance therewith, uses a mark identical with it or so nearly resembling it as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion, in the course of trade, in relation to any goods in respect of which it is registered, and in such manner as to render the use of the mark likely to be taken either—

(a) as being use as a certification trade mark; or

(b) to import a reference to some person having the right either as proprietor, or by his authorisation under the said regulations, to use the mark, or to goods certified by the proprietor.

[a][(2) A person registered in any Indian State to which section 82A for the time being applies, as proprietor of a certification trade mark shall have the same rights in respect thereof as are conferred by this section on a person registered under this Act as proprietor of a certification trade mark.]

No infringement in certain circumstances.

58. (1) The right to the use of a certification trade mark given under section 57 by registration shall be subject to any conditions or limitations entered on the register, and shall not be deemed to be infringed by the use of any such mark as aforesaid in any mode, in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in in any place, in relation to goods to be exported to any market, or in any other circumstances, to which, having regard to any such limitations, the registration does not extend.

(2) The said right to the use of a certification trade mark shall not be deemed to be infringed by the use of any such mark as aforesaid by any person—

(a) in relation to goods certified by the proprietor of the mark if, as to those goods or a bulk of which they form part the proprietor or another in accordance with his authorisation under the relevant regulations has applied the mark and has not subsequently removed or obliterated it, or the proprietor has at any time expressly or impliedly consented to the use of the mark, or

(b) in relation to goods adapted to form part of, or to be accessory to other goods in relation to which the mark has been used without infringement of the right given as aforesaid or might for the time being be so used, if the use of the mark is reasonably necessary in order to indicate that the goods are so adapted and neither the purpose nor the effect of the use of the mark is to indicate otherwise than in accordance with the fact that the goods are certified by the proprietor :

Provided that clause (a) shall not apply to the case of use consisting of the application of any such mark as aforesaid to any goods, notwithstanding that they are such goods as are mentioned in that clause if such application is contrary to the said regulations.

(3) Where a certification trade mark is one of two or more [a][certification trade marks registered under this Act or in any Indian State to which section 82A for the time being applies] which are identical or nearly resemble each other, the use of any of those marks in exercise of the right to the use of that mark given by registration, shall not be deemed to be an infringement of the right so given to the use of any other of those marks.

[a] Substituted by the Trade Marks (Amendment) Act, 1946 (12 [XII] of 1946), S. 10 [18-4-1946] for "registered certification trade marks."

Cancellation or varying of registration.

59. (1) The Central Government may, on the application in the prescribed manner of any person aggrieved or on the recommendation of the Registrar, and after giving the proprietor an opportunity of opposing the application or recommendation, make such order as it thinks fit for expunging or varying any entry in the register relating to a certification trade mark, or for varying the deposited regulations, on any of the following grounds, namely : —

(a) that the proprietor is no longer competent, in the case of any of the goods in respect of which the mark is registered, to certify those goods ;

(b) that the proprietor has failed to observe any provision of the deposited regulations to be observed on his part ;

(c) that it is no longer to the public advantage that the mark should be registered ;

(d) that it is requisite for the public advantage that, if the mark remains registered, the regulations should be varied ; and neither a High Court nor the Registrar shall have any jurisdiction to make an order under section 46 on any of those grounds.

(2) The Registrar shall rectify the register and the deposited regulations in such manner as may be requisite for giving effect to an order made under sub-section (1).

Costs not to be awarded in certain cases.

60. The Registrar shall have no power to award costs to or against any party on an appeal to him against a refusal of the proprietor of a certification trade mark to certify goods or to authorise the use of the mark.

Decisions of Central Government to be final.

61. Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Chapter, every decision of the Central Government under this Chapter shall be final.

CHAPTER IX.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"This Bill has been prepared in response to the following Resolution which was adopted by the Legislative Assembly on 1st March 1924: "This Assembly recommends to the Governor-General in Council that he should take steps to introduce, as soon as practicable, in the Indian Legislature such legislation as may be necessary for the registration of Trade Unions and for the protection of Trade Unions".

The question was examined in detail by the Government of India and Local Governments were consulted: full opportunity was given for the expression of views by associations of employers and employees, and by the public generally. In the light of opinions received a draft Bill was prepared and published in September 1924. The Government of India after considering the criticisms received on that Bill, see no ground for modifying the general principles underlying the Bill, and, except for minor alterations, the present Bill is a reproduction of the Bill previously published

The general scheme of the Bill may be briefly explained. A Trade Union making the necessary application will, on compliance with certain stated conditions designed to ensure that the Union is a bona fide Trade Union, and that adequate safeguards are provided for the rights of its members, be entitled to registration The Union and its members will thereupon receive protection in certain cases in respect both of civil and criminal liability. No restriction is placed upon the objects which a registered Trade Union may pursue, but the expenditure of its funds must be limited to specified Trade Union purposes. The legal position of Trade Unions which do not register will be unaffected by the Bill."

(b) if the Registrar is satisfied that the certificate has been obtained by fraud or mistake, or that the Trade Union has ceased to exist or has wilfully and after notice from the Registrar contravened any provision of this Act or allowed any rule to continue in force which is inconsistent with any such provision, or has rescinded any rule providing for any matter provision for which is required by section 6:

(4) In the event of the dismissal of an appeal by any Court appointed under clause (b) of sub section (1), the person aggrieved shall have a right of appeal to the High Court, and the High Court shall, for the purpose of such appeal, have all the powers of an appellate Court under sub-sections (2) and (3), and the provisions of those sub-sections shall apply accordingly.]

CHAPTER III.

Rights and Liabilities of registered Trade Unions.

Objects on which general funds may be spent.

15. The general funds of a registered Trade Union shall not be spent on any other objects than the following, namely :—

(a) the payment of salaries, allowances and expenses to officers of the Trade Union ;

(b) the payment of expenses for the administration of the Trade Union, including audit of the accounts of the general funds of the Trade Union ;

(c) the prosecution or defence of any legal proceeding to which the Trade Union or any member thereof is a party, when such prosecution or defence is undertaken for the purpose of securing or protecting any rights of the Trade Union as such or any rights arising out of the relations of any member with his employer or with a person whom the member employs ;

(d) the conduct of trade disputes on behalf of the Trade Union or any member thereof ;

(e) the compensation of members for loss arising out of trade disputes ;

(f) allowances to members or their dependants on account of death, old age, sickness, accidents or unemployment of such members ;

(g) the issue of, or the undertaking of liability under, policies of assurance on the lives of members, or under policies insuring members against sickness, accident or unemployment ;

(h) the provision of educational, social or religious benefits for members (including the payment of the expenses of funeral or religious ceremonies for deceased members) or for the dependants of members ;

(i) the upkeep of a periodical published mainly for the purpose of discussing questions affecting employers or workmen as such ;

(j) the payment, in furtherance of any of the objects on which the general funds of the Trade Union may be spent, of contributions to any cause intended to benefit workmen in general, provided that the expenditure in respect of such contributions in any financial year shall not at any time during that year be in excess of one-fourth of the combined total of the gross income which has up to that time accrued to the general funds of the Trade Union during that year and of the balance at the credit of those funds at the commencement of that year ; and

(k) subject to any conditions contained in the notification, any other object notified by the [a][appropriate Government] in the [b][Official Gazette].

OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The object on which the funds may be spent have been limited to objects generally recognised as legitimate trade union objects. As, however the clause may not prove sufficiently elastic in practice, it is proposed to empower the Government of India to add to the list of objects. This will make it possible to provide for the extension of the scope of registered trade unions if the development of the trade union movement renders that desirable."

— S. O. R.

Constitution of a separate fund for political purposes.

16. (1) A registered Trade Union may constitute a separate fund, from contributions separately levied for or made to that fund, from which payments may be made, for the promotion of the civic and political interests of its members, in furtherance of any of the objects specified in sub-section (2).

(2) The objects referred to in sub-section (1) are :—

(a) the payment of any expenses incurred, either directly or indirectly, by a candidate or prospective candidate for election as a member of any legislative body constituted under the Government of India Act [a][or the Government of India Act, 1935] or of any local authority before, during, or after the election in connection with his candidature or election ; or

(b) the holding of any meeting or the distribution of any literature or documents in support of any such candidate or prospective candidate ; or

(c) the maintenance of any person who is a member of any legislative body constituted under the Government of India Act [a][or the Government of India Act, 1935] or of any local authority ; or

(d) the registration of electors or the selection of a candidate for any legislative body constituted under the Government of India Act [a][or the Government of India Act, 1935] or for any local authority; or

(e) the holding of political meetings of any kind, or the distribution of political literature or political documents of any kind.

(3) No member shall be compelled to contribute to the fund constituted under sub section (1); and a member who does not contribute to the said fund shall not be excluded from any benefits of the Trade Union, or placed in any respect either directly or indirectly under any disability or at any disadvantage as compared with other members of the Trade Union (except in relation to the control or management of the said fund) by reason of his not contributing to the said fund; and contribution to the said fund shall not be made a condition for admission to the Trade Union.

[a] Inserted by A. O. and the Act in 26 Geo V, c. 2.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The question of the expenditure of Trade Union funds on political objects was found to be one of considerable difficulty. We are by a majority of opinion that such expenditure should be allowed; the majority are also of opinion that such expenditure should be met not from the general funds, but from a special fund, contributions to which shall be optional. We have included provisions taken from the English law to prevent unfair discrimination against a non-contributing member. In prescribing the political objects also, on which expenditure may be incurred, we have followed the provisions of the English law" —S. C. R.

Criminal conspiracy in trade disputes.

17. No officer or member of a registered Trade Union shall be liable to punishment under sub-section (2) of section 120B of the Indian Penal Code, in respect of any agreement made between the members for the purpose of furthering any such object of the Trade Union as is specified in section 15, unless the agreement is an agreement to commit an offence.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Under the existing criminal law an agreement to do an illegal act is itself a criminal offence. "Illegal act" includes all acts which provide grounds for civil actions. Thus, for example, two men who agree to persuade workmen to break their contracts with their employers are guilty of criminal conspiracy. The clause, which is similar in its effect to the corresponding provisions of the English law protects trade unionists from prosecutions for criminal conspiracy where the agreement into which they have entered is not an agreement to commit an offence."

—S. O. R.

Immunity from civil suit in certain cases.

18. (1) No suit or other legal proceeding shall be maintainable in any Civil Court against any registered Trade Union or any officer or member thereof in respect of any act done in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute to which a member of the Trade Union is a party on the ground only that such act induces some other person to break a contract of employment or that it is in interference with the trade, business or employment of some other person or with the right of some other person to dispose of his capital or of his labour as he wills.

(2) A registered Trade Union shall not be liable in any suit or other legal proceeding in any Civil Court in respect of any tortious act done in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute by an agent of the Trade Union if it is proved that such person acted without the knowledge of, or contrary to express instructions given by, the executive of the Trade Union.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The first part of this clause corresponds to sections 1 and 3 of the British Trade Disputes Act, 1906, and protects trade unions and their officers and members from certain civil actions. An important type of action which this clause will prevent is a suit arising out of the persuasion exercised on trade union members and others to join in a strike, where that strike (as is frequently the case) involves breach of contract on the part of workmen. The second part of the clause gives trade unions a large measure of immunity from liabilities arising out of acts of their agents, and is in accordance with a recommendation made by the majority of the Royal Commission on Trade Disputes and Trade Combinations in England in 1906."—S.O.R.

Section 17—Note 1

[1] No conflict exists between this Act and S. 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1932. Apart from the immunity from civil liability and liability for criminal conspiracy, either in respect of any declaration of strike that the trade union may make or any acts done in furtherance of the trade dispute, the trade unions do not enjoy immunity from any criminal offence. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag. 149 (152): 31 Nag. L R 318: 36 Cr. L. Jour. 1153. (Agreement to commit offence — Trade union would be liable under S. 17 for criminal conspiracy).

Section 18—Note 1

[1] Section 18 does not afford immunity to trade union or officer thereof for act of deliberate trespass (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 256 (258).

Enforceability of agreements.

19. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, an agreement between the members of a registered Trade Union shall not be void or voidable merely by reason of the fact that any of the objects of the agreement are in restraint of trade :

Provided that nothing in this section shall enable any Civil Court to entertain any legal proceeding instituted for the express purpose of enforcing or recovering damages for the breach of any agreement concerning the conditions on which any members of a Trade Union shall or shall not sell their goods, transact business, work, employ or be employed.

Right to inspect books of Trade Union.

20. The account books of a registered Trade Union and the list of members thereof shall be open to inspection by an officer or member of the Trade Union at such times as may be provided for in the rules of the Trade Union.

Rights of minors to membership of Trade Unions.

21. Any person who has attained the age of fifteen years may be a member of a registered Trade Union subject to any rules of the Trade Union to the contrary, and may, subject as aforesaid, enjoy all the rights of a member and execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules :

Provided that no person who has not attained the age of eighteen years shall be an officer of any such Trade Union.

Proportion of officers to be connected with the industry.

22. Not less than one-half of the total number of the officers of every registered Trade Union shall be persons actually engaged or employed in an industry with which the Trade Union is connected :

Provided that the [a][appropriate Government] may, by special or general order, declare that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any Trade Union or class of Trade Unions specified in the order.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government."

Change of name.

23. Any registered Trade Union may, with the consent of not less than two-thirds of the total number of its members and subject to the provisions of section 25, change its name.

Amalgamation of Trade Unions.

24. Any two or more registered Trade Unions may become amalgamated together as one Trade Union with or without dissolution or division of the funds of such Trade Unions or either or any of them, provided that the votes of at least one-half of the members of each or every such Trade Union entitled to vote are recorded, and that at least sixty per cent. of the votes recorded are in favour of the proposal.

Notice of change of name or amalgamation.

25. (1) Notice in writing of every change of name and of every amalgamation, signed, in the case of a change of name, by the Secretary and by seven members of the Trade Union changing its name, and, in the case of an amalgamation, by the Secretary and by seven members of each and every Trade Union which is a party thereto, shall be sent to the Registrar, and where the head office of the amalgamated Trade Union is situated in a different Province, to the Registrar of such Province.

(2) If the proposed name is identical with that by which any other existing Trade Union has been registered or, in the opinion of the Registrar, so nearly resembles such name as to be likely to deceive the public or the members of either Trade Union, the Registrar shall refuse to register the change of name.

(3) Save as provided in sub-section (2), the Registrar shall, if he is satisfied that the provisions of this Act in respect of change of name have been complied with, register the change of name in the register referred to in section 8, and the change of name shall have effect from the date of such registration.

(4) The Registrar of the Province in which the head office of the amalgamated Trade Union is situated shall, if he is satisfied that the provisions of this Act in respect of amalgamation have been complied with and that the Trade Union formed thereby is entitled to registration under section 6, register the Trade Union in the manner provided in section 8, and the amalgamation shall have effect from the date of such registration.

Effects of change of name and of amalgamation.

26. (1) The change in the name of a registered Trade Union shall not affect any rights or obligations of the Trade Union or render defective any legal proceeding by or against the Trade Union, and any legal proceeding which might have been continued or commenced by or against it by its former name may be continued or commenced by or against it by its new name.

(2) An amalgamation of two or more registered Trade Unions shall not prejudice any right of any of such Trade Unions or any right of a creditor of any of them.

Dissolution.

27. (1) When a registered Trade Union is dissolved, notice of the dissolution signed by seven members and by the Secretary of the Trade Union shall, within fourteen days of the dissolution, be sent to the Registrar, and shall be registered by him if he is satisfied that the dissolution has been effected in accordance with the rules of the Trade Union, and the dissolution shall have effect from the date of such registration.

(2) Where the dissolution of a registered Trade Union has been registered and the rules of the Trade Union do not provide for the distribution of funds of the Trade Union on dissolution, the Registrar shall divide the funds amongst the members in such manner as may be prescribed.

Returns.

28. (1) There shall be sent annually to the Registrar, on or before such date as may be prescribed, a general statement, audited in the prescribed manner, of all receipts and expenditure of every registered Trade Union during the year ending on the 31st day of March next preceding such prescribed date, and of the assets and liabilities of the Trade Union existing on such 31st day of March. The statement shall be prepared in such form and shall comprise such particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) Together with the general statement there shall be sent to the Registrar a statement showing all changes of officers made by the Trade Union during the year to which the general statement refers, together also with a copy of the rules of the Trade Union corrected up to the date of the despatch thereof to the Registrar.

(3) A copy of every alteration made in the rules of a registered Trade Union shall be sent to the Registrar within fifteen days of the making of the alteration.

CHAPTER IIIA[a]

Recognition of Trade Unions

Modification of the definition of "appropriate Government" for certain purposes.

28A. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the definition of "the appropriate Government" in section 2, the Central Government shall be deemed to be the appropriate Government for the purposes of this Chapter in respect of Trade Unions consisting of workmen employed by the Central Government or by a Federal Railway or in a major port, mine or oilfield.

Explanation.—In this section and for the purposes of this Chapter, a Trade Union of which not less than fifty per cent. of the members are workmen employed by the Central Government or by a Federal Railway or in a major port, mine or oilfield shall be deemed to be a Trade Union consisting of workmen employed by the Central Government or by a Federal Railway or in a major port, mine or oilfield as the case may be.

(a) is, or has been, a Judge of a High Court or a District Judge, or

(b) is qualified for appointment as a Judge of a High Court :

Provided that the appointment to a Labour Court of any person not qualified under clause (a) shall be made in consultation with the High Court of the Province in which the Labour Court has or is intended to have, its usual place of sitting.

(2) Every Labour Court shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purposes of receiving evidence, administering oaths, enforcing the attendance of witnesses, and compelling the discovery and production of documents, and shall be deemed to be a Civil Court within the meaning of sections 480 and 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(3) The proceedings of Labour Courts shall be regulated and conducted in such manner as may be prescribed.

Recognition by Agreement.

28C. (1) Where an employer agrees to recognize a Trade Union, a memorandum of agreement signed by the employer and the officers of the Trade Union, or their authorised representatives may be presented to the Registrar who shall record the memorandum in a register in the prescribed manner.

(2) Such an agreement may be revoked by either party thereto on application made to the Registrar in the prescribed manner.

(3) While such an agreement is in force, the Trade Union shall, in its relations with the employer with whom the agreement is made, have all the rights of a recognized Trade Union under this Act, and shall for all other purposes be deemed to be a recognized Trade Union

Conditions for recognition by order of a Labour Court.

28D. A Trade Union shall not be entitled to recognition by order of a Labour Court under section 28E unless it fulfils the following conditions, namely :—

(a) that all its ordinary members are workmen employed in the same industry or in industries closely allied to or connected with one another ;

(b) that it is representative of all the workmen employed by the employer in that industry or those industries ;

(c) that its rules do not provide for the exclusion from membership of any class of the workmen referred to in clause (b) ;

(e) that its rules provide that a meeting of its executive shall be held at least once in every six months ;

(f) that it is a registered Trade Union, and that it has complied with all the provisions of this Act :

Provided that the reference in clause (b) to "the employer" shall as respects recognition by an association of employers, be construed as a reference to all the employers who are members of the association.

Application to, and grant of recognition by, Labour Courts.

28E. (1) Where a registered Trade Union having applied for recognition to an employer has failed to obtain recognition within a period of three months from the date of making such application, it may apply in writing setting out such particulars as may be prescribed, to the Labour Court for recognition by that employer.

(2) A single application may be made under sub-section (1) for recogniton—

(a) by more than one employer, or

(b) by an association of employers as well as one or more members thereof.

(3) The Labour Court may call for further information for the purpose of ascertaining whether the Trade Union is entitled to recognition by the employer under this section, and if the Trade Union fails to supply the required information within the time granted, the Labour Court may dismiss the application.

(4) The Labour Court shall, after serving notice in the prescribed manner on the employer, investigate whether the Trade Union fulfils the conditions for recognition set out in section 28D, and in deciding whether the condition set out in clause (b) thereof is fulfilled, the Labour Court shall have regard to, but shall not be bound by the fact whether the proportion which the number of the workmen referred to in the said clause who are members of the Trade Union and are not in arrears of their subscription for any period exceeding three months bears to the total number of such workmen is less, or not less, than such percentage, if any, as may be prescribed in this behalf either generally, or in respect of any particular locality or any particular employer or class of employers, or any particular industry or class of industries

(5) If the Labour Court is satisfied that the Trade Union is fit to be recognized by the employer, it shall make an order directing such recognition and may, where the recognition is to be by an association of employers, further direct, by the same or a subsequent order, recognition by every member of the association in relation to whom the Trade Union fulfils the condition set out in clause (b) of section 28D.

(6) Every order made under sub section (5) shall be forwarded to the appropriate Government which shall notify it in the official Gazette, and while a recognition directed by such order is in force the Trade Union shall, in its relations with the employer concerned, have all the rights of a recognized Trade Union under this Act and shall for all other purposes be deemed to be a recognized Trade Union.

Rights of recognized Trade Unions.

28F. (1) The executive of a recognized Trade Union shall be entitled to negotiate with employers in respect of matters connected with the employment or non-employment or the terms of employment or the conditions of labour of all or any of its members, and the employer shall receive and send replies to letters sent by the executive on and grant interviews to that body regarding, such matters.

(2) Nothing in sub section (1) shall be construed as requiring an employer to send replies to letters on, or grant interviews regarding matters on which as a result of previous discussion with the executive of the Trade Union, the employer has arrived at a conclusion, whether in agreement with the executive or not unless a period of at least three months has elapsed since the said conclusion was intimated to the executive, or unless there has been a change in circumstances.

(3) Any dispute between the employer and the executive of a recognized Trade Union as to whether a conclusion has been arrived at, or whether there has been a change in circumstances, within the meaning of sub-section (2), shall be referred to the Registrar whose decision shall be final.

THE SCHEDULE.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Bill seeks to provide for the continuance of the special powers enjoyed by the Government of India up to the 30th September 1946 under Parts XV and XVI of the Defence of India Rules and thereafter continued for a period of six months by means of the Emergency Powers (Continuance) Ordinance, 1946. Although hostilities ceased long ago, it will continue to be obligatory on the Government of India to maintain the general prohibition against trading with enemies until Peace Treaties are signed. Similarly, it will be their responsibility to continue to look after the property of the 'enemy' firms vested in the Custodian of the Enemy Property until it is liquidated or released. For these purposes it is sought to keep alive most of the provisions of the Defence of India Rules relating to the ban on trade with 'enemies,' the control over 'enemy' firms and the custody of 'enemy' property."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The introduction of this Bill has been rendered necessary by the projected construction of tramways in parts of India beyond the reach of a local legislature. In 1883 a special Act was passed by the Governor-General in Council to authorise the making, and regulate the working, of tramways in Rangoon. Since that year application has been made for special Acts for tramways in Lahore and Amritsar, and legislation would probably be found to be necessary to regulate the use of tramways in other large towns in which their construction has been approved by, or is under the consideration of, the local authorities.

The Bill has been drawn on the lines of the Tramways Act, 1870 (33 and 34 Vic., c. 78), and of the provisional orders and rules made by the Board of Trade under that statute. These orders and rules, and the fullest discussion on almost all points connected with the subject of tramways, will be found in Mr. Sutton's 'Tramways Act of the United Kingdom'."
